Public Health Nurses of the Department of Health made 481 visits to home during February. There were 302 new homes visited and 810 visits made to individuals. These figures were included in the report given at the Board of Health meeting Wednesday by Miss Gene Clarke, supervisor, Public Health Nurses.

SMOKE CAUSES ALARM

Employees of Luminous Processes Ltd., 165 King St., called the fire department Wednesday afternoon when they couldn't find the source of some smoke inside the building. Firemen arrived and it was found that smoke from some burning rubbish in a yard at the rear had got into the ventilating system.

DOCTOR'S FUNERAL SATURDAY

Well known in Peterborough medical circles, Dr. H. B. Van Wyck, of Toronto, who died on Tuesday, will be buried from Old St. Andrew's United Church, Bloor St., Toronto, Saturday, at two p.m. His widow, the former Jean MacTavish, is flying back from the Barbados where she had been holidaying. Dr. Van Wyck was a brother-in-law of D. A. MacTavish, Chemong Road.

A BID TO THE COUNCIL

When Nick Douros, Dean of the Churchill, heard the other night that the tax rate this year might be 66 mills, he had an inspiration. Four or five members of the council were having a pot of tea and a bit of toast. Going over to them, he offered the council an extra special dinner if they could get the rate down to 60 mills. It would be the best menu he could think up, soup to nuts, and everything in between—for a 60 mill levy.

CONCILIATION OFFICER.

A. C. Dennis, a conciliation officer from the Ontario Department of Labor, is hearing a contract dispute today between the employees of Hobbs' Glass Ltd. and the company. It is the second meeting Mr. Dennis has arranged between the parties and there is a prospect of success without the necessity of going before a conciliation board. The meeting is in the McGillis Hotel. Hobbs employees are members of Local 527, United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America.

OH! MY ACHING JOINTS! the P.C.V.S. teachers are crying today but they are consoled by the decisive win over the industrial arts Grade 10-C boys Wednesday in the annual teachers-students hockey game. The teachers triumphed 7-2. Students' goalie, Don Scriver (bottom), appears to be shooting the puck into his net but actually he's watching the puck bounce out after teacher Al MacQuarrie's shot hit the twine. MacQuarrie (right top) heads into a spin losing his balance after a shot on the students' goal. Jack Cullis (top left photo) and Scriver (right) argue about how the puck entered the net. Cullis a minute before pushed the puck through the netting from the back. —(Examiner Staff Photos)

P.C.V.S. Teachers Get Help Beat Students Hockey Team

It was all in fun, and to help finance school organizations as well, but the teachers took the opportunity of the annual teachers-students hockey game Wednesday to give the students a lesson in hockey. They walloped the industrial arts Grade 10-C class 7-2 at the Civic Arena.

After a day of teaching art, history, georgraphy, science and mathematics the teachers are usually mentally tired. But Wednesday the teachers, after an hour's hockey, were physically dog-tired and could think only of methods to combat the resulting pains and aches today.

To raise funds for their share of the Students Council fund, the industrial arts Grade 10C boys challenged the teachers in a hockey game. Only five teachers, Zolton Temesy, Jack Cullis, Harry Collingwood, Al MacQuarrie and Gord Johnson accepted.

Got Help

Requiring at least six players, the teachers, received special permission to use five players from the student body. Fortunately for the teachers these players were good skaters and back-checkers. For when the tired, out-of condition teachers' forwards were caught well inside the blueline, their student mates back-checked the student team to a standstill.

Inside the blueline the teachers were deadly on their first rushes and then puffing on the others. They proved though that they could put the puck into the net. Al MacQuarrie performed the first hat trick of the annual contest, while other goals went to teacher Harry Collingwood, and students (for teachers), Don Stewart and Terry Roberts.

Ron Dunn opened the scoring early in the first period with a short shot from a scramble. A minute later Don Stewart scored on a short breakaway to tie the score. Sparked by that tying goal, the teachers pressed and finally went ahead when Al MacQuarrie blasted a shot from the blueline. Just before the period ended Harry Collingwood sent the teachers two up when he scooped a loose puck into the student net.

The second period was all in favor of the teachers. A. MacQuarrie added his second counter after a corner face-off, followed by two teachers goals by Terry Roberts from close in.

Although tired, the teachers played most of the third period and managed to stay on even terms with the students. Al MacQuarrie added his third goal while Dunn scored the students' second goal shortly before the final whistle.

Contractors Deny Policy To Hire Foreign Labor

In a letter of resentment to the city council, A. W. Robertson Co., Toronto, contractors for two buildings in course of erection at Canadian General Electric Co., deny that they have any policy of employing foreign labor on local work.

The following is the company's letter in part, written by the president, R. Drummond:

"We are surprised that such a resolution worded in such a way as to indicate that this company gives preference to foreign workers should be pasesd without ascertaining the true facts.

"Our policy is, and always has been, that of employing local labor to the limit of its availability, and that policy has not been deviated from insofar as our operations in Peterborough are concerned.

Formed Nucleus

"When we began the work last year, our superintendent applied to National Employment Service office in Peterborough, and the men sent by that office formed the nucleus of our working unit. Thereafter, the men were either hired at the gate, or through the medium of advertising in local papers.

"We were approached, however, by a Mr. J. E. Cardwell of the Immigration Office, Barrie Building, Peterborough, who asked our foremen if we would co-operate with the government in hiring several men who had been brought to Peterborough by some government agency.

"To this we agreed, and six men were employed as a result of this agreement. Only one of them is now in our employ.

"We sincerely hope that as a result of what in our opinion is an unfair statement in the abovementioned resolution, we have received no adverse publicity, and we trust that if such publicity has already occurred you will take steps to correct it, since it is unfortunate that a city council should pass aspersive resolutions without first investigating the true facts."

Ald. Norman Graham, who inspired the council's resolution, said he had the names of six men who were laid off and replaced by six displaced persons. "I feel that our own people are trying to pay our taxes and should get consideration."

Limit Is Set At Two Cougars

Flt. Lt. Al Marshall, of Peterborough, is having his troubles. In making plans for providing his squadron, No. 410 (Cougar) Squadron, with a mascot cougar, he already has two on his hands and offers from all over Canada.

But the R.C.A.F. has put its foot down and said it has enough cougars. One cougar is in Ottawa and another is awaiting shipment from Calgary. The former was donated by the city of Vancouver and the latter by Calgary Zoo and Calgary Herald.

Both animals will eventually be placed in the London Zoo where their board will be paid by the officers of 410 Squadron.

6,743 Aged Vets Pensions Cut

OTTAWA, March 13 (CP). — Veterans allowances paid to 6,743 Canadians have been cut as a result of the payment of old age pensions, the Commons was informed Wednesday.

The information was contained in a reply tabled for Gordon K. Fraser (P.C.-Peterborough West.)

Mr. Fraser said several weeks ago he would ask the question, after hearing of several cases of allowances being cut.

At the time he said it was unusual that there should be a cut in allowances, as there is now no means test for the old age pension.

No Objections To Motels Made

A member of the Ontario Municipal Board today approved the new North Monaghan bylaw that regulates the use of land within the township. This permits the erection of motels and hotels.

Today R. C. Rowland of the Ontario Municipal Board was present at the County Courthouse to hear any objections to the new bylaw. There were none. And he said he would recommend that the Board approve it.

As defined by the bylaw, a motel is "a building or buildings constructed for the express purpose of overnight accommodation similar to a licensed hotel and shall not be used as permanent living quarters except in the case of the manager and his family or employees of the motel."

The motel must be built on land with a frontage of at least 250 feet and a depth of not less than 200 feet; and it must not be built nearer than 50 feet to the street line.

A dance hall cannot be erected with a motel nor can any part of a motel be used for dancing.

Each room in a motel unit must be at least 10 feet wide and have an area of 144 square feet— not counting the bathroom. There must be at least ten units.

Anybody breaking this bylaw can be fined up to $50 or 21 days in jail.

Other executive officers included: honorary president, C. Douglas Taylor, Montreal; honorary secretary, D. Alex Ross, Vancouver; honorary treasurer, R. Scott Misener, Port Colborne, and vice-presidents, L. S. Marsh, Montreal; H. Darroch MacGillivray, St. John's, Nfld., and George A. Will, Melfort, Sask.

Brief Trenton Flood Forces Families Out

TRENTON, March 13 — Water St. felt at home Wednesday as a six-feet deep torrent raced down a creek bed and onto the street.

Families on this northend street left their homes after an overflowing millpond, a broken culvert and melting snow and rains forced the first spring freshet on the normally shallow stream.

Overton Crosby, his wife and two children left their home early Wednesday afternoon with the living room furniture floating. Schoolchildren were stranded within yards of their homes, fields were submerged and traffic had to be routed around a flooded stretch of Highway 33.

Flood waters started to recede Wednesday night.

PUT A QUARTER IN THE SLOT, BOY

For some time people have been able to buy soft drinks and cigarettes merely by putting money in a machine. But the latest to join the machine age are stamps.

Today a stamp machine, to help relieve pressure on the stamp wickets, was installed at the post office as part of an experiment in a few Ontario offices. This machine provides a book of four-cent stamps for 25 cents.

After a short wait, Glad Chapin, Leahy's Lane, was the first to try the machine out.—D. G.

Establish Fund To Give Aid To Fred Brant

By DON SWAIN

A fund is being set up by The Examiner to aid Fred Brant, the Lindsay man who is recovering from frostbite in hospital. All contributions will be acknowledged and deposited in a special bank account. The fund will be administered by Major Harry Everitt of the Salvation Army.

Although about one-third of both Brant's feet have been amputated, it is believed he will be able to get around when he recovers without artificial limbs, or special boots.

Fund Suggested

Since the story of Brant first appeared on March 5, numerous letters have been received by The Examiner, suggesting that a fund be established to help provide him with food, clothing and shelter when he recovers.

An anonymous contribution of $2 was the first donation received, and early in the week, another lady phoned in to say she would like to contribute $5. Several of the letters which have been sent in, have stated that the writer would like to contribute something to help Brant.

As a result of the wide interest being shown in Brant's welfare, The Examiner is starting the Fred Brant Fund, in hopes that it will raise enough money to take care of Brant for a time after he recovers sufficiently to leave hospital.

All of Brant's toes on both feet, and about one inch of the feet beyond the toes have been amputated to stop the infection which resulted from the severe frostbite. However, Dr. Leslie Calvert who performed the operations said Wednesday that he is well pleased with Brant's progress. "He should be able to walk properly without any expensive equipment," Dr. Calvert said. Some kind of solid padding in the toes of ordinary shoes will probably be all that is required.

"He is lucky he did not lose both feet. The second foot was operated on last week, and I don't anticipate any further operations will be necessary," said Dr. Calvert. "He is doing very well indeed."

Sentenced To 10 Days

Brant's present difficulties started when he was picked up on January 13 at the rear of a downtown department store and charged with vagrancy. The next day, he appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to ten days in jail.

He was released on January 23, and according to a special police report prepared by detective sergeant William Clarke, he loitered around the Market Square most of the day and came to the police station that night for lodging.

After being questioned the next morning, Brant was taken five miles out of the city in a police cruiser, as stated in the first story about Brant which appeared in the Examiner.

After this story was published, new information came to light. It now appears that Brant managed to get to Lindsay where he spent the night as a lodger in the town jail.

An interval of five days is then said to have elapsed before Brant came to the attention of city police officers again. Whether he froze his feet the day he was let out of the city police cruiser, in zero weather or on one of the days prior to January 30, when he again applied for lodging is not known. At any rate, he was Brought up in police court the morning of January 31, charged with vagrancy and given five days in jail by Magistrate Philp, if he could not pay a fine of $5 and $2.50 costs.

Taken To Hospital

Brant was taken to the county jail. Late that afternoon he complained to jail authorities about his feet hurting. He was taken to hospital where he has remained ever since.

Ever since his childhood, Brant has been a responsibility of society. Until he was 21, he was a ward of the Children's Aid Society. Due to his present physical and mental condition, he will likely remain a responsibility of the community where he resides, the rest of his life.

Fred Brant, although only 24, is one of those unfortunate individuals who are unable to look after themselves. Undersupervision, he could do useful work, and might even be able to maintain himself if a suitable job could be found. However, unless he has someone or some agency to look after him, it is quite likely, that when he recovers, he will again be found wandering abroad and will be unable to give a good account of himself when questioned by police officers," as required by the vagrancy section of the Criminal Code which is at the root of

Civic Boards Promise To Try To Cut Budget To Duck 66-Mill Rate

Representatives Tell City Council At Emergency Meeting Have Already Carefully Checked Expenses

If goodwill could be turned to municipal account, the emergency meeting of representatives of the council's associate groups in the civic administration at the City Hall Wednesday night would have provided a solvent for the top brackets of the 1952 tax fate looming at 66 mills. The immediate response was just about what might have been expected. Chairmen of the separate boards promised to take the council's appeal back to their members with the rueful request to reduce their estimated expenditure as much as possible.

That undertaking was qualified by assertions that operating demands on the council for this year had already been shorn of items that could not pass scrutiny.

Board of Education and Civic Hospital governors have some hope of extra financial grants in the budget of the Ontario government, which is to be announced on March 20.

If—that tenuous little word—help comes from that quarter, those two groups would be in a better position to reassure the council of more or less substance in the promised revising of their respective estimates.

That was about the net result of the meeting, although Chairman R. J. Bolton, of the Recreation Commission, promises a reduction of 1/40th of a mill, a less than negligible paring but possessing the merit of something actually concrete.

Ald. T. D. Miller, chairman of the finance committee, outlined the plight of the council as, on its behalf, he solicited earnest effort of the other spending bodies in trying to bring down the tax rate from its awesome peak.

Approvingly, he quoted a phrase from an editorial of the Examiner urging the council to cut expenditures not only to the bone, but this year "into the bone." The prospective levy, he said, was "a challenge to us as servants of the people, and to our democratic way of government."

Maybe 67 Mills

When all salaries were written into the budget the rate might move up to 67 mills, which would be 11.5 mills increase over last year.

"I understand from City Treasurer Couper that this is the largest increase Peterborough has ever had in one year. Five or six mills used to be the top increase in the rate at any one time."

Following the chairman of the meeting were Max J. Swanston, chairman of the Board of Governors of Civic Hospital; W. B. Gordon, chairman of the Board of Education; the Rev. E. C. Moore, chairman of the Public Library Board; R. J. Bolton, chairman of the Recreation Commission; Mayor Waddell, and briefly, Mr. K. S. Wightman, Superintendent of Schools.

"I feel that I can promise for the Hospital Governors that they will again revise their estimates," Mr. Swanston said. "In times like these we should all try to cut the budget as much as possible. There may be something that can be left out of the hospital estimates. However, the board wants to avoid coming back to the council at the end of this year pointing out an operating deficit, say of $40,000 or $50,000."

Civic Hospital expenses are going on all the time, and its income depends on the number of patients.

One of the spending bodies has made a reduction of $3,000 but that is not much in a 66 mill rate. Still, if all could find some items like that, together they would help to bring the rate to a reasonable level.

Wait For Province

Mr. Swanston said the Board of Governors might not be able to give an answer to the council before March 20 when the Frost budget is expected, and may include special hospital grants.

Mr. W. B. Gordon, who was accompanied by members of the Board of Education, said its standing committee had prepared their estimates having in mind the 1952 tax rate, and they had done their revising as thoroughly as possible.

In the problem of providing for the operation of the Public Schools and Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, the bulk of the expenditure was largely a matter of fixed cost. There were the staffs to be paid and the buildings properly maintained.

If there was a variation from the fixity of costs in recent years, it was upward, Mr. Gordon said.

Community Fund Reports $54,273 Raised

The mid-point total collected in the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund campaign is $54,273.32.

This figure and the division totals were reported at the mid-campaign luncheon held at the Empress hotel, Wednesday.

Campaign chairman Alex Elliott reported that the total collected to date was an increase of approximately $5,273 over the $49,000 collected at this point in the 1951 campaign.

"But don't become over-optimistic and slow down on the job," was Mr. Elliott's warning, as enthusiastic clapping followed this report.

Approximately 60 campaign workers were on hand to hear each division chairman give the results of his division's work to date.

Retail Increases

The most enthusiasm was shown in the retail division who reported from 30 to 100 per cent increases in some of their sections. Co-chairmen Ford Warren and W. Roberts were applauded when they reported that the workers in the retail division were quite confident that they would reach their objective this year. They credited the introduction of the payroll contributary system in their division for its comparative success this year. To date this division has collected $3,160 of its $17,000 objective.

Mrs. J. P. Watts, chairman of the women's division, reported that $4,742.40 of the $5,000 had been collected.

The industrial division has collected $27,791 of its $38,000 objective. The chairman of this division is Thomas Glover.

Chairman of the special names' division, S. J. Whitehouse, reported $17,935 of the $25,000 objective collected.

During last week, $644.92 was collected in the Penny-a-Day drive carried on in the 19 city and district schools.

The five division chairmen said that they had high hopes of reaching their objectives by the closing campaign dinner to be held on Friday.

May Revise Mining Policy

TORONTO, March 13 (CP). — Mines Minister Gemmell said on Wednesday night the Ontario government is considering a revision of mining policy to achieve a more active development of dormant mining lands.

He told the Canadian Prospectors and Developers Association that as Minister of Mines and a native of Northern Ontario.

He favors a change in policy. Now, the mining rights on some lands are held by payment of an annual fee even though the holders may do no development work on the property.

The government would not attempt to make changes in policy without hearing the opinion of interested parties.

Later Mr. Gemmell said the government is aiming at a policy to accelerate development of mining property by putting mineral property on a leasehold basis whereby development must be undertaken or rights to the land forfeited.

Ontario is undergoing the greatest period of base metal exploration and development in the history of the province, he said. "The number one position Ontario holds in the field of mineral production will not be relinquished for a good many years to come."

There now are 39 individual producing gold mines in the province, but "if the price of gold should ever go beyond the $50 mark, our province will have more than 200 gold mines in production."

Jacklighting Deer Big Problem

FREDERICTON, (CP).—Jacklighting of deer is one of the major problems facing game wardens says C. A. Williams, chief game warden for New Brunswick.

He told the Legislature's committee on forestry and natural resources that the province has been commended for taking the lead in measures to curb the practice of using flashlights at night to attract the attention of deer.

Mr. Williams referred especially to a mandatory two-month jail sentence in addition to a $100 fine for jacklighting. He said many farmers had suggested the jail term wasn't stiff enough.

On the question of a possible open season on moose, Mr. Williams said a determining factor might be a survey now under way to ascertain the rate of moose increase. The last open season for this big animal in New Brunswick was before the Second World War, following a steady decline in the moose population.

Israel Hears Egyptian Peace Hints

LONDON, March 13—In recent weeks Israel not only has heard hints from Cairo that Egypt might like a peace settlement but has received direct although dissmal and informal soundings on the subject.

These soundings—they could not be called proposals or an overture to negotiations — have been made among Israeli diplomats in foreign capitals by various persons. They have had their public expression in statements by Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Kahn, Pakistan Foreign Minister saying that peace between Israel and the Arab states is essential to the defence of the Middle East.

Israel's attitude toward the peace soundings is said to have been—in the words of a Hebrew proverb—to "respect and suspect."

The significance of the soundings and the chances of improving relations between Israel and her neighbors may be considered when Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett sees British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in London this week. Their meeting has been tentatively scheduled for tomorrow.

The conference between the two statesmen will be their third in recent weeks. They will have a general discussion on matters of mutual interest, dealing mainly with immediate problems in British-Israeli relations, particularly economic problems.

This year Israel will be importing from this country about £30,000,000 worth of supplies and equipment but will be able to sell to Britain only £6,500,000 of exports.

Reserves Exhausted

Israel's sterling reserves, which have been used in the past to cover the gap, have now been almost exhausted and some new arrangement for financing trade between the two countries must be reached. It seems probable that Israel will ask for long-term credits—that is to say loans—from Britain. Within two or three months a trade and finance mission may come here from Tel Aviv to seek an agreement.

Of course, Israel's trading deficit could be reduced if she could establish normal relations with her Arab neighbors and buy from them instead of from remote and expensive markets overseas.

If a formal peace could be concluded in the Middle East the Arab states might be relieved of their preoccupation with the Palestine question and Israel's entry into a defence organization with them facilitated.

For that reason, among several others, Britain is expected to encourage any peace moves although the government here has only slight evidence as yet that the moves are serious.

Oakville Presentation Praised By Adjudicator

TORONTO, March 13—(CP)—The Oakville Arts and Crafts presentation of "Soldier's Wife" won warm praise Wednesday night from adjudicator Pierre LeFevre. It was the only suburban entry in the Central Ontario Regional Drama Festival.

The play, by Rose Franken, depicts the family life of John and Katherine Rogers through the weeks immediately following his return from war in the Pacific.

The adjudicator had warm praise for the way the cast had gone straight to the heart of the play and the way in which they had enjoyed their performance of it. He commended the blend of light comedy and pathos which they had achieved and the firmness and vitality of their attack.

German Immigrant Gets Dairy Farm Job

VANCOUVER, March 13—(CP)—Willi Bruentjen, test tubes and air trips behind him, will go to work this morning on a dairy farm near Vancouver.

Meat packer Jack Diamond said Wednesday night the young German immigrant will go to work today on his Lulu Island dairy farm.

Bruentjen returned here Wednesday following tests at Hull, Que., which showed he is not a carrier of foot-and-mouth disease.

"I didn't hire Bruentjen for any publicity purposes," his new boss said. "I needed a man on my farm, and Willi needed a job."

Clothes For Korea

OSLO—(CP)—The last wish of a six-year-old Norwegian girl was fulfilled when a shipment of clothes from Norway arrived at a refugee camp off South Korea. The child had asked if she could send clothes to Korean refugees but died shortly after. The parents asked mourners at the funeral to send clothes instead of flowers.

Jergens Lotion is not expensive . . . just 15c, 37c, 65c and $1.15.

Aaa-Choo! This is certainly the month for sneezes and wheezes . . . so what better time to give you my favourite cure for a cold? Here it is for all of you to keep handy during these sniffly March days. Drink the juice of one lemon in a glass of water with a half teaspoon of bicarbonate soda . . . added very slowly. Drink as the foaming quiets. Do this every three or four hours at the first signs of a cold and see how quickly it alkalinizes your system and you feel better. Basic English Aids Immigrants

MONTREAL—(CP)—Vest pocket versions of both the English and French languages are doing a lot to help integrate immigrants into Canada's way of life.

Florence Gaynor of Ottawa, consultant on immigrant education for the Canadian Citizenship Council, says that basic English and a similar form of French is proving to be an effective way of teaching these languages quickly to Canada's new citizens.

The immigrants themselves are enthusiastic about the project. An estimated 40,000 are taking courses in the simplified forms of English and French across Canada.

The emphasis of basic English is placed on a small, well-spoken vocabulary, says Miss Gaynor. Students start to speak English with the first class, and after about one year of night school—about 100 hours of classes—they are able to speak English fairly well.

Miss Gaynor now is training teachers in various parts of Canada in how to instruct basic English. The new method, she says, is not only better for the student—it is easier on the teacher.

Makes Pupils Talk

One class might include pupils speaking as many as 10 different languages and unable to understand each other. The teacher starts with simple words, accompanied by appropriate gestures. Her aim is to get the pupils to do the talking.

Basic English has a vocabulary of 850 words, of which 16 are verbs. Those verbs are the difficult ones for beginners—such as the verbs to be, keep, say, send. The student is launched right into them, for they are essential to English speech.

The classes are becoming so popular that immigrants of 20 years ago are starting to follow them, says Miss Gaynor. Students range in age from five to 75 years.

The project is being supported by the Federal government, which supplies free text books, through the Provincial departments of education.

DOROTHY DIX

Men With Tightwaditis Said To Be Poor Matrimonial Bet

DEAR MISS DIX: They say that love is blind, and I believe it more now than ever before. My daughter has been going steady with a bachelor 40 years old for the past two years (she's 22) and claims she is going to marry him. I think he is wrong for her for several reasons, mainly because he suffers from a chronic disease that I call "tightwaditis". They both work for the same firm and have the same day off. Instead of taking her out on this day, he spends it by himself, going to shows alone, then comes over here for a good hot dinner and a free evening of television. At ten o'clock he goes home because he needs his rest. He's been out all day enjoying himself while she stayed home and moped. I think the reason he has never married is that he is a selfish, stingy, self-centered person. He's never given her a gift on her birthday or at Christmas since she has known him. What she can see in him is beyond me!

WORRIED MOTHER

ANSWER: A worse matrimonial bet I couldn't even imagine! Even chronic tightwads try, usually, to conceal the worst aspects of their failing from a possible future bride, particularly if the girl has a family with money, or a good job. This apology for a man doesn't even have that decency. Does your daughter enjoy the prospect of slaving for the rest of her life in order to feed a bank account? Certain it is that she'll never get a cent for clothes, amusement, or any peronsal expenses from the Lothario, and she'll be darn lucky to get enough to buy the bare necessities of life!

Consider Age Difference

Furthermore, except in rare and exceptional cases, an 18-year age difference is too much.

However, your daughter is 22, is legally of age and presumably old enough to know her own mind—if she has one. If she determines to marry her bachelor, you can't stop her. Your role from that point on is to step aside and be ready to help her when she wakes up. Don't be too eager to render financial assistance. That's exactly what Tightwad expects. Knowing you wouldn't let your child want for anything if you could help it, he'll be very willing to accept and aid you extend his wife. Even if you do have to see her suffer for awhile, it's what she wants, apparently, and only through bearing the consequences of a very foolish marriage will she come to her senses.

DEAR MISS DIX: We have two children, girls 4 and 6. We would very much like a larger family, but my husband recently discovered that he is diabetic. Our doctor says there is a large chance that the next baby would inherit a tendency to the disease.

MRS. BRENDA D.

ANSWER: In a matter as important as this, I advise the very best advice obtainable—in this case the opinion of a specialist in diabetes. This is one of the diseases on which tremendous research has been done with a great deal of success. Under the care of a specialist, I have known diabetic mothers to successfully bear children, but of course whether these youngsters have a tendency to inherit the disease is something that only time can tell. Do get in touch with an expert in the field and put your confidence in him.

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been married almost twenty years, and have four children, all teenagers. During all my married life I can never say I was really happy. We broke up twice and I was ready for divorce but decided to try once more. Now we are separated again and I feel its final. Although I am heartbroken and sick, I can't go through this ordeal again. My husband has a violent, almost insane temper. He accuses me of things I never do, threatens to disfigure me, never has a kind word for anyone in the house, and is always swearing or bickering. Would it be better to go through life without a father for the childrne or to stay with this one, regardless of what he is?

ANSWER: Keeping a home together in order to give your children a father is one thing, but hanging on in the pretense that your husband is anything but a miserable imitation of what a father should be is not particularly praiseworthy. Apparently you are in love with your husband in spite of—perhaps even because of—his brutal treatment and are using the youngsters as an excuse for going back to him after each separation. Maybe some people would pat you on the back for your martyrdom—I won't! Subjecting your children to an influence that will ultimately make nervous wrecks out of all of them is not acting for their good! If you are now separated from your husband, stay that way. Peace of mind, harmony and contentment are the greatest gifts you can have, or hand on to your offspring. Don't return them to a home of discord, fighting and blasphemy.

Woman 106 Smokes Pipe

LEASK, Sask. — (CP) — Mrs. Suzette Bird, a pipe-smoking Indian woman of the Mistawasis Reserve near here, is reputed to be 106 years old.

Living alone with a granddaughter, growing deaf and speaking very little English, she is one of the last links with Saskatchewan's past. Neighbors say she recalls the Riel rebellion and other historic incidents.

In the summer, Mrs. Bird still walks two miles each Sunday to the Presbyterian Mission and back. In winter, she rides in the bottom of a horse-drawn, sleigh box.

A granddaughter recently verified Mrs. Bird's age by examining records when treaty money was paid last year. It was found then she was 105.

Born Suzette Longneck at Saddle Lake, Sask., she later married Peter Muchahoo whose Indian name translated means Bad Owl. Later, her name was modernized to Bird and in recent years she has been called Widow Bird or more often Nucoom, Cree for Grannie.

Home and School Association News

LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, March 13 (ENS) —Speaking before an interested audience Monday evening, Charles Renaud, supervisor of music for the Lakefield and district schools, deplored the lack of importance placed on the study of music in schools, as compared with that placed on sports. The talk was given at the March meeting of the Home and School Association held in the school.

Mr. Renaud pointed out that while sports were important, the years in which one can participate in them is comparatively short, while with those who study and enjoy music the pleasure lasts throughout one's lifetime. He stated that there were very few places that supported or encouraged a children's orchestra or Glee Clubs, and that children engaged in this kind of project were much less liable to get into trouble. Mr. Renaud also explained his methods of teaching music.

Mrs. J. A. Arnott was in charge of the program which was under the topic of "Music." Prior to Mr. Renaud's talk, she read a story of the "Messiah," and gave a resume of the life of its composer, George Frederick Handel. A film showing an orchestra during the rehearsal of the opera "Carmen" was then shown.

President, Mrs. Stanley Burger presided for the business period, during which reports on the progress of the Home and School Fair were given by conveners of the various departments, as follows: candy, Mrs. L. J. Delaney; publicity, Mrs. J. Kennedy; tea table, Mrs. C. H. Hunter; home cooking, Mrs. E. Rogers; ice cream, Mrs. G. Northey; children's hobbies, Mrs. T. Corkery; adult hobbies, Mrs. T. E. M. Last. Mrs. J. L. Fraser gave reports of other committees of which conveners were not present.

An invitation was extended to all who could to attend a council meeting in Queen Mary auditorium on March 19 at which D. M. Graham, director of education for Forest Hill Village schools, will speak.

The April meeting, which will be on "Health," and in charge of Mrs. Roy Farrow, will be held the third Monday in April instead of the regular date. The new method of nominations was explained by Mrs. Burger, who stated that ballots will be given out at the April meeting.

Suggested delegates for the Home and School convention to be held in Toronto were Mrs. Burger, Mrs. C. H. Hunter, Mrs. Clarence Foster, Mrs. T. Corkery, Mrs. J. L. Fraser and Mrs. W. C. Grant

School nurse, Mrs. Wallace Hendren, was present and spoke briefly on the dental health program being carried out in the schools and urged the parents to return the dental charts which are given to the children as the returns last term were very disappointing.

A tie between Mrs. B. Beavis' room and Miss M. Maloney's room for attendance prize, resulted in each receiving a prize.

Round-The-Clock Fashions In Two-Night Revue By Jeanette Scott Chapter

From most intimate to most glamorous and most unforgettable moments of a woman's life passed in "fashion revue" on stage Wednesday evening as the Jeanette Scott Chapter I.O.D.E. presented the first of two consecutive showings of the locally stocked wearing apparel. More than 800 were in the audience in the Collegiate auditorium.

Trademark of this annual event is the charming, simple dignity with which it is conducted and presented. It was further marked this year by variety and quality of the outfits. No guest could sincerely make the complaint "there was nothing for me" if she plans to live in this locality the coming season.

Sizes have been most carefully considered in the choosing of models. There is the tall matronly figure, the shorter full figure, the half-size figure, the willowy teen-ager, and six Chapter members of the average young matron type.

Mary Lee is commentator and organ music co-ordinated to the show by Mr. Charles Allen are huge assets in this revue.

Spot Resistants

It opened with a parade of cotton dresses that were declared "spot resistant washable". Later on there was a great deal of "resistants" shown. Suits, the kind priced under $40., were demonstrated to be spot resistant to all liquids except ink, and cleanable by wiping with a soft towel. A collection of beautiful pure silk dresses was recommended for the traveller because of their wonderful "packability" and crease resistance, and filmy tulle and net evening frocks combined these two qualities.

Navy was the predominating color in the gamut from cottons to the cocktail hour, and the hats chosen to complement were usually red. All the hats were little, curved to head contours and lightly, but flatteringly, trimmed. Attention was drawn to hair stylings for the show and to the vogue for "colored" hair. (Television red was said to be the high fashion color but it was not noted on a model.)

Sparkling jewellery accents completed most of the "dress up" outfits. Fur coats and jackets were received only with enthusiasm for the minks in a spring showing, except for the "little" furs, the cape and the stole.

Specialty Showings

Probably the first modelling of a nurse's uniform in such a show demonstrated the trimness of the lady-in-white.

Then there were costumes for the lady-in-waiting—a Mandarin type suit in Chinese red and a jacket and separate skirt for going out, and a pedal-pusher and shorts ensemble for leisure hours, stressing that bright colors needn't be avoided.

Only one nightie was revealed but it was the very special, sheer, amiginative black. Lovely pyjamas were pink piped with blue. Starring robe was a Mandarin type, the material with printed overlay in gold.

Cotton Picking

Picked as a highlight from the cottons was a sheen broalcloth resembling taffeta in lime green shade with off-the-shoulder bodice of brown plaid gingham. The full petal-like skirt was split at centre to show plaid underneath. Tulip pattern accented the hemline of a printed skirt teamed with black. Flowers were worn on ever so many necklines and handkerchiefs too were added for color.

A fishing rod over the model's shoulder told the story for blue jeans and a fire-engine red shirt. Bathing suits were all one-piece styles. Spectator sportswear featured a grey skirt with big buttons at a smooth hipline and side fullness below.

Camisoletop slips heightened the attractiveness of a series of sheer nylon blouses with separate skirts.

Faultless Styling

In the better suits and dresses collection it was plain to see the value in expert tailoring and cutting. Assurance from faultless styling would come from either of the two suit styles shown in grey wool. All skirts had inverted pleats for walking ease and buttons are the complementing factor this year. A reversible blue and grey cape was attractive with a navy suit and red accessories. Checked weskit was the focal part of a navy dress and bolero topped with a trim sailor hat. The "quilted" dress was lovely in yellow taffeta with red and black all-over design.

Coat dresses were numerous in the show. They are designed to serve the dual purpose in warm weather and taffeta is the favorite material. Tissue taffeta is chosen for the lovely dresses that bell out over crinolines. Ottoman, a corded material, was shown in a dress suit with interesting two-diagonal cut in the coat. Attractive and unusual print dresses from this show will no doubt appear at many afternoon affairs in the coming months.

Glamour Dresses

Hipline and skirt interest was employed to accentuate small waistlines in designing the "after five" or cocktail dresses. Glamour came in this line and a navy taffeta with flaring front panel was the highlight. With sleeve-bolero on it would enter any company; bolero off it was a startling informal party dress with strapless bodice bordered in white lace. Two-tone grey blue illustrated conservative quality in a jacketed dress trimmed with sail-fish buttons in silver. Another tulip skirt was done in pink Chantilly lace and net to make an enchanting dress for the quiet wedding or for dances.

Party frocks have a tendency now to "cover up" that was indicated in the accompanying stoles and boleros and soft draping over the shoulders. Seven of these sensational gowns included a carefully designed gown for the stately older woman.

Last of all was the wedding scene. The groom's mother chose hyacinth blue lace, the bride's mother fine navy sheer. Bridesmaids were in pastel pink and green and the bride in drifting clouds of white nylon and they wore pearl-tirmmed Juliet caps.

Explains Work

The show was opened by regent Mrs. Ross Matthews who explained the aim and objects of this patriotic organization responsible with an accounting of how money from the last fashion show has been spent on furthering education and on local service work.

After an intermission for refreshment at the half-way mark Mrs. Hugh Waddell drew for the door prizes, which were donated by local merchants.

ONE MISSING

Sir Henry Raeburn, great Scottish painter who died in 1823, did the portraits of all the great Scotsmen of the day except Robert Burns.

Maps Of Ireland Table Centre At Pre-17th Tea

The map of Ireland right on the table characterized the spring tea of the Golden Mile Club which was so successfully carried out Wednesday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A. Green Room.

The members of this Club who are now on the golden mile of their lives received assistance in this event from their sponsors of the Soroptimist Club. It was one of the latter, Mrs. Isabel Hughson, who designed the unique centrepiece.

A green border was on the map cut out of white cardboard and set on the northern part of it was a miniature Irish farm house and yard into which was driving a model of the farmer and his donkey cart. The scene was effectively lighted by bright green candles in tiered black metal holders.

And a favorite pastime of the Irish is to hear the future revealed by a soothsayer, so Mrs. Stanger did a nice business at her teacup reading stand, just behind the table.

Bazaar tables were displaying the Golden Miler's own work, some of it done at their fortnightly meetings. Mrs. Burns was in charge of one table with Mrs. Meagher and Mrs. MacMillan sitting with her, and Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Lefley were at the other.

Home-made candy was for sale by Miss A. Coleman, and Miss M. Collins had charge of the "touch and take" parcels.

Tea pourers were Mrs. R. Tyers, past president, Mrs. Barnacle, Mrs. Nicholls and Mrs. K. Simpson.

The home cooking table and the tea refreshments were all supplied by the Soroptimists and they looked after the selling and also the serving and replenishing. A good crowd kept them busy right until five o'clock.

St. Paul's Members Hold Old Time Party

St. Paul's Married Couples Club and the Young Peoples' Association combined their efforts for a most enjoyable old time party which they held in the Bridgenorth Forester's Hall Wednesday evening. They took box lunches with them and enjoyed the contents with hot coffee served by Mrs. Walter Dunford, Mrs. Jack McDonald and Howard Perry.

Music for round and square dancing was supplied by Al Tucker, piano and guitar, Messrs. Jim Miller and Harvey McFaydgen, violinists, Jack Amos, guitar, and with Bert Jones as "caller". At one point the young people gave a good demonstration of the Virginia Reel.

Those attending were:—Mr. and Mrs. Bill Amos, Mr. and Mrs. George Anderton, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Clark, Mr. and Mrs. George Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Almer Conner, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Cram, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Crowhurst, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Dundas, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dunford, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Endicott, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Flett, Mr. and Mrs. John Houghton, Mr. and Mrs. Jack McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Minty, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pond, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Steadman, Mr. and Mrs. Al Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robson, and Mr. and Mrs. Austin Worr.

Misses Doris Bolton, Helen Lancaster, Barbara Luther, Beth Oliver, Jean Smith, Sheila Smith, Marilyn Steinkrauss and Joanne Watson.

Messrs Max Clarke, Harland McCarrell, Ken Masters, Doug Meiklejohn, Bob Oliver, Andy Sheddon, Ian Smith, Fraser Steinkrauss.

Old Fashioned Parlor Charms W.A. Tea Setting

An old-fashioned parlour in an Irish setting was arranged by the George St. Church Woman's Association as one of the most interesting settings ever for an afternoon tea. They entertained more than 500 ladies at the affair held on the Wednesday afternoon before St. Patrick's Day.

Stage of the Sunday school auditorium was the "parlour" and it was furnished in the typical manner of grandmother's day. In the foreground was a French harp decorated with a big green bow in keeping with the canopy of streamers in the St. Patrick's colors.

Hostesses in the parlour were Mrs. George Baird who was wearing a bridesmaid's dress of 1876, Mrs. J. W. Hales in a gown of the 1870's and Mrs. J. M. Fanning wearing a dress which she had designed for herself about 50

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Fun At Home Limited By Willingness

I'm not saying "Life can be beautiful" but I am saying life can be interesting and serene and fun.

I should be down in the dumps because this morning I have the drippin'est code id de head as I tybe dis—but I remembered a plan that worked—a plan to make a honeymoon last forever.

I lost track of Jean and Don because they moved to Montreal but I shall never forget their determination to prevent their marriage from bogging down into monotony.

Jeanie used to believe that when she was married to Don life would be beautiful forever after.

On the morning of the day they were married I permitted myself to say one word of advice: "With a man like Don you can swing it, Jeanie—life can be beautiful."

I saw them again, two weeks after the wedding, in their own home. Jeanie cornered me after a dinner of roast lamb and a large bowl of fruit and said: "Em tell me what you think of this for an idea. You probably think we are extravagant having roast lamb on a Tuesday night (me—the critical old ogre!) but we have decided to ration our meat money and dessert money. Don loves desserts and I have to learn to make them. (Jeanie was and still is, I think, a commercial artist.) I loathe the idea of eating hash and wieners and codfish night after night. I'd rather have lamb or chicken once per week and after the leftovers are used, a nifty omelette or Italian spaghetti, etc."

So spoke Jeanie—and this plan was worked out: Every other night Jeanie left the office at 4 p.m. and made dessert when she got home. That night they had something like an omelette and quick-cooked vegetables.

On the alternate nights they had a roast which Don started cooking in their automatic oven. He was a professional man whose office was only a few blocks from their house so he had his lunch at home alone and could set the switches on the stove for the evening meal.

On dessert nights Don cleared the table and "redded" up the dishes and washed them, while Jeanie read the paper, and eventually sauntered to the kitchen when it came time to dry them. On roast nights the routine was reversed. This made a lot of fun, for they had to remember the news they had just read to repeat it to each other. This saved the other one's time and kept the reviewer more aware of what he had just read.

Another outcome of this planning was that their friends, when invited to dinner, could decide which they liked most: spectacular desserts or savoury roasts. We can all do these intriguing things. Of course, one essential is a congenial partner, who is not lazy and who is not so firmly cemented in his rut that he growls "women's work."

Fun at home for husbands and fathers is only limited by their unwillingness to help keep the house running happily. Hiding behind a newspaper seems to be a man's prerogative, but who would miss the fun of helping mix the Christmas cakes or loading the car for a picnic or broiling the steaks "because you are the only one who can broil them exactly right Daddy!"

Just when we thought beef prices were going to come down within our reach, hoof and mouth disease infected our Saskatchewan cattle and now we are back where we were all winter—eating fresh pork and fish.

Okay then, let's learn to cook fresh pork the finest possible ways. Gosh, now that I've gone that far I wonder what they are!

Don't worry kids—I'm only spoofing. I have two beauties up my sleeve. We start off with

Stuffed Pork Shoulder

Sounds modest enough doesn't it? Has a proud ending though.

Ask your butcher to remove the bone from a 5 or 6-lb. fresh shoulder of pork. Do not have it tied. When you get it home, wipe it with a damp cloth and make this Filling: Wash and core but do not pare 2 red apples; chop 2 medium onions and 2 stalks of celery with leaves on; cube 2 slices of bread. Mix these all together with 1½ teaspooons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper and ½ teaspoon sage. Fill the cavity in the pork shoulder with this, then tie it firmly with 2 or 3 loops of strong string. Roast in uncovered roaster for 3½ hours at 325 deg. Fahr. or slightly lower temperature. If desired add new unpared potatoes to pan during last 1¼ hours, or halved unpared apples during last ½ hour.

Habitant Pork Pie

I'm thinking this is new to all of you who have not lived in or visited Quebec. Ask the butcher to grind you 1¼ lbs. of lean pork followed by ¾ lb. ground lean beef. To these add 2 cups water and simmer for ½ hour. Then add 4 medium potatoes cubed, 1 small onion chopped, 2 whole cloves, 3 bay leaves, and about ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Cook 10 minutes, then add 1 or 1½ teaspoons salt and cook 10 minutes longer and taste. It may need more water. Add ½ teaspoon allspice and ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg. Remove from heat and strain off most of the liquid. Have ready a deep pastry-lined pie plate. Pour in filling. Seal on top, gashed, crust. The filling makes enough for 3 or 4 pies and since they keep in very cold place this is good. Bake in oven of 425 deg. Fahr. for 35 minutes. Reheat the baked, stored pies as needed.

THIS SWISH PEASANT TYPE DRESS, LEFT, with contrasting bodice has a smart matching underskirt and buttons at waist, while at RIGHT is the sleeveless peasant style dress for summer. Both are among the eight "easy-to-make" styles especially designed for the home sewer which are being shown at the Eaton fashion show on Friday and Saturday.

MOVIE COLUMN

Cheese-Cake Anniversary Diana Lynn Believes

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 13 (AP)—Diana Lynn comes up with the unique notion that a girl doesn't have to bare her gams to get ahead in the movie-acting busfness. In fact, she argues that it's better not to.

This might throw the stu[illegible] publicity minds [illegible] a turn. For years they ha[illegible] been working on the theory that a starlet must do cheese-cake photos to make a name for herself.

"Nonsense," exploded Diana. "The facts prove otherwise. A good number of the most successful dramatic actresses on the screen have never gone in for leg art. Take Marlene Dietrich. She has appeared in most of her screen roles well covered. And no one has been able to exude more sex on the screen than Dietrich.

No Cheese-cake

She observed that most of the successful dramatic actresses on the screen get that way without aid of cheese-cake. The current Academy Award nomination appears to bear out her contention.

Vivien Leigh, who was nominated for 'A Streetcar Named Desire,' has never fit the usual starlet pattern," she said. "But her role in 'Gone With the Wind' was one of the sexiest ever put on the screen.

"Katharine Hepburn played an old maid in 'The African Queen' and Jane Wyman became an old woman in 'The Blue Veil.' Neither has gone in for cheese-cake, nor has Eleanor Parker, who is up for 'Detective Story.'"

Diana admitted that there is a place in the entertainment picture for the Esther Williamses and Betty Grables, whose physical attributes are a main attraction. She added that when servicemen request stars' pictures, it is wise to send something a little less than fully clothed.

New Ladies' Wear Business Opened By Fred Pulver Real Eye-Catching Store

Fred Pulver has called on his 21 years of experience in the ladies' wear business in the design and layout of his attractive new store that opens 9 a.m. Friday at 374 George St.

The result is an eye-catcher that has drawn the unsolicited praise of impartial visitors and building inspectors. At least one has labelled the new store as "the best of its type between Toronto and Ottawa".

"We think Peterborough is ready for a large, up-to-date ladies' wear store like this," says Mr. Pulver.

There'll be no cutting of ribbons, congratulatory addresses, or fireworks when the glass doors swing open to the public Friday morning. The quality of the merchandise he has to offer and the attractiveness of the layout should be sufficient to entice customers, reasons Mr. Pulver.

Apart from the special opening "buys", designed to catch the eye of the thrifty Peterborough housewife, Pulver's have one inducement: more than $325 in ladies' wear will be given away to patrons who win a lucky draw several months from the opening day.

5,200 Square Feet

The renovated building is best known to Peterborough residents as the location of the former Bluebird Cafe and the Florence Shoppe. The middle wall has been knocked out, the ceiling altered, and the main-store floor space (before cupboards, fitting rooms, etc., ate into it) was 5,200 square feet.

In addition there is a mezzanine with more than 1,400 square feet.

"We now have plenty of room for our sales staff to move around in and show the customers our clothing lines to the very best advantage," says Mr. Pulver.

Approaching the renovated store, one first notices the solid canopy jutting out over the pavement with the name "Pulver's" standing out in block relief. The trim is a marble-type stone. The exterior is well lighted.

Visual Front

One of the most striking features is the all-glass "visual" front. This permits a casual passerby to see inside the whole store at a glance. Even the mezzanine—dropped a couple of feet lower than the ceiling of the main floor—is visible to a "sidewalk shopper."

The mezzanine was one of the features insisted on by Mr. Pulver when he sat down with the architect, Louis S. Silver, to design his long-contemplated store.

It is at the back of the premises, directly over the outer office, parcel room and bookkeeping office, and is approached by climbing a winding staircase with wrought-iron rails. For sale here are evening gowns, dress furs, and wedding gowns. Expert advice is promised prospective brides who are not too sure of proper bridal dress and accessories. Just part of the service.

Three Windows

The 35-foot frontage is taken up by two entrances, flanking a centre window, 11 feet wide. On the north is a display window; and on the south, a showcase window displaying the two new lines carried by Pulver's—lingery and sportswear.

Novel Lighting

Lighting is chiefly fluorescent but there are spot—incandescent lights flanking each bracket. They are inset, flush with the ceiling. Purpose of the incandescent "spots" is to add a softer light to the fluorescent which are harsher and which, according to Mr. Pulver, sometimes falsify the color of fabrics.

A pale mauve carpet covers the floor of the mezzanine and the approaching stairs; also the flooring in the three windows. The flooring is linoleum tile—a restful grey, streaked so as to give an appearance of marble.

Cabinets, containing the dresses, suits, furs and other merchandise, are of limned oak. Theh finish is a blue-grey tone.

Fresh Air Unit

The air-conditioning is something new for a store of this type in Peterborough, says Mr. Pulver.

Instead of stale air being cooled and then re-circulated, there is a constant supply of fresh air being fed into the store. Ducts placed high on the walls prevent draughts. The air is always fresh and healthy.

Altogether there are nine fitting rooms. Seven are on the main floor and two are on the mezzanine. Each has fold-away doors, individual fluorescent lighting, a full-length mirror and air-conditioning.

The basement contains the costly fresh-air unit, the furnace, shipping and receiving room, a fur-storage room, and a spare room. Each room is semi-fireproof.

Dust-Proof Racks

Clothing is in cabinets, circling the walls of the store, and is easily visible from the street. Skirt racks have glass covers to keep off the dust but permit maximum visibility for prospective customers. Glass counters are set in the centre of the main floor.

Parcelling is done unobtrusively in a sideroom to the left of the outer office. Mr. Pulver's personal office is upstairs at the rear of the mezzanine. So is the dress-makers room where alterations are done.

Summing up his new venture, Mr. Pulver says:

"The ideas I've collected in 21 years' experience have been incorporated in this store. It combines shopping convenience for the customer with a convenient and efficient layout for the sales staff. I think ladies will enjoy shopping here."

THESE SWEDISH and Canadian naval officers sealed a pact of friendship recently in Montreal, as the visitors from the training cruiser "Gotland," now at Halifax, arrived in the Metropolis on a courtesy call in exchange for the visit of a Canadian squadron to Sweden last year. In the picture, left to right, are: Lieut-Comdr. Jaga Enggrist, executive officer of the "Gotland"; Comdr. George Larue, RCN, naval liaison Officer, Ottawa; Capt. K. Court Dismisses Guild Appeal

TORONTO, March 12 — (CP)—Ontario Court of Appeal today dismissed the appeal of the Toronto Newspaper Guild (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) against a court decision decertifying the Guild as bargaining agent for circulation department employees of the Toronto Globe and Mail.

During a 3½-day hearing last October, argument centred on two major points: jurisdiction of the Ontario Labor Relations Board and whether Labor Board decisions are subject to appeal.

Mr. Justice G. A. Gale of the Ontario Supreme Court, in a decision last June 1, upset a provision of the Labor Relations Act which says the Board's decisions cannot be appealed. He ruled the newspaper had been denied "essential justice" when the Board refused it the right to cross-examine a Guild witness on the question of reported resignations from the Guild.

At the time Labor unions complained that the court was taking away a function of the Board.

THE PETERBOROUGH LUMBER COMPANY LIMITED

Fred Pulver Ready To Open New Ultra-Modern Store

A belief in the steady growth of Peterborough and in the favorable prospects for his own business combined to prompt Fred Pulver to open his new store at 372-374 George St., just north of Simcoe St.

"Peterborough is a growing city and it has room for a store of this size," said Mr. Pulver as he watched clerks unpack ladies' wear in preparation for the Friday opening.

"At our old store, 389 George St. destroyed last May in the disastrous Zacks' block fire) we found that we were bursting at the seams. We had no place to expand; there was just too much business at peak periods for us to handle properly. That's what made us feel we could build a large, up-to-date store like this in Peterborough."

Time To Expand

During the heavy shopping periods, such as Saturday afternoons and special sales, people were queued up outside in a solid line down George St., Mr. Pulver said. That was the tip-off that it was time to expand.

The new ultra-modern store will be known as Fred Pulver's Ltd. Ladies' Ready-to-Wear, Furs, Lingerie and Sportswear. Lingerie and sportswear are two new lines being carried. Previously Pulver's carried ladies' ready-to-wear dresses, suits, coats, furs and fur coats.

Now the only articles of ladies' clothing not carried will be shoes and hats.

Doubled Sales Staff

Anticipating demand for his feminine clothing lines, Mr. Pulver has doubled his sales staff. There will now be 12 sales girls to look after customers, where formerly there were six. Mr. Pulver's wife Dora, his son Leonard, associated in the business, and two or three part-time sales girls will help during rush seasons.

In addition, there will be three dressmakers.

Altogether Mr. Pulver has been in the ladies' clothing business for 21 years. His hometown is Lindsay where he started a store that is still doing well. All but one brother of the Pulver family are in that type of business.

Eight Years In City

Eight years ago Mr. Pulver moved to Peterborough where he opened a shop at 389 George St., having bought out Dudley's. He remained there for seven and a half years. Then the Zacks' block fire broke out in the early morning, May 19.

Before that disastrous blaze was extinguished, four firefighters lost their lives and property damaged nudged the $500,000 mark. The complete stock of Pulver's Ladies' Wear was destroyed in the flames.

A temporary store was opened across the street at 372 George St. and the full staff was retained.

"We certainly appreciate the loyalty of our customers," said Mrs. Pulver. "Despite the inconvenience of our temporary quarters they continued to patronize us. Now we believe we can make it up to them. We have a fine new store; the best of lines; and a courteous and efficient sales staff who will no longer be cramped as they display our wares."

Had Decided To Move

It was not the fire that caused Mr. Pulver to switch locations and expand. He had already decided that the premises were too small for his business and he had drawn up plans for the new store, with a 35-foot frontage, at 374-376 George St.

Previously located there were the Bluebird Grill and the Florence Shoppe.

Plans had been drawn up, steel purchased, and a building permit secured before the fire broke out at the rear of the adjoining men's wear store.

To concentrate his sales attention on the Lindsay-Peterborough district, Mr. Pulver sold his Cornwall store. And he moved the head office to the renovated building.

"We hope to double our business, at least," said Mr. Pulver. "We're proud of our new store and we think our customers are going to like it, too.

"Drop in Friday morning when we open our doors for the first time. We'll be featuring some special lines, and everything will be as new as the store itself."

WEARS "G" SUIT—FO. Bill Bain of Hamilton, a jet fighter pilot with the R.C.A.F. based at North Luffenham, Rutland, Eng., demonstrates an anti-gravity suit, worn by jet pilots for a distinguished visitor, Lord de l'Isle and Dudley, British Secretary of State for Air, right. Group Capt. E. B. Hale of Hamilton, centre, is officer commanding the base.

5 Prizes To Be Won By Patrons Of Store

Patrons of Pulver's new store will be eligible for the lucky draw in ladies' wear, valued at more than $325.

First prize is a $175 fur jacket.

Second is a $65 spring suit.

Third is a shortie coat valued at $35.

Fourth is a $15 sweater set.

Fifth is a $10 skirt.

And there are 15 pairs of nylons, valued at $1.75 a pair going to lucky winners.

Each customer will be given a card on which he will put his names and address. The results will be announced later.

Unveils Painting

OTTAWA, March 12—(CP)—Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey Wednesday unveiled a painting of Earl Alexander of Tunis, his predecessor as Governor-General in the entrance to the Senate Chamber in the presence of Prime Minister St. Laurent, other Cabinet ministers, Senators and members of the Commons, as well as Mrs. Lilias Torrance-Newton, R.C.A., of Montreal, who painted the portrait.

Red Cross Meeting

TORONTO, March 13—(CP)—The 32nd annual meeting of the Ontario division, Canadian Red Cross, opens here March 19. Some 500 delegates will attend the one-day session. Guest speaker at a luncheon meeting will be Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt.

CUBAN AMBASSADOR — Cuba's first ambassador to Canada, Delfin H. Pupo y Proenza, 48, took up his new duties at Ottawa Tuesday, seemingly little concerned about the revolution which brought about a quick change of government in his island country this week. He has been head of the Cuban Chamber of Commerce in New York and before taking up his new appointment was in the export-import business in his own country. Cuba's representation in Canada was raised last year from the status of legation to an embassy.

Cabbie's Tip Brings Arrest Of 3 For Holdup

QUEBEC, March 13 — (CP) — Three suspects were arrested Wednesday 13 minutes after three gunmen fled from a Donnacona, Que., Caisse Populaire (People's Credit Union), where they had stolen $5,800 at gun point.

Police identified the suspects as Armand Plouffe, 33, of Montreal; Leonard Bourdon, 29, of Verdun, and Claude H. Delage, 23, of Hamilton.

Provincial police arrested the trio at Champigny, 10 miles from Quebec, after a taxi driver told them he saw the three men enter a restaurant after speeding into the hamlet in a stolen automobile.

The holdup took place shortly before closing time. Three men entered the co-operative bank and forced manager J. A. Duchesneau and three clerks to hand over the cash.

One of them even took time out to answer two telephone calls, saying manager Duchesneau is busy.

Customers Caught

Two customers walked into the bank during the holdup and were lined up against the wall. One of the bandits was armed with an automatic pistol.

Police said they found a revolver and the pistol in the getaway car after picking up the trio.

Shortly after the alarm was given, police put up roadblocks around the district. Donnacona is a thriving lumber centre 30 miles from here and police were sure the bandits would have to pass through Quebec to escape.

Police said the three apparently went into the restaurant to escape police.

Usual Targets

NORTH BAY, March 13—(CP)—Jet pilots of the R.C.A.F. station here may have to be content to shoot at stationary ground targets instead of timber wolves. Previously it was suggested that sabre jet fighters of the station's 430 Squadron strafe wolves crossing lonely northern lakes but officers said Wednesday it was unlikely permission would be received.

More Employment

TORONTO, March 13—(CP)—The Unemployment Insurance Commission Wednesday reported Ontario's employment picture brighter, Toronto's worse. Between Feb. 21 and March 6 there was a drop of 2,568 in the province's unemployment ranks. Toronto's jobless increased by 300 in the same period to a total of 31,453. In Ontario 110,213 persons were still out of work.

Hospital Has Surplus

SHELBOURNE, Ont., March 13—(CP)—Canada's first co-operative hospital—the Shelburne District Co-operative Hospital—Wednesday reported a surplus of $1,522 for the first year of operation. Assets were placed at $25,490. The 14-bed hospital has a membership of about 300 which finances the institution.

ROAD BUILDERS

The ancient Romans were the first to use cobblestones as pavement for roads.

Canada To Be Host

OTTAWA, March 13—(CP)—Canada will be host next August to the biennial conference of the Commonwealth Parliaments of the United Kingdom and other countries of the Commonwealth are expected to attend.

Civic Boards

"It was a considerable shock to the Board of Education this year when we found that our total disbursements were more than one million dollars. That is the first time they have reached that figure. It is difficult to estimate our expected revenue until the provincial budget is brought down, because we are to a large extent dependent on provincial grants. The special grants last year accounted for some $10,000 in our surplus."

Mr. Gordon said the Public School rate in the municipal levy was 12.15 mills as compared with 14.32 mills this year, an increase of 2.17 mills.

The Collegiate rate last year was 3.97 mills and this year 5.22 mills, an increase of 1.25 mills. These combined increases amounted to 3.42 mills.

"Speaking for the board," Mr. Gordon concluded, "we shall go ahead and try to whittle off whatever we can. There might be something off the contemplated repairs. My own view is that would be bad business. It would cost that much more next year if school property was let run down."

Lower Increases

The Rev. E. C. Moore said the Public Library Board had problems of its own in providing an important service to the people. "If a good many citizens could have their wishes fulfilled, we would have a building like this, bearing in mind what is going on in libraries all over the province. Our board has presented its budget to the council. Part of its increase is due to salaries, and their increase is not nearly so large as what other civic staffs are receiving.

"In my eight years on the board, I have been amazed at the manner in which every little detail has been gone into, just as we have thrashed out salaries from year to year."

The library needed a microfilm reader. "It is one thing we could dispense with, but on the other hand it is almost indispensable, if the library is to continue to do its expanding work and keep up its interests and service."

Mr. Moore also pleaded for the need of painting the library building. It had not been painted in 17 years, he said, "and that is not good business. I feel that is one of the first things to be done."

As to the new heating system from the Ctiy Hall boilers, "that is still a question mark as to how much it is going to cost us."

"Other than those few items our expenses are just about what they have been for the last three years. There is no padding at all in the Public Library estimates."

"However," Rev. Mr. Moore said, "the Library Board will do its best to help you."

Took Out $9,000

Mayor Hugh Waddell said he had been through two committee budgets in the last few days. They amounted, overall, to about $74,000. "We got $9,000 out of it."

"We are vitally concerned about all the estimates that make up this year's rate which you saw announced as possibly 66 mills," Mayor Waddell said. "One thing we should do is to persuade ourselves that every dollar that is not needed has been taken out of those expenditure accounts. If there is any solution to this problem, we should not ignore it. It behooves us all to see what can be done, and make sure that the budget is brought down to essentials."

Mayor Waddell said it was a terrific tax with which to go to the citizens, and there was not much comfort in hearing that other municipalities were facing similar problems. An increase of 11 mills in the rate meant 20% over the rate of last year. The biggest item in the spending estimates was wages, running from 65 to 70% when linked with the cost of living.

The problem of effecting reduction was difficult to tackle when most of what was left was in the supply a counts, "and goods are no cheaper than they were last year."

Ald. Herbert Young said that costs of education and health had become a heavy burden on the property owners, and both federal and provincial governments should be approached for larger grants.

Rev. Mr. Moore expressed his sympathy with the council in its predicament. People were demanding improved services, and some of them would be the first to object to the cost. He referred to the council's engagement of a part time industrial commissioner.

Why Grow Bigger?

"It seems to me that will only create more headache. Making the city larger, also demands more services. And don't forget you are contending with inflation over which we have no control. As we grow, we must have all the services that are required."

Ald. Miller stressed the fact that Peterborough's spending during the last five years had provided community services and accommodation for a population of 50,000 to 60,000.

Civic Hospital was usually operating with little more than 60% of its beds occupied. New industries were the hope of the future. The overall situation would be benefited by more people.

"If we don't leave here determined to do something, this meeting has been of no avail," Ald. Miller said. "It is becoming urgent that we arrive at the rate soon. We'll have another meeting before the end of the week, when we'll receive the estimates and make every possible effort to reduce them."

Army Makes Apologies To Packing Union For Ad

WINNIPEG, March 13 (CP)—A Canadian Army recruiting advertisement directed at unemployed packinghouse workers on Wednesday was described by an army spokesman as "unfortunate" after the advertisement was criticized by the Winnipeg Labor Council.

The council passed a motion opposing the advertisement after F. C. Franklyn, a delegate, described it as being "in very bad taste."

"It implies the alternative facing laid-off packinghouse workers is to take a gun to Korea and take a chance of getting shot," he said.

The advertisement was published earlier this week in both Winnipeg dailies.

Some 750 Winnipeg packinghouse workers have received layoff notices resulting from curtailed operations following the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

The advertisement said:

"Packinghouse workers,

"Do you want a pay cheque this month? New higher rates of pay with no layoffs and no loss of pay through illness or injury.

"Men accepted are assured of steady employment, 30 days leave with pay each year, ample opportunity for advancement and the best of pension schemes."

The army spokesman said "it is unfortunate that the advertisement was worded the way it was.

Best of Intentions

"I'm sure the only intention in running the advertisement was to point out to the workers that there was a job waiting for those with the proper qualifications.

"Certainly there was never any intention of indicating callousness toward the plight of the packinghouse workers," he said.

Recruiting officers said Wednesday their downtown Winnipeg office had lots of packers coming down for information on enlisting.

One officer said only about half a dozen had actually enlisted, but inquiries had been made by more then 50. He said the majority were not of the type for military service.

Canada Seeks

Great Speculation

Meanwhile, speculation continued about interprovincial embargoes on livestock movement.

British Columbia which bans livestock and meat from the prairies may ease its ban. Agriculture Minister Harry Brown said in Victoria Wednesday some cattle from Alberta may be allowed to enter B.C. on a permit basis, a similar agreement to that in effect in Quebec.

Prices of meats were rising in the west coast cities and a possibility of shortages appeared. Vancouver packers said 400 head of cattle were on the way from the B.C. hinterland but it will last only about two days.

The housewife was paying more for meat, too. There were indications she will find further price increases. Retail prices were up about six cents over the previous week.

Cattle buyers also were paying more—nearly four cents more for top grade beef at the Kamloops bull sale and fat shock show.

"Scare Talk"

However, Dr. W. R. Gunn, provincial livestock commissioner, said the packers were talking "scare stuff". In his opinion, more cattle will be available in B.C. and by June there will be "lots of cattle".

Manitoba's ban on Saskatchewan and Alberta cattle likely will remain for a while. Agriculture Minister F. C. Bell said in Winnipeg Wednesday that Manitoba won't consider lifting it for at least "seven to 10 days".

He told the legislature about his talks with federal Agriculture Minister Gardiner on the embargo. The conditions under which Manitoba would lift its ban were:

1. No further outbreaks of the disease in the Saskatchewan quarantine area or the buffer zone around it.

2. Consideration by the Federal Government of a floor price for livestock.

3. Assurance that Manitoba cattle could move east.

Mrs. W. H. Tonge Speaks To Many Groups

The W.M.S. of St. James' United Church was hostess to afternoon auxiliaries of Mark St. United, Knox United and Park St. Baptist Churches Tuesday afternoon in Wesley Hall.

Mrs. G. Hewitt presided for the opening devotions and warmly welcomed the visiting groups. Mrs. H. F. Doig was pianist.

Mrs. E. Lillico of Mark St. conducted an inspirational worship service. She was assisted by Mrs. G. Breckenridge, who read a legend illustrating the importance of small tasks which fit into God's plan. Mrs. Olive Searles favored with a lovely solo, "My Redeemer and My Lord," accompanied by Mrs. A. E. DeNure.

From the Knox group a piano solo, "Handel's Largo," by Mrs. R. Goodfellow, was much enjoyed.

The offering was received and dedicated by Miss M. Collins of St. James'.

In introducing the guest speaker, Mrs. W. H. Tonge of Lakefield, whose parents were missionaries in China, Mrs. Hewitt described her and the Rev. Mr. Tonge as "living examples of dedication and Christian stewardship."

Mrs. Tonge's address, relating vividly to her experiences while serving at Junkgsien in West China, was most interesting. She impressed upon listeners the great need of these people, and urged earnest prayer for them.

Much interest was shown in the attractive display of Chinese handicraft. It consisted of samples of pure silk beautifully embroidered, very fine needle handwork on linen, lace, filigree silver in delicate patterns, and jewellery using jade and amber stones.

Mrs. G. Batley and Mrs. C. Corbett of Park St. Baptist Church rendered a lovely duet, "In the Shelter of His Love."

Mrs. L. Bird voiced appreciation to Mrs. Tonge and to all who had contributed to such a fine program. Mrs. H. Clegg replied for the visitors.

The Rev. H. McCormack pronounced the benediction, and a social half hour was then enjoyed.

years ago. The ladies were busy with their knitting when not greeting callers.

Interesting pieces of furniture were the small, curved tea table and straight back chair and the matching stand with spirit lamp and kettle. A willow pattern tea set was on the table. Completing note in this parlour setting was the grey china cat on the floor.

Those in Charge

Arrangements for this tea were undertaken by three conveners, Mrs. W. H. Frise, Mrs. W. K. McGee and Mrs. W. W. Sheppard with all the W.A. groups assisting.

Mrs. Ivison Walker had charge of the tea table which had been decorated with small pots of shamrock as candle holders and a bouquet of green-tinted carnations in the centre. The tea was poured by Mrs. H. F. Foote, Miss Mary Elliott, Miss J. Schaeffer and Mrs. Charles Elliott.

Hostesses Mrs. F. Horton, Mrs. Frank Merrett, Mrs. Alex. Roseborough, Mrs. P. C. Sanders and Mrs. Stanley Gilmore had a busy time finding seating accommodation for the guests. The chairs were arranged in a large circle from the parlour setting with the tea table in the centre. Soft piano music by Mrs. W. P. Purdy and Miss Dorothy White entertained during any interval of waiting.

Serving were Mrs. James Goldie Mrs. Walker Jones, Mrs. Gordon Hancock, Mrs. Gordon Marshall, Mrs. J. M. Beatty, Mrs. J. Brown, Mrs. C. McBride, Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. Roy, Mrs. G. Leonard Mrs. R. Stabler, Mrs. O. Falls and Mrs. S. Booth. Helping to arrange the sandwich plates were Mrs. L. Gilders, Mrs. H. Girven, Mrs. A. Helam, Mrs. Douglas, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Delahaye, Miss C. Allen, and helping with the small cakes were Mrs. C. C. Carson, Mrs. F. E. Latimer, Mrs. J. W. Kelly, Mrs. S. S. Staples and Mrs. Ross Moore. Mrs. W. Connal and Mrs. George Benton arranged the relishes and the cups and saucers were replenished by Mrs. P. Jarvis and Mrs. Bent.

For the guests who have small children, a special children's tea room was a most helpful feature. Miss Myrtle McKeown took charge of this room and she was assisted by Mrs. G. Howden and Mrs. A. Clysdale.

Decorative Booths

The home cooking table was a very large one and was most generously supplied as was necessary for such a crowd. Mrs. W. G. McLaren was in charge and her helpers were Mrs. H. G. Mc Ginness, Mrs. H. Coon, Mrs. A. Martin, Mrs. H. Long, Mrs. H. Helson, Mrs. J. Spencer, Mrs. J. Might and Mrs. J. P. Bickell. These ladies dressed for their part in chef's-style hats and aprons of green and white and they had their table skirted in the St. Patrick's motif.

Also done up in green were the candy containers lining the table in charge of Mrs. A. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Offa Williamson, Mrs. W. J. Hamilton and Mrs. J Jobe as her assistants.

A tablye of children's wear was in charge of Mrs. George Duncan and Mrs. H. J. Crowe.

Receiving at the door throughout the afternoon were Mrs. George Munro, president of the W.A., and Mrs. Arnold Mathews, the minister's wife. Treasurer Mrs. A. W. Nelson was taking tickets.

BIG STATE

South Australia, one of the six states in the Australian Commonwealth, has an area of 380,000 square miles.

Rev. R. Newman Special Speaker George St. W.M.S.

W.M.S. meeting at George St. United Church Tuesday afternoon was addressed by the Rev. R. G. Newman of Havelock, formerly missionary in Japan for six years, and whose wife also comes of a missionary family being a daughter of Dr. R. C. Armstrong a misionary for 25 years in that country.

His interesting and informative address was titled "The Leaven of Christianity in the Far East" and based on verse 33, Chapter 13 of St. Mathew's Gospel.

Mr. Newman told very interesting things about the Japanese people. Japan is one of the few countries in the Far East which is still fighting against Communism. The Japanese are a very agreebale people, intelligent, industrious, clean, warm-hearted and very generous: very true to their employers. They receive very small remuneration for their work, less than ten dollars per month in many cases."

Missionaries from all around the world gather together to learn the Japanese language when they go in as workers. This takes about two years. Mr. Newman thinks the language is easier to learn than English. It has been made very difficult to read and write since they use so many of the Chinese characters in their papers and books he said. Japanese are very serious students of English and they always have English Bible classes. These classes make a wonderful point of contact for missionaries in their work. The students take their mats and go up on the mountains to sing and pray. Each one of them praying sometimes in English other times in his own language.

Members of this class often become members of the Christian church. Some of them come to Canada and the United States to study, then go back to teach their own people. Noted speakers from England and other countries when they come to Japan are always asked to speak through an interpreter to these students."

Girls of Japan are coming into their rightful place through the Christian Eudcation they are receiving Mr. Newman stated. It has been a custom to keep their women out of any position of importance.

Mr. Newman said that "flowers" of Christian faith produced on Japanese soil are very beautiful, and if war can be averted he is sure the church in Japan will make a great contribution to the world.

President Miss J. Shaffer opened the business part of the meeting with a poem and short prayer. The ladies were asked to think of a plan to raise a share of the money needed for building a new training school for leaders.

The devotional part was in charge of the ladies of District two with Mrs. W. H. Woollard as leader. A very lovely reading was given by Mrs. Woollard. Scripture reading by Mrs. C. D. Forsythe was followed with prayer by Mrs. Chas. Elliott. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Woollard.

Mrs. R. H. Aspinall accompanied by Mrs. Chas. Allen delighted the audience with her rendering of "Come Ye Blessed" by Scott.

Young Children Speaker's Subject

Trinity Baby Band Mothers' Auxiliary met Wednesday evening in the ladies' parlour at the church the program was in charge of Mrs. M. Belch and her group who chose "Springtime" as the theme and had timely decorations of daffodils and tall yellow tapers. Mrs. E. VanSteenburgh was in the chair and Mrs. K. Kemp read scripture.

Guest speaker was Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, who was introduced by Mrs. K. R. Harrison. His informative talk was built around young children, a subject of primary interest to this audience. He stressed the importance of nutrition and training children in proper eating habits and spoke of what an important task motherhood is. Mrs. G. Miller expressed appreciation to him.

Mrs. W. B. Gordon presided for the business. It was decided to send to a missionary hospital in northern BC flannelette pyjamas which will be made by members.

Plans are well underway for the annual Maytime tea to be held May 7th as shown by a report given by Mrs. E. Wellman, general convener. Mrs. K. Harrison and Mrs. A. P. Legon are sewing conveners. Decorating committee is Mrs. E. Edmondson, and Mrs. O. Jamieson. The tea room is in charge of Mrs. J. Stewart, home cooking, Mrs. K. F. Barltrop, and candy, Mrs. R. Macdonald.

Mrs. Hugh Redmond was pianist for the meeting. The group in charge served refreshments afterward.

Circulation At Peak In Lakefield Library

LAKEFIELD, March 13 (ENS). —Highest circulation in the history of Lakefield Public Library was seen during the month of February, reported librarian Mrs. J. W. Ridpath at the March meeting of the Library Board held Monday. Total circulation was 1,120 books of which 583 were adult and 537 children.

Prior to the last paper collection made by the Sea Scouts, the pupils of Principal E. G. Sloan's room of the public school visited the library and made use of all the old magazines for their scrap books. Later the magazines became part of the paper salvage.

The shelves are being cleared of old books to make room for new ones. It is planned to have a sale to sell any of the discarded books that people would care to buy. It is hoped to have the new books in circulation shortly.

Miss Grace Yonge has been appointed to the library board by the public school for the years 1952-54, replacing Mrs. C. H. Hunter.

In the discussion re the budget it is planned to ask the council for the sum of $1,450. Last year $925.55 was spent for new books and this year $1,015 has been set aside in the budget for this. Other expenses include repairs, rent, salary and equipment. Plans were made to have the chairs repaired and refinished at once.

Chairman, Mrs. W. H. Fife presided. Others present included Reeve E. H. Northey, C. J. Davis, Miss Grace Yonge, E. G. Sloan, and Mrs. Ridpath.

Clever Dancers

DAUPHIN, Man. (CP). — Six Dauphin students won their examinations for Grade 1 ballet in Winnipeg, first group sent in from a rural centre. All the local entrants were given the "commended" rating by Miss Nellie Potts of the Royal Academy of Dancing in London, England, who is examining pupils across Canada.

First Payments Made On School

LAKEFIELD, March 13 (ENS). —Chairman G. N. McIlmoyle and trustees C. G. Hunt, E. Everett, Chester Hamilton, M. C. Turner, Erie Pearson, N. A. Moore and E. W. Bailey were present for the regular meeting of the Lakefield District High School Board held in the school Wednesday evening.

Accounts totalling $40,048.56 were authorized for payment in connection with the new school now under construction. They were as follows, village of Lakefield, payment on site, $6,000; Blackwell and Craig, three-fifths architect's fee, $9,954; Globe and Mail, advertising tender $40.56; Dailey Commercial News, advertising tender, $22.80; Bradford-Hoshal, Ltd., progress payment No. 1 $24,031.20.

The secretary was instructed to write Mrs. Melba MacEachern regarding her letter of Feb. 23 (stating that she was not satisfied with salary adjustment made by the Board at the February meeting) telling her the members feel they have made a fair adjustment and can, at the present time, make no further increase, in view of the fact that she has since signed a letter of thanks to the effect that the increases made were satisfactory.

The coal account for $104.72 at Apsley will be paid. This amount is Lakefield District High School's share.

The Lakefield District High School Board members, E. Everett and M. C. Tucker will meet with Apsley School Area Board to discuss purchase of floor cleaning and polishing equipment.

Permission was granted the Home and School Association to use the school for their Fair to be held April 4, and the secretary was authorized to have Financial Reports printed.

Headless Body Found, May Be Missing Girl

TOWERING FLAMES COMPLETELY destroyed a century-old parish church near Drummondville Tuesday night in a spectacular fire. The church, in St. Germain de Grantham, five miles east of Drummondville, was built in 1856 and completely rebuilt only two years ago. The Rev. Rene Lavigne, assistant priest, managed to remove the Hosts before the rapidly spreading flames reached the main body of the church but costly paintings and furnishings were destroyed. The church, the Rev. Romeo Salois, rector, said was only insured for $125,000, a figure considerably below the cost of the building and its contents.

Say Canadian Heiress Missing In NY

Leaves For Dinner Fails To Return To Greenwich Home

NEW YORK, March 14. (CP) —Mrs. Mavis Chaffey Ramus, described as a "Canadian real estate heiress," disappeared from her Greenwich Village apartment Monday night, police reported today.

A police search has been instituted for the woman at the request of her mother, Mrs. George Chaffey, of 26 Lake Shore Road, Montreal.

Mrs. Ramus, 32, was described as an hieress by Cholly Knickerbocker in a front-page story in the New York Journal-American.

Mrs. Ramus was said to have left her apartment Monday night for a dinner party and did not return.

Knickerbocker writes that Mrs. Chaffey, who came to visit her daughter, is near collapse over the disappearance and is under a doctor's care.

He also quotes Mrs. Frank Patrick of Montreal, a close friend of the family as saying:

"We're very fearful. Mavis was happy and gay when she left the apartment. She had no reason to disappear. She didn't even have a comb or a compact with her."

Mrs. Ramus is the former wife of a Montreal art leader, Raymond Ramus. Her four-year-old son, Greg, is said to be with his father in Montreal.

20 Flee Fire

OTTAWA, March 14. (CP) A two-alarm fire raced through a rooming house in downtown Ottawa today, sending 20 persons to the street in near-zero temperature. The blaze was extinguished after an hour-long fight, and there were no injuries. Damage is estimated at about $20,000. Among those driven from the building were Senator Thomas Farquahar of Ontario. The 77-year-old senator, asleep in his second-floor apartment when the fire broke out, made his way to safety down a fire escape.

Playboy Spy Fooled Many Canadians

OTTAWA, March 14—(CP)—A playboy German spy lived among Canadians for half of the Second World War—mainly in this capital—and didn't even come close to getting caught or even suspected despite numerous clues.

The R.C.M.P. say his bizarre story, which started one night in May, 1942, after a submarine landed him on a wild and desolate New Brunswick shoreline, is an example of what could happen if war came again.

He didn't get caught. He surrendered after his money ran out.

One reason he didn't get caught may be that he decided he would not spy after all; that he would live on the $7,000 the Germans gave him, have a good time until it was exhausted and then give up. The money was spent by November 1, 1944. He surrenderdd to police the same day.

Give Most Details

Most, but not all the details of his story were given for the first time Thursday by the R.C.M.P.'s Anti-Espionage Special Branch. Reporters queried them after a brief reference to the incident by Dan Riley (L., St. John-Albert) in a Commons speech.

The story still has its mysteries. Only a few Mounties know it all. They refuse to make the spy's real name public or to say why they won't. They also refused to give such facts as the name of the Ottawa hotel and rooming house where he lived for more than two years. They do say he's now back in Germany.

To this day people who knew him in Ottawa under the fake name of Alfred Haskins probably have no idea who or what he really was because the Mounties have never talked to them.

Made Friends

He made friends here, went to night clubs, to restaurants and bars, spent money freely and showed a personality which people quickly liked. He spoke fairly good English from having worked in Canada from 1928 to 1932.

Soon after he surrendered he led Mounties to the lonely N.B. shoreline near the village of St. Martin's where he had buried a two-way portable radio, capable of reaching Germany, after landing there in a rubber boat with three sailors from a U-boat.

The radio had never been used. It was in a suitcase wrapped in layer after waterproof layer and was in good shape.

Clues Missed

In his 30 months in Canada, there were numerous reasons why some Canadian might have caught him. They never did. These are some of the clues they missed:

Twice, once in St. Martin's, once in Saint John, he passed large, old-fashioned $2 bills of a type no longer used.

Ontario Police Go To U.S. To Investigate

Find Woman's Body In Lake Ontario On New York Side

ALBION, N.Y., March 14.—(AP)—An autopsy was scheduled here today on the body of a young woman recovered from Lake Ontario and police sought to find out if the body was that of a young Canadian woman missing since Feb. 23.

The body, found by a trapper Thursday night near Kendall, on the Lake Ontario shore north of this Orleans county village, was nude and headless.

The body was that of a woman between the ages of 18 and 25 and had been in the water about two weeks.

Meanwhile, Inspector Charles Wood of the Ontario Provincial Police left Niagara Falls, Ont., for here today to view the body.

Inspector Wood has been investigating the disappearance of 20-year-old Violet Pollock. The young woman has been missing from her home in Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., since the day before her older sister, Dorabelle, 24, was injured fatally by a train.

Dorabelle was searching for Violet, who left their home the night before, when she was struck by a Canadian National Railways train near her home, police said.

Austrian Treaty Likely Rejected

WASHINGTON, March 14 (AP) —Russia is believed ready to fire back a quick emphatic "no" to a new big-three proposal for a streamlined Austrian peace treaty.

Officials say the Russian turndown, if and when it comes, will virtually kill the last western hope that a four-power peace treaty for Austria is possible and will mean continued Russian and western occupation of Austria until some other way is found to break the present stalemate.

In formal notes made public Thursday, Britain, United States, and France appealed to Moscow to agree to a 1,000-word, eight-article pact which would fully restore Austrian rule over its territory.

At the same time, the U.S. denounced Russia for stalling on a peace pact and failing to keep a 1943 promise to join the west in insuring Austrian independence after the war.

Dramatic Appeals Made To Boyd To Give Himself Up

MONTREAL, March 14. (CP)—Edwin Alonzo Boyd, the third man of a trio sought by police for the armed robbery of a Toronto bank, was still in hiding today despite two dramatic appeals Thursday night asking him to surrender. Ann Roberts Jackson, wife of Leonard Jackson, cut down by police bullets and captured on Tuesday night, and Police Director J. Albert Langlois, both told Boyd to give himself up. Boyd is believed by police to be the ringleader of the trio to be the ringleader of the trio. Police want the three in connection with a recent $24,000 armed robbery of a Toronto bank.

Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson, the other two members of the trinity, are both in separate hospitals here, recovering from wounds after gun battles with police, in which they were captured. Both are reported in "fair" condition.

The appeals came after police spent the whole day and night tracking down rumors from citizenry who thought they saw the much-sought Boyd in one place or another.

Sobs Out Message

Jackson's wife, who surrendered with him, sobbed throughout her message to Boyd.

"I don't want any more bloodshed," she said. "There may even be death this time."

Then choking back sobs she went on:

"The other two—both of them are, oh so badly shot up.

"I just wouldn't want any more of that. Go to any police station and give yourself up."

Then, after a long pause, she said slowly:

"I've been treated well. These men (police) have been good to me. I'll be without Leonard for a long time. (Here she cried openly).

"Don't make it any worse for you and yours."

In his appeal, Director Langlois told Boyd to "surrender now!"

"This is a life-or-death message directed to Edwin Alonzo Boyd," said the director, who left a sick bed to make his appeal.

Director Longlois said that 2,000 men, all heavily-armed, are determined to bring Boyd to bay and let it be known there will be no quarter if he resists.

Langlois said:

"In the past two weeks, two policemen have been shot and seriously wounded in Toronto. One may never walk again.

"Friday night, one of your buddies, Steve Suchan, was shot down by my men. Tuesday night

Ask Suggestions To Help Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 14 (AP).—Benjamin V. Cohen of the United States today called on all governments in the world to make constructive proposals for disarmament. His invitation obviously included Russia, which is shaping up disarmament proposals counter to those favored by the western powers.

Cohen, a U.S. delegate, spoke to the 12-country disarmament commission which today began its work on arms regulation and limitation at the permanent United Nations headquarters. The Soviet delegate on this commission is Jakob Malik, deputy foreign Minister who arrived recently from Moscow after consultations with his government.

Canada is represented by her permanent representative to the U.N., David Johnson, former high commissioner to Pakistan. Canada is a permanent member of the commission, along with the five big powers, because of her contributions to the development of atomic energy.

Putting up a five-point plan of work, Cohen told the commission that "there is room for all constructive ideas. . . The people of the world are not interested in propaganda tricks or politics. They expect from us a workable plan for a new house of peace and security. . ."

Cohen said the commission must make its first report to the U.N. by June 1. He suggested the delegates concentrate on the first step in the plan, providing for a world census of armaments and armed forces. The Russians have turned down such an idea.

Cohen said the goal of the commission is "freedom from fear" of armaments.

Hamilton Board Blacklisted By Teachers

HAMILTON, March 14—(CP)—Dr. Harry Paikin, chairman of the Hamilton Board of Education, said Thursday night the board has been blacklisted by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation over a salary category dispute.

It is believed to be the first blacklisting of its kind in Ontario.

Dr. Paikin said schools would not be affected and there would be no walkout. The Federation had banned high school teachers from applying for Hamilton jobs. The only effect, Dr. Paikin said, would be on applications for vacancies here.

Controversial Section

The controversial category, said Dr. Paikin, is No. 4, in which elementary teachers with a Bachelor of Arts degree are considered for salary purposes as being identical with secondary school teachers with a B.A. degree who are non-specialists. The salary schedule, after negotiation, was accepted by the elementary teachers, but not by the secondary teachers.

The board has not acceded to a demand by secondary teachers that they be not included with elementary teachers in negotiations, he said.

As a result negotiations have been discontinued and the matter turned over to their provincial organization, he said.

Douglas Reavley, Treasurer of the Hamilton district of the Federation declined to comment.

5 Ships Aground, Canal Blocked

ISMAILIA, Egypt, March 14.—(Reuters) — Five ships ran aground in the Suez Canal this morning and shipping was completely paralyzed by a 50-mile-an-hour "khamseen"—hot desert wind — which blew ships off course and reduced visibility to a few yards.

Two tankers, the 17,000-ton Olympic Flame of Hunduras registry and the 15,000-ton French Kirkou, were blown aground north of Ismailia. They blocked the channel. Canal company tugs were sent to pull off both vessels from sandbars.

Three other vessels were also reported to have been blown aground near Port Said.

Eight ships were anchored off Port Said at the Mediterranean end of the canal and Suez harbor at the Red Sea end, was closed to shipping this morning.

All roads in the canal area were either completely or partially blocked by sand blown into mounds by the terrific wind.

Prayers In Commons Last Until 3 a.m.

LONDON, March 14—(Reuters) —"Prayers" in the House of Commons kept members in their seats till 3:25 a.m. today.

Labor members who were doing the "praying"—parliamentary jargon for speaking for annulment of government orders—protested strongly when the session was finally closed.

They were speaking against new budgetary restrictions on instalment-buying and a 10-per-cent increase on railroad, canal and dock charges.

Plan Compensation Protect Citizens Assisting Police

TORONTO, March 14. (CP)—Citizens who are commandeered by police in the arrest of criminals or the maintenance of order will be protected in future by the Workmen's Compensation Act, if they are injured while following police orders. Labor Minister Daley introduced a bill in the Ontario legislature Thursday amending the Act to cover such cases. He said that such protection should be extended, since citizens are required by law to assist police.

Other extensions of the Act will cover volunteer firemen injured in fighting fires, and "learners" and apprentices on a job. Mr. Daley also said regulations will be changed, effective next January 1 to wipe out existing rules that a certain number of persons must be engaged in a business before they are covered by the Act.

An amendment to the Pharmacy Act, introduced by Health Minister Phillips, will permit all registered pharmacists to sit as members of the Pharmacy Council. At present members are limited to owners and managers of drug stores.

A bill introduced by Attorney General Porter will permit fraternal societies to issue annuities, or endowment or term insurance, limited to a sum of $10,000 payable on death.

An amendment to the Provincial Parks Act introduced by Lands Minister Scott will extend the government's control in parks to all boats. The present act permits control only over motor boats.

Mr. Scott said the wider control is needed to meet the problem of aircraft landing boats in wilderness areas. He said that planes can build up a large fleet of fishing boats in this manner.

Mines Minister Gemmell introduced a bill which will make legal all oaths taken before Mines Department officers between 1920 and 1948. In that period the officers had been permitted to take oaths in connection with mining claims but a recent court decision threw doubt on their legality.

Through With O.H.A.

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—D. A. McGillis, president of Peterborough Eagles Senior B team, said today he is through with the Ontario Hockey Association because of its suspension of the Eagles.

The team was suspended yesterday because it did not play the third game of its group semi-final series with Kingston Sacs Wednesday. Said McGillis in a telephone interview:

"The O.H.A. said they would bar me from hockey if I pulled my team off. Well, let 'em bar me!"

25 Michigan Members Walk Out On Debate

LANSING, Mich., March 14 — (CP) — Twenty-five Republican members of the Michigan Legislature walked out today during a stormy debate on a bill which would compel Michigan employers to hire without regard to race, color or creed.

Said Representative Louis Crampton, Republican sponsor of the bill: "I never thought I would see the time when a number of my party would leave their seats rather than listen to someone talk about human rights."

Predict Butler Future Leader

LONDON, March 14 — (Reuters).— Richard Butler is being discussed in parliamentary quarters as a probable future Conservative Prime Minister when and if Winston Churchill retires.

His success as Chancellor of the Exchequer in the new government and his performance in presenting its first budget last Tuesday made a great impression upon the Conservative party as a whole.

Butler, 49, has liberal tendencies that sometimes get him in dutch with the more right-wing elements among the Tories.

But his realism, and his sharp analytical opproach to present-day problems have been reflected more and more in his party's recent main policy statements— of which he has been a principal architect.

It seems to be widely accepted that if Churchill— now 77 — were to retire,, and there have been unconfirmed rumors he might do so soon, the choice of a Conservative Prime Minister would probably lie between Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Butler.

"Rab," as Butler is known to friends and headline writers, has little of the platform appeal of 54-year-old Eden. His cool, unemotional personality is in sharp contrast to that of the platform-wise Eden.

But many parliamentary circles consider him potentially the strongest figure in his party— after Churchill, still the undisputed boss—and belive that he might reach the top.

Approve Code For Journalists

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 14—(AP)—The U.N. Subcommission on Freedom of Information today approved a draft code of ethics for newspapermen throughout the world.

The vote was 7 to 0, with the representatives of the United States, Russia and Britain abstaining. The representatives of Chile and Uruguay were absent. Voting for the proposed code were representatives of Yugoslavia, Egypt, India, Nationalist China, Lebanon, France and the Philippines. The delegates sit as individual experts and not as spokesmen for their governments. Canada is not represented on the sub-commission.

The code sets forth a set of general principles which should guide newspapermen in their work, but states that no government should attempt to enforce the code. In the main, it merely calls for truthful, conscientious work and declares that slander, libel and plagiarism are serious professional offences.

Britain, France Get Biggest Share Of Aid

WASHINGTON, March 14 (AP) —W. Averell Harriman, mutual security director, disclosed today that Britain and France would get the lion's share of a $1,500,000,000 "defence support" fund under the new U.S. foreign aid program.

He told the Senate foreign relations committee $1,800,000,000 in "defence support" funds would go to Europe and the rest to other parts of the world.

Chairman Tom Connally (Dem. Texas) indicated the anticipated Congressional reluctance to vote the full $7,900,000,000 in foreign aid by a sharp line of questioning.

Connally wanted to know how much of the multi-billion dollar fund would be for "economic aid" rather than direct military aid, such as guns, tanks, aircraft and ships.

About $2,500,000,000, Harriman said, noting that $1,800,000,000 of this was for "defence support" in Europe with $1,400,000,000 of that sum going to the 12 original partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

BULLETIN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—(AP)—Soviet delegate Jakob Malik today accused the United States of using bacteriological weapons in Korea and China and called on the U.N. Disarmament Commission to consider immediately measures to prevent future use of germ warfare.

Refuse Entry Visas To 20 Scientific Men

LONDON, March 14—(AP)—The British government refused entry visas today to 20 leaders of the World Federation of Scientific Workers.

The men, among them delegates from the Soviet Union and Red China, had planned to attend a meeting of the Federation's executive council in Cambridge March 22-23.

Chairman of the council is French Communist Frederic Joliot-Curie, ousted from his post as head of French Atomic Research last year because of his political views.

The British home office declined to give any reason for the refusal of permission for the council members to land.

Victoria Has Sharp 'Quake

VICTORIA, B. C., March 14 — (CP). — A sharp earthquake, stronger than a series of shocks which occurred three weeks ago, jolted southern Vancouver Island at approximately 7 a.m. P.S.T. (10 a.m. E.S.T.) today.

The shock also was felt in Vancouver.

There were no immediate reports of damage.

The quake was felt 75 miles north of here at Nanaimo, where an R.C.M.P. officer said it felt "like a heavy truck passing by."

A similar report came from the R.C.M.P. detachment at Duncan, 40 miles up-island from Victoria.

Indignation Meetings Held In Russ Cities

MOSCOW, March 14 — (AP)— Indignation meetings are slated in cities throughout Russia today to vote formal protests against the alleged use by the United States of germ warfare in Korea.

(Apparently the Communists are having trouble keeping details of their charges straight. The Russians for weeks have said that plague, touched off by U.S. germ bombs, is rife in North Korea, but the Peiping radio Thursday denied there were epidemics there.)

The protest meeting undoubtedly will do much to mobilize public opinion on the issue. Indignation already has been mounting fast over the entire country.

The last series of protest meetings was held right after the Korean War began.

Officials Angry Licence Granted

TORONTO, March 14 (CP). — Church and municipal representatives today criticized the Ontario Liquor Control Board for granting a licence for the sale of liquor in the dining room of a new 25-room hotel at Wilson and Bathurst Streets in Toronto. The licence was granted to former National Hockey League stars Charles Conacher and Roy Worters.

The latter once played goal for New York Americans. Conacher is a former Maple Leaf player.

Reeve Nelson Boylen of North York township said residents will be "shocked" to learn a hotel is to be located at one of the busiest intersections in the greater Toronto area.

"It would have been only common courtesy for the government to have informed the municipality that a licence was being considered," he said. "This is the first I or any member of the council have heard about the proposal."

The Rev. W. D. Stenlake, United church minister, said it "wasn't a very democratic way of deing things."

Yanks, Irish, Have Poor Heads

Jews and Italians Carry Liquor Better Than Anyone

LONDON, March 14 (AP). — A British researcher announced today Russians, Italians and Jews carry their liquor better than anybody else in the world—and the people who carry it worst are Americans, Swedes, Irishmen, Norwegians and Finns.

The findings were reported in The Lancet, a British medical magazine, by H. Pullar Strecker, superintendent of a mental hospital at Isleworth.

"Not only individuals but whole nations or races have better heads for alcohol than others," he said. "At the top of the scale come the Irish. . . At the bottom comes the Jewish race, in which alcoholism is remarkably low.

"Next to the Jewish race come the Italians, who, despite a high national consumption of alcohol, have a low alcoholism rate."

Right next to the Italians he rated the Russians.

Strecker based his article on figures he said he obtained from the United States, showing the rate of pathological alcoholism among people of foreign extraction.

He placed Frenchmen and Englishmen in a middle group of people who have "a normal head for alcohol."

Get New Battering

Dust, Snow Storms Blast US Midwest, Rocky Regions

CHICAGO, March 14 (AP) — The winter-weary midwest and Rocky Mountain regions of the United States got another blast of wintry weather today.

Dust storms swept skies over wide areas of the east and south Thursday but winds had diminished today. Visibility was reduced as low as two or three miles in an area from Ohio and Pennsylvania to Louisiana and Florida as heavy layers of dust in the air were blown eastward from the Texas-Oklahoma-Kansas area. The dust was reported from almost ground level to 15,000 feet.

Fresh falls of snow hit wide areas in the western region and a new blast of cold from Canada spread over snow-covered sections of the midwest. The chilly air extended over much of the eastern half of the nation. But the North Central and Plains states got the coldest weather, with temperatures near zero in some parts of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Montana.

A new snow storm dumped moderate falls over parts of Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Northern New Mexico.

Light snow fell from New England westward to Northern Pennsylvania and in parts of New York State. Rain fell along the Washington and Oregon coast.

Expert On Kissing Gets London Welcome

LONDON, March 14 (AP)—The London papers spread a warm welcome today for a blonde expert on those warm Latin-American kissses.

"I am a kiss specialist—and I like it," announced Tilda Thamas, a bombshell of 25 from Argentina's movies.

"In my films I kiss them and kill them. But I nearly always die, too, in the end."

Tilda came to London to try out for a part in a British thriller movie. She told reporters the secrets of her success.

"I first study art. Then I study acting. Then I study men."

Big Milk Surplus New Problem Facing Farmers

By The Canadian Press

New disruption of Canada's agriculture loomed with the announcement Thursday that 500,000,000 pounds of milk will be thrown on the Canadian market partly as a result of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in southern Saskatchewan. The National Dairy Council estimated that much milk would "back up" because of the United States embargoes on imports of livestock and dairy products. The livestock ban was put on as protection against spread of foot-and-mouth disease. Imports of dairy products are restricted under U.S. defence productions regulations.

The council said a contributing factor in the back-up would be the dairy cattle which normally would be sold in the U.S. They would remain in Canada and be milked.

Meanwhile, in Saskatchewan the last of the herds known to be infected with foot-and-mouth disease were slaughtered.

That left the long job, expected to take months, of ensuring that farms in the contaminated area were free of every trace of the virus of the disease.

Need More Help

Federal agriculture officials called for more veterinarians to help them in the task of cleaning out the farms. A squad of 43 are at work and 10 more will join them.

The final slaughter of 39 cattle and some assorted farm stock took place on the farm of Leonard Wass, of McLean, 30 miles from Regina. The Wass farm was where the disease first was suspected and his cattle were held until the final killings for special tests.

Meanwhile, the various international and interprovincial embargoes against livestock movement remained. British Columbia retained its ban on Western movement of livestock and meat.

In Victoria, Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman, of B.C., said his province's ban won't be relaxed this weekend.

He said he expects to hear from Agriculture Minister Gardiner on progress made in setting up livestock-inspection stations in Edmonton, Calgary and Vancouver.

"We must then, however, satisfy ourselves that the measures being taken will first protect our own herds, and then our next consideration will be to get meat to B.C. consumers right away.

May Ease Ban

Manitoba still bans movement of livestock through that province except in sealed cars. Quebec has a permit system which keeps out meat and livestock until inspected by the provincial veterinarians.

However, in Ottawa there was indication that Canada may lift her ban on immigrants from countries known to have foot-and-mouth disease.

The Netherlands completed arrangements with Canada to ensure Dutch emigrants to Canada do not carry the disease. Immigration Minister Harris said Thursday discussions are under way with other countries to provide similar precautions.

Regina Business Not Affected

REGINA, March 14 — (CP). — The foot-and-mouth disease outbreak that has thrown a scare into many parts of Canada has stirred up scarcely a visible ripple on the surface of this bustling capital, on the edge of the quarantined livestock area.

The business and social life of the 76,000 population of the "Queen City of the Prairies" appears hardly to have been touched by the impact of the outbreak with the series of embargoes arising from it.

Some business men say, though, there may be a delayed effect later on. But it's too early now to forecast that with any accuracy they say. It will depend on such factors as how long the various embargoes last and on whether the infection is cleaned up without spreading out beyond the quarantine zone.

At the moment, officials of the Health of Animals Division say they seem to have it stopped, with the last herd of infected livestock put under the gun Thursday. But they are keeping their fingers crossed.

Meanwhile, merchants report trade is holding up without any apparent drop. Among the merchants hit have been a few in the flour and feed business whose main trade has been selling feed to growers in the area where the herds have been slaughterd.

Committee On Rents Holds Brief Meeting

TORONTO, March 14 — (CP)— The legislature committee of leaseholds and rents today held a brief organization meeting.

Gordon MacOdrum, (PC-Leeds) chairman, said it will be at least two weeks before the committee starts regular sittings.

The committee decided that when copies of the new rentals regulations are ready in printed form, they will be made available to municipal councils, members of the legal profession, and any others who ask for them. A summary of the regulations in non-technical terms will also be available to the public.

Travel Minister Cecile, whose department is responsible for the administration of the rental law, said the government hopes to avoid the multiplicity of technical regulations that confused the public under the Federal provisions.

David F. Cardoza, agent in charge of the United States customs investigation unit for the Buffalo district, said today an international ring of diamond smugglers has apparently shifted its operations from New York to Canadian border points.

He said the key centres in the new smuggling route are believed to be Toronto and Montreal. Buffalo was logical point of entry for diamonds from Toronto.

District Regiments To Show Firepower At Demonstration

Artillery and infantry weapons ranging from anti-aircraft and anti-tank guns to mortars, rifles and pistols will be employed in the fire-power demonstration at Cobourg March 20 by district reserve units.

Held in conjunction with the recruiting drive of Cobourg's 33rd Medium Regiment, the demonstration will give district people an opportunity to see and hear the big and little guns in action.

The demonstration will be the first held in the district and probably the only one this year. The guns will be fring from the rifle ranges east of Cobourg and south of Highway 2. They will be firing out over Lake Ontario.

Peterborough's 50th H.A.A. Regiment will be firing its 3.7-inch anti-aircraft gun for the first time other than at summer camp. The 11-man crew has been practising its movements for the past month at the armouries under W.O.2 D. T. Jones.

The firing power of the machine guns, bren and sten guns, mortars, pistols and rifles will be conducted by the Midland Regiment from Port Hope and the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment from Belleville.

Units besides the 50th Regiment taking part in the display by the heavier guns will be: the 33rd Medium Regiment, its 5.5-inch guns; 4th Field Regiment, Lindsay, its self-propelled and two 25-pound guns; the 60th Light A.A. Regiment, Brockville, its 40 m.m. guns; the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment, Belleville, its 17- and six-pound guns.

The Royal Canadian School of Artillery (AA) will demonstrate its radar equipment.

Child Urges Legislature Guard Amateurs

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)— A well-known former goalie Thursday urged the Ontario Legislature to pass a law to protect amateur athletes from exploitation.

Art Child (PC-Wentworth), who played on several Canadian championship teams, attacked hockey's C form and negotiation list. "Through the intricacies" of these devices, he said, once a player is involved, "he is in it as long as he can play hockey".

In his maiden speech, Mr. Child said young hockey players are being "expoited by the monied interests in sport".

He said some players were taken up by professional hockey clubs without their knowledge. A player's name would be listed by scouts of the National Hockey League and other league clubs agreed not to approach the player for a year, during which the scout could put "pressure" on the player to sign over his services to a pro team.

Nine members spoke in the throne-speech debate—five of them at a night sitting. Those speaking in the afternoon were G. C. Wardrope (PC-Port Arthur), Norris Whitney (PC-Prince Edward-Lennox), W. N. Nickle (PC-Kingston) and R. M. Myers (PC-Waterloo-South). E. L. Weaver (PC-Toronto St. David), P. T. Kelly (PC-Cochrane North); W. G. Beech (PC-York South); R. E. Elliott (PC-Hamilton East) and C. G. Macodrum (PC-Leeds) spoke at night.

Suggests Conference

Mr. Macodrum said he hoped Brockville Council and Chamber of Commerce would call a meeting of federal and provincial members in ridings between Kingston and Cornwall to discuss the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway.

Mr. Wardrope, in his maiden speech, urged a broad program of government aid in developing the north.

Mr. Nickle drew applause when he urged that 1953 licence plates for automobiles, if issued, should have a crown on them. "Everything that is worthwhile is being cut down. Let every tourist know we stand by the crown", he said.

He also criticized what he called an advertising campaign by trust companies to take over the drawing of wills and the administration of estates. Trust companies were sending out solicitors who were not members of the Law Society of Upper Canada.

A bill, introduced Wednesday, was approved in principle. It would permit an investigation into any hospital or other institution or organization receiving provincial grants. It is intended to pave the way for an immediate investigation of the East Windsor hospital at Windsor.

Ming Sung Manager Dies Of Heart Attack

MONTREAL, March 14 (CP).— Thomas Won, vice-president of the Canadian branch of the Ming Sung Industrial Company, today said company general manager Lu Tso-fu died of a heart attack in Chungking.

Mr. Won said reports from Hong Kong that the general manager had committed suicide were unfounded.

The Ming Sung company has defaulted on a $12,000,000 debt to the Canadian government for construction of seven ships and the Chinese Communists have charged that six other Ming Sung ships have been sabotaged during the last year on the upper Yangtze river.

"I received a cable from Chungking today informing me that Mr. Lu Tso-fu died of a heart atttack" said Mr. Won. "I have worked with him for 15 or 16 years and know that he had been suffering from a heart condition."

Charge Of Rape Evidence Heard

After the crown completed its evidence in a rape charge against Armand Larocque, 39, at a preliminary hearing today, Larocque was remanded until Saturday morning.

Then, Magistrate W. R. Philp will hear the arguments of crown attorney John A. Bradshaw, and Robert Carley, who is defending Larocque.

When the hearing began Friday afternoon, Mr. Carley asked that the press be excluded. Mr. Carley said that if Larocque is committed for trial, he will be tried at the spring assizes in eight or ten days. Under the circumstances, Mr. Carley argued that newspaper accounts of the evidence might prejudice his client because jurors would have to be chosen from this district.

Bears Responsibility

"The press has to bear some responsibility for what they report," said Magistrate Philp. "I am not sure whether I should make an order or not."

After Mr. Carley quoted a section of the Criminal Code which he said gave the magistrate power to hold the hearing in camera, Magistrate Philp said, "I don't think I would care to make an order under that section. If the press chooses to report the evidence in such a way that it is prejudicial to a fair trial, the accused has remedies. The accused is entitled to every protection.

"At the same time, unless an order is made under another section, it has always been my understanding that the press attends except at a closed session. They publish at their own peril as far as the accused is concerned.

"It is a field in which the press can do as they wish. You have the right to take action if it is published in such a way as to be detrimental," the Magistrate told Mr. Carley.

Larocque is alleged to have attacked a young mother of two children, after a party early Sunday morning. The assault is said to have taken place in a car on a deserted road in North Monaghan township, after Larocque had offered to take her home.

Before her illness she had an office at the Ministry of Labor and Welfare and was active in Ministry Affairs but hold no official post. She underwent an operation of undisclosed nature in November.

Business, Unions Gain Strength; Trouble Ahead?

Two opposing trends are now well developed in modern industry, Robert H. Carley told the Kiwanis Club Thursday noon.

Mr. Carley, a member of the Peterborough legal firm of Carley, Standish, Clarke and Carley, said these trends are obvious to any student of economic institutions:

One, trade unions are becoming stronger and stronger.

Two, business is becoming centred in the hands of fewer and fewer corporations.

"As to what will happen when neither trend can continue without conflicting with the other, your guess is as good as mine," he said. "But it looks like trouble ahead."

Trade unionism on this continent really got a foothold during the First World War, said Mr. Carley. During the war jobs were plentiful enough to remove the fear of discharge, and labor unions made large gains. In 1919 and 1920 some 1,500,000 workers joined unions. Membership rose to 5,000,000—a record till 1937.

Manufacturers after the war moved to break unions, he said, and in 1919 some 4,000,000 workers were involved in strikes.

Strong Opposition

"This resistance ranged from propaganda that unions were violating the American way of life, to formation of company unions, labor spies, strike breaking and importing of foreign labor.

"The anti-union drive was bitter but successful. So much so that in the post-war depression many unions lost their gains. Steel unions, packinghouse unions, seamen's unions—to name only a few—were broken. The revival of prosperity and the subsequent business crash in 1929 further weakened union membership and during the '20s they barely held their own."

New Deal Helped

Under the New Deal labor unions got their first real encouragement to organize, Mr. Carley stated. Union organization became more effective and industrial unions—embracing all the workers in a particular industry—replaced many of the craft-type unions.

"A strike paralyzed not just one department; not just one factory; but a whole industry. No longer were the captains of industry able to co-erce a minority."

"It is no exaggeration to say that today the union is often as powerful as the management. "The automatic checkoff is a familiar and accepted part of labor contracts. The closed shop is no longer a bad dream, but a reality. Union leadership has become more powerful until today the union leader is fully the match of the executive with whom he bargains.

"A new legitimacy has been accorded the labor movement. The right to bargain collectively and the right to strike are recognized. Strike-breaking and lock-outs are illegal."

To date most of the gains made by organized labor have been made at the expense not of the management, nor of the dividend receivers, but at the expense of the consumer public.

A wage increase accorded to workers has in most cases been successfully passed on to the public. Such action is only possible so long as price competition is confined to retail stores...so long as it does not penetrate deeply the manufacturing and wholesale fields.

Crisis Coming

The crisis, said Mr. Carley, will be when the public refuse to buy at existing prices. Wage increases will no longer be passed on but must be absorbed out of profits.

"At that time management must either refuse the increased demands or relinquish its control. A show-down is due and when it comes I predict that it can only result in a stale-mate. Perhaps the acceptable compromise will take the form of a more liberal profit-sharing scheme than we now know."

Another limit to this swing of the pendulum are "an enraged public opinion" which means the public is out of sympathy with the strikers.

A further limitation is the inclusion of people in the membership whose interests differ. As an example Mr. Carley pointed to the dairy workers in Peterborough, recently organized by the Textile Workers.

"Unions gained their strength because they appealed to people with similar problems and desires. Thus by including those whose problems are dissimilar, they weaken themselves."

IKE LEARNS OF HIS TRIUMPH—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower reads results of the New Hampshire primary elections handed him by a reporter just before the NATO supreme commander left Paris on a flight to Frankfurt, Germany. "Ike" said his decisive victory over Sen. Robert Taft and other Republican aspirants made him "very proud," but he still does not plan to return to the U.S. in the immediate future.

HALIFAX —(CP)—A report by the provincial board of censors showed more than 9,686,000 admissions were paid to the 79 movie theatres in Nova Scotia in 1950, more than 100,000 higher than the previous year. Figures for the part of last year indicated a continued increase.

New Army Code Of Promotions

LONDON—(CP)—A new "peacetime code" of promotion for soldiers other than officers will be adopted by the British Army starting April 1.

Under the system, which replaces the so-called "war c..." emphasis will be placed on promotion by length ...rvice—"seniority tempered by merit," as the War Office puts it.

Seniority starts from the time of enlistment in the regular army, not from the moment of joining the Army as a conscript under the National Service call-up. The idea is that those who decided early to make the army a career should have priority.

Future vacancies will be filled on the basis of seniority accompanied by qualifications, regardless of where the soldier may be serving. This replaces the method of promoting a man who happened to be in the right place at the right time and will result in increasing transfers from one unit to another.

Western Oils Climb To Record High

TORONTO, March 14 (CP)— Western oils climbed sharply to a record high on the exchange's index today in early afternoon stock market dealings. Other sections made little headway.

In western oils West Ashley was a standout as it added pennies in a turnover of more than 190,000 shares.

Gains ranged from pennies to the $1.50 jump of Federated Petroleum. Canadian Atlantic, Central-Leduc, General Petroleum A, National Petroleum, Security Free, United Oil and Western Leaseholds climbed strongly.

Miscellaneous issues posted a scattered list of fractional advances to form industrials' strongest sections. Banks edged upward but steels, papers, utilities and retail stores eased.

Base metals were mixed as Barvue Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, Opemiska, Quebec Copper and Yukeno strengthened while Chromium, Fenimore Iron, Golden Manitou and Sherritt-Gordon weakened.

Senior golds slipped. Hollinger, Teck Hughes and Wright-Hargreaves edged lower. Secondary issues showed a majority of moderate gains.

Detective Presented With Special Bullet

MONTREAL, March 14 (CP).— The first bullet fired by police in the shooting of gunman Leonard Jackson Tuesday night—which was removed from Jackson's right arm Thursday—will be presented today to the detective wno fired it.

Jackson was the second gunman cut down by police bullets in Montreal within a week. He and Steve Suchan, 24, were wanted in connection with the shooting of two Toronto policemen almost two weeks ago.

Toronto detective John Gillespie will receive the bullet from Capt. Romeo Lompre, second-in-command of the special squad now searching for the third member of the trio, Edwin Alonzo Boyd.

"It is only fair that the man who fired the first shot—and hit the target—gets the bullet," said Lompre. "He will have something to show his grandchildren."

He spoke broken English. He had no job but spent lots of money.

He had no credentials other than a fake national registration card made in Berlin from a card taken from an R.C.A.F. prisoner-of-war. It said his address was Yonge Street, Toronto, and it wrongly spelled it Younge. He moved out of the Ottawa hotel when the owner began asking for his sugar-ration coupons.

Nab Toronto Men For Auto Theft

COBOURG, March 14 (ENS)—Two Toronto men were arrested Thursday morning early at Carcaud's service station in Port Hope where they attracted the attention of Provincial Constable Hugh Wooldridge of Cobourg.

Police said they had a stolen car, taken [illegible] Toronto but not listed as [illegible]e time the men were picked up. They were brought to Cobourg and locked up pending the arrival of Toronto detectives who took them back to that city. Police said they would be charged with car theft.

A third man, Jack Johnston, 297 Muray St., Peterborough, was released after questioning revealed that he was only a hitchhiker and was in no way connected with the affair. The Toronto men are John English, 18, and Herbert Graham.

While Constable Wooldridge was questioning the men, he heard the sound of liquid flowing. There was no siphon hose in the gas tank of a car which had been parked all night in the service station yard but under the tank was a container and the plug had been removed from the bottom of the tank. An air hose had been cut for use as a siphon tube but it was apparently too slow draining the tank so the removal of the plug was affected. Constable Robert O'Brien of Port Hope police came on the scene while making his rounds, shortly after Constable Wooldridge had stopped, and assisted in the arrest. Marks on the garage doors indicated that an attempt had been made to break in, police said.

Professor Weall is not only a most outstanding lecturer, but an artist as well, and his lecture will include colored drawings in chalk as to the method and manner of enhancing the appearance of the farm home and buildings from the standpoint of trees, shrubs, flowers and roadways. He will also describe the proper manner in which to landscape city property.

Committee for the evening consists of Leo Doherty, Bill Holmes, Fred Rutherford, Grant Anderson and Bill Hogle.

Cobourg To Charge $35 For Water Services

COBOURGE, Mar. 14 (ENS)—A flat rate of $35 for each new service installed will be charged by the water department of Cobourg Public Utilities, it has been decided by the Commission.

Last year the water dept., which never shows a large profit, had a net operating loss of $3,400. One source of expense has been piping in and hooking up water systems to new houses and in the past four years this has cost a total of $18,000. Accordingly, commencing the first of next month the installation service will be $35.

In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where here are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

Distemper Kills Dogs In Cobourg

COBOURG, March 14 (ENS)—Chorea or "nervous distemper" has caused several canine deaths in Cobourg this winter and veterinaries in practically all the cases diagnosed the dogs' chances of survival as practically hopeless. The owners had their pets put out of misery.

One litter of valuable Labradors seemed particularly susceptible to the disease There were the usual distemper symptoms from which the dogs apparently were recovering and then the chorea manifested itself by the victims taking spasms of slobbering at the mouth, the spasms increasing in frequency and intensity until the convulsions were violent.

Some waited to see if the dogs would throw it off but the animals died. Most of the owners had them destroyed. However, one dog lover gave his collie repeated doses of vitamin B and the animal survived and has only a trace of St. Vitus' dance.

Fenella Man Stricken At Auto Wheel, Dies

CAMPBELLFORD, March 14—(ENS)—John Legrow, 72, of Fenella, suffered a heart attack at the wheel of his car on the Hastings Road between Campbellford and Hastings on Thursday afternoon, and died before medical aid could reach him.

Mr. Legrow and his wife had been visiting at the home of Tobias Forrestell on the Hasting Road, and were driving home when he complained of a pain in his chest.

He stopped the car while his wife went to a nearby farm for a drink of water for her husband.

A Public Health nurse, who was driving by did what she could for the man, and Mr. Forrestell, who had been notified of Mr. Legrow's illness said he would drive him home, but Mr. Legrow died a few minutes later.

Provincial Constable George Rose of Campbellford was called, and he summoned Dr. J. R. Anderson, coroner, of Campbellford, who pronounced the man dead and gave the cause of death as coronary thrombosis.

Assembling 550 Acres For Peterborough Homes

Why is the City Council involving itself in a big real estate transaction, planning to add 550 acres of Smith township to the city and to lay streets, water mains and other services through the area, when it is already beset by a craggy budget and high tax rates? The reason is that this "land assembly" project is not only desirable, but one of the best deals the Council has ever been able to make with Provincial and Federal Governments.

* * *

The land assembly, despite its scope, will not cost the taxpayers a cent until the first of December 1954, if the annexation is not completed before the end of this year and work is not begun before next January. The Province and the Federal Government (through the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation) are bearing the entire initial costs—even the cost of surveying the land—and the whole capital cost of buying it. The Province is paying a quarter of the cost, the Federal Government three-quarters. Through a period of fifteen years the city will repay by annual instalments at low interest the cost of laying streets, sewers, electric wiring, storm drains; in other words, the cost of the services which the city normally provides any residents.

* * *

The unusual part of the deal is that not until the work is completed will the city have to put out any money; in fact, it will not have to spend a penny until there are home and lot owners already in possession and being assessed for the services. When the city's men begin to lay the sewers, the street wires and the like, the city will not have to borrow money ahead of time to pay for this work. The Housing Corporation will advance it. The annual repayments for the street servicing, probably not to begin until December 1954, will amount to only $87.45 for each thousand dollars of the cost. The repayments (of 75 per cent of the costs by fifteen annual payments) for providing houses and lots with the services are also at a low rate; and these are to be made only after installations have been made and there are taxpayers on the lots.

* * *

The land assembly project is wise and liberal city planning for the future, devised and carried out chiefly by the Federal and Provincial governments. Never has the city been able to undertake such a program and extension at so little cost to itself. The Council has been provident in entering into the agreement. The governmental generosity is a recognition that cities such as Peterborough are hard-pressed to provide land, services and houses for all the people who want them. Ottawa and Toronto have jointly accepted their responsibility in this deal, seeking the co-operation but not the money of the city.

* * *

The 550 acres will be a restricted residential zone, admitting only such shops and schools and churches as are necessary to serve a residential area. Although the land is primarily being acquired so that Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation can put up houses on it, private persons will also build homes there, on conditions laid down by the Corporation, which will be the original sole owner of all the land.

Regaining Our Forests

We are glad to see that Peterborough's representative in the Legislature, the Hon. Harold Scott, has emphasized anew the necessity to regain and maintain the abundance of our forests in Ontario. This is something which cannot be repeated too often. We know, academically, that it is ruinous to the country to misuse our forest lands by rash cutting, by cutting immature wood, and scanty re-planting; but we do not act upon our knowledge. The strong opposition in this county to a move which would preserve forests is evidence that the real importance of woodlands is not fully appreciated.

Once again we call attention to the masterly fashion in which Norway and Sweden care for their timberlands, and the great revenue which those countries derive therefrom. Norway and Sweden do not hoard trees; on the contrary, they are perpetually cutting. But they have achieved a balance which keeps their wooded areas fairly constant.

A Scandinavian forest and a Canadian forest are scarcely recognizable as the same thing. Our forests are too often messy, overgrown and unkempt. The Scandinavian forest is the outcome of careful, scientific planting, and undergrowth has been kept down until in large areas it does not exist. It will be a long time before we can achieve anything so orderly, beautiful and convenient for forestry work. But it will be more than a long time—it will be forever—if we do not heed the warnings which men like Mr. Scott are giving us.

NATO Under Socialist Suspicion

The Lisbon conference of NATO made a formal declaration a... djournment that "The partnership between the nations of the North Atlantic Treaty is not for defence alone but for enduring progress." A good many people do not have Mr. Pearson's faith that NATO has olive branches which will bear fruits for the advancement of human progress. They are becoming increasingly critical of NATO's military nature and military expenditures being planned through it. Some are considering it only as a lever to promote re-armament. They may hope that it will keep peace by force; they have no hope that it will foster world-wide good-will.

The chief critics are socialists and democratic socialist parties in France, Germany, Italy and England. Their new opposition to NATO must be reckoned with, because they have in general the support of the workers who must make the munitions, and several have been in governmental power since the war and will undoubtedly return to power.

The British Labour Party is an example. It has changed from full support of NATO to a policy of regretful opposition. Left-wingers of the party are violently opposed to NATO. The change may be due in part to the fact that the Labour Party is no longer responsible for governing. It is easy from Opposition benches to bewail defence expenditures and cry out against any consequent curtailing of social welfare programs. The Opposition does not have the responsibility to defend the State.

The Canadian C.C.F. Party has now adopted a stance towards NATO similar to the British Labour Party attitude. It was to be expected that in his political address (on C.B.C. time given in rotation to the chief political parties) that Mr. Pearson would take the chance to criticize the C.C.F. if he could. He could, and did. The National Council of the C.C.F. had described recent NATO re-armament decisions as "irresponsible and disastrous." Mr. Pearson, defender of NATO and spokesman for the Liberal Party, commented that "that is exactly how the Kremlin would describe them." The C.C.F. has naturally been irked, its political sensitivities hurt.

The significant element in the democratic socialist change of heart to NATO is that there no longer is unpartisan policy towards it as an instrument of national foreign policy in France, Germany, Britain, or even Canada. It is no longer roses, roses all the way, for NATO.

That Woozy Look

A good deal of publicity has been given to the embarrassing plight of Professor Lancelot Hogben, an English mathematician who is widely known for his excellent book Mathematics For The Million. Dr. Hogben was arrested recently and charged with driving while drunk. Evidence was brought forward to show that Dr. Hogben looks drunk even while he is sober. He is a deep thinker, and deep thinking often makes a man look woozy. His eyes may cross, his jaw drop and his tongue hang out, but these are merely the results of intense concentration.

While admitting that when Dr. Hogben is driving his car he ought to concentrate on that and on nothing else, we have a good deal of sympathy for him. People who look bright and eager, who recognize every acquaintance on the street, and who see all the traffic signals, are splendid fellows, but they are not usually thinking about anything very much. Their minds, like their eyes, are upon the outside world. But a man who is pondering deeply stumbles over curbs, absent-mindedly lifts his hat to telephone poles, says "Good morning" at midnight and displays other comic evidences of his preoccupation. Yet he may be putting the finishing touches on some plan which will be of the greatest benefit to at least a part of the world.

We should not like a plea of Deep Thought to become a common one in the police courts. But we suggest that it has its place, though that place is certainly not behind the wheel of a car.

Stonewall Scholars

Stonewall is a village west of Winnipeg. It has a Collegiate of four rooms. The average attendance at the school is 70-75. The Principal is Robert W. Bend, who in 1949 became an independent member of the Manitoba Legislature. Recently he introduced his eighteen Grade 11 pupils to the Legislature. It was an honour due them and the school. Stonewall Collegiate has taken more major scholarships than any other school in Canada in the last seven years. Queen's University awards a scholarship each year to one outstanding student from each province. McGill awards the McConnell scholarship each year to four outstanding students from the entire country. In the last seven years Principal Bend's Stonewall pupils have won the Queen's Scholarship three times, the McGill award twice. Others have won less important awards elsewhere.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

TRUE BLUE REPUBLICAN: A constant reader of this column wrote the editor of Time Magazine waggishly complimenting him on its respectful approval of the British monarchy and suggesting that, as Shaw had said, the U.S.A. might sue for reunion with the British Empire. This had an angry response from an Illinois man which my reader has passed on to me. Here it is:

"I read your tiff in Time magazine. If it weren't for America, you transplanted leech, both you and George Bernard Shaw would have been wearing Nazi armbands over your elbows ten years ago.

"Anytime any American would pay over 40,000 pounds a year to keep a King in Ermine and autos, and the people are afraid to throw away the potato peelings, then our set-up would resemble yours.

"For your information if we wanted to collect debts owed to us by the (HA!) 'British Empire', we would not only own you, we'd give you back to the Indians."

Well, well. One would think from the tone of the letter that it was only yesterday, and not 1814, that Canadians and English troops and sailors had set fire to Washington!

NOW, if I had received that letter, I would be tempted to write the Illinois man in this vein: In what way are we Canadians leeches? Do you not know that Canada is the only country in the world that pays the U.S.A. spot cash for everything she gets from Uncle Sam's government; and that Canada is the U.S.A.'s best and biggest customer? We have never had any lend-lease, either during or since the war. I suggest, Sir, that far from our being a leech, you are a parasite on the body of the British Commonwealth In the first World War the U.S.A. stood idly by until 1917, while Britain, Canada, Australia and the rest of the 'leeches' fought the war from August, 1914. You came into the field really only in the last nine months. Do you know that this small town and district of Peterborough had as many killed during that war as the great big city of Chicago? In World War II (as you call it), Britain stood alone against Germany, with support from other Commonwealth countries, for more than two years (from September, 1939), until the shattering and victorious Jap raid on Pearl Harbour brought you in. If the United States paid her debt to Britain for holding the fort during those two wars until the U.S.A. made up its mind, who would owe whom now?

Anyway, dear Sir, Britain does not own Canada; this a completely self-governing nation. The link is the Throne. Queen Elizabeth of England is also Queen Elizabeth of Canada. At the present time, to our economic embarrassment sometimes, the U.S.A. owns more of Canada than we publicly want to admit.

Your figures on the cost of maintaining the Queen are wrong. It is not £40,000 pounds, but £410,000 (apart from annuities paid to other members of the Royal family). Her Majesty's Privy, Purse alone is £110,000. But even this does not cost the British taxpayer a penny. (It costs the Canadian nothing, either, for Canada contributes nothing to the maiptenance of the Royal household).

By arrangement with Parliament, the sovereign turns over to the state the royal hereditary revenues. These lands and estates, inherited by the Queen, bring in an income of £650,000 a year, that is £73,000 more than Parliament grants for all Royal expenses. Thus the country 'makes money' out of the deal.

Now, dear Sir, even from a financial point of view, would the U.S.A. not be better to have a monarch than a President? The amount of money spent in maintaining President Truman and the White House is more than the cost of maintaining a British King or Queen, despite all the palaces and ermine. The comparative figures were given in your Time Magazine about nine months ago. And the Presidential costs all come out of the American taxpayer.

P.S. Do the people of England, afraid to throw away the potato peelings, live worse than some primitives in the hills of Kentucky? Yet the nation which has the slums of Chicago and New York and the shanties of Kentucky, spends more to maintain its President than Britain does her Queen.

SIR: How long has your Alpha column been appearing?

ANSWER: The year 1952 of the Christian era corresponds to the year of Creation 5712-5713 of the Jewish calendar; to the year 1371-1372 of the Mohammedan hegira; to the 85th of the Dominion of Canada, and to the 4th Alpha year. This column began July 2nd, 1948.

ALPHA: How long has Douro been established?

ANSWER: The first settlers appeared in 1821, a year before it was surveyed. The township was put in the hands of the Hon. Alexander Stewart and Mr. Robert Reid.

It has had a post office since 1856—originally under the name of South Douro. The postmasters have been: Daniel Sullivan (1856-1866); Bridget McCarthy (1866); Thomas Hanrahan (1867-1883); Mrs. Thomas (Catherine) Hanrahan (1883-1891); Jeremiah O'Gorman (1892-1893); George Towns (1893-1904); Patrick George Towns (1904-1948); William George Towns (1948-).

Besides the dominance of Irish surnames, one notes the continuity of the same family in office.

MORE ABOUT Queen Victoria's brother and sister. Last Friday I mentioned, in answer to a reader's question, the names of Queen Victoria's half-sister and half-brother: Princess Feodora and Prince Charles. They were children of Queen Victoria' mother Victoria, Duchess of Kent, by her first marriage to the elderly German Prince of Leiningen. Feodora married Prince Ernest of Hohenlohe-Langenburg and had descendants living today. She died in 1872. Prince Charles, who never lived in England, succeeded his father as Prince of Leiningen and died in 1856, I believe without issue.

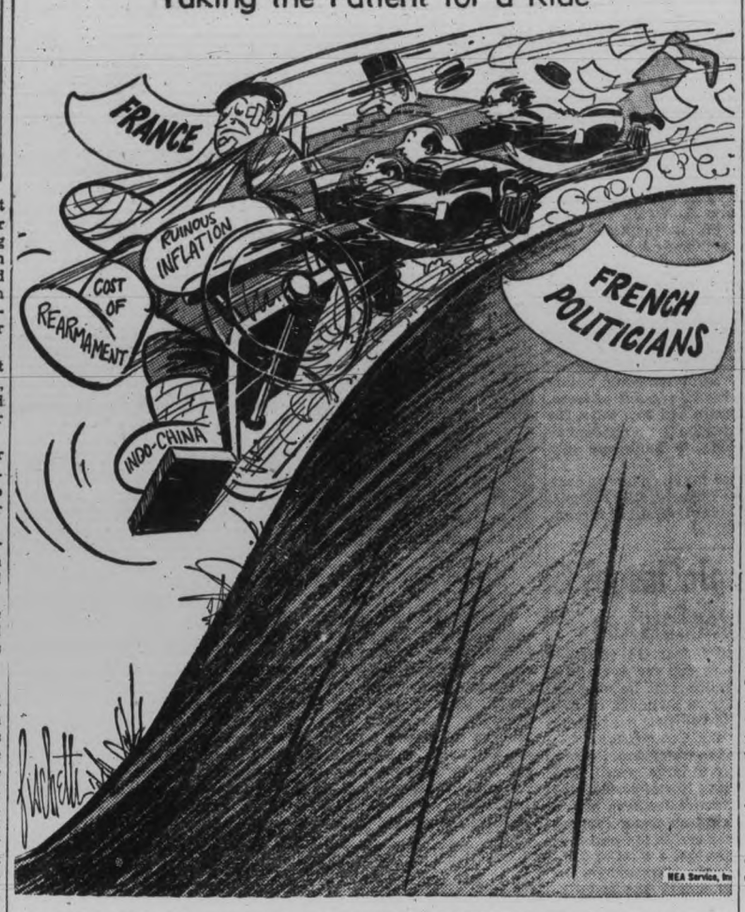
FOR THE RECORD: In the hardy old days only the birds went south for the winter. Now every third Peterborough person one meets has been a migrant to Florida, Bermuda, Cuba, Mexico or some other half-baked place, for a couple of weeks or a month or two. The ones whom one does not meet are still south. In fact I had a postcard from Hawaii this week from one dear friend. She wrote about the 80-degree heat. I looked at the grass-skirted native girl shown on the obverse side and sighed. Acutally, Peterborough people do not go south; they steal south, as if they were Puritanically ashamed to admit that they were leaving the Canadian rigours of winter weather, and had enough time and money to do it.

It is an unostentatious, almost secretive migration, but, by the Lord Harry, it's a big one. Talk of wild ducks flying south; these are skeins (dear, dear, this metaphor is becoming involved and uncomplimentary) skeins of geese for whom some gander must have laid the golden eggs. I am told that in Florida resorts Canadians are esteemed by native Americans for their careful wealth, as Dutch tourists in Germany used to be kowtowed to by Germans for their wealthy leisure. I am also told the churches in Florida during the winter are crammed to the doors each Sunday, chiefly by Canadians and some other tourists who have to find compensation for the placid, warm, nothing-doing week-days. This is all hearsay. I have never been in Florida, but I was once in Buffalo.

Taking the Patient for a Ride



Letters To The Editor

PETERBOROUGH NOT COLORLESS

Sir. When a Canadian Male signs a marriage contract with a lady, the lady immediately has Dower Rights. But, what about Dower Rights for the Canadian Male? What about his third?

If I was a woman, I certainly would resent the publishers of Chatelaine; and I would reveal my resentment by never spending my sucker money on another copy of that mag. If the Canadian Woman is wise, she'll let sleeping dogs lie.

So much for Chatelaine. Now, let us consider a few excerpts from Maclean's Magazine of Mar. fifteen. The article by June Callwood, starts with: "Peterborough is a medium-sized, colorless, conservative Ontario city—" Well, Peterborough is my home town; and that colorless hurt! As a child, I swam in nearly every body of water in and around Peterborough. As a child, the first fish I ever caught came out of the Otonabee; and it was sucker. Those were halcyon days. The very bricks in the buildings have a friendly warmth; a familiar something that I never sense in any other city. The hills, river and canal, Little Lake—colorless! Ha! (That Ha! is supposed to denote disgust.)

Every one is entitled to their own opinion. Sure. Maybe I am just a sentimental fool. And I do resent all knd of stuff I read; but I can take most anything with or without a grain of salt. Maybe I'm all mixed up. But deep in my heart, there is one thing I am sure of. Peterborough is my home town; and it will always retain it's place in my heart. And in my humble estimation, Peterborough is the most beautiful, colorful little city on the face of God's green earth.

If anyone—anyone, mind you—does not like Peterborough, and goes so far as to claim it is colorless, well, they can take a flying front jump off some front wharf! When it comes to Peterborough, I refuse to compromise. It's my home town!

Yours very truly,
A READER

ED. NOTE: Miss Callwood, who was, we understand, reared in the mighty metropolis of Kitchener, formed her opinion of Peterborough during a stay of less than two days. She was frustrated and annoyed because several citizens refused to give her information (of a type which she called "dirt") about one of their fellow-citizens. Her annoyance perhaps reflects itself in what she has written.

PLANTED 500 TREES

Sir: One letter printed on editorial page entitled "Thinks God Opposes Timber Control." makes a statement concerning me. This is the statement . . "Forestry has been more of a curse than blessing as Mrs. Hamilton told of its results. Any tom-fool theory that comes up, some folks, oh yes". Any one has the right thus far to judge for themselves . . . I have been setting out trees, on a farm, that has not had a load of timber sold during over 60 years just for the selling of it. I am safe in saying, that I alone have set out 500 trees, some transplanted when so large, that I had to use tactful knowledge to force them to grow . . .

Last year I alone destroyed over 400 Juniper bushes on our farm, to make room for more grass or better trees. If I had classed timber a curse why would I have been so interested, that I would box up my pride as an educated teacher, to do laborious work for the sake of others and my own enjoyment, as well as, spending our own money and many hours of my own time, the past few weeks to make a drive opposing a By-Law on Timber Restrictions, that would have passed by county council in January without the taxpayers knowing of its existence had it not been for one or two councillors calling it dictatorship if passed then. I not only class it dictatorship but destroying the citizen's rights by them not having a right to vote on such vital issues . . .

SAYS MEN FEAR EQUALITY WITH WOMEN

Sir! John Stuart Mill states in his essay on Liberty 'hat the gravest of faults is to misstate the element of the case or misrepresent the opposite opinion. So let this supposed challenger of Women's Rights study the books of law rather than Chatelaine magazine. I would therefore defy W. E. Mathews to elucidate his statement concerning the Dependence Relief Act and the Breach of Promise. Admittedly a man (?) suing for breach of promise might be considerably jostled by the jury but technically speaking there is no law stating a man cannot do so if his pride thus prompts the action. Even if these laws were true, do not the unwritten laws against the equality of women more than counteract the written?

W. E. Mathews says that he agrees in absolute equality for women, but does he really, or does any man?

The opportunities for advancement in the business world are always given to men in preference to women. I ask you why? Is it not because fundamentally all men crave superiority and do not want to be made feel inferior by a more competent woman. They are jealous and afraid that if women are given equal opportunities in the business world, they will disadvantageously outshine the men.

May I answer W. E. Mathews' question "Who are the suckers?" with this reply (and with apologies to Shakespeare). If men be underlings it is not in their stars but in themselves. Yours truly,

ANONYMOUS FEMALE.

COMPLAINS OF TAXATION

Sir: I would like to find out what they are doing with all the money they are collecting from the meters and fines for those who break the traffic laws? It amounts to a tremendous sum; and then to read in the paper the Police Dept. are asking for the sum of $157,464, an increase of $21,042 over last year's amount! And $50,000 for the Public Library, and the Civic Hospital nearly $224,000! According to last night's paper 66 mills in the offing. Where does the city council think the small wage earner is going to get the money to pay such high taxation? By the time the government takes the income tax, and the group insurance and lots of other things from the cheque, it amounts to about anywhere from $8 to $10, and what's left to run a home on, pay for coal, water and light bills, 'phone bills, doctor bills, etc., and food, clothes, household upkeep, there's very little left to do anything with. I think these deficits at the Civic Hospital are a disgrace and need some drastic investigation. I see one mill by last night's paper is about $40,000 and 66 mills would mean $2,640,000. People who are renting a home are far better off than a man who is supposed to own one. And the education bill is getting out of all proportion in its demands, and the children are not as well educated as when my children went to school. Some of their education is a lot of nonsense. Thanking you,

Yours sincerely,
ONE OF MANY DISGUSTED.

O Lord, thou hast searched me, and known me . . . My substance was not hid from thee, when I was made in secret, and curiously wrought in the lowest parts of the earth. Thine eyes did see my substance, yet being unperfect; and in thy book all my members were written, which in continuance were fashioned, when as yet there were none of them. (Ps. 139: 1, 15, 16.)

Deny Blacklisting In Hamilton

HAMILTON, March 14—(CP)—Asked what point had been reached in discussions between Hamilton school teachers and the Board of Education, and whether it was correct that teachers have blacklisted some schools, Dr. Harry Pakin, chairman of the Board, said Thursday that, as far as he knew at the moment, no reference had been made to blacklisting.

While elementary teachers have accepted salary schedules as drawn up and approved by the board, secondary school teachers have turned down the single salary schedule.

The Hamilton local of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation have stated the desire to bargain for themselves," said Dr. Pakin. "They have asked for the right to negotiate on a basis applicable to themselves alone."

The Board had not, to date, acceded to the request, but was going to continue the study of single salary schedules throughout the year, with the intention of calling in representatives of both elementary and secondary teachers panels for discussion and advice.

The single salary schedule was to apply to both elementary and secondary teachers, placing them in categories with four of them applying to elementary and two (namely four and five) to secondary school teachers.

Testifies Husband Not Affectionate

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—George Corscadden's estranged wife, Lillian, said in court Thursday that the pigeon-fancier had never kissed her on the mouth in nearly 30 years of married life because "he considered it unsanitary".

"My husband never had any affection for me. He never put his arms around me nor hugged me. When I asked him why he didn't, he just passed it off as a joke", she told Mr. Justice Wilson and an assize court jury.

Mrs. Corscadden, mother of two children, denied that dairy president William Rice had induced her to leave her husband. She claimed her husband threw her out, but that she would have left anyway, even if she had not known Mr. Rice.

Mr. Corscadden, a printer, has brought an alienation of affections suit against Mr. Rice. He charges the 63-year-old dairyman won his 50-year-old wife with presents.

Mrs. Corscadden also testified that her husband had been running around with other women—one married with two children—prior to their first separation, Feb. 15, 1950. She said she returned May 28 of that year, but left him again in the middle of August.

The Corscadden's 24-year-old son, Gordon, testified he was offered $5,000 if he would help persuade his mother to take a world cruise with Mr. Rice.

Cornish Mines Kept Closed By Heavy Taxes

PENZANCE, England, March 14 —(Reuters)—The ghost towns and abandoned mines of Cornwall may hum with activity again if Britain can work out a tax-reduction plan to get the mines back into operation and tap a still-rich source of copper and tin.

Cornwall, in the extreme southwest corner of Britain, produced three-quarters of the world's copper and half its tin during the 19th century.

But high production costs and the difficuity of competing with areas such as Malaya forced hundreds of Cornish mines out of business until now only four are producing.

Since post-war inflation has sent tin and copper prices skyrocketting on the world market, Cornwall sees a chance to get back into business in a big way if its mines can get tax cuts to carry them over the period of initial high costs while they reopen mines and install up-to-date machinery.

So far government spokesmen have been non-committal on the miners appeals but a statement on the mines is expected to be made soon in the House of Commons.

Rich Deposits

A hundred years ago there were 40,000 miners working in the Cornish tin and copper mines. Today less than 1,000 are employed.

Boom years produced as much as 10,000 tons of tin. Now Cornwall provides only 1,000 tons towards Britain's annual consumption of 25,000 tons.

Engineers agree the chief problem to a large-scale revival is economic. To open up the deposits would involve an initial cost ranging from £5,000,000 to £8,000,000 because many of the rich ore seams are imbedded in granite at depths of as much as 1,800 feet.

Experts say that in addition to tin and copper, Cornwall has a wealth of lead, zinc, arsenic and wolfram—the source of tungsten, a vital need of the steel industry.

They believe there are large untapped supplies of wolfram—most present supplies of which are in iron-curtain countries—waiting to be mined.

Said Chief Smyth: "I have seen children do it but not a man."

Toronto Minor Pucksters Defeat Local Squads In O.M.H.A. Semi-Finals

Toronto bantam, midget and juvenile representatives in the Ontario minor hockey association playoffs edged out victories over Peterborough's entries Thursday night at Civic Arena in three hard-fought and exciting struggles before a large crowd of fans, over 700 in all. Cliff Cooper's Marlboro bantams gained a 6-4 decision over Pat Doherty's fighting St. Peter's squad in the first of their home-and-home series; while Moon Wootton's classy Martin-Hewitt ice-burners, yielded a 5-4 edge in the first joust of their set with Flash Hollett's Marlie midgets in the second encounter—a dogfight to the finish.

The nightcap of the triple-header, found the gallant Outboard Marine juveniles bowing out to the strong Downsview Spitfires from the centre of the Queen City, after a terrific battle replete with thrills of every description by a score of 6-1. The defeat gave Spitfires the round 7-1 as they had previously edged Marines at home 1-0. Last night's score hardly indicated the play however, as Jimmy Buchanan, ace Spitfire custodian, came up with a superlative display in the nets, to well nigh spell the difference between the two strong teams. A closely-knit defence afforded him airtight protection too in a well-merited victory.

In the bantam duel, St. Peter's opened the scoring after 15 minutes of sparkling two-way action when Bob Ba sank the disc from Bill Mah y on a scramble at 15:45. Nevins equalized for Marlies, a minute later and Gord Haughton gave his team an edge late in the frame on a neat solo effort though Saints held a good edge in territorial play in the period.

Bob McAleese, who played well for the Cooper lads, clicked in the second frame early to give Marlies a further edge but St. Peters fought hard and finally gained reward late in the frame as Mahoney, Pat Baker and Paul Murphy combined, the former hitting the twine. A hot third stanza gave Toronto a 3-2 edge in the scoring and final victory after Murphy with Stewart and Maloney from Forrestell, had put the locals temporarily in the van. Marlies came back to rap in three from the sticks of Smith, Nevins and McAleese. But it was nip-and-tuck all the way with the Church lads having an edge in play despite the score on the whole.

A Close Fray

Martin Hewitt midgets fought a game battle against worthy foemen in the second game, as close as the score would indicate, though the Hollett crew held a small lead in the two first frames. Moon Wootton's boys showed some real giddyap in the final period and with a few breaks earlier denied them, on brilliant efforts outscored the visitors and tied the count. Marlies managed to notch one in the finale from the stick of Sibbick and thus took a one-goal lead for the return encounter in the Queen City next week. Goal-getters for Martin-Hewitt in the torrid duel were: Gardner in the second and Brooks, Smith and Strickland in the third with Roberts Gardner and Strickland setting them up. Every man gave his best throughout with Masterson turning in a fine game in goal. Many of his stops were sensational and Marlies outshot the locals. Ranieri and Zaley scored for Marlies in the first. Sibbick and Webster in the second the former again in the final, Mason, Golden, Sibbick, Goodwin, Lougheed and Henderson drew assists. Both Marlie teams are undefeated to date.

Rough Enough

Ken Averell's flashy red Downsview squad turned in a highly effective effort against Bert Hill's strong Marine juveniles to gain a 6-1 verdict in a game that started clean but ended in rough style. It was lightning fast throughout, and the big visiting crew made full use of their extra poundage. Referees Wakelin and McIntosh meted out 14 of 23 penalties in the third period alone, as the boys of both teams roughed it plenty, with a scrap or two as well to liven up an already keen battle. Superior defensive play, plus excellent goal-tending, spelled the difference for Toronto but Marines were not outclassed by a great margin. Play was close and hard fought, and a few breaks here and there could have helped the locals plenty as they fought to the wire. Aside from the outstanding display of Buchanan in goal, Blair Graham proved very useful for Downs when short-handed, and the work of Charlie McCarthy and John McLean up front and Frank Chew on defence stood out. Bill Gleed, despite a bad ankle popped in two goals in the mid frame to lead his team in scoring. But the entire team played well particularly when short. Of the 23 penalties, 15 went to the visitors.

Downies' scored twice in the first as Rolan from Fillman clicked midway in the frame and Chew registered two minutes later. Gleed twice, and McCarthy, late in the second, after some gruelling two-way battle, put the visitors fairly safe as Marines seemed unable to click in their usual form, though they never quit trying. John Cupoli scored a beauty from Jim McGrath to give them a start but Graham returned it for the only tallies of a piping final chapter. Every Marine gave his best while the same goes for the Toronto boys who now advance to the final round.

P.C.V.S. Squads Playing In The C.O.S.S.A.

Championship basketball in collegiate play highlights the weekend's cage activities for two Peterborough teams.

For three months the P.C.V.S. quintets have been practising and working towards the C.O.S.S.A. tournaments in Toronto on Saturday. There both teams will represent the Lake Ontario district in the C.O.S.S.A. senior and junior championships.

For coach Bev Goulding this will be the seventh straight attempt for a C.O.S.S.A. title which has the annual habit of returning to the Niagara district. Only once in the seven years has the title come to Peterborough, three years ago, the first time it had been out of the Niagara district. Since then Belleville won the senior only to have it return to Niagara Falls last year.

This year coach Goulding will present a team rather than a group of individuals built around two or three star players. The quintet lacks depth, although the reserves have been strengthening in the past two games.

A young, short team the senior Garnet and Grey makes up for its inexperience and lack of height with a high spirited fast brand of basketball. They always work as a unit employing either a zone or man-to-man defence.

Along the forward line coach Goulding usually starts Don Ash, Dave Langhorne and Lionel Hempstead, the latter two junior players from last year. At the guard line he has veteran Bryon Young and last year junior Murray Grafstein.

For reserves the Garnet and Grey has Terry Brown, Larry Cunningham, Jim Hendry and Ted Cranfield.

The Cullis Squad

A former University of Toronto student and basketball player, Jack Cullis will be making his debut in the C.O.S.S.A. tournament when he leads his juniors into competition. In previous years coach Goulding has handled both the senior and junior "A" teams.

Coach of both junior Collegiate teams this year, Mr. Cullis is in much the same situation at coach Goulding in the senior. His team, although it has height, has little depth and is centred around the smooth-playing Dan Griffin, brother of Queen's University star Don Griffin.

Griffin this year with a deceptive pivot, followed by a short dribble into the basket for a lay-up shot, has been the spark plug for the quintet. In recent games Griffin has been sharing the limelight with Terry Roberts, an opportunist and Bob Boorman, a rebound star.

Ken Armstrong, although plagued by personal fouls, especially in the Oshawa Central games, stars at guard with Boorman. The stocky guard uses his height and weight while rebounding in an aggressive display. The other regular is Jack Corbett who although not a scorer is a playmaker for Griffin and Roberts.

Ready for any emergency are the alternates, Burgess, Eastwood, Allan, Carleton, Marshall, Fowler and Foote.

Run Queen's Plate At Woodbine Park

TORONTO, March 14 (CP). — Col. K. R. Marshall, president of the Ontario Jockey Club, Thursday announced that the Queen's Plate will be run at Woodbine race track this spring under O. J. C. conditions.

Word was received Thursday from the Keeper of the Privy Purse at Buckingham Palace that the Queen will be pleased to continue the donation of 50 guineas to the winner. The Royal donation was first given by Queen Victoria in 1859.

The Queen's Plate, believed to be the oldest continuously run horse race on the continent, was run at Carlton for the first four years. The event was subsequently run at London, Hamilton, Guelph, St. Catharines, Whitby, Kingston, Ottawa, Barrie, Woodstock, Picton and Prescott.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

At a preliminary C.O.B.L. meeting in Kingston, applications for entry were considered, with no decisions made yet. That will be done at the annual meeting March 23, in the Kingston city hall. Election of officers then, too, and a possible splitting up of the 1952 circuit into two sections; one having an international flavor. Clayton and Watertown of New York State have applied for entry, and Ogdensburg has indicated interest in the setup. Kingston of course will be in since the Can.-Am. pro ball loop folded last summer. Belleville expects to be back and the Petes have applied. Picton and Batawa are interested but have not applied as yet.

* * * * * *

It is possibly an eight-team league, with four in each section, and perhaps some interlocking games. That has to be ironed out at the next meeting. A central loop setup of Petes, Belleville, Batawa and Picton is indicated at the moment, but it's too early to say what's what yet. Local ball fans lost interest last season in senior baseball as served up by the Viaduct League, only Oshawa and the Petes being of senior "A" calibre. Whether or not all the C.O.B.L. clubs would measure up remains to be seen. However, it looks right now as the most promising setup for the Petes, if as and when. More on it within the next couple of weeks.

Lorne Licks His Pencils

Lorne Cook of Kingston, O.H.A. senior "B" group convener in Central Ontario, sends along some scoring figures for the recent puck schedule. He shows Don Murray of the K's atop the league with 69 points, but he doesn't list how many games each played. Big Vern Goyer of Belleville Hawks has 60 points, George McGregor of K's 56 and Belleville's Keith MacDonald 50. As shown recently in this paper, Chum Fryla led Petes at bat and Toodie Greenlaw was top guy on Eagles' totem pole, each with 46 points in 25 tilts of the 30-game schedule. So Kingston and Belleville snipers led the rest, but Petes finished in first place and Eagles in third.

* * * * * *

Lorne also points out that Goyer had most goals with 38 discs in the net, while Murray led in assists with 42. Belleville served 354 minutes in penalties to lead the sin parade, but Keith Montgomery topped individual offenders with 86 minutes. Kingston had least time out for offences with 291 minutes. Eagles led in assists with 235 as Petes topped 'em all in goals scored, parking the burnt biscuit in the oven 191 times in regular play. The K's got most points, totalling 417. Petes and Eagles each had one shutout. Those are the official figures from the group convener, and anyone may have the complete list for a look if he wishes.

* * * * * *

End Of Road For Eagles

A story in elsewhere quotes President Jack Roxborough of the O.H.A. as saying Eagles are suspended for the rest of the season and Kingston has been awarded the semi-final series. The Eagles' mistake was in not going ahead and playing the third game in Kingston and letting the O.H.A. deal with their protest on Kingston's use of Goalie MacDonald. That protest may be dealt with now, or the O.H.A. may refuse to consider it since the local club has been suspended. It doesn't really matter since apparently the Eagles are through for the season. In view of the O.H.A. attitude, it is unlikely that the Petes will protest MacDonald when they go against Kingston next week in group finals.

* * * * * *

A large crowd at Civic Arena last night saw three lively O.M.H.A. semi-final games. But, alas, our teams dropped all three decisions. Marlboro bantams downed St. Peter's 6-4, while Marlboro's big midgets edged Martin-Hewitt 5-4 in first games of their series. Return tilts will be in Toronto next week, goals counting. So, the two local crews have a chance yet of erasing their opponents and going into provincial finals. But Marines are finished, after taking a 6-1 reverse at the hands of Downsview to lose the round 7-1. A swell scrap and closer than the score indicates, but it's curtains for the good Outboards. Tough luck for them.

Havelock Gets First One In Juve Finals

HAVELOCK, March 14 (ENS). —Havelock defeated Georgetown by a score of 6 to 5 here on Thursday night in the first game in the best two out of three in the Juvenile "C" series for Ontario honors.

It was a thrilling game from start to finish with both teams playing fast, clean hockey and only four penalties being handed out, all of which went to the visitors. Georgetown was leading by a score of 5 to 4 with only two minutes left in the game. Reginald Pollock scored the tying goal for the locals at 18:03 and at 19:59 James Laing got the goal which clinched the game for Havelock. The Laing brothers, Bill and James, played a strong game for Havelock on the forward line and accounted for four of the local tallies, each scoring two.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

Today is the final day of the all-week, open mixed rink bonspiel. Play began at 9:00 o'clock this morning, continued throughout the day, with the finals in all four events set for 7:30 o'clock this evening. Throughout the week there were 56 rinks competing from such curling centres as Gravenhurst, Beaverton, Haliburton, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon, Oakwood, Lindsay, Lakefield, Keene, Oshawa, Brampton, Hamilton, Toronto Granites, Toronto High Park and Peterborough. That this bonspiel is now recognized as one of the biggest in Eastern Ontario, there is no doubt. It takes a lot of time and thought to put over a big event such as this one and Dr. M. McCartney and his committee are entitled to all the nice things that came their way, all week, from visiting clubs and local members.

Our lady curlers, too, did their share. Each day they served a hot dinner and looked after many small details that are necessary to make any bonspiel a success.

Our ice-makers were not overlooked; they had the ice in perfect condition and were most accommodating all through the 'spiel.

Saturday's program—2:00 p.m., men's bonspiel; 7:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m., continuation of the Sturgeon Trophy.

Rinks which qualified for Friday's finals were: Empress Hotel Trophy, G. Snyder, Hamilton and R. McNabb, Gravenhurst.

Calvert Trophy—T. Doughty, Peterborough; R. Sheppard, Toronto High Park.

Eaton Trophy — B. McClure, Brampton; W. Langdon, Lindsay, G. K. Fraser Trophy—A. Simon, Toronto High Park.

Kingston Awarded Series As Eagles Suspended For Failing To Play Game

Canadian Press and the Globe and Mail carried stories this morning of the O.H.A. suspension for the rest of this season of the Peterborough Eagles. Following is the Globe story by George MacFarlane:

Peterborough Eagles have been automatically suspended by the Ontario Hockey Association, the result of failing to turn up in Kingston Wednesday night for the third game of their Senior B best-of-seven semi-final series against Kingston Sacs.

O.H.A. president, Jack Roxburgh, declared last night from his Simcoe home that the series had been awarded to Kingston, with the matter to come up before the next O.H.A. meeting early in April.

The Eagles were trailing the series, 2-0, when their president and sponsor, D. A. McGillis, gave Roxburgh the ultimatum that his team would refuse to continue while the Sacs wer using Sonny MacDonald in goal. The Kingston team obtained MacDonald from St. John, N.B., as a replacement for Don Dougall, injured early in the season.

Two Sides

Like most controversies, there are two sides to the story. But as far as the O.H.A. rules are concerned the Eagle management would appear to be at a disadvantage.

McGill is claimed last night that the storm had been brewing all season and mentioned a few other incident which fathered the explosion over the question of MacDonald's eligibility.

"We feel that Roxburgh should not have approved MacDonald until he learned all the details", McGillis declared. "We don't believe MacDonald is eligible, so we feel justified in refusing to continue the series".

McGillis added that when Dougall was injured, the Kingston team replaced him with Anderson and proceeded to move from fourth to second place.

"That apparently wasn't good enough for them so they went out and got MacDonald", he continued.

Of his approving MacDonald, Roxburgh said he had instructed O.H.A. secretary Bill Hanley to query the Maritime Association for the classification of MacDonald and the St. John club for which he had been playing. Anderson, he was told, was the Kingston club's alternate netminder.

The reply was from Charles Campbell, Maritime Association secretary that MacDonald was a Senior B player and that his transfer was being approved.

"That Ended It"

"That ended it as far as I was concerned", said Roxburgh. "MacDonald was a legitimate replacement, since we had a doctor's certificate for Dougall".

McGillis hasn't made any friends in Kingston, but that fact isn't worrying him too much. "We feel we've been getting raw deals right along and we could only stand so much. The Kingston team offered us $300 when I phoned Wednesday morning, but it's the principle rather than the money that interests me", he said.

Kingston, meanwhile, is seething. Mostly, the annoyance is caused by the "last minute" call that the Eagles wouldn't be coming for the game that night. This was resented by the Community Memorial Centre management as well as the hockey club and Jim McCormick, arena manager, is considering appeal for redress of the financial loss.

The Sac management also feels that the Eagles weakened their case against MacDonald by failing to take action until after they had lost the first two games of the series.

In any event, whether or not the Eagle protest is acknowledged to be justified, there is nothing that can get them back into the series now.

"They settled it themselves when they didn't show up for that game in Kingston", Roxburgh commented. "Right or wrong, they're out now".

HANS HERMANN, above, who today signed to meet Whipper Billy Watson in the main event at the Brock next Tuesday. It took a lot of persuasion and a heavy cash guarantee to get Hermann to accept this match. The bout should be a humdinger for if anyone can tame the haughty German it is the champ Watson. This is the most important bout of the season and a sellout crowd is predicted. Fred Atkins meets up with Bill Stack in the semi-final while Irish Tom Collins tangles with Strangler Bob Wagner in the opener.

Canadiens Earn 3-1 Win Over Maple Leafs, Boston Ties Chicago 3-3

By The Canadian Press

With all six National Hockey League clubs scheduled to make five more appearances before the season closes March 23, Thursday night's two games failed to clear up the issue of just which four are going to get into the post-season Stanley Cup play-offs. Montreal Canadiens took a firmer grip on second place with a hard-fought 3-1 victory over the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs. The win at home moved the Habs five points out in front of the Leafs while Boston Bruins gained a 3-3 tie with the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks and took over fourth place from New York Rangers by a single point.

The Canadiens have yet to clinch the second spot. The desperate Leafs—trying to escape the fate of meeting the powerful N.H.L. champion Detroit Red Wings in the first round of Cup play—could close the gap in a double weekend date against Rangers. In just the same way, Rangers could pass Boston who meet Canadiens twice.

Montreal led Leafs 1-0 at the end of the first period and stretched it to 2-0 by the finish of the middle session. Two goals—one for each club—produced the 3-1 final.

Dick Gamble, Doug Marvey and Bernie Geoffrion were the Hab scorers while Sid Smith came through for the losers.

Surprise Goal

The surprise goal of the lot was a looping 95-footer by Harvey near the end of the second period. Harvey let fly from his own side of the red line, the puck landing about 10 feet in front of the Leaf goal, taking an upward bounce and looping in. Goalie Al Rollins, playing the shot casually, fanned on the final hop.

Both teams earned the half of the 16 penalties, but there was only one fight, George Armstrong and Paul Meger tangling in the first period. Meger ended up with a shiner from one of Armstrong's lefts while both players earned a major and a minor for their troubles.

At Chicago, it was Ed Sandford who saved the day for the Bruins, banging in the tying marker early in the final period after the Black Hawks had swept into a 3-2 lead in the middle heat.

Boston took an early 2-0 lead on goals by Dave Creighton. Gus Bodnar knotted the count with two tallies for the Hawks and Jim McFadden gave the home club their brief lead late in the second session.

Flyers Whip Belleville 7-4

BELLEVILLE, March 14. — Trenton R.C.A.F. Flyers earned their way into the Trent Valley Hockey League finals here Wednesday night by defeating Glen Roy A.C. of Belleville 7-4 in the fourth game in their best-of-five series for the southern division championship.

The Flyers took the series three games to one and will meet the winner of the Marmora vs. Havelock series for the championship and the Thomas Bata Trophy.

Trailing 2-1 at the end of the first period, the Flyers took command in the second period as they outscored the locals 4-1, to take a 5-3 lead. They held a 2-1 margin in the final chapter to clinch the verdict.

Centre Len Beatch paced the winners' attack with three goals and one assist, while Bob Parnell claimed a goal and an assist. Paul Roberge, Bud Attrill and Charlie MacDonald got the others.

Timmy Williams claimed two goals and an assist for Glen Roys, while Earl Cousins and Chuck Loveless also found the mark. Brian Mulvihill drew two assists.

Hurricanes Down Port Arthur 4-1

By The Canadian Press.

Fort William Hurricanes grabbed a strangle hold on the Thunder Bay Junior A Hockey League finals Thursday night when they dropped the defending champion Port Arthur Bruins 4-1 to take a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Hurcs won the first two games and then faltered in the third. They made no mistake about it last night, however, battling all the way before 5,000 home-town fans. A wild free-for-all that broke out in the closing minutes of the game enlivened proceedings.

Alex Irving, Don Poile, Gord Stenbeck and Norm Bergland scored for the winners with Johnny Charyna garnering the lone Port Arthur tally.

Tonight, Owen Sound Mercurys—last season's Allan Cup winners—move into Stratford for the opening game of their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior A finals with the Indians.

The Mercurys gained the final by knocking off Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 4-2 while the league champion Indians scraped through 4-3 in the full seven games over Brantford Redmen.

Robinson Wins Decision Over Carl Olson

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14—(AP). — Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson successfully started his series of monthly title fights by decisively defeating Carl (Bobo) Olson of Honolulu Thursday night.

The tap-dancing master of the 160-pound division had to travel at top speed to score a 15-round decision over his younger rival.

He next defends against Rocky Graziano in Chicago April 16 and against Paddy Young in New York May 16 "if I still have the title."

Robinson, obviously tired after exchanging punches with the rugged 23-year-old Honolulu-born fighter, said he finished in good condition.

Proceeds went to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund. Robinson contributed his purse, except $1.

He said it was "as tough a battle as I ever had."

Robinson weighed 157½ pounds, Olson, 159½.

The champion was a prohibitive favorite, with odds of 1 to 10 quoted and apparently no takers.

Forces Going

But Olson exchanged punches willingly and forced the going from the seventh through the 10th rounds.

It was the 135th fight in Robinson's great ring career. He knocked out Olson in October, 1950, in 12 rounds at Philadelphia.

Robinson slipped and fell to one knee at the close of the 10th. It was not scored as a knockdown. Olson hit the champ with a low blow in the seventh but it was unintentional.

Robinson's fast finish, when he belted Olson with some stiff head punches, appeared to have Bobo slightly wobbly at the final bell.

Crippled Children To Benefit From Sports Writers' Dinner

TORONTO, March 14 (CP). — Little Timmy said thanks.

In a shaky but sincere small voice he expressed the gratitude of Ontario's crippled children to the sports world.

Some 3,000 of Ontario's crippled kids may be visited by a nurse once a week for a year, or as an alternative, 225 of them may spend a week in a summer camp.

That is the result of the first annual Ontario Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association's celebrity dinner held Thursday night. The $10,000 realized by the $25-a-plate affair was a salute from sports greats of North America to the youngsters who cannot help themselves.

The dinner—which featured beaver and venison—was the first gun in the Easter seals campaign of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

Little Timmy is a symbol of the society's unflagging fight to rehabilitate handicapped youngsters. This year he is 12-year-old Fred Atkinson of Woodstock.

Marlene Stewart, the 18-year-old from Fonthill, Ont., was presented with a plaque as the unanimous choice of the association as Ontario's outstanding athlete in 1951. The Canadian women's open golf champion blushed her thanks.

Only Women Present

Marlene and Bobbie Rosenfold, voted Canada's outstanding woman athlete of the half century in a Canadian Press poll, were the only women at the predominantly stag affair which brought out 460 sports personalities.

Jim Thorpe, the Fox Indian who was voted the outstanding all-round athlete of the half century in the United States was at the head table along with Jack Dempsey of boxing fame and Lionel Conacher, Canada's outstanding athlete of the half century.

Three members of the first National Hockey League all-star team—Bill Cook, King Clancy and Aurel Joliat—represented hockey along with Conn Smythe, Joe Malone and Newsy Lalonde, also noted in lacrosse circles.

Other world-famed sports figures attending the four-hour dinner were: Rocky Marciano, leading heavyweight boxing contender; Francis Ouimet, former American golf champion; Sandy Somerville, only Canadian ever to win both the United States amateur crown and six times Canadian golf champion; Pat Remillard and Clint Hodgins, representing the running and harness horse world and Bruce Cummings of Ottawa Rough Riders, the Big Four's most valuable player award winner. All spoke briefly.

Two others — Frank Leahy, Notre Dame football coach, and Eddie Shore, coach of Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League and one-time N.H.L. bruising defenceman — sent their regrets. They were grounded by bad flying weather.

ROSE BOWL FOR BETTY—Chosen as Canada's woman athlete of the year, Betty Hamilon here receives the Rose Bowl from Thomas Healy, M.P. Presentation was made at a banquet of Quebec Branch Women's Athletic Federation of Canada in Montreal recently. Mrs. Hamilton is holder of national and provincial fencing titles.

Bancroft In Tie

BANCROFT, March 14 (ENS)—Yanking the goal-tender and playing six men forward for the final minute gave Trenton Flyers a 6-6 tie with Bancroft Pontiacs in an exhibition hockey game here on Wednesday night. At 59.23 Turner scored to tie the contest after Cook, the R.C.A.F. netminder, was retired.

During the game a flying puck struck Mrs. Lila Severin, wife of Ireton Severin, former manager of the Bancroft team, in the face. It momentarily stunned her and made a gash that required immediate medical attention. Her glasses were not broken.

Toronto Pair Big Upset In Badminton

By AL VICKERY.

WINNIPEG, March 14 (CP).—Marge Shedd and Bill Purcell of Toronto Thursday provided the biggest upset in the Canadian badminton championships by defeating defending champions Jean Bardsley and Darryl Thompson of Vancouver in the mixed doubles.

Besides the mixed doubles upset, Thursday night's program was highlighted by the sidelining of Montreal's Gordon Simpson due to an injury.

Simpson, a member of Canada's Thomas Cup team, suffered a torn tendon in his right ankle when he fell during the first game of a quarter-final men's singles match against Ken Forsythe of Winnipeg. Simpson, who flew home after the night's matches, also defaulted his men's doubles and mixed doubles quarter-final games.

His action assured fans of seeing a new men's doubles pair crowned as he and Dick Birch of Toronto were defending their title won last year at Quebec City.

Makes Semi-Finals

Although beaten in the mixed event, Thompson smashed his way into the semi-finals of the men's singles and doubles. He came from behind in the eights against Jack Muir of Toronto to win 7-15, 15-10, 15-6 in the singles then combined with Bert Jones to won 13-15, 15-13, 15-6 in the doubles against John Carter and Jack Ewbank of Winnipeg.

The Vancouver giant goes against Forsythe in the top half of the semi-finals.

In the lower bracket are Al Williams of Calgary and Don Smythe of Toronto. Williams beat Dave McTaggart of Vancouver, 15-12, 15-10, while Smythe downed John Bouck of Vancouver, 15-6, 15-7.

Top-ranking women's singles players, with one exception, won berths in the semi-finals. They were Marge Shedd and Joan Warren of Toronto, and Marj Mapp of Montreal. The only upset winner was Clair Lovett of Vancouver, who defeated third-seeded Lois Reid, also of Vancouver. Mrs. Lovett now meets Miss Mapp.

Says Borden Wanted Canadian Gov.-Gen.

He told the Senate that Canada's First World War Conservative prime minister, Sir Robert Borden, was the man who did the spade work. The present Liberal Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, was the man who carried it out with the appointment of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, on February 28.

The Ontario Senator read extracts from Sir Robert Borden's memoirs, recounting an interview Sir Robert had with the then British prime minister, Lloyd George. At this meeting, on the request of General Botha, then prime minister of South Africa, and Gen. New Orchestra Forming At C.G.E. Plant

"I think we have a great deal of musical talent among our C.G.E. employees. All it needs is cultivating, and to be given means of expression."

So says Tom Smith, widely known in Peterborough as a concert cellist, of the prospects of the first C.G.E. orchestra which is beginning to take shape.

"I'd like to see a choral society, too. I'm sure there are lots of good voices and other abilities in that big staff. Peterborough has had several fine singing groups doing Gilbert and Sullivan and other light productions in years gone by."

Apparently Alex Milne's pipers are going to have some musical opposition at C.G.E. Social and Athletic people are interested, and that's strong backing. Wm. H. Peryer, former bandmaster, is active in recruiting instrumentalists, and the new orchestra was bound to attract Tom Smith.

Need Violinists

"But we are short of strings," he remarked today to the Examiner. "There is plenty of brass for the present, and we have the makings of woodwind section, but we need violins, and for that aid the group have decided to go outside the plant."

Taking the long view, Mr. Smith sees within a few years a steady supply of graduates of the PCVS orchestra, and by next autumn the C.G.E. group should be ready to receive some of them.

By the end of May the present season will be ended, but the groundwork will be laid for resumption in September. Any persons interested in joining are asked to see Mr. Peryer, Mr. Smith, Eric Tompkins or Bert Wardle.

Mr. Smith only hints a suspicion, a cautiously guarded phrase, that J. E. Girven might become as interested in the orchestra as Ian McRae favored the pipers.

Canada Exports 85 Per Cent Of Aluminum

A mere 15 per cent. of the aluminum produced in Canada is used in this country, S. P. Jones, sales manager for the Aluminum Company of Canada, told the city branch of the Engineering Institute Thursday night.

The rest goes in the form of exports to the United States and other countries.

Development for the future in Canada included two plants on the Peribonka River in Quebec and one on the Nechako River in British Columbia. In connection with the B.C. plant, Mr. Jones showed a color film called "Nechako Survey."

The film showed some of the preliminary work done before the building of a dam to form a reservoir whose waters would feed a power plant to operate an aluminum plant.

Named Kitimat

Townsite at the B.C. plant will be called Kitimat, and its building will parallel the town of Arvida, Que., where one of the large aluminum plants is located.

Eventually, said Mr. Jones, Kitimat will be a city of 50,000. Construction was going ahead on the dams that would enclose a chain of lakes. These lakes would become a reseryoir that will not be filled to operating level for four years after the completion of the dam.

Choir Presents 'Sunbonnet Sue' At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, March 14 (ENS) The town hall was filled to capacity for the first perfomance on Thursday evening of the operetta "The Sunbonnet Girl", put on by members of St. Andrew's United Church choir under the direction of their leader, Mrs. G. A. Spicer. Old-timers of the village said it was the first full-length operetta to be produced here since the early 1930's.

The setting of the play is the garden of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Meadows (Don Spicer and Anne Dawson). The title role of Sunbonnet Sue is sung by Yvonne Richards. She is the orphaned daughter of a famous singer. When her father also is accidentally killed she is left with a family by the name of Scroggs, who make her work very hard and allow her no advantages. As the story opens Mrs. Coleman (Mabel Spicer) president of the state federation of music clubs, has arrived to conduct a singing contest for the young people of the district. She is accompanied by her son, Bob Coleman (Fraser Carr), her daughter Barbara (Betty North) and Barbara's fiance, Jerry Jackson (Gordon Might). After hearing Sue sing the three young people are determined that she shall enter the singing contest that evening even though her guardians have forbidden her to do so. Barbara supplies a wardrobe. Sue wins the contest and is found to be an heiress as well. She becomes engaged to Bob Coleman. Comedy parts are played by Minerva Scroggs (Jean Winslow), her husband Abijah Scroggs (Mac Ingham) theid daughter Evalina (Edith Elson) who is quite sure her trills and high "C's" will win her the prize, Ezra McSpavin, (Lawrence Winslow) the village constable, his son Reuben (A.M. Butter) who fancies himself a lady killer and who with Miranda Meadows (Helen Fallis) makes a charming pair of country lovers. Village maidens also taking part in the contest Luella Lumpton and Sadie Simpkins are played by Frances Elson and Luella Kellett. The "Calico Girl" who does a solo dance is Frances Dawson. Margaret Guthrie also does a solo dance. Others taking part in choruses or square dances include: Leona Ball, Edith Clarke, Leona Fallis, Jessie Lunn, Arlynne MacPherson, Beverley Patton, Edith Sheppard, Earl Agnew and Melville McDowell.

Speaking parts were directed by Doris Ingham and Homer Ouellette was accompanist. Fiddler for the square dances was Reg. Atchison.

As well as those done by the two solo dancers there were special dance routines by Yvonne Richards and Fraser Carr; by Betty North, Gordon Might and Fraser Carr; by Jean Winslow, Edith Elson, Lawrence Winslow and Mac Ingham; and by Lawrence Winslow alone.

Miss Ellen Kent and Mr. Tom Campbell assisted the choir with stage properties and Miss Rita De Guire trained the two solo dancers.

The operetta is being repeated this evening.

Predict Record Surplus In New Brunswick Budget

By The Canadian Press

A record high surplus for the fiscal year ending March 13, 1953, is predicted by New Brunswick's Secretary - Treasurer, J. G. Boucher.

In his third budget, presented to the Legislature Thursday, Mr. Boucher estimated revenue at $46,492,094 and expenditure at $45,175,903. He said he did not anticipate any new changes in the tax structure.

A revised estimate of the surplus for the current fiscal year, ending March 31, was $1,222,468. The original estimate was $286,-451.

A C.C.F.-sponsored bill in the British Columbia Legislautre — a bill if rights—was defeated on second reading. Attorney-General Gordon Wismer spearheaded the fight against the bill. He said British Columbians have "the widest freedom" under British common law, and that by attempting to define civil rights the province would be in great danger of actually restricting freedom.

The bill, introduced by C.C.F. leader Harold Winch, called for a ban on racial and religious discrimination in employment, education, property ownership and tenancy.

To Account For Funds

The Nova Scotia Legislature ordered a highway foreman to appear before its public accounts committee to give evidence on spending of public funds. A legal controversy over the committee's powers developed when committee chairman W. H. Pipe (L., Kings) asked the House for a motion ordering Leonard Swan, of New West Annan, to appear and give evidence.

New Nova Scotia liquor commission regulations, tabled by Geoffrey Stevens, Minister in Charge of Liquor Administration, provide for licences to ralways, permitting sale of beer and wine by bottle or glass in dining cars at mealtime. Annual licence fee is $25.

The Saskatchewan Legislautre approved the government's 1952-53 budget by a vote of 28-14 following a two-week debate. Estimates now will be considered.

During the debate Thursday, Premier T. C. Douglas defended his C.C.F. government against what he called the Liberal party's "mud slinging and muckraking."

The Alberta Legislature refused to give second reading to a bill which would make membership in a proposed oil agents' association compulsory for all wholesale oil-products dealers in the province. The non-government bill, sponsored by L. C. Halmrast (S.C. Warner), is called "an act respecting the bulk oil and gas agents association."

The House adopted a motion from Attonrye-General Lucien Maynard that the bill be referred back to committee.

Health Minister Ivan Schultz announced in the Manitoba Legislature increased grants to hospitals for public ward and indigent patients amounting to not less than $100,000 and not more than $125,000 a year.

Norwegian Plans To Sail Home In Small Barrel

KELOWNA, B.C., March 14 — (CP)—A veteran of the sea, 68-year-old Peter Olsen plans to return to his Norwegian homeland this year—in a barrel.

The barrel is ready at Sydney, N.S., for Skipper Olsen, and he plans to sail sail late in June.

"I hope to make the crossing in about 35 days," he said Thursday. "I'll take some Swedish hard bread, a little butter, canned goods, about 30 gallons of water and pray for the best."

The barrel-like vessel, six feet, nine inches in diameter, was built by machinist Mark Carlton, of Windsor, who, when his plans to sail it to England failed, made a present of it to Olsen.

700-Pound Keel

It has a 700-pound keel and 250-pound rudder and a sort of stabilising scoop at the stern. There is a 29-foot mast with three sails.

Olsen is not worried about gear. He has a compass, sextant and a sea anchor.

The course he's laid off is to Newfoundland, Strait of Belle Isle, Greenland's Cape Farewell, Iceland and Norway.

Olsen left his hometown of Fredericktad 51 years ago when he was 17 and went to sea. He became a sail-maker and later was a whaler and sealer on the east coast and a cod and halibut fisherman.

Carlton built the ocean-sailing barrel some years ago. When his plans for an Atlantic voyage failed, he dismantled it and shipped it to Sydney.

Sailboats have been Olsen's care for the last two years. He is caretaker at the Kelowna Yacht Club on Lake Okanagan in this interior British Columbia town, 250 miles east of the Pacific Ocean.

Allies Lose Military Advantage In Korea

By ROBERT EUNSON

TOKYO, March 14 — (AP) — Rumors are cropping up again that the Allies are getting ready to give the Communists an "ultimatum."

"Bunk —completely ridiculous," says Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, spokesman for the United Nations truce delegation.

Since the talks began last July, there have been half-a-dozen stalemates—hopeless - appearing deadlocks where neither side seemed able to take a backward step.

The current head-on collision at Panmunjom is over two major issues:

1. The Reds want the Russians named as neutral observers to administer details of the armistice. The U.N. command delegates say no.

2. The U.N. command wants voluntary reparation for all prisoners; that is don't send anyone back unless he wants to go. The Reds want them all.

Meanwhile, 500,000 men on each side squat in foxholes along a restless front.

What Good?

Even if the Allies were considering an ultimatum, what good would it do?

The unqualified opinion of an officer in this command who knows as much about what is going on in Korea as anyone else, is that four more divisions are needed to drive the Communists back to the Yalu river.

"The advantage we held in July is lost now, unless we build up our strength," he said.

The Allies still hold the upper hand in the air But the Second World War model B-29s making the run up to Mig Alley every night aren't getting any younger.

Meanwhile, Communist supplies in Korea are mounting. This week Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters announced it was certain most of these supplies were Soviet-made.

The Reds have taken time to dig in so deeply and so well, there is no hope of smoking them out now without heavy casualties.

Need Pressure

Military pressure, meaning more casualties, has to be applied before the Communists will talk.

At least, this is the opinion of vice-admiral C. Turner Joy, chief U.N. delegate.

But suppose the U.N. command gives the Reds an ultimatum:

"Talk or else."

"Or else what?"

"Or else we'll bring over our B-36 bombers and pulverize the cities in Manchuria and China.'

"Or else we'll bring over five divisions from Europe and throw them into the Korea battleline.

"Or else we'll blockade China with the Seventh Fleet.

"Or else we'll open up on U. S. production and mould every car, washing machine and plowshare in sight into a tank or a steel nosed shell."

That, in the opinion of men out here who should know, is the only kind of ultimatum that would do any good.

Excluding that, the only thing is patience.

Use New Coal May Cut Smoke

LINDSAY, March 14.—Trying to cut down the smoke nuisance, the Public School Board has decided a new type of coal will be used by Central Public School here.

Decision was reached after a deputation of residents appeared asking that something be done. One of the residents said he had to paint his home three times in six years because of the smoke.

John Wilford, board secretary, said that if anthracite coal were used instead of bituminous, the problem would be solved, but added that the school's furnace was not adaptable to anthracite. Pocahontas coal, he said, should do the trick.

Explains Bearded Lady

PITTSBURGH, March 14 (AP) —Dr. Max L. Brodny explained how the bearded lady of the circus gets that way and said in five of eight cases cancer develops if early precautions are not taken. He told a meeting of the International College of Surgeons that tumors of the adrenal glands produce hair on women's faces. The glands are producers of hormones.

Child 2 Beaten Unconscious By Small London Children

LONDON, Ont., March 14 (CP) —A 2-year-old North London child who, police say, was beaten into unconsciousness by two other children, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday afternoon.

The little victim, Margaret Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Jackson, Northdale St., suffered head bruises and bumps and a forehead cut which required five stitches. She was admitted for observation and X-rays. Attendants said the child's injuries are not believed serious.

Police found a 5-year-old boy who told them that, with another boy, aged three, he had beaten the little girl with strips of steel.

Margaret was found by her mother, lying on one of the approaches to the dump at the west end of Victoria St. Mrs. Jackson told police the child had been missing about 20 minutes before she found her near the dump, three blocks from her home.

Police said the 5-year-old could give them no reason for the attack. The 3-year-old hasn't been questioned.

Mothers of the boys were informed of the incident and police plan further talks with the children's fathers.

Team Of Canadian Scientists Works On Hardening Of Arteries

OTTAWA, March 14 — (CP)— A team of Canadian scientists scattered across the Dominion is trying to find out the cause and treatment of hardening of the arteries.

The National Research Council's Division of Medical Research reported today on the results of some of this work which was supported last year by 11 grants from the council.

The report said it is recognized that hardening of the arteries, known as arteriosclerosis in medical parlance, may be accompanied by a desposit of a substance called cholesterol on the walls of blood vessels.

Cholestterol is a fat-like, pearly substance found in all animal fats and oils, milk, yoke of eggs and many tissues. This substance can get into the walls of arteries through the blood stream or from the surrounding tissues. When it does, the coat of the artery is thickened which can be extremely painful.

Receives Grant.

Dr. John Hamilton, formerly of Queen's University and Professor of Pathology at the University of Toronto, received a grant for his work on the effects of feeding cholesterol to animals whose blood vessels have been damaged previously.

Dr. Hamilton hopes to find out whether cholesterol is more likely to be deposited on healed persons than on the undamaged artery.

Another important piece of knowledge being sought is the effect of diet on cholesterol deposits. In this field, Dean Lyman Duff at McGill University showed that under-nourished rabbits do not resist the deposit of cholesterol in the arteries any more easily than the well-fed rabbit.

Dr. K. A. Evelyn, also of McGill, is doing work on the distribution of cholesterol in the normal and hardened arteries. Dr. C. McArthur of the University of Saskatchewan is studying the enzyme system which determines in what form cholesterol is laid down in the blood vessels.

The report said Dr. A. C. Burton of the University of Western Ontario at London, Ont., "has evidence that the blood of persons arteriosclerotic age group contains a substance like cholesterol which is thrown out of solution by contact of the blood plasmas with water."

The synthesis and metabolism of cholesterol in the animal body is being studied by Dr. E. W. McHenry at Toronto. The report said this "may throw great light on the problem of arteriosclerosis."

Northern Township People Oppose Tree Cutting Bylaw Coming Up Before Council

Probably the most controversial item on the agenda when the Peterborough County Council meet Wednesday will be the proposed bylaw for restricting and regulating the cutting of trees in the county.

Opposition to this bylaw centres in the northern townships. A heavy correspondence of "Letters to the Editor" has been received by the Examiner from that region.

Mrs. Joseph Hamilton has been circulating a petition in the northern townships, opposing the bylaw, and she will speak to the County Council at this coming March session.

The tree-cutting bylaw was introduced at the inaugural session of the County Council in January. After a couple of revisions it was laid over to the March session so the councillors could study it further and gauge the reactions of their ratepayers.

It has not yet had first reading.

Prevent Waste

Reeve Rork Ferguson of Norwood has been pressing for this bylaw for several years. Its purpose, he said, was to prevent speculators from buying property with the sole intention of shearing off all the merchantable timber and then abandoning it.

By restricting the cutting of trees until they are a specified size, the County Council hope to benefit both the individual owner and the community. It would be practising conservation, they feel.

The Hon. Harold R. Scott, minister of lands and forests, was present at the January session. He would not permit himself to be drawn into the controversy but said two important features considered by his department are: the prevention of soil erosion, and the protection of wells by maintaining the level of the water table.

The basic provisions of the proposed bylaw are these:

An owner can cut any tree at any time if the timber is going to be used on his own land.

But he must have owned the land for 10 years if he wants to sell the timber. And not more than two men are to be occupied at any time in cutting the trees.

Exceptions

The bylaw doesn't apply where the woodlot is two acres or less; where trees are dead or diseased; or where the owner wants the land cleared for cultivation.

"There has been considerable discussion in the county over the proposed bylaw," said Warden Dick Stewart who feels that many ratepayers are unacquainted with its provisions. "It was introduced because the County Council felt it was necessary to have restrictions on the cutting of trees.

"We must think not only of ourselves but of future generations; we must save our forests and timberlands for these future generations.

Asked For Bylaw

"At the December session the County Council recommended that the reforestation committee prepare a bylaw restricting the cutting of trees in Peterborough County. This was presented at the January session.

"The bylaw was not drawn up hastily. We secured copies of bylaws from four other counties—including one from Northumberland-Durham—and we also had the assistance of District Forester John Bell. It was then drafted by County Solicitor Walter Howell.

"At the January session the bylaw was presented, but after some discussion it was felt that the restrictions were too sever and might cause a hardship to certain individuals in the County. So the committee amended the bylaw.

"It was presented for the second time, but some members of council felt it was still to severe and might cause financial loss to woodlot owners who depended on sale of timber as a regular source of income.

"Finally the County Council decided to lay it over until the March session. In the meanwhile members of Council could study the bylaw at leisure and find out the reactions of the ratepayers.

Not Dictators

"We aren't trying to be dictatorial or ram anything down people's throats. But we are interested in conservation methods that will benefit both the individual and the county in general."

Following is the bylaw for restricting and regulating the cutting of trees in any part of the county: and for the appointment of officers to enforce the provisions of the bylaw:

1. This by-law shall have effect throughout the County of Peterborough, except with the area of any watershed for which an Authority is, or may be established under the Conservation Authorities Act, 1950, Revised Statutes of Ontario.

2. This By-Law shall not:

(a) Interfere with the right of the owner of land to cut trees thereon for his own use on his own land.

(b) Interfere with a landowner to cut trees on his own land, where said landowner has owned the land for at least 10 years, provided there are never more than two men occupied at any time in the cutting of the said wood.

(c) Interfere with any rights or powers conferred upon a Municipality by the Municipal Act.

(d) Interfere with the rights or powers of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario or of any other Board or Commission which is performing its functions for or on behalf of the Government of Ontario.

(e) Apply to trees growing upon any Highway or upon any unopened road allowance.

(f) Interfere with the cutting of dead, broken, stunted, fire-damaged, diseased or insect - infested trees or other trees that should be removed to improve growing conditions, (such as thinnings and improvement cuttings), on the advice of a County Conservation Officer.

(g) Interfere with the cutting of Christmas trees, except as mentioned below in 5.(b).

(h) Interfere with the cutting of Hawthorne, Choke Cherry, Red or Pin Cherry, Poplar, Ironwood or Manitoba Maple.

(i) Apply to trees growing in a woodlot having an area not exceeding two acres.

3. Save as otherwise provided in this By-Law, no person shall within the said County of Peterborough, cut any trees of less than the following minimum sizes:—

(a) For Balsam, White Birch, Black Ash, Black Locust, White Cedar, Soft Maple, Tamarack, Beech, Black Cherry and Willow trees, the minimum diameter shall be five inches (5") measured at a height of eighteen inches (18") above the ground.

(b) For Red Pine, White Spruce, Basswood, Yellow Birch, Hard Maple, Red Oak, Bur Oak, White Ash, Hemlock, White Elm, Rock Elm trees, the minimum diameter for cutting shall be twelve inches (12") measured at a height of eighteen inches (18") above the ground.

(c) For White Pine trees the minimum diameter shall be fifteen inches (15") measured at a height of eighteen inches (18") above the ground.

4. In cutting or removing any trees, no person shall so conduct his operations as to cause unnecessary injury or damage to any young trees.

5. (a) Where in the opinion of the officers appointed to enforce the provisions of this By-Law, sepcial circumstances exist which warrant the cutting of trees of less than the minimum sizes hereinbefore mentioned for example, but without limiting the generality of the foregoing, where the owner of land wishes, legitimately, to clear it for cultivation, the said officers may authorize, in writing, the cutting of such undersized trees.

(b) Where in the opinion of the officers appointed to enforce the provisions of this by-law special circumstances exist which make the unrestricted cutting of Christmas trees inadvisable, the said officers may, notwithstanding anything contained in this By-Law, restrict the cutting of Christmas trees in any area of the said County to thinnings and improvement cutting, provided that this sub-paragraph shall not apply to land on which the owner or occupant has planted young Christmas trees with the intention of raising them for future cutting as a Christmas tree crop.

(a) Names the officers who will enforce the provisions of this by-law throughout the County of Peterborough except within the area of any watershed for which an Authority so established shall have appointed officers).

(b) Any officer appointed to enforce the provision of this By-law shall have the power to enter on and inspect the trees on any land within his jurisdiction for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this By-law.

7. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this By-law shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable to a penalty of not less than Fifty Dollars ($50.00) for the first offence, and to a penalty of not less than Two Hundred Dollars ($200.00) for each succeeding offence.

Says Climate Big Lure For Capital

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—George J. Jackson, vice-president of sales and advertising, Ford of Canada, said Thursday night that "climate" is the magnet that attracted industry.

"No matter what else you may have to offer . . . you cannot attract and hold that elusive thing called 'capital' unless you can provide it with a healthy climate in which to live," he said in an address prepared for delivery at the closing dinner of the third Ontario Industrial Promotion Conference. His audience included mayors and reeves, industrial committees of municipal councils, and representatives of planning boards.

"Climate," Mr. Jackson said, includes several things:

A citizenship with respect for law; efficient and sincere civic administration; a co-operative attitude towards industry; municipal and provincial laws not 'loaded' against industry and a high degree of responsibility on the part of organized labor that disdains a reckless show of power, that is determined to live up to bargains made with employers.

"Buildings and facilities may serve as temporary restraints, but never as permanent bonds," he said. "If the climate in one place gets too unhealthy, capital may move to a more attractive place . . ."

He told his audience that if they were endeavouring to attract new industries or to hold those they already have, they should test their climates.

Adjudicator Criticizes Choice Of Play

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—Adjudicator Pierre LeFevre said Thursday night that the play the York Players chose—"The Green Bay Tree"—as their entry in the Central Ontario Drama Festival presented a tremendous challenge to the actors and required in its leading role an actor of known personality.

He said Bob Peace, as the sybaritic young man of the play, failed to convince the audience of his plight, that of being torn between the luxury offered by his adopted father and the realities of life with his girl.

Mr. LeFevre complimented the group on its sound effects and scenery and lighting, but returned to his main objection—the choice of the play. He described it as "a difficult pill to swallow."

The bylaw to restrict and regulate the cutting of trees in Peterborough county was discussed, and it was unanimously decided to instruct the reeve to support this bylaw.

The municipal rate for 1952 was set as follows: roads, seven mills; relief, one mill; municipal purposes, four mills; making a total of 12 mills which is a reduction of three mills from last year's levy of 15 mills.

The following accounts were ordered paid: road voucher No. 2, $1,279.00; relief, $51.49; relief officer's salary and mileage, $5.00.

Able To Conduct Private Practice

People who are suffering from the effects of polio, or have broken an arm and suffer from arthritis are getting help from physiotherapists in Peterborough and all across Canada.

Almost all of these physiotherapists work in hospitals using a large variety of equipment and their knowledge of anatomy and physiology to help patients. They are members of the Canadian Physiotherapy Association and can not have a private practice.

But a few, such as Bruce McIntyre of Peterborough have passed additional examinations and are licensed under the Ontario Drugless Practioners' Act to carry on a private practice in their own offices.

Mr. McIntrye had extensive experience in the Canadian Army during the Second World War and in Europe with the approval of the Medical Corps physiotherapy clinics to help wounded and injured soldiers back to normal use of their arms and legs.

Flood Threat Faces Dakota

WASHINGTON, March 14 (AP)—The United States Geological Survey says South Dakota faces a "major flood threat" when spring thaws cause a break-up in river ice.

Snow-cover in New England ranges from near normal to record amounts in the Pemigewasset river basin, it added in its February water-resources review.

Excessive run-off of water prevailed over much of Canada and the Northern United States east of the Great Plains. Ground-water levels were also seasonally high.

Run-off in South Dakota rivers was excessive in early February and ice went out at most points on major rivers, but by the end of the month they were all frozen over again with a fairly heavy cover of slushy ice and snow.

"The presence of this ice in the river channels," it said, "together with a very heavy snow cover over most of the eastern two-thirds of the state, presents a major flood threat for the break-up period in South Dakota."

Ask Increased Aid For Indo-China

WASHINGTON, March 14 (AP)—Robert Lovett, United States secretary of defence, called on Congress Thursday to vote "a substantial increase in military assistance to Indo-China."

He said it is essential that the U.S. step up aid to France in Indo-China because that is in "the security interests of the free world."

Lovett prepared his statement for the start of the hearings on President Truman's $7,900,000,000 foreign-aid program. Many Congressmen have called for a sharp cut in foreign spending.

Lovett also urged funds to continue building up "the Nationalist Chinese forces on Formosa." He said "our objective is to insure the integrity of that island."

Mystery Disease Striking In Hospitals

WINNIPEG, March 14—(CP)—A mystery disease striking women in maternity wards and leaving them with breast abscesses is deflying "complete solution", Health Minister Ivan Schultz said Wednesday in the Manitoba Legislature.

The disease broke out in Winnipeg about three years ago and spread to the east.

Mr. Schultz said the government brought a specialist from the east to aid in research.

Co-operation of doctors and other medical personnel was asked because it was "felt quite possible the disease was carried from one hospital to another by a doctor".

Mr. Schultz said he would give a "fuller report" later.

Resorts Report Heavy Bookings

By E. S. JOHNSON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 14 — (CP) — British summer resorts, hard hit in recent years, are preparing for one of their busiest and most profitable seasons, following the government's imposition of a £25 maximum allowance restriction on tourists planning holidays abroad.

Since R. A. Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced the cut as a major currency-saver, thousands of inquiries have poured into domestic booking agencies about accommodation prospects at seaside and inland pleasure resorts. Surveys show that people are giving consideration to their vacations much earlier than usual and with greater care and determination.

The restriction means that plans for extended, currency-consuming tours will have to be revised. Less time will be available to those who had been counting on a holiday "blow-out" on the continent.

S. B. Till, president of the Brighton and Hove Hotel and Restaurant Association, said the reduction in foreign travel allowance, came like the declaration of a dividend to Britain's many holiday centres.

There are also indications that London is in for a record influx of country visitors, bent on re-discovering the attractions of their own capital. Through the daily press they are being told to reflect on the diverse pleasures nearer home.

Representatives of the principal travel agencies say there has been no abnormal run of cancellations of continental bookings. Most of the seven and 10-day holiday tours, they report, will not be affected by the allowance cut. And many hotels in continental tourist centres have already announced their intention to cancel or reduce their peak-season supplementary charges.

Woman Editor Refuses Social Security Tax

SUMMIT, Miss., March 14 (AP) Mrs. Mary D. Cain, newspaper editor, Thursday refused to pay her social-security tax, closed out her bank account and dared Treasury Secretary John Snyder to "pop your whip" and jail her.

"To force me to pay this outrageous demand you must either confiscate my business or put me in prison," Mrs. Cain, editor and owner of the weekly Summit Sun, wrote Snyder. "I hope you choose the latter course. This is a test case in the matter of paying this thing."

Last year the government attached bank accounts of several Texas housewives who refused to pay social security on domestic help.

Denies Officials Told To Resign

TORONTO, March 14 (CP) — Attorney-General Porter Thursday termed "misinformed" a report that Health Minister Phillips had telephoned Dr. P. J. G. Phillips, superintendent of East Windsor Hospital, and Mrs. Madeline Campbell, supervisor of nurses, to advise them to vacate their posts.

Mr. Porter made the statement in the Ontario Legislature in reply to a question by Opposition leader Farquhar Oliver during second reading of a governmental bill which will permit an investigation of East Windsor Hospital. The Bill passed second reading—approval in principle.

Mr. Porter said that no member of his department or the Health department has communicated with any member of the board or staff of the hospital, except the chairman of the hospital board who laid a complaint.

Questions Powers

Mr. Oliver also questioned the general application of the bill, which will permit the government to appoint a Royal Commissioner to investigate any hospital, sanatorium, charitable institution or other organization receiving provincial grants.

The Opposition leader said it was "unusual" to present a bill with such a wide application to deal with a particular problem.

Mr. Porter said the situation at East Windsor Hospital "brought the question to a head," but the government had previously realized the need of legislation to permit such an investigation.

Pearson's Feud With CCF Given New Instalment

OTTAWA, March 14 (CP). — A vigorous, developing feud between External Affairs Minister Pearson and the C.C.F. party moved through another instalment in the Commons Thursday.

Mr. Pearson stepped into the throne speech debate to deny C.C.F. assertions that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, of which he is chairman, is dominated by the military and is embarking on a defence program which will wreck the economies of western Europe.

His speech, with its complex background, took the spotlight from other addresses in the debate.

It was another chapter in a battle that harks back to a C.C.F. council statement issued nearly two weeks ago which described military goals adopted at the recent N.A.T.O. meeting in Lisbon as "irresponsible" and "disastrous" — irresponsible because they were impossible to achieve and disastrous because they could break the economies of free Europe.

Sequence of Events

This sequence of events developed from that statement:

Tuesday night, Mr. Pearson criticized the C.C.F. statement in a political broadcast, carried over the C.B.C., accusing the C.C.F. of giving comfort to Russia by "irresponsibly" advocating cutbacks in the rearmament targets.

It was "sad," the Minister said in the broadcast, to see that the C.C.F. seemed to be moving towards the Communist view that the Atlantic Alliance is an aggressive coalition.

Wednesday, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, rose in the Commons to say that he "deeply" resented Mr. Pearson's "deliberate smears" and "slanders" against him and his party. As a life-long opponent of the Red doctrine, he did not need to "defend myself against the charge of Communism."

But it has become apparent, he said, "on this continent that constructive criticism demanded by the military leaders of N.A.T.O. is invariably criticized as Communist propaganda." Even the Times of London and other responsible British journals had voiced editorial criticism of the N.A.T.O. program.

Then, pointing to a N.A.T.O. statement that Europe's defensive power is being "increased," he challenged Mr. Pearson's statement that the N.A.T.O. goal —50 divisions in being by the end of this year and 90 to 100 by the end of 1953—represents a decrease, not an increase.

Mr. Pearson replied Thursday he denied that the military dominates N.A.T.O. and said that Canada would not be among the 14-country membership, if that was so.

He denied, too, that he had accused either Mr. Coldwell or the C.C.F. of being Communist or was attempting to prevent anyone from expressing an honest opinion. That assertion merely "throws a smoke screen around the real issue."

Real Danger

The "real danger" he sugested, is that the C.C.F. statement will play into the hands of Communist propaganda.

N.A.T.O. had known all along that a stage would come in its defence build-up when the danger from the Soviet "might appear to be slackening," when there would be a "very real temptation to let down our efforts." That temptation now might be "difficult to resist" in this country as a result of the C.C.F. statement.

As for the C.C.F.'s assertion that the N.A.T.O. targets are impossible, the governments represented at Lisbon did not agree that they were incapable of being reached, though they admitted it might be difficult to reach them and felt every effort should be made.

Defends Statement

Mr. Pearson defended the accuracy of his statement that the targets were a decrease. They were down from the goals of last year, but he could not name the 1951 totals because they were still secret.

The military forces were being increased, "that is something very different from increasing our program."

Mr. Pearson warned that, though international tension has eased, N.A.T.O. will face "difficult" days ahead. If the defensive effort was slackened, "then indeed we will have something to worry about and this whole inspiring concept of a coalition for peace may come tumbling to the ground."

"If that happens, then very shortly we certainly will have again the atmosphere of crisis and fear, almost of agony, from which I think we are slowly but steadily emerging."

The last word came from Alistair Stewart (CCF - Winnipeg North), who followed Mr. Pearson.

Urges Economic Aid

He suggested the western nations could not defend themselves by "smashing" the economies of Europe. The most important help that could be given to Europe was economic aid.

He said the C.C.F. was not withdrawing support of N.A.T.O., but did not want to see the alliance imperilled by policies which it believed to be wrong. It did not think western Europe could support a defence program of the size contemplated.

A dozen speakers took part in the debate, which roamed over immigration, natural resources, redistribution of parliamentary seats and other topics.

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra) and Trade Minister Howe clashed over a charge by Mr. Green that the minister favored sending Alberta oil and gas to the United States rather than to British Columbia.

Mr. Howe challenged him to prove the statement and termed it a "deliberate misstatement".

The clash came as Mr. Green called for a "Canada-first" policy in the development of natural resources and urged that secondary industries, with their managements, be brought from Britain and established near the sources of raw materials and food.

Hon. C. G. Power (L—Quebec South) urged the government to undertake a study immediately of new methods to redistribute parliamentary representation. Under a bill now before the house, Commons representation will be redistributed on the basis of the 1951 census.

Acute Fever Cases

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—Cases of acute hemmorrhagic fever among Canadian soldiers in Korea are being repatriated to Canada, an article in the current issue of Treatment Services Bulletin says. In the article Lt.-Col. A. F. Nancekivell, officer in charge of medicine at Sunnybrook Hospital said that exact number of cases has not been revealed for security reasons.

Wins Acquittal

CHATHAM, March 14—(CP)—Sol Harris was acquitted Thursday of a manslaughter charge arising out of the death of his housekeeper Mrs. Jeannie Miller, Jan. 20 by a Supreme Court jury. The jury reached its verdict after a one-hour deliberation at the end of the three-day trial.

Quash Conviction

TORONTO, March 14 (CP)—William Azzopardi, Kitchener butcher sentenced to one year for possession of five stolen cattle, Thursday had his conviction quashed by the Ontario Court of Appeals. The ruling said there was nothing in the conviction records to show who owned the cattle.

BREAK THE LAXATIVE HABIT THIS PROVEN WAY

If you take laxatives regularly, here is how you can stop! This proven plan helps you establish your natural powers of regularity, controlled tests prove.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead, every night for one week take two Carter's Little Liver Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then nothing! Every day drink eight glasses of water; set a definite time for regularity. This plan was proven in scientifically controlled tests.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's unblock the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers. Further, Carter's contain no habit forming drugs. Break the laxative habit with Carter's . . . be regular naturally.

Get mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drug store. Only 35c. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

Rides 137 Miles On Outside Of Fast Flyer

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., March 14 (AP)—A 13-year-old boy rode 137 miles through a snow storm Thursday on the outside of a speeding passenger train. The boy, Duane Enright of Grand Island was taken to a hospital where a physician reported he was suffering only from exposure and his condition was "fine."

Railroad men said the train, the Union Pacific streamliner City of Portland, covered the 137 miles from Grand Island to North Platte in an hour and 45 minutes at speeds up to 90 miles an hour.

Duane said he rode between the two cars of the speeding train holding on to bars attached to the cars. His arms didn't get tired, he said, but he thought the swaying cars would tip over.

Duane said he prepared himself for the trip by putting on an extra shirt, extra pants and an extra pair of socks. He said he was on his way to San Francisco to get a job.

Buy Less Tobacco

LONDON, March 14—(Reuters)—Dollar-short Britain will buy much less North American tobacco in 1952 than in 1951, Trade Minister Peter Thorneycroft said Thursday in the House of Commons. He gave no figure but said he could give an assurance the cut would not fall proportionately more heavily on Canada than on the U.S.

Decide School Boy Will Stand Trial

TORONTO, March 14 (CP).—Ivor Hickman, 16-year-old school boy, Thursday was committed for trial on a charge of attempted murder in connection with the hunting knife stabbing Jan. 18 of Carol Haddock, 15.

Carol has recovered from the three-inch wound she received in the school yard of a city collegiate. She testified Thursday that she had received notes from Hickman telling about knives. She said he had kicked and beaten her and that while running away from him she knew she had been stabbed when she "felt a thump" in her back.

Study Promotion

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—More than 200 industrial commissioners, members of municipal councils, Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce and representatives of railway and bank promotion departments Thursday studied municipal industrial promotion at the third annual Ontario Industrial Promotion Conference. FRACTURES WRIST

Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor 75, of Curve Lake was taken to hospital in Peterborough Thursday evening after she fractured her right wrist in the afternoon.

WITH JUNIOR FARMERS

Wilson Gemmell of the Royal Bank will be the speaker on the subject of urban-rural relations at the meeting of Peterborough Junior Farmers Tuesday Mar. 18 at the Normal School at 8:30 p.m.

SPOKE AT BELLEVIILE

Robert F. DeGrace, of Peterborough, engineer with Timber Structures of Canada, was the speaker at the monthly meeting Tuesday of the Belleville Builders Exchange. His subject was "Laminated Wood and Wood Trusses".

NEW ASSESSMENT PLAN

"The present allocation of revenue is wholly inadequate and the system of assessment outmoded for today's economy," is a quotation from Sarnia Chamber of Commerce review and survey to the city council. H. G. Burley, formerly of Peterborough is head of the Chamber.

"PREPOSTEROUS" SAYS MAYOR

Mayor Charlotte Whitton, a facile lady with the quick quip, says Ottawa's coat-of-arms has everything but the kitchen sink. Council appointed a special committee to bring the symbolism into line with the strict traditions of true armorial bearing.

SANDY SIDEWALKS

Not seriously perhaps, St. Thomas council toyed the other night with the idea that it might be cheaper to pay more insurance instead of sanding sidewalks in winter. City Engineer Miller said he was content to toss out the sand buckets, but quoting personal experience he had paid $1,500 for injuries suffered by his wife in a fall on an icy sidewalk.

MENTIONED IN BROADCAST

A modest feeling of distinction among Ontario groups was felt by the members of Springville Forum in their meeting at the home of Mr. Walter Brown and Miss Annie Brown in the news that their opinions were singled out for mention in a recent broadcast. Mrs. M. H. Johnston arranged two contests, one on poets and the other on names of islands. Refreshments were served by the hostess with appreciation expressed by Mr. J. Cook.

GOLD EAGLE TRAPPED

An adult female Gold Eagle was accidentally caught in a trap of Oscar Phillips' traplines in Tudor township, Tweed district, a few days ago. It was examined by a department biologist who reported the specimen in splendid condition. It weighed 12 pounds, had a wing span of seven feet, two inches, and its crop was filled with meat and traces of hair, apparently deer's, which suggested that the bird had been feeding on carrion.

Labor Board Denies UE Application Blasts Methods

The Ontario Labor Relations Board have thrown out an application of Local 527 United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America to be the certified bargaining agents for 321 DeLaval Co. production workers. In rejecting the application the Board uses unparalleled critical language. A written judgment, signed by Chairman P. M. Draper, says: "The applicant, to judge by the artifices it has employed in this case, would make a farce of the certification procedure. The purpose of such deception and misrepresentation as are found here can only be to make a mockery of the Board's efforts to satisfy itself as to the right of an applicant to certification. It is not too much to say that the applicant's conduct reveals a completely cynical approach to the legislation."

"We shall refuse to accept the evidence of membership filed by the applicant", said the Board.

The refusal of the Board to certify the UE and the resulting strong language are the upshot of a two-year campaign by the UE to be the bargaining agent at De Laval.

Centres On Fees

The attack on the UE centres on the initiation fees paid by De Laval employees to the union. When the first campaign was launched in June, 1950, the UE promised to return the initiation fees to the employees "if the organizational drive fails".

The UE, in fact, found that it did not have the required 45 per cent of the eligible employees and voluntarily withdrew their application.

"The evidence before the Board with reference to the payment of initiation fees to the applicant . . discloses one of the most determinedly dishonest schemes for procuring the evidence necessary to support an application for certification that has come to our notice", the judgment says.

This is the Board's version of what happened after the UE voluntarily withdrew their first application:

Fresh Application

"The application's primary purpose, we are now told, was to return the payments made a year earlier . . This disingenuous explanation is controverted by the evidence. The applicant launched a campaign to obtain a fresh application for membership from each person who had previously signed an application."

To induce re-application the U.E. offered return of $1 of the $2 held by the union, the board charged.

Had Money, Forms

"Union representatives in the plant were provided with sums of money and with applications for membership to which they were to endeavor to secure signatures. Telephone calls were also made from the applicant's office inviting 'members' to go there, sign applications and receive $1. Those who did sign were given $1 in cash and a fresh receipt for the $1 that remained in the hands of the applicant.

"It is noteworthy that representatives of the applicant, called by it to give testimony, were of the opinion that if the applicant failed on the present application, the employees would be entitled to the return of the $1 still in the union's possession."

The Board said they were satis-

C-O-L Stalls Agreement With Firemen

City council's decision some weeks ago not to incorporate cost of living bonus in basic pay stood out as a barrier to immediate settlement Thursday night of the salary schedule this year of the Fire Fighters' Association. The offer of the council in committee of the whole with Mayor Waddell presiding was the present basic salary, which for first class firemen is $2,800 a year, plus 18 per cent across the board retroactive from Jan. 1, last, amounting to $3,304; plus 55 cents a week for every two point rise in the cost of living index above 191.5 points; but in the event of a decline in the cost of living bonus there would be a decrease of one per cent from the basic pay for each point drop in the cost of living bonus.

The phrase "across the board" means the various ratings or classification of firemen, the first class salary being selected for convenience in negotiation.

The delegation from the association, with President Henry Nokes as spokesman, announced that they were prepared to accept $532 increase in their basic pay and dispense with the cost-of-living bonus. That amounted to $3,332 for a first class fireman, as compared with the $3,304 offered by the council's committee.

"We are willing to take a gamble on the cost of living," Mr. Nokes said.

Not Far Apart

"We are not far apart in the take home pay," Mayor Waddell remarked.

But, the council's resolution was in the records, and Ald. T. D. Miller said: "I'm not going to suport any departure from it, but I'll support a reasonable cost-of-living bonus having regard to what we have been paying."

At opposite ends of the table in the main committee room, Mr. Nokes matched the amiability of Mayor Waddell. From those polar positions there was no raising of either voice as the discussion continued until nearly 11 o'clock, with several interruptions for separate conference on points raised in the course of negotiation.

Finally, Mr. Nokes asked the committee whether they would accept an alternative of $350 added to the basic salary, or $3,150 for a first class fireman, plus $200 across the board for cost of living, and 40 cents a week up or down with the cost of living from the index of 191.5.

Board Of Education Lops $3,975 Off Budget For '52

After an hour's deliberation Thursday night the Board of Education lopped $3,975 off their 1952 budget. But this still left their municipal levy at a record high—$711,938. The actual increase to the ratepayers is $144,451 for a 3.4 mill increase on the current account over 1951.

In line with other municipal bodies the Board agreed Wednesday night to try and scale down their budget and thus help reduce the 1952 tax rate which may run as high as 66 mills.

Stanley R. Adamson chairman of finance introduced several suggestions for cuts and after some discussion they were accepted.

Wages Fixed

"Our difficulty is that we have only 14 per cent of the estimated expenditure in which we can make cuts," said Mr. Adamson. "The 1952 wage payments represent 86 per cent of the entire estimates of the Board."

Mr. Adamson said the finance committee proposed an expenditure of $1,037,140 in 1952, which is $186,703 more than was spent in 1951 or an increase of 22 per cent.

The $186,703 is the increase in the amount of money that will be spent by the Board. Not all of this will have to be raised by the ratepayers. A surplus from last year and other carry-over items (included as a bookkeeping entry in receipts) reduce the extra levy to $144,451.

This is a 3.4 mill increase on the Board of Education rates. The saving of $3,975 reduced the rate .02 mills from the original estimates.

Raise of 4.4 Mills

Altogether the Board's increase for 1952 is 4.4 mills. And that is the Board's share of the 10.5 mill increase this year which it is estimated that city ratepayers will have to find.

(A mill raises about $40,000 on the assessment for public school supporters.)

Economies were effected by eliminating $875 of equipment for P.C.V.S. These were a $500 projector a $150 vacuum machine and a $225 adding machine.

Another $2,400 was squeezed out of the budget by lowering the estimate on the amount of money required for paying the cost-of-living bonus to Board of Education employees. This means that the Board is "gambling" that the cost-of-living will not go up as high as they originally made provision for. This works out to a reduction of $10 per employee.

(The C-O-L bonus of the employee will not be affected by this change in the estimates. But the Board takes an extra chance of having an over-expenditure at the end of the year if the cost-of-living goes higher than anticipated.)

Three Economies

Three economies were made in public school accounts. The estimate for school supplies were slashed $100; and home economics another $100. From a $10,000 estimate on the amount of money needed for property repairs the Board slashed $500.

None of the trustees wanted to make any deeper cuts in this estimate.

"It seems to me that $9,000 is a pretty small amount to spend on the upkeep of the schools," said G. Wilson Craw, chairman of accommodation. "It's a particularly small amount in view of the cost of things today."

Mr. Adamson said the increased expenditure in 1952 included an extra $150,832 for wages, C-O-L bonus and other payments to employees. Increases in all other types of expenditure are estimated at $35,871.

Wage Bill

The total wage bill this year is estimated at $885,400. In 1951 it was $744,588 and in 1950, $640,484, said Mr. Adamson. Thus the 1952 wage demands are 21 per cent greater than in 1951 and 40 per cent greater than in 1950.

These wage payments are 86 per cent of the estimates, Mr. Adamson said.

"Of course, it must be noted the increase in wage payments does not relate entirely to an increased level of wage payments, but also reflects the growth of the school system . . ."

Some figures:

"In the last three years the number of employees has increased from 223 to a prospective 246 in 1952. The increase has been largely in the teaching staff which has been necessary to meet the growth in the public school enrolment from 3,985 at the begin-

Winner At Hialeah

A former Peterborough girl on a vacation trip to Florida with her husband wrote home that they went the other day to Hialeah Park. "I didn't know anything about the horses, and the only name in the whole list that appealed to me was Apsley. I bought a $2 ticket on it, and Apsley finished in front at six to one, for a profit of $10. Peterborough county luck had a long arm for me that day."

Distemper Hits City Dogs, 37 Destroyed

Distemper is taking its annual toll among dogs in the city.

The disease, which strikes every year about this time can be prevented by inoculation. Once it gets to the advanced stages however, about 60 per cent of all dogs stricken die.

Since March 1, Humane Society Inspector Bruce Menzies says he has destroyed 37 dogs suffering from distemper. Most of them were strays, Mr. Menzies said today, but several have been destroyed at the request of their owners.

Symptons

Dr. Harry Hamilton said that the disease can be stopped if it is discovered in time. The first few days, the dog is listless, and runs a high temperature. Then, for the next four or five days, its eyes and nose start running and there is frequent vomiting.

It is then that most people bring their pets to a veterinarian, Dr. Hamilton said but it is usually too late to do much but let the disease take its course when it has gone this far.

Stray dogs are the carriers, Dr. Hamilton pointed out, and since there is no regulation, requiring that all dogs be inoculated, there is little that can be done to check the spread of the scourge.

Best Protection

The best way to protect your pet would seem to be, get him inoculated. If he has not been inoculated, better take him to the vet, as soon as he shows signs of being listless and lazy. If you take him to an animal doctor as soon as you see he is not feeling up to par, the disease can be cured.

While the disease is prevalent, it would also be a good idea to see that he does not strike up new acquaintances with transient canines. That shaggy mongrel in the backyard may be a carrier. When he is around, keep "Fido" on the leash, or notify the Humane Society and have the stray picked up.

Police Commission Asks Council For Public Enquiry Into Case Of Fred Brant

Police Chief Makes Report To Commission At Closed Meeting; Brant's Toe Treated First Time In Jail

After meeting behind closed doors for 35 minutes Thursday afternoon, the Police Commission asked council for a public enquiry into the Fred Brant case. The press was asked to leave the meeting when Chief Constable John Thompson submitted a report on the Lindsay man who is recovering from frostbite which has claimed part of both his feet.

"In view of the publicity we have all received in the local press in regard to the Fred Brant case," said Magistrate W. R. Philp, "it might be as well if their representative were asked to leave while it (the report) is read. He may be invited to return after we have discussed it in his presence or absence, as the case may be," added Magistrate Philp, the Police Commission chairman.

Mayor Hugh Waddell agreed, and Magistrate Philp asked the Examiner reporter to leave.

The report which Chief Thompson submitted apparently threw new light on the background and treatment of Brant, because after the commission discussed the report in camera, Chief Thompson came into the corridor and invited the reporter to return to the conference room.

Immediately, Magistrate Philp began reading the following motion:

Investigation Under Act

"It is moved that we request the council of the city of Peterborough to cause an investigation to be made under Section 258 of the Municipal Act, of all matters touching the imprisonment, release, and record of Fred Brant, in recent cases in police court arising out of charges of vagrancy."

The action, as seconded by Mayor Waddell, would have read, an investigation "into the treatment afforded Fred Brant," but as Magistrate Philp reached this point, commission secretary E. A. Outram interrupted to suggest the wording which was finally read into the motion.

The investigation will be carried out in accordance with the Public Enquiries Act, if council decides to go ahead with the Police Commission's request.

After passing the motion, the commission declined to reveal any of the contents of the new report to The Examiner.

Just before the meeting adjourned, Magistrate Philp was asked if there was anything in the report the commission would release for publication.

Magistrate Philp replied, "nothing," and the meeting adjourned.

Reports were current around the Police Department Thursday afternoon that new information on the case had been discovered.

The special report on Brant prepared by Detective Sergeant William Clarke last week threw no light an his whereabouts for five days between January 24 and January 30.

Five Blank Days

These five days are a blank as far as any official records of Brant's whereabouts are concerned. It is known that he wandered around the city for a few days before he was first

Mental Health Unit Set Up For Counties

COBOURG, March 14 (ENS)—A mental health clinic to serve Northumberland and Durham Counties has been set up with headquarters in the health unit office here.

Initiated by the counties health unit, the mental health clinic will be held on the second Thursday of each month from 1.30 to 4.00 p.m. Consultations are by appointment and the cases are examined at the clinic only upon reference by a practising physician. However a court order will also be sufficient to obtain the services of the mental health clinic.

Commends Clinic

"I am very glad that the mental health clinic has been established," commented Crown Attorney Harry Deyman. "There are instances where an accused, a young person for instance, has shown himself to be a deviate.

"The magistrate is faced with a problem because he is better able to arrive at a disposition of the case when he satisfies himself as to the mental status of the accused. Instead of having him sent to Whitby for mental observation he can remand him out of custody for examination at the mental health clinic in Cobourg."

Dr. S. G. Ghalk superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, Cobourg, is the psychiatric consultant and his services have been made available by the Mental Hospitals Division of the Ontario Dept. of Health. A graduate of the University of Western Ontario, Dr. Ghalk is a well-known psychiatrist of wide experience. He saw service with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in the First World War and was a senior medical officer in the R.C.A.F. in the last war. Following a mental examination of a patient, the health unit sends the report to the family doctor who referred the case.

Members of the Health Unit feel that the prevention of mental illness has assumed increasing importance in Canada during recent years. It is felt that this service will be of assistance in aiding the practising physicians in the early diagnosis of cases of emotional and mental stress, and in preventing the development of conditions which might handicap either children or adults in their daily lives.

Warble Fly Campaign Meeting Friday, March 21 . . . Shorthorn Sales at Blackstock and Lindsay Next Week . . . Northumberland Poultry Producers Defer Marketing Scheme Action . . . Holstein Prices "Excellent" at Todmorden Holstein Herd Dispersal . . .

The second spring campaign against the warble fly in the southern townships of Peterborough will be organized at the meeting next Friday, March 21 at 2 p.m. in the office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

R. H. Graham of the livestock branch is coming from Toronto to talk with the municipal representatives, their spraying operators and others.

The response a year ago by Peterborough farmers, followed by action through the municipal councils was so determined that the first sprayings have taken a big toll of warbles.

Mr. Graham will likely stress the importance of doing another good spraying job this year, and probably mention the advantage of extending the area of action.

Letters are probably going from Mr. Graham to the township representatives urging them to attend this meeting.

SEES 215 PROSPECTS

R. E. Bell, assistant agricultural representative, has a list of 215 potential club members. Actual enrolment so far is 48. However, the season is still young, and organization meetings have so far been only for the grain club, Lakehurst forestry and senior forage youths.

$5,500 IN GRANTS

Middlesex county council has passed grants for agricultural projects amounting to $5,500. Junior works draws the largest, $1,400. Council also granted $3,000 to the county Crop Improvement Association "to do over" a farm that is to be chosen for analysis of practices and economy of operation, followed by reorganization of its agricultural system.

EXPORT OUTLETS

On this week's subject "Customers Abroad", Dairy D Forum in Asphodel, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Knox, expressed a hope of retaining a broad place in the British market, as circumstances permit, and also recognized opportunity in the increasingly populous United States.

They decided as reported by their secretary, Mrs. Stanley Andrews, that: "At present Britain's market is surer than the U.S. due to the fact that they do not produce enough agricultural products at home, and although their market prices are not so attractive as the States, they have been very steady." That was a tribute to an old customer.

"On the other hand, if the States population is increasing so rapidly, would not the U.S. be the best long term market in the end! To maintain our British market we should increase our imports of manufactured goods. It was also agreed that farmers should advertise more, and stress the superior types of all commodities for export."

Eighteen members were present, and Robert Bell, assistant agricultural representative, was the Forum guest. He led the evening's discussion and also spoke about the hoof and mouth disease and its effect at this time on exports to the U.S.

Lunch followed a choral period with Clara Telford at the piano and Mary Knox and Mr. Bell alternating as leaders.

BUS TO WOODSTOCK

Northumberland farmers are planning a bus trip as far as Woodstock, March 22. They will be on the road from 6 a.m. to 12 midnight. Their first stop will be at the farm of Osborne Sager, St. George. After a call at Sheffield Farms at the same place, they are going on to Woodstock to visit Douglas Hart and the cattle-breeding unit. Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative, is in charge of the trip.

TRIP TO KINGSTON

Hastings county Holstein breeders are planning to be home in time for chores from their trip to Kingston, Monday, March 31. Their bus leave Trenton at 7.10 a.m., and makes a circuit up to Stirling and Madoc, then by Halloway and Foxboro to Belleville. They arrive at the noted Strathaven farm of James Henderson at Portsmouth by 10.45 and after lunch they are bound for the Penitentiary Farm, where Ben Clarke, director for Eastern Ontario, is herdsman. The club has accommodation for 40. Max Burnside is president.

ADVICE 3700 YEARS AGO

When an agronomist in 1750 B.C. said he was writing articles "on soil" he meant it literally. According to "Extension Service News," a publication of the extension service at Ohio State University, American archeologists in Iraq have unearthed a farm bulletin printed on clay tablets. It is dated around 1750 B.C. and is the oldest bulletin ever found.

The bulletin advised ancient farmers to "keep an eye on the man who puts in the seed. Have him put the seed in two fingers deep, uniformly." Farmers were also advised to say a prayer to the goddess of field mice and other vermin on the day when seedlings came through the ground, There was also caution lest the grain bend under its own weight at harvest time.

One bit of advice, good in 1952 is: "Cut it at the right moment."

SIMPLE MOISTURE TEST

The moisture content of forage crops to be brought in from the field for either barn cured hay or grass silage is an important factor in obtaining high quality and safe storage. Hay for barn curing should be drawn into the barn at 40 to 45 per cent moisture, and grasses and legumes for silage should be put into the silo at from 65 to 70 per cent moisture.

In order to rapidly determine the moisture content of forage in the field, a forage crop moisture tester has been developed as an inexpensive, readily assembled apparatus by two members of the staff of the Department of Agricultural Engineering at the Ontario Agricultural College. The tester has been designed for use with any tractor. The heat from the tractor exhaust removes the moisture from the sample, and the loss in weight, due to the removal of moisture, permits the determination of the original moisture percentage.

Copies of a circular entitled "Forage Crop Moisture Tester," which describes the construction and use of such a tester, may be obtained from the office of your local agricultural representative, or directly from the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Consignors are: Armstrong Bros, Janetville, (3); Clarence Duggan, Brechin; Ross Flett, Oakwood; Lloyd Fowler, Woodville; Innes Brothers, Blackwater; Milton Jenkins (5), Little Britain; Mr. and Mrs. Cairns Lee, Omemee; John Sims, Cameron; Cecil Westlake, Beaverton.

Fourteen consigning breeds are represented at Blackstock, Wednesday, March 19. Among them are W. F. Rickard & Son, Newcastle; R. Richardson & Son, Ashburn; Carl J. Wright, Blackstock; E. F. R. Osborne, Newcastle; Garnet Rickard, Bowmanville; A. W. Wright, Nestleton; Baker Farms; C. H. Mumford, Hampton, and Beath Farms, Oshawa.

FIRM HOLSTEIN PRICES

"The excellent average of $471 at the dispersal sale of the Edgehill Holstein herd of Jos. Darlington & Sons, Todmorden, came as a antidote to the depressing news of the foot and mouth outbreak, and indicated the confidence that dairy cattle breeders feel in their future prospects," John Powell of Brantford comments in a letter to the Examiner.

"A large crowd was on hand for the sale which was necessitated by the encroachment of the city of Toronto. The 41 head offered brought $19,315. Seventeen milking females averaged $522; nine bred heifers $443; four open yearlings $360 and two bulls $645 each.

The three year old herd sire sold for $1,050 on the bid of W. P. Watt of Waterford. His sire was the $5,000 Reserve All - Canadian, Rembco Texal Sovereign.

Peak female price was $975 for a five-year-old cow taken by Robert C. Laning of Waterford. Massey-Harris paid $700 for another. George W. Henry paid the top price of $475 in the heifer calf group, and $410 for a second one. J. Earle Brown of Newcastle took home a calf for $400, and Murray Holtby of Port Perry paid $500 for a three year old.

Average at the 26th Glanworth consignment sale was $317. Forty-one head totalled $13,015.

DEFERRED ACTION

Poultry producers of Northumberland postponed voting on the proposed marketing scheme at their meeting last week at Brighton.

Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative, reports that a spirited discussion period followed the talk by Cecil Belyea, fieldman for the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, "with considerable difference of opinion between the large and small producers. Many felt they still did not understand the plan well enough to vote on it. Mr. Belyea said printed copies would be available soon and would be widely distributed. It was suggested that if possible Ken Betzner, chairman of the Ontario Poultry Producers' Association, meet Northumberland producers to discuss the plan further before the vote is to be taken, likely about the end of this month."

Officers elected were: Chairman, Wm. Newham, Norham; vice-chairman, H. Hoecke, Campbellford; secretary, Charles Hobbs, Morganston; directors: J. H. Kaiser, Colborne; I. Flanders, Colborne R.R. 3; P. Moore, Morganston; N. Smale, Baltimore; H. Welton, Castleton.

Mr. Belyea said the Poultry Producers' Association were striving toward pricing, and less price fluctuation. It desired a price that would ensure profits for efficient producers but discourage marginal inefficient producers. Price level must be so maintained that it will encourage consumption and also be compatible with world markets. It was pointed out that to be successful the plan must be national in aspect and no effort to control prices will be made until all provinces have adopted the plan.

It is proposed to deduct a license fee of 1c per dozen at grading station and to use this money to buy surplus eggs off the market in times of peak supply and then feed them back into the trade in periods of short supply. This would tend to maintain a fairly even price the whole year round rather than very high prices sometimes and very low prices at other times which are very detrimental to all stages of the egg trade.

FORUMS, ON IMMIGRATION

Forum discussions March 3 were generally dubious of the sincerity of immigrants who secure entry into Canada as farm laborers. They don't stay on the land because (a) they are not farm minded, and (b) they follow in the footsteps of many of Ontario's rural sons and daughters, attracted to the cities by higher wages and better working conditions.

Thirty members attended Donegal Forum at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Starke, where Tom Starke was dicussion leader. One of their suggestions was: Bring immigrants from countries which are more friendly to the British Commonwealth of Nations, and "help the immigrant to learn our language and show him Canadian ways of farming."

Garnet Graham was leader at Pine Grove Forum, which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wray Moore, with 31 present. In their opinion "too many are possibly not farmers when they come; our farming system is different from theirs; some use farming as an excuse to bring their own trade to Canada; farm benefits are lacking: sick benefits, unemployment insurance." And immigration policy, it was said, should find out what the people are capable of doing, and should be placed where they can use their abilities.

Coldsprings Forum in Otonabee, with 18 members at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Darling, added this postscript: "Are farmers as a whole poor employers? We felt a goodly number were. With their own families as well as with immigrants they seem unable to co-operate in showing ways of farming, handling machinery, making business or financial arrangements, or for some reason seem loth to do so."

Another comment was as to why farm young people drift away from home: "No financial arrangement with sons and daughters and farms can't or don't support more than one family."

As to why immigrant labor moves off: poor living conditions; seasonal work, especially in the west; shorter hours wanted; amusements, too, such as shows, fair sex, beverage rooms, etc. . . . unsuitable to do jobs required.

Wellington Sutton was discussion leader.

Their observations were: "The hours of labor are too long, and wages are not attractive; some immigrants have a tendency to congregate together . . . The cost of starting farming is too high, and city life is more attractive; give them year-round employment. The government should be careful not to bring more immigrants than we can absorb."

Stewart Hall Forum said: "Farmers cannot pay them as much as the cities offer, and hours are shorter." The meeting was at the home of Mr. and Mrs.

"BOYS' BEST PAL"—Rufe C. Gibbs of Vancouver, who spent most of his adult life helping youngsters in the east end of the city, has been elected the Canadian Boys' Best Pal. A bachelor, he has bought, remodelled and turned over a downtown building to the Vancouver Boys' Club Association. He is a fishing tackle manufacturer. Floor Price On Hogs Only At Stockyard

The following information from the office of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association was issued this week:

"The recent announcement made by the Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, regarding heavier Grade "A" hogs and the 26 cent "floor price" has caused considerable confusion among Ontario Hog producers.

Upon inquiry we find the following:

1. Premium will be paid on Grade "A" hogs weighing from 200 to 240 lbs. (live weight) but NOT on hogs weighing under 200 lbs. (live weight).

2. The 26 cent "Floor price" applies only to hogs sold on a Stockyard market and does not apply to hogs going direct to a processing plant.

3. Processors may pay any price they choose for hogs delivered "direct" to their plant. The agreement is the processors will take all hogs offered on the stockyards at 26c.

Therefore, producers should instruct their shippers or agents to ship their hogs to the Stockyards and NOT to accept less than the 26 cent "Floor price."

Toronto processors are now paying 25c per cwt. less for hogs delivered to their plants than they are for hogs bought on the Stockyards. This amount varies over Ontario. Some plants who previously paid on the Toronto price are now paying 75c to a dollar lower."

Livestock Prices Firm At Wm. Garvey Herd Sale

Registered Holstein cows averaged $325 at the auction sale Tuesday of William A. Garvey's livestock at his farm on No. 7 Highway, one mile east of the Westwood turn.

Top price for females was $385 for the six year old cow, Hiemke Walter Perfection, whose week old calf brought an additional $115. The Garvey herd sire, Rag Apple Abbekerk Monogram, sold for $390, the highest price of the afternoon.

Grade Holsteins averaged $280, from a top of $360 down to $235. Registered year old Holstein heifers averaged $216, and two year old grade heifers $240.

The average of $145 was paid for one year old Holstein heifers, and calves brought from $75 to $115.

Unsettled livestock values, resulting from the foot and mouth diseas in Saskatchewan, and consequent embargoes, have raised questions of the disposition of farmers toward their own industry, as reflected in such sales as that of the dispersal of the Garvey herd.

Gordon Hancock, auctioneer, noticed at the opening of this sale a little hesitancy in the first bids. However, the crowd of district farmers rallied to their own industry. Their response was active, prices were considered more than satisfactory, in the circumstances, and the sale was altogether successful.

Following the top price of $385 for the pure bred Hiemke Walker Perfection, Mr. Hancock found secondary values in the grades. A four year old grade Holstein, due April 1, sold for $360; a six year old, due to freshen, went for $350; and a three year old due April 1 brought $330. Other grade prices ranged from $290 down to $235.

Among the registered Holsteins, three cows exceeded the $300 mark, at $325 and $310. One of them selling at $310 was improved by $95 for her two weeks calf.

A team of bay Percheron horses, seven and nine years old, sold for $410.

Mr. Garvey's implements and equipment were sold Mar. 4. Rain held up the livestock for a week in the hope of better weather.

A twelve year old tractor went for $885, corn binder $375, manure spreader $245, seeder $300; hay rake $285. Feed oats brought 95c a bushel.

"It was most encouraging to find so many farmers turning out for the sale," Mr. Hancock said yesterday "and to find in their view of conditions no inclination to sacrifice values."

Grass Silage Panel Talk At Spring Show

"Grassland farming for soil building and profit" is the slogan of the Central Ontario Spring Show at Peterborough March 25 to 28 which is dedicated to the agricultural interests of the ten counties from Frontenac to Ontario.

It will be officially opened Wed., March 26 at 2 p.m. by Dr. J. D. MacLachlan, President of Ontario Agricultural College, at Peterborough Exhibition Park.

This new show replacing the Quinte District Seed Fair retains its principal grain features and expands into a broader field of farm interests and activities. Three buildings of the Exhibition are being used for displays, panel discussions, motion picture films in color, practical talks by agricultural experts and also for an entertainment program.

Central Ontario Spring Show has been undertaken by farmers from most of the counties under the chairmanship of Mel McHolm of Port Hope who will welcome Dr. MacLachlan and other guests.

The central position of Peterborough, and the facilities the city affords, influenced the Seed Fair directors to aim at establishing for the future a Spring Show equipped for practical help and utility to the farmers of the Central counties.

DR. J. D. MacLACHLAN, president of the Ontario Agricultural College, will formally open the Central Ontario Spring Show Wednesday, March 26, at 2 p.m., in the main building at Peterborough Exhibition Park.

All grain entries will be received at the main Exhibition hall on Monday, March 24, and will be judged on Tuesday.

The Wednesday afternoon program includes: Seed Judges Demonstration by Dr. G. R. McRostie, Field Husbandry, O.A.C.; and a talk: "Why Grassland Farming" by A. M. Barr, Principal of Kemptville Agricultural School.

Features for Thursday include a panel discussion on "Grass Silage" with Ken Fallis of the Ontario Department of Agriculture as chairman at 2 p.m.

It will be followed by Doug Parks of Kemptville Agricultural School on the subject "Selection of Grasses and Clovers for Pastures"; and the further subject "New Developments in Grass Seeding Machinery" by Prof. C. G. E. Downing of the Department of Agricultural Engineering, O.A.C.

Dr. Harold Worton of Peterborough is Master of Ceremonies for the Thursday night entertainment in music and dancing beginning at 8 p.m. Highlights will be the square dance competition for groups from the Central Ontario counties.

Sale of seed on exhibit will begin Friday at 1.30 p.m., and will be the concluding feature of the show. Wm. Stewart. Discussion leader was Mrs. Wm. Chambers.

Similar reason were cited by other Forum groups.

FORUM SEASON ENDING

Another winter of Farm Forum broadcasts ends Monday, March 17 on the question "Are Hunger and Poverty the Real Causes of War?" It is followed by the final review night on March 24.

The theme is largely the part Canadian farmers can play in international affairs.

Forums have discussed a wide range of topics beginning at the end of October with co-operatives, and continuing through rural cultural activities; farm production and credits; prices of farm products, effectiveness of commodity groups; immigration and this week export outlets.

The extension of farmers' thoughtful interest from their local to international questions is one of the most valuable effects of a season's Forum programs. Members doubtless realize the difficulty of planning a series of subjects that will be uniformly interesting through a period of more than five months. They have to be generally interesting but also have to be practically helpful here and there along the way of winter, evocative of ideas and broadly related to rural life within the nation.

Fall Wheat Fertilizers Recommended By Tests

Since fall wheat makes considerable growth prior to the dry summer period, moisture conditions are relatively favorable for the use by this crop of an adequate supply of nutrients.

In two tests conducted recently on a loam soil by the field husbandry division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, the yield of fall wheat was increased from 16.0 bushels per acre on untreated plots to 26.5 bushels on plots receiving 300 pounds of 2-12-6 fertilizer per acre at the time of seeding. Superphosphate (20% P2O5) at the rate of 180 pounds per acre gave nearly as good results as the complete fertilizer in these tests, the yield being 25.6 bushels per acre on the plots where superphosphate alone was applied. In addition to the influence on yield, the fertilizer treatments increased the weight per measured bushel of grain by 2.0 pounds over that obtained for the wheat on the untreated plots.

A complete fertilizer relatively high in phosphoric acid such as 2-12-6 or 3-15-6, may be considered as satisfactory for fall wheat on most soils. Where farm manure has been applied to the land in previous years, and especially when the wheat follows a legume crop in the rotation, superphosphate alone may be used. The use of manure and the growing of legumes in the rotation tend to provide a continuing supply of nitrogen for the fall wheat crop throughout the growing season. On less fertile soils depleted in organic matter, a complete fertilizer such as 2-12-6 or 3-15-6 applied at the time of seeding in the fall may be supplemented by a spring application of a nitrogen fertilizer.

Sale Of Seed Grain Active

In the midst of quandary as to what 1952 has in store for them, Ontario farmers are preparing for another season of production, as indicated in the weekly crop review of the provincial Department of Agriculture.

Bruce says: In view of recent events many farmers are planning to keep their cattle for the grass. There is much interest in seed grain and grass seed mixtures.

Halton: There appears to be ample supplies of good quality seed grain and red clover for local requirements. Alfalfa and grass seeds produced locally are a neg'igible amount. County requirements will have to be imported from other sections of Canada.

Hastings: Springers at local community sales have dropped from $50 to $100. Interest is still increasing in the use of suitable grass and clover seed mixtures.

Lennox-Addington: A number of farmers have been left holding dairy cattle that had been sold for export to the United States. Livestock prices have declined considerably except on good dairy calves.

Prescott: There is a surplus of timothy and clover seeds. Some farmers show some desire to buy registered seed.

Renfrew: Restrictions on stock shipments to Montreal and Hull have not been too severe. Regular shipments continue to both markets under inspection service provided by the Quebec Department of Agriculture. Eight weeks pigs have been selling actively at $10 each.

Russell: Fields are covered with several feet of snow. Farmers are shipping bred sows to packers, and six-weeks-old pigs are offered at $5 and $6.

LINK WITH MAINLAND—The Abegweit, one of the largest car ferries in the world, plies the nine miles between Cape Tormentine, N.B., and Borden, P.E.I., three times daily, winter and summer. When launched in 1947, it attracted the attention of naval engineers all over the world, not only for size, but for the way current from Diesel operation is distributed to the different propulsion motors for maximum manoeuverability. It is a reinforced ice-breaker, equipped with radar, radio telephone, echo sounder and gyro compass. Last year the Abegweit carried 29,655 cars and 200,200 passengers.

Church Criticizes Longer Hours Of Entertainment

MADRID, March 13—The Roman Catholic Church in Spain severely critized the government for having allowed a later closing time for places of entertainment throughout the nation.

On Feb. 29 the Ministry of Interior announced that theatres, cinemas, coffee houses, bar-restaurants, dance halls and sports arenas could remain open a half hour longer on holidays and certain other occasions.

Ecclesia, which is the official magazine of the Spanish Roman Catholic hierarchy remarked tartly in its current edition that in all likelihood "the government, with its recent measure, intended to take one more step along the road of civic liberty and untie one more knot of state intervention in the life of the nation."

Poor Time

After this reference to the dictatorial aspect of the Falangist Government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Ecclesia said that the measure, what ever the intentions of the regime might be, was "inopportune" and unnecessary. It also deplored the fact that the order should have come at the beginning of Lent, when, it said, the Spanish people were "ablaze with the fervor of contrition."

"It is precisely in those places of entertainment that morality is forcibly exposed to the great danger represented by the very nature of the performances and general atmosphere," the publication continued.

What the government order euphemistically called "entertainment halls" are especially dangerous, Ecclesia charged, because that broad term includes "dance halls, night clubs and other premises where today most shameless 'vaudeville' performances are permitted."

The government measure, Ecclesia said, is an unreasonable and "deplorable flaunting of a legal order which—if one must believe official statements— conforms to Christian principles and the traditional religious feeling of the Spanish people." According to the magazine, the government, instead of fostering "dangerous licentiousness, incontinence and profligacy," should concern itself with many important questions that await solution.

Strict laws already regulate theatre, moving - picture and vaudeville performances in Spain. No woman is allowed to appear on the Spanish stage with bare legs. Spanish chorus girls wear full-length stocking, below-the-knee skirts and high-neck, long-sleeve dresses. Kissing scenes are deleted from moving pictures and plays.

Advertisers Defy Papers Controls

TORONTO, March 14 (CP). — The Toronto Real Estate Board Thursday went on record against any effort by a newspaper to control the extent of a dealer's advertising in another publication by exclusion from its own columns.

The resolution followed a report to the board—an organization of some 400 dealers—by A. W. Farlinger, head of a real estate company, that the Toronto Star had "notified us that until we agreed to run equal or greater lineage in the Star than in the Telegram they would not accept advertising from us."

The resolution passed by the board's directors said:

"That no newspapers ought to dictate to any member of this board concerning the extent of his advertising in competing journals upon penalty of denying to him access to its own advertising columns. Such action is, in the view of this board, contrary to Canadian principles of free speech."

To Close Foundry

BRANTFORD, March 14—(CP)—The Brantford plant of the Canadian Car Foundry Company Limited will be permanently closed in the near future, it was reported Thursday. About 300 employees would be affected.

in 3 out of 4 cases in test by doctors!

• Here's wonderful news for women and girls who — each month — suffer the tortures of "bad days" of functionally-caused menstrual cramps and pain — headaches, backaches, and those "no-good," dragged-out feelings.

It's news about a medicine well-known for relieving such suffering!

Here is the exciting news. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — gave complete or striking relief of such distress in an average of 3 out of 4 of the cases in doctors' tests!

Yes! Lydia Pinkham's is scientifically modern in action!

Thousands benefited!

This news will not surprise the thousands of women and girls who know the relief Lydia Pinkham's can bring.

And it should encourage you to see if your experience doesn't match theirs... to see if you, too, don't avoid the nervousness, tension, weakness, irritability—and pain—so often associated with "those days"!

Try Lydia Pinkham's Compound . . . or new, improved Tablets (with added iron).

Both are grand, too — for those "hot flashes" and other distresses common to "change of life"!

How Lydia Pinkham's works

It has a "calming" and soothing effect on the uterus . . . quieting the contractions (see the chart) that so often cause menstrual pain, cramps, other distress.

Stiffer Penalties Sought For Narcotics

TRENTON, March 14 — The New Jersey Legislature received 20 bills prepared by the Legislative Commission to study narcotics, which provide severe penalties, including possible life terms, for engaging in the narcotics traffic.

The commission, headed by Assemblyman William F Tompkins of Essex, deplored "a 2,000 per cent increase" in the number of addicts under 21 years of age in the state between 1947 and 1950.

Three Federal acts and two state laws are now being applied to curb the traffic, but the commission took the position much higher penalties should be provided "for the soul-destroying non-addict peddler."

"This type of criminal," the commission asserted, "should be sentenced to a long, hard prison term with no possibility of probation, parole or suspension of sentence."

For Relentless Prosecution

The commission quoted Harry J. Anslinger, Federal Narcotics Commissioner, who assisted with its study. He said: "Until stricter measures become inexorable, relentless and possibly cruel, the underworld will continue its course." The commission said it endorsed that statement.

Among its proposed laws were those to set penalties for supplying drugs to minors under the age of 18 from $2,000 to $10,000 and jail terms of two years to life.

In stiffening the punishment for sales to older persons, the commission proopsed fines up to $2,000 and imprisonment up to 15 years.

For the second offence the prison maximum would be lifted from 10 to 25 years, and for subsequent offences from 20 years to life. The second offence fine would be raised from a maximum of $2,000 to $5,000, as was that for subsequent violations. Jail terms for addicts could be suspended only to provide for their treatment and cure.

New Bureau Proposed

The commission proposed creation of a bureau in the State Institutions Department for treatment and cure of addicts. The bureau would have $275,000 for operating costs.

Peddlers in the illicit trade would be required to be fingerprinted and photographed when apprehended, these records to be filed with the state police. Copies of drug prescriptions at pharmacies or provided by doctors would have to be filed with the state police under another legislative proposal.

The State Pharmacy, Medical and Nurses Boards would be required to revoke the licence to handle narcotics of anyone found to be an addict. Penalties for these violations would be raised and telephoned prescriptions for barbiturates would be illegal. Exemption of paregoric from the prescription requirements would be revoked. Prescriptions would be required to buy hypodermic needles and other paraphernalia.

Other restrictions proposed included the abuse of persons under drug influence.

Appeals For Relaxation Of Federal Aluminum Curbs

NEW YORK, March 14. — An appeal for a relaxation of federal curbs on aluminum to permit limited tonnages to be used to develop and test new products in terms of potential markets was sounded by Edward C. Manix, general sales manager of Nichols Wire and Aluminum Company.

Mr. Manix, interviewed at the Ritz Tower Hotel, said the industry's capacity had been more than doubled since before Korea, and some provision must be made for use of the excess when the defense emergency is over.

"Stockpiling of the excess is not sufficient, and in many cases this is not a healthy long-term answer," he said.

He said his company had enlarged its sales force in anticipation of an oversupply of aluminum products and a consequent need for business by midsummer. The company, which has its main office in Davenport, Iowa, makes aluminum nails, clothesline wire, wire for various end-uses, sheets for building materials and other items.

"The future of the industry is bright only insofar as the manufacturers make it bright," Mr. Manix said. "It takes a lot of persistent and hard-hitting effort to get the public to try out and continue to buy aluminum products. Only 500 pounds or so are needed to make and test a new product, but it takes considerably more to make a test of the product to gauge potential markets, and this is more important."

He added that measures of this type were needed not only to keep production capacity at a high level but "to sop up the excess" in the peaks and valleys of defense production. He warned, in addition, that the supply picture could change quickly, as with lead in the last week.

The Aluminum Association reported yesterday that production of primary aluminum and shipments of sheet, plate and foil in January were well ahead of figures for the preceding month.

Donald M. White, secretary of the group, said that primary aluminum output in the month totaled 153,867,619 pounds, a gain of 6.2 per cent over December and 13.2 per cent over January, 1951.

Sheet and plate shipments came to 80,316,518 pounds, 8.3 per cent above December, and foil shipments totalled 6,537,465 pounds, 19.9 per cent above the preceding month.

"Metal turned out by the industry's newest plant, opened in December, 1951, was undoubtedly an important factor in the primary production increase," Mr. White said, "while settlement of a labor dispute which had curtailed production in December permitted another producer to resume normal operation."

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Dates In Place Of Figs In Unbaked Fruit Cake

QUESTION: In the recipe for unbaked Fruit Cake, several of us would like to try it, using dates instead of figs. Would that be all right?

I have a recipe for Date Squares that I wondered if your readers might have wanted recently.

Date Squares

(Contributed by Chris.)

One and three-quarters cups of rolled oats, 1½ cups flour, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon each baking soda and salt, ¾ cup melted butter or shortening. Mix in order given.

Boil together ¾ pound dates, 1 cup water, ½ cup granulated sugar. Spread half of the first mixture in greased pan. Cover with dates. Then cover with rest of flour mixture. Bake at 350 degrees Fahr. for 20 minutes. This is also excellent made with rendered chicken fat.

ANSWER: Thank you, Chris, for Date Squares; also for the very acceptable idea of using chicken fat in them. Yes, you may use dates instead of figs in the Unbaked Fruit Cake.

QUESTION: Thank you very much for answering my letter in your column. I'm the gal who had been having all the cookie trouble. I have had grand success with the two recipes you printed and would appreciate having more....How do you keep cookies?....They get eaten so quickly they hardly have time to cool.—Alma Y.

ANSWER: See recipe above for Date Squares, Alma. Did you see the March 7 column which had a recipe for Champion Drop Cookies in it? If you are serious about storing them, pack them between layers of wax paper in air-tight tin box after they are cold.

QUESTION: About 18 months ago you had a recipe for making Brandy Snaps. I cut out same and have made it several times. It is a real recipe, and if instructions are followed make a perfect product. I have misplaced my copy, and ask you to repeat.—G.H.B.

ANSWER: George H. B.? I always get a special thrill when a man writes to me for a recipe. Glad you liked the

Brandy Snaps

I hope this is the same recipe you had. I have several of them.

One-half cup molasses, ½ cup butter, 1 cup flour (scant), 2-3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon ginger. Heat molasses to boiling, add butter, then slowly stirring constantly, flour mixed and sifted with the sugar and ginger. Drop small portions from tip of spoon on buttered cookie sheet 2 inches apart. Bake at 300 degrees Fahr. Remove pan from oven and immediately roll each wafer over handle of wooden spoon. If wafers become too brittle to roll before you are finished slip them back in the oven to soften for a moment.

Another list of ingredients for them is: ¼ cup butter, ½ cup of powdered sugar, ¼ cup milk, ⅞ cup bread flour, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Or you may add 1½ cups rolled oats to the first recipe.

QUESTION: Will you please tell me why a dream cake will drop in the centre after being taken out of the oven a short time —A Steady Reader.

ANSWER: The most obvious reason is that the cake is underbaked. But, Steady Reader, would you be kind enough to send me your recipe for Dream Cake and your oven time and temperature? Please send me the exact recipe, the kind of flour and baking powder used, and if you sift the flour first. Then I can be of specific help to you.

Women Pilots Ninety-Niners

EDMONTON—(CP)—Women airplane pilots in Edmonton and Calgary recently formed Alberta's first branch of the Ninety-Niners, the international organization of women pilots.

Aims and objects of the organization are to provide a closer relationship among women pilots; to assist them in any activity which will be of help in aeronautical research, air racing events, acquisition of aerial experience and maintenance of an economic status in industry.

Membership in the Ninety-Niners is open to women who hold a valid pilot's licence higher than solo grade. Power pilot and glider pilot certificates are equally valid. There now are more than 1,200 active flying pilots in the organization.

Activities of the group include sponsoring powder-puff derbies, trans-continental and international air races and making the public more air conscious.

Chapters and sections also organize cross-country flights, tours and "wing-dings."

The insignia of the Ninety-Niners is a compas rose with the number 99 in the centre. A monthly news letter is sent to members and outlines activities on a national scale. Amelia Earheart was the club's first national president after it was formed in 1929.

President of the Alberta branch is Miss Lorraine Cooper of Calgary.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Careful Buying And Freezer Cut Costs

By KAY REX,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A Thrift Campaign, says Mrs. Hugh Summers of Fonthill, Ont., is a "valuable instrument" to cut down the cost of living. But like all good things "it can be overdone."

Mrs. Summers is president of the 55-year-old Federated Women's Institutes of Canada which speak for women in farming communities from coast to coast.

"Where consumers refuse to buy the goods on the market, stocks pile up so that manufacturing plants are forced to cut their staffs," Mrs. Summers told the Canadian Press. "—almost before we know it we are in a depression."

Careful buying and a home freezer are Mrs. Summers' weapons against high food costs. She finds a freezer particularly valuable on a farm.

"To me this seems the ideal method for farm folk to provide their families with a fine variety of fresh food," she said.

On the Summers farm the freezer is filled with pork, beef, lamb and chickens. Fruit is brought when it is plentiful and at its best. Both time and sugar are saved by freezing fresh fruit instead of canning it.

Near Fishing Ports

Fonthill is a farming community in the Niagara peninsula not more than 30 miles from some of the chief fishing centres of Lake Erie. Mrs. Summers has taken full advantage of this location. She recalled a day last fall when the family drove to lake and bought 25 pounds of fresh pickerel. This immediately was cached in the freezer.

"We calculated our fish dinners cost us just one half what they would cost if we bought the fish in a store," she said.

A farm is one place where it's absolutely necessary to serve substantial, nutritious food. On the Summers farm everyone has meat at least twice daily—a practice which nowadays would be decidedly expensive except that the family has "followed the old ways of farm folk who raise and prepare meat on their own farms."

Farming families have an advantage over city persons in that they usually can get all the milk they want. Mrs. Summers uses a lot of milk in soups and puddings, particularly during the winter months.

Milk soups favored by the Summers family probably are similar to this Vegetable Chowder as recommended by the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Ingredients: Two cups scalded milk; two cups corn, canned or fresh; two cups diced celery; three-quarters cup sliced onion; three teaspoons salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper; 2½ cups cold water; one-half diced green pepper; one cup tomatoes (canned or fresh); three tablespoons flour; one-quarter cup fat; one-half cup grated cheese; one-quarter teaspoon paprika.

Irish Tea Table Settings Feature Queen Mary Tea

A crowded rotunda and queues in the hall at Queen Mary School Thursday afternoon was significant of the annual St. Patrick's tea being held by the Home and School Association. Each year a larger crowd comes to this popular event. Two tea rooms make the waiting time shorter and provide added scope for the decorative abilities of the ladies.

The one table this year was labelled by them the "Irish farm table" and it was laid with an old red and white tablecloth and centred with red geraniums in a white flower pot. Odd china tea services were used by the pourers and the relish dishes and cake plates were of milk glass. Quaint hen and dog covered dishes completed this effect.

The other tea table was unmistakably Irish with a Paddy green cover and a huge papier mache clay pipe filled with white snapdragons in the centre. White candle holders and white candles were effectively placed at the mouth of the pipe. The setting was completed with silver trays and tea urns and milk glass cake plates and glass sandwich plates.

These table arrangements were executed by Mrs. J. C. Wharry. Other decorations for the occasion, all in the St. Patrick's theme of course, were the work of Mrs. S. Johnston aided by Mrs. J. Hamer and Mrs. W. Jones.

Sell Patterns

Goods for sale was displayed at booths in the rotunda and this year featured a table of patterns for dressmaking that were collected by the children. Mrs. D. B. Gordon was in charge of selling. A book booth, similarly assembled, was convened by Mrs. I. Moldaver assisted by Mrs. C. L. Bruce and Mrs. L. V. Bennett.

Mrs. A. Logan convened the home baking table and was assisted by Mrs. E. Edmison, Mrs. G. Constable, Mrs. S. Moldaver, Mrs. F. Ephrave, and Mrs. H. Mann. Candy booth convener was Mrs. G. Dobbin with Mrs. H. Chown, Mrs. H. Dinsdale and Mrs. F. Jobbitt her assistants.

Ticket convener Mrs. A. Hutchinson and treasurer Mrs. R. Cole were taking tickets.

Pint-sized guests were directed to the nursery which was in charge of Mrs. Eric Bacon assisted by girls from Mr. McNeil's class, Sheila Nichols, Helen Rusk, Heather Gordon, Eleanor Standish and Ruby Purdon.

Gentlemen Receiving

Gentlemen were receiving the ladies at this tea, possibly a further sign of Leap Year domination. Association president Mr. W. G. Ovens and principal Mr. O. M. Steer had shaken hands with more than 600 by the end of the afternoon.

Hostesses at the door of each tearoom were Mrs. Larry McKeever and Mrs. W. J. Hardill.

The servers each wore a shamrock name card and they were: Mrs. R. J. Allen, Mrs. A. Purdon, Mrs. J. T. Stewart, Mrs. R. B. McWilliams, Mrs. D. R. McGregor, Mrs. T. E. Currier, Mrs. G. W. Hodgson, Mrs. A. Sands, Mrs. H. C. Wilson, Mrs. J. C. C. Dawson, Mrs. W. Perks, Mrs. E. Whitely, Mrs. W. M. McCutcheon, Mrs. R. Honey, Mrs. M. Middleton, Mrs. H. Bradburn, Mrs. J. Wharry, Mrs. E. Henwood, Mrs. C. Dorrington, Mrs. C. Northey, Mrs. K. Dalrymple, Mrs. D. Whyte, Mrs. J. Mayer, Mrs. R. J. Shaw.

Kitchen conveners Mrs. W. S. Johnston, Mrs. O. Phillips, Mrs. J. Blakeley and Mrs. J. N. Perry were aided by Wendy Collins, Rosalind Moldaver, Sharon Hutchinson, Valerie Bennett from Mr. Northcott's class.

Mrs. J. G. Nichols was general convener of this tea and is credited with a splendid job. Phoning was handled by the regular class mothers and the publicity by Mrs. D. Aitken.

St. Patrick's Tea At May's School Successful Event

St. Patrick's favourite green was again very much in evidence at May's School kindergarten room Wednesday afternoon with shamrocks large and small, setting the scene for the Home and School Association St. Patrick's tea.

Bazaar tables were all attractively decorated with white cloths and green and white candles. Large shamrocks on the walls served as pictures. The tea table had a lovely gold lace cloth, with a large bouquet of spring flowers, and silver tea services at each end. The small tables each with a dainty bridge cloth cover were centred with a bouquet of daffodils and tulips, each tied with a big white bow.

Home cooking was the most sought after of all things for sale, and as the guests began to arrive at three o'clock they went first to this department where Mrs. D. Acreman was in charge, assisted by Mrs. M. Blake, Mrs. H. Roberts and Mrs. G. Renwick. The candy table was in charge of Mrs. C. Beno, assisted by Mrs. D. MacDonald.

Sewing, including aprons, tea towels and other hand-made articles, were sold by Mrs. J. Vogelsang, assisted by Mrs. B. Young and Mrs. M. J. Hobden. A "white elephant" table, also decorated in green, went over very well. Mrs. G. English was in charge, assisted by Mrs. G. Curtis and Mrs. H. Neil.

Following their tour of the various tables, guests could enjoy dainty refreshments served at ten small tables by the following hostesses: Mrs. W. Maynard, Mrs. H. Darling, Mrs. S. Craig, Mrs. E. Godfrey, Mrs. O. Wells, Mrs. E. J. Cooper, Mrs. W. Watts, Mrs. G. Snelgrove, Mrs. K. Lake, Mrs. A. Hele and Mrs. D. Buckton. Mrs. C. Palmer and Mrs. R. Bell were in charge of the tables.

Presiding at the centre tea table were Mrs. R. E. Dorgan, Mrs. G. Ball and Mrs. R. Armmer, in turn.

Mrs. E. Connell was in charge of arranging tea plates and making the tea, assisted by Mrs. O. Weiss and Mrs. M. McFadden. Mrs. A. Downer and Mrs. R. Williams were at the door to extend welcome, and Mrs. F. Spencley was taking the tickets.

General convenor of the tea was the president, Mrs. A. Downer.

There was a very good attendance, and grand weather prevailed for the day. Mrs. E. Spencley donated the lovely flowers for the table.

Some Attractive Dishes Specially For March 17th

Shamrock Paddies are a fine dish to serve on St. Patrick's Day. Made of chopped leftover ham, eggs, sweet fresh cucumber pickles and bread crumbs, they go well with parsleyed potatoes and boiled cabbage wedges. With cloverleaf rolls and a dish of pickles, they made a fine meal.

Shamrock Paddies

One pound ground cooked ham, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, ½ cup chopped sweet fresh cucumber pickles, 1 cup fine bread crumbs, freshly ground pepper.

In a bowl, blend ham and eggs. Add remaining ingredients, mixing well. Divide mixture into four parts. Shape into four rectangular loaves 1-inch thick and place on broiler grill. Broil 3 or 4 inches from heat 10-15 minutes, turning only once. Garnish each paddy with a large shamrock cut from pickle slice.

Emerald Isle Salad

Two small green peppers, 6 ounces chive cream cheese, ¼ cup finely chopped sweet gherkins dash Tabasco.

Wash green peppers; cut off stem ends. Hollow out pepper, removing seeds and fiber; drain. In a small bowl, combine cheese, pickles and Tabasco; mix thoroughly. Fill peppers with cheese-pickle mixture.

Chill filled peppers until firm. Slice crosswise. Place 2 or 3 slices on crisp salad greens for each serving.

Shamrock Garden

For an appropriate centre-piece have a Shamrock Garden. Arrange well-scrubbed Irish potatoes on a large mirror or glass plate to resemble a rock garden. Let sprigs of asparagus greens or maiden-hair fern peep out among the 'rocks'.

Mount green paper shamrocks on stems of wooden picks tinted green with food coloring; 'plant' them among the 'rocks'. More ferns make a border around the arrangement.

Kelly Lime Pie (Serves Eight)

Meringue Shell: Beat only until frothy throughout 4 egg whites and ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar. Beat in gradually 1 cup sugar. Continue beating until very stiff and glossy.

Spread in a lightly greased 9-inch pie pan, making a slight depression in the center. Bake 20 minutes in slow oven (275 degrees F.) then increase to 300 degrees F. and continue baking 40 minutes. Cool slowly.

Filling: Mix together 4 egg yolks, well beaten, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, 1/3 cup lime juice. Cook over hot water 10 minutes or until thick. Cool. Tint pale green with food coloring if desired.

Fold in 1 tablespoon grated lime rind, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped. Spread over baked meringue shell. Whip 1 cup heavy cream. Sweaten, if desired. Spread over filling. Sprinkle with grated lime rind. Chill at least 4 hours.

Crispy Fried Pike

Place in a shallow pan or dish 6 serving-sized pike fillets. Add enough sour milk to cover and 1 teaspoon salt for each pound of filleted fish. Let stand for 20 to 45 minutes. Drain.

Dip each fillet in prepared biscuit mix. Pan-fry over low heat in 2 tablespoons butter and 2 tablespoons shortening. Cook until fish is well browned and slightly crisp on one side. Turn and repeat on second side.

DOROTHY DIX

College Students Found Most Inattentive Beaus

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 20, working in a business office. Last summer I met a wonderful young man, and went out with him three times during my vacation. About two weeks later he called and invited me to a football game. In another two weeks he again asked me to a game. Now he is away at college, and I haven't heard from him in several weeks. I know he's busy but I should think he could spare a few minutes for an occasional phone call. How can I get him to keep in touch with me?

FREIDA.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: College boys who take their work seriously have little time for social life; even the small amount of time taken out for a short telephone call can ill be spared from a grueling program of math, science, Latin and Greek. As a working girl you, of course, have much more leisure and more time for recreation. Suppose you just go out on such other dates as come along, and wait for your college man to have another vacation. I'm sure you'll find his interest in you unabated. In the meantime, just to keep yourself in his thought, a greeting card might be sent or your could mail him a short, friendly letter enclosing a joke or cartoon that might amuse him. Just don't try to intrude too far into his scholastic life.

Ashamed Of Family?

DEAR MISS DIX: For the past year I have been going with a boy who is 20. He is very considerate in all ways but one. He has never taken me to meet his family. He has met my people and comes over to our house quite a bit. Do you think I should ask him to take me to meet his folks, or forget about it?

CAROLINE

ANSWER: Forget about it! It is not your place to suggest meeting the family; he should have thought of it long ago. The obvious reason for his neglect is that he is ashamed of his folks—or possibly he feels that you won't measure up to their standards. The former is probably true. Perhaps his home is not impressive enough, so he thinks, for you, or the furniture not grand enough.

Tried 14 Years To Bring Son To Adopted Land

MONTREAL — (CP) — For 14 years Mrs. Florence Collister has been trying to arrange for her 38-year-old son to come to Canada from Italy. Vincent Bertuccelli and wife finally made it.

It was in 1938 that Mrs. Collister first asked Ottawa to let her son come to Canada. The threat of war ruled the idea out.

In 1939, she worked her way to Italy as an attendant to a sick person aboard an ocean liner. She saw her son briefly.

One her way back, she survived the sinking of the liner Athenia by the Germans. She resumed her efforts after the war and some months ago was told her son could come to Canada.

Bertuccelli speaks seven languages—English, French, Spanish, Portuguese, Italian, German and Rumanian—and has been an interpreter most of his life.

Mrs. Collister, a Scot, was first married in 1913 and had two sons, Vincent and Umberto. She was separated from her husband in 1919 and he took the two boys. She came to Canada in 1930 but kept track of the boys. Umberto is a policeman in Rome.

Of course he shouldn't have an in feriority complex about his surroundings, but most young people do. You could express curiosity about his family and mention that you'd love to know them, but further than that you can't press the subject.

DEA RMISS DIX: I am very annoyed over an underweight problem. I'm nearly 16, and dreadfully skinny. What can I do to gain weight?

HELEN

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The best thing to do is talk the problem over with your mother and have her take you to the family doctor for a thorough check-up and treatment. He will ascertain the cause of your underweight and prescribe the cure. In matters pertaining to health, even in so commonplace a problem as weight control, a physician should always be consulted.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 23 years old and have been going with a divorced man, 39, for three years. He has three boys of his own. In all the time I've known him, he has never said anything about marriage or a future together. He takes me to the movies, and to visit mutual friends, but that is all. My parents think I'm wasting my time going with him; as I am single they feel I should go with single men.

ROSELLA

ANSWER: Here, as usual, parents are right! After wasting three years on neighborhood movies, you should have sense enough to see that your beau offers no future. He wants occasional companionship, wich you obligingly supply, but beyond that there is nothing in this friendship for you. At 28 you could employ your time to much better advantage than wasting it on a barren friendship. Furthermore, you are seriously hurting your chances of meeting eligible men by concentrating all your time on a divorced man so much older than you. Even if he were to offer you marriage, you'd be foolish to accept. The age difference is considerable, and a man who has made a failure of one marriage is not too promising a prospect for a second.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I would like your opinion on our problem. He insists there is nothing wrong in a married man going to a public dance hall without his wife. I love to dance, too, and would very much enjoy going out to dances. We have four children.

A. E. H.

ANSWER: Attendance at a public dance hall, for the father of four children, indicates to me a case of arrested development. Such places are the natural habitats of teen-age jitterbugs, not men who are supposed to have some sense. In any community, there are enough dances held under the auspices of church and civic clubs to satisfy the most avid devotee of terpsichore. Your husband should take you to these socials and enjoy himself as befits a man of his stature in life. You shouldn't have trouble getting a baby-sitter occasionally, and you'll both be better for a night out together.

Bring Glamor Into Household

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 14—(AP)—Imagine coming home from work and finding the little woman vacuuming the parlor in a sarong!

Designer Edith Head is launching a campaign to make the home more glamorous.

"Glamor has gone out of the home," sighed the pert brunette who designs clothes for Betty Hutton, Bette Davis and other film queens.

"When a wife gets up in the morning, she throws a robe around herself, whips up a quick breakfast, dresses the kids and spoons some food down the baby. When her husband last views her before going to work, her hair is still up in curlers and she is a mess."

"When he returns home at night she is too busy making dinner to change the old clothes she has been cleaning the house in."

What To Do

But what can be done about this situation, aside from going into hock and hiring a maid?

"The wife should steal a few minutes to beautify herself," said Miss Head. "And if she doesn't have the time to change her clothes, then she should wear a uniform that would be neat and attractive at all times.

"I don't mean that they have to invest in fancy wardrobes. I think one uniform for the housewife could be the housecoat, which can be neat, attractive and inexpensive. She can perform her home duties in it, and still look glamorous when her husband comes home at night."

The housewife could also adopt other eye-appealing outfits, she added, even suggesting a sarong.

Miss Head's criticism of the loss of glamor wasn't only directed at the fair sex. She also rapped the husbands.

"The average man in business dresses up in the morning so he can look his best throughout the day," she cited. "But when he gets home . . . he wears something old and worn out—like a sweat shirt, jeans and sneakers."

"So what is the solution?" I asked. "Should we wear sarongs, too?"

"No, silly," she replied. "There are plenty of sports clothes which are good looking and yet provide leisure and relaxation."

Brazilians Make One Word Express A Lot

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

There is a word in Brazil which is the same in either Portuguese or English. It is the word "light."

For "the light" means Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Co., Ltd., its six operating subsidiaries in Brazil, and the subsidiaries of those subsidiaries—most of which have unwieldy names, such as "Rio De Janeiro Tramway, Light and Power Co., Ltd.," or its Portuguese equivalent.

The only difference is in the article. The Portuguese word for "the" is "a," and "the light," in English, becomes "a light" in Portuguese.

There's another name which is the same in both languages. It is "Cobast," a contraction of "Companhia Brasileira Administradora de Servicos Tecnicos," the management company which coordinates and oversees the activities of the operating subsidies.

Holding Company

Brazilian Traction itself, a name you won't likely find in any telephone directory in Brazil, even though its subsidiaries own and operate most of the telephones, is the holding company" in the set-up, and the name commonly known in Canada.

If you enter Brazil at Rio De Janeiro, as this writer did recently, you will quickly find yourself within the orbit of "the light."

If it's evening, you are examined at immigration and customs under its radiance. As you drive in from the airport, those brilliant street lights which make Rio at night a city of "jewelled necklaces," are, of corse, its further manifestations, as is the day-like brightness of the long immaculate tunnels which thread around Rio's mountains.

And when you finally reach your hotel room and pick up your telephone, that's "the light" again, for telephone service is its work, too.

If you live in Rio or Sao Paulo, it will supply your home with gas; and, in Rio, it will ride you back and forth to work on its streetcars.

Complex Set-Up

Some one has described the complexity of its operations and of its public relations, as a sort of combination of Ontario and Quebec Hydros, the Bell Telephone Company, the Toronto Transportation Commission, and the Consumers Gas Company.

It would like to shed the Rio street-car system, as it has those in Sao Paulo and Santos. It thinks a municipal ownership would be better able to deal with the thorny problem of fares, now set at about 2½ cents, and a losing proposition.

The trams are rather ancient-looking, open-air affairs, with seats crosswise, like summer-time cars in Canadian cities before the First World War. Whatever their other frailties, they do seem suitable for the warm climate. They drag smallish, open-air trailers, and crowds stand on the outside running boards, hanging on to supports and swaying into the streets. The conductor doesn't always manage to collect his fares.

Apt Names

Brazilians, who have a way with names, call the trams "bondes" (pronounced bondies), because they were originally financed with an issue of bonds. Other means of transportation include big modern buses and taxi-like automobiles called "lotacaos," which carry seven passengers each.

"The Light" serves an area of about 250,000 square miles—about the size of Manitoba, or Saskatchewan, or Alberta—in the heartland of Brazil.

This area produces 77 per cent of the country's manufactured goods, 81 per cent of its tax revenue, and has nearly half of Brazil's 52,000,000 people.

In 10 years the company has about doubled its installed generating capacity to a total of 958,412 kilowatts of 1,284,735 horsepower. One development under way will add another 330,000 kilowatts, and further additions are being considered. Telephone installations have also about doubled in the decade.

Police Commission

picked up on January 13, for the first time.

It is known that the newspaper stories about Brant have attracted the attention of people who saw him during the period that has not been accounted for. While he was serving 10 days in the county jail, authorities there had an opportunity to observe him.

Dr. Ralph Clark, jail physician said today he examined Brant between January 14 and 23. He found the little toe on Brant's foot had been frozen but was "healing nicely."

When Brant was brought back to jail the second time on January 31, it was found that both feet were "black from frostbite." It was feared for a time that he would lose both feet and that they would even have to be amputated part way up the legs. However, his feet responded to treatment, and doctors have managed to save all except the tips of his feet.

After discussing the contents of Chief Thompson's report Thursday afternoon, the commissioners apparently felt that the matter warranted a thorough investigation.

Papal Message

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP).—Rev. Paul Dwyer, who had a special audience with Pope Pius in Rome recently, said the Pontiff is keenly interested in Canada and sent his blessings and felicitations to all Canadians. His Holiness expressed the hope that Canadians would never cease to pray for peace.

Board Of Education

ning of 1950 to 4,586 at the beginning of 1952. In same period the Collegiate enrolment has increased from 1,222 to 1,257.

Mr. Adamson said the Board's C-O-L bonus amounted to $80,150 of the total increase. This was consistent with similar payments in industry and other fields, he said.

All other expenditures have increased by $35,871. The increases were confirmed after scrutiny by the individual standing committees and the finance committee. They range over a wide variety of items.

City Hall Rent

Some of the larger increases as outlined by Mr. Adamson:

City Hall rental $4,400. This is a new expenditure. The previous office accommodation in South Central School required little cash outlay.

Fire insurance increase of $3,000. This was caused by a five-cent boost in the rate, together with additional coverage required for Kenner Collegiate Grove School and Prince of Wales Annex.

Fuel increases $4,600. An increased expenditure was budgeted for to take care of the fuel allowance for Prince of Wales Annex, Grove School and Kenner Collegiate.

Receipts remain about the same.

Some increase is expected in the general grant from the province because of the higher enrolment and in the fees obtained through the enrolment of non-resident pupils. These account for an increase of $18,890 over the 1951 figure of $306,313; or something less than half a mill.

The Board of Education levy on the city for 1952 is $711,938 or $144,451 more than 1951. And the rate on the current account is increased 3.4 mills.

C-O-L Stalls

make headway toward agreement, and Mayor Waddell asked the delegation whether they would report the council's offer to the members of their association.

"Yes, we'll do that," Mr. Nokes answered, "but I can't say what they'll think of it. We do recognize the responsibility of the council, but we have a responsibility, too, although in a different degree. Our proposal is what I think they would be willing to accept."

As to the council's offer, Mr. Nokes said previously to that stage near adjournment, "We are already receiving that."

Ald. Miller: "The take-home pay offer is in comparison with that of other municipalities comparable in size with Peterborough."

Mr. Nokes said the association was advised that if the wage clause became a matter for arbitration, "the incorporation (of cost-of-living bonus in salary) would be a strong matter, and once it is incorporated there is no more cost-of-living bonus."

Mayor Waddell: "We are practically together on the amount of take-home pay. The only question is basic pay, and on that point I don't think we are out of line with other cities of our size."

Ald. Miller: "If the council is not adding the cost-of-living bonus to basic salary this year, that doesn't say it would still hold in 1953."

Fair In 1951

Mr. Nokes recalled that the association was offered a cost-of-living bonus last year. It was accepted and it proved to be "a very fair arrangement."

In the beginning, Mr. Nokes explained that the members had investigated wage scale, and considering other phases of their work, they felt that they could justify a claim for an increase of $899 in the average fireman's annual salary.

Taking an average of all classes of industrial labor, skilled and unskilled, male and female, they arrived at $54.18 a week as a basic figure. For the differential in hours of work as between their own 56 hours a week and the 44 hours in most industries, they should be allowed $10.50 a week at the rate of 97 cents an hour.

For the element of hazard in their work they suggested an allowance of $3 a week. For all the time they spent in training they also suggested five cents an hour or $2.80 a week extra.

Those were the items totalling $899 which the men considered as a salary increase they were entitled to ask of the council.

"But, we are not asking that," Mr. Nokes said. "All we are asking for is the incorporation of our cost-of-living bonus in our basic wage."

As to firemen's salaries elsewhere, there appeared to be some question as to actual settlement of scales for 1952 in several of the cities.

Mayor Waddell quoted Kitchener as having reached agreement with the firemen at $3,250 for a first class fireman, with no cost-of-living bonus.

A corresponding salary in Brantford was said to be $3,284 including cost-of-living bonus.

"We believe both of them to be settled," His Worship said.

Sarnia was believed to be definite at $3,300. Said Mr. Nokes: "If we got the $532 incorporated, it would amount to $3,332 for us."

Basic wage in St. Catharines last year was $2,700, plus $100 allowance for each fireman's home telephone, plus $248.59 across the board, and an allowance for emergency work in off-duty hours.

Those figures were set out in a letter which City Clerk Outram had obtained for the council within the last week. The new salary for a fifth year man, as requested, was $3,000, and Mr. Outram told the committee that the letter did not definitely indicate whether that was basic.

Secretary George Gimblett sat at the council's table with Mr. Nokes, and behind them were: Vice-president Clarence Pruner, Clarence Bennett, John Luther and Don Bartley.

Mr. Nokes told the committee that the association would call a meeting as soon as possible.

Brantford Teachers Receive Increase

BRANTFORD, March 14 —(CP) — Elementary and secondary school teachers Thursday night were given salary increases of $200 each plus a cost-of-living bonus of $180 annually. The latter is adjustable up or down at $5 a point for every three points fluctuation in the cost-of-living index.

Elementary school teachers have accepted the increase. Secondary teachers asked previously that the Board of Education meet with officials of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation to discuss the schedule. This proposal was rejected by the board.

Labor Board

fied that employees generally were not aware, and were not made aware, that any possibility existed of recovering their $2. We are also satisfied that they understood perfectly that the applicant's intention was to return $1 to anyone who would sign a new application and that many of them agreed to do so simply because that was the procedure necessary to receive the refund.

(The original $2 payment was not acceptable as evidence of membership.)

Whitewash

Leonard Velleman, UE, representative, said today that the rejection of the union's application was only to "whitewash" the fact that the Board had twice made errors in counting up the number of eligible union members.

At the hearing in August we told the Board—and there was no objection from the company's counsel—that we were returning the $2 from the original application.

C. S. Jackson, Canadian head of the UE, said it was "the most unfair judgment ever given by the Board".

"If it weren't for the fact that the Board's report is a privileged document we would enter a suit for libel and slander", he said today.

Given New Car

HOLLYWOOD, March 14 — (AP)—Edward G. Robinson, Jr., says his actor father is giving him a brand new automobile for his 19th birthday next Wednesday. Edward, Sr., ordered the youth to leave home after his elopement to Tijuana, Mexico, with actress Frances Chisholm, 22. The father relented and came to the boy's aid when he was arrested on a charge of issuing a bad cheque. That case is pending.

Arsenal Layoffs Only Temporary

LINDSAY, March 14 — Layoff of 40 workers at Canadian Arsenals Ltd. will be only temporary, Col. E. M. Shields, manager of the crown company, said Thursday.

The cutback in employment affects only one production line, and will last only a limited time—two or three months, Col. Shields said. He doesn't expect layoffs in other departments.

No Celebration

PRINCETON, N.J., March 14— (AP)—Albert Einstein is 73 years old today and, as usual, will do his best to avoid any birthday celebration. The famed physicist and mathematician won't even have a birthday cake, his secretary Miss Helen Dukas said Thursday. He was expected to walk as usual the three-quarter-mile distance from his home to his work at the Institute for Advanced Study.

Rev. Patterson Honored By Presbytery

On petition of the congregation of South Monaghan (Centreville) and Millbrook, the Peterborough Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada has approved of the honor of conferring upon the Rev. Walter Patterson the title minister-emeritus. Mr. Patterson was until recently in charge of the pastorate and has now retired from the active ministry and is living in Millbrook.

Meeting in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, the Presbytery expressed satisfaction with the manner in which the congregations of Nestleton and Ballyduff had erected a new manse.

The board of missions was asked to appoint, if possible, ordained ministers to the pastoral charges of Keene and Westwood, and Bowmanville and Newtonville. It was officially stated that the Presbyterian Church in Canada is short 120 ministers. The Presbytery approved the board of missions' plan to send a team of two men to the British Isles to interview ordained ministers who have expressed a desire to come to Canada, and to settle with the men who meet the church's educational and other standards, with the consent of the congregations and Presbyteries.

Commissioners to the forthcoming general assembly at Toronto in June were appointed. The Rev. J. M. Ritchie of Warkworth and the Rev. L. H. Fowler of Port Hope will represent the Presbytery as ministers. Mr. James Dutton of Peterborough, chairman of the board of administration of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, was appointed one of the two elder commissioners. Howe Thinks Value Of UK Trade To Increase In '52

OTTAWA, March 15. (CP)—Trade Minister Howe believes that the value of Canada's trade with the United Kingdom will increase this year despite restrictions imposed on dollar purchases by the recent British budget. In an 8,000-word review of his trade and defence-production departments, Mr. Howe told the Commons Friday that only some Canadian manufacturers and producers will feel the pinch of the latest restrictions. "I have heard the suggestion made in this House that Canada is losing the British market," said Mr. Howe. "Of course, that is not true.

"The fact is that Canadian exports to the United Kingdom increased from $470,000,000 in 1950 to $631,000,000 in 1951 and I would not be surprised if, in spite of the British financial crisis, our exports to that market were to rise by another $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 during 1952.

"Although the British may forego certain marginal items from Canada they are very much interested in items such as our wheat, our flour, our lumber and our metals."

Fears Consequences

The embargo imposed by the United States on Canadian livestock and meat as a result of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan could have "most serious consequences." He was hopeful the disease would be brought under control and the embargo removed with the least possible delay.

Looking back over the last year Mr. Howe said it had been a remarkable one.

"Twelve months ago the world was in the midst of an inflationary upsurge of prices from which Canada could not and did not escape . . . Then came the reaction.

"Many of the shortages that had been anticipated did not materialize and where shortages did appear, they were a good deal less serious than had been feared."

Panic buying now has ended and everyone is more cautious about the future, he said. Real trouble came when too many people were convinced either that there was going to be an inflation or that there was going to be a depression.

Situation Improves

"I see no reason to anticipate either inflation or depression."

The supply situation for 1952 should not be as "tight" as it was last year.

Expanses were under way in the Canadian steel, iron ore, aluminum, copper, nickel, lead and zinc industries.

Reviewing the defence-production program, Mr. Howe repeated Prime Minister St. Laurent's statement that expenditures are expected to fall short by $200,000,000 of the $1,100,000,000 goal set at the beginning of the year.

One factor in the reduction in spending was a shortage in equipment Canada needed, including a shortage in machine tools.

Of the $900,000,000 Canada spent during the first year, roughly about three-quarters was spent in Canada and one-quarter in the United States.

Breadner Dies In Boston, Ill Long Time

OTTAWA, March 15—(CP)—Air-Chief Marshal L. S. Breadner, former chief-of-air-staff and commander of the R.C.A.F. overseas during the latter part of the Second World War, died Friday night in a Boston hospital.

The veteran airman, who achieved the highest rank ever awarded in the R.C.A.F., was in ill-health for some time. He was 58.

The air chief marshal took over as chief of the air staff in 1940. In 1943 he relinquished this title and went overseas as commander of the R.C.A.F. forces in Britain.

He was promoted air chief marshal shortly before his retirement in 1945.

Air Force headquarters learned of his death this morning.

It was the second death of an R.C.A.F. senior veteran in three weeks. On Feb. 22, Air Marshal Harold (Gus) Edwards died in Arizona at the age of 59. He built up the R.C.A.F. overseas and Breadner took over in 1943.

Missing Heiress Returns Home

NEW YORK, March 15 (CP).—Mavis Chaffey Ramus returned to her home Friday night unaware that she had been listed as "missing" by police and friends. Police said she was reticent about her absence.

Police, checking leads in the search for the attractive 32-year-old divorcee, visited her apartment before midnight.

All Mrs. Ramus would say to police was that she had been visiting friends. With her in the apartment was her mother, Mrs. George E. Chaffey of Montreal.

Earlier Mrs. Chaffey told police she came here a week ago to help her daughter close her small apartment and sell the furniture. Mrs. Ramus, a student artist, planned to return to Montreal.

Mrs. Ramus was described to police as a Canadian real estate heiress.

Hear King Abducted Bangkok In Tizzy

BANGKOK, Thailand, March 15 — (AP) — Rumors of a serious origin that Thailand's young King Phumiphon Aduldet had been kidnapped while on a vacation jaunt alarmed this capital for three or four hours today.

The rumors were found groundless by police and government officials after a hurried investigation. The king was vacationing at Hua Hin, a seaside resort on the Gulf of Siam.

A police alert was declared during the hours of uncertainty. Once the king's safety was assured the alert was ended and officials began an immediate investigation of the sources of the rumor.

Won't Give Passports

TOKYO, March 15 — (AP) — The Japanese government announced today it will issue no passports for travel to Russia for the present. The decision was announced in a statement which cited as a reason the internment of over 300,000 Japanese in the Soviet Union. The order hit Ikuo Oyama, Japanese educator and Socialist leader, named as a winner of the $25,000 Stalin peace prize for 1951. Oyama will not be allowed to go to Moscow to receive his award and prize money.

12 POW's Killed In Second Riot At Camp

TOKYO, March 15 (AP) — A second bloody riot in less than a month at the United Nations Command's crowded Koje Island prison camp last Thursday brought death to 12 North Korean war prisoners and left 26 other prisoners wounded, the army announced today.

One American officer and a South Korean civilian were injured.

The army did not say whether the wounded prisoners were North Koreans or Chinese.

The riot broke out when diehard Communist prisoners in a separate compound began stoning a work party of co-operative prisoners and a detachment of South Korean troops, the announcement said.

The South Korean guards opened fire.

The army said the riot was broken up and "all prisoners are complying fully with the orders of the authorities."

Asked To Investigate

The International Red Cross has been asked to investigate the incident and the U.N. command is making its own inquiry.

Seventy-five Korean civilian internees and a soldier of the U.S. 27th Infantry Regiment died in a Communist-led riot at Koje Feb. 18. Twenty-two U.S. soldiers and 129 internees were wounded.

Red truce negotiators at Panmunjom have made propaganda capital of the first Koje riot and Allied spokesmen predict bitter attacks from the Communists as the result of Thursday's outbreak.

Koje Island lies about 27 miles off Korea's southeast coast. It is 25 miles long and 15 miles wide. On the island the Allies have constructed 29 wire-enclosed compounds in which approximately 132,000 military prisoners and 54,000 civilian internees are imprisoned.

Arrest 36 Men Gambling In Chapel

NEW YORK, March 15—(AP)—With a solemnityy not due to the surroundings, a police confidential squad slipped quietly into an upper East Side funeral chapel Friday night and arrested 36 men.

Thirty-five of them were alleged to be playing dice alongside a candle-decked altar.

The other was the owner, Anthony Piragnoli, 63, who, police said, got $25 a night for use of his chapel for gambling.

The raiders seized a large table, five pairs of dice and other paraphernalia.

Sees Awkward Situation With Farmers, Sportsmen

TORONTO, March 15. (CP)—The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests is worried about "a very awkward situation" developing between farmers and sportsmen, Lands Minister Harold Scott said on Friday night. "It is something which is in your hands," he told the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters. "I can't legislate against it."

Hunting licences didn't provide authority for trespassing on private property. Huntsmen were largely dependent upon the goodwill of the farmer for their sport.

"It should never be forgotten," said Mr. Scott, "that access to private lands is a privilege, not a right, and this privilege should never be abused. An epidemic of 'no trespassing' signs could quite readily curb the hunting and fishing possibilities in any area."

He said his department is planning to cross experiments this spring using a female maskinonge and male pike to try to produce a "muskie-pike," a fish as prolific as the pike and with the fighting heart of the muskellunge.

Earlier the federation elected its officers, including president Kenneth Clark of Kingston. Mr. Clark said that weak laws and politics were the main allies of pollution in provincial lakes and streams.

He also criticized the use of airplanes for hunting and fishing expeditions and said representations have been made to the Ontario government to end such use of planes.

Appoint Arthur To CNE Position

TORONTO, March 15 (CP). — The Canadian National Exhibition will be more completely Canadian when it opens this year.

The board of directors Friday appointed Jack Arthur of Toronto as executive producer of the grandstand spectacle and approved the theme "Canada's Year" for the whole exhibition.

Mr. Arthur, who has been in show business since he toured in Harry Lauder's company in Great Britain at the age of seven, was awarded the Order of the British Empire in 1948 for his work in producing 3,000 concerts for Canadian servicemen.

The board has not yet decided on a feature performer for the grandstand show but announced that an 80-piece R.C.A.F. band will play in the bandshell.

Mr. Arthur will be on loan for the C.N.E. grandstand shows from Famous Players' Canadian Corporation with which he is district supervisor for a large group of theatres.

During the second world war he produced the Canadian Army Show and worked with the Canadian Army's radio production.

Report Chinese Free British Businessman

HONG KONG, March 15 (Reuters)—Robin Gordon, 50-year-old British business man reported Friday to have been "detained" by Chinese Communists in Shanghai, has been released, it was reported tonight. He is director of the Shanghai office of a brewery company based at Camp, Scotland. Friday that Gordon was "detained" because the brewery was unable to find money needed to pay its Chinese employees for February.

The company's statement said the Chinese government's retail monopoly, main purchaser of the brewery's output, was unable to buy it.

Queen's Birthday Set

OTTAWA, March 15 — (CP) — The Queen's birthday will be celebrated in Canada Monday, June 9, State Secretary Bradley told the Commons Friday. He said an order-in-concil was passed by cabinet Friday authorizing a proclamation to that effect.

File Damage Suit

LOS ANGELES, March 15 (AP) —A $30,000 damage suit has been filed by musician Harry Loventhal and his wife against their former landlord, Hans Wallner, charging that their eviction from an apartment caused the death of their two-year-old daughter. The Loventhals contend that Wallner turned off the heat during cold weather in March, 1951, and that their baby got pneumonia.

Severe Storm Strands Marines

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15 — (AP)—Rotary snowplows churned through five-foot snow depths today to free two busloads of stranded marines reported on from their winter training camp in eastern California.

Four other buses of marines were bogged down by the 14-hour snow storm but later reached towns. Marines in the buses which normally carry 30 men, were reported to be equipped with Arctic gear.

The unseasonable storm belted northern California and mountain areas Friday and drove into the southern part of the state today.

Los Angeles and San Diego braced for roaring gales, heavy rain and snow by putting civil defence and Red Cross workers on the alert in both cities.

Fourteen inches of new snow blanketed Reno, Nev., and more was expected today.

Put On Show

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 15—(AP) — Wayne Dingledine, 30-year-old news vendor, quit hawking headlines Friday and got into them. He climbed the 625-foot tower of WHAS-TV and put on an unscheduled performance for television viewers. Firemen met him at the 200-foot level and assisted him to the ground. Dingledine said, "I just had the impulse to climb. I can't explain it."

UAW Sets Up Board In Red Local

Ordered To Fire Any Officers Found Communist

DETROIT, March 15. (AP)—The international executive board of the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) today set up a board of administration for its giant Ford Local 600 and directed it to fire any officers found to be "members of, or subservient to" the Communist party.

The unprecedented action followed an all-day session, which broke up shortly after midnight, at which Carl Stellato, president of the local, and his staff had been ordered to show cause why they should not be ousted.

U.A.W. president Walter P. Reuther, chairman of the new six-man board of administration, had charged Stellato, vice-president Patrick F. Rice, recording secretary William R. Hood and treasurer W. G. Grant of Local 600 of failing to abide by the U.A.W. constitution which prohibits Communists from holding office within the union.

The Board was reported planning to take over the local's headquarters either Sunday or Monday. Makeup of the Board was unique in U.A.W. annals. Previously whenever an administratorship was placed over a local, it consisted of only one international union official.

Well-Disciplined Reds

In its statement the U.A.W. executive board said that, in its opinion:

"The difficulties in Local 600 arise from the manipulations of a small but well-disciplined Communist group which exerts influence far beyond its actual members."

The statement added:

"The evidence presented to the international executive board proves beyond any doubt that this disciplined Communist minority

Two Boys Find Vendor's Body

HAMILTON, March 15 (CP) — The body of news vendor James (Scotty) McLeod, the skull crushed in and a scarf knotted around the throat, was found on Friday night near Stones Creek, a few miles from Hamilton's city limits.

The 62-year-old man disappeared January 29. A large-scale search turned up no clues to his whereabouts.

McLeod was regarded by acquaintances as an eccentric because of his habit of carrying large amounts of money. When last seen by friends, he was believed to have several hundred dollars on his person.

Only a few coins were in his pockets when two schoolboys came upon his decomposed body about 100 feet below Ridge Road, which runs along the brow of Hamilton Mountain. There were deep cuts on his face.

Raid Apartment Where Suspect With Wife, Brother

TORONTO, March 15. (CP)—Edwin Alonzo Boyd was captured in bed today by heavily-armed police who watched all night and then stormed his apartment in north-central Toronto in a sunrise raid. As detectives with drawn guns crashed through his bedroom door, the startled Boyd sat up in the bed and quipped: "Well, this is one way to meet you." He surrendered to Sergeant of Detectives Adolphus Payne and Detective Ken Craven without offering any resistance. His wife, whom he married overseas during the Second World War during his service as a commando, and his brother, Norman, were taken into custody in the apartment as material witnesses.

The capture of the 37-year-old Boyd ended a hunt for three men wanted for a series of holdups and linked with the March 6 shooting and wounding of two Toronto detectives. This week the search for him has been concentrated in Montreal, where the two other men sought by police were arrested after gun battles.

Sixty Toronto officers moved in on the Heath Street East apartment, off Yonge Street just north of St. Clair Avenue, after sitting out an eerie all-night watch. They were loaded down with bullet-proof vests, tear gas, machine guns and high-powered rifles.

Boyd, who broke jail last November while facing trial on a bank robbery charge, came out smiling from the apartment on Heath St. West, where he had been visiting his wife. Police found a new, briefcase in the apartment, containing $25,000 and a revolver.

The quietness of Boyd's capture was in sharp contrast to the violent shooting affrays that accompanied the arrest of Boyd's alleged accomplices, Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson, both in hospital in Montreal.

Moved Fast

Suchan, charged with firing the shot that seriously wounded Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong in West Toronto March 6, was felled by police bullets in his swank Montreal apartment the following day.

Jackson, who broke jail with Boyd in Toronto last November and is charged jointly with Suchan in the shooting affray in which Tong and detective-ser-

Three Gunmen Rob Rich Operator's Home

BUTLER, Pa., March 15 (AP)—Three gunmen robbed a wealthy coal operator's home of an estimated $131,000 Friday and beat up his 40-year-old wife.

The trio gained entrance to the plush home of Craig Saul, coal company operator, by posing as delivery men.

Three young children of the couple stood by helplessly as the gunmen clubbed their mother with pistol butts.

Two of the robbers kept watch over Mrs. Saul and the children while a third pried open the safe with a sledge hammer and a crowbar.

British Lift Ismailia Cordon

ISMAILIA, Egypt, March 15 — (Reuters)—Gen. Sir George Erskine, commander of the British troops in Egypt, has greed to lift the British military cordon in Ismailia on the north side of the Sweet Water Canal, his headquarters announced today.

Barbed-wire barricades and troops will be withdrawn from the Guay Mohammed Ali, and Egyptians evicted from houses in the cordoned area—about two blocks deep—will be allowed to return, a spokesman said.

British troops will keep military posts in the area and will also continue to patrol the town.

A battalion of troops will remain in the town to ensure law and order.

Erskine ordered the cordoning of the north side of the Sweet Water Canal and the occupation of the area last January after the killing of an American nun, Sister Anthony, in the grounds of the Convent of St. Vincent De Paul, during gun fighting between British troops and Egyptian terrorists.

British authorities have decided to allow passenger trains to run between Cairo and Suez. The first will leave this weekend.

Announce Steps Taken Aid Plane Passengers

OTAWA, March 15 — (CP) — Steps have been taken which it is hoped will prevent recurrence of the restriction of Canadian passengers to their T.C.A. plane at Buffalo March 4, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Friday.

The said Gordon Graham (PC-Peel) in the Commons that the incident was no fault of United States authorities and that it resulted from "some confusion" at the airport.

The incident involved Canadian passengers being refused to leave their T.C.A. plane while it stopped over at Buffalo for some hours.

Internal Revenue Collector Guilty On Two Charges

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 15 (CP) —A federal court jury early today convicted former internal revenue collector James P. Finnegan on two misconduct-in-office charges.

The 11 men and one woman freed him of three other counts—including two of bribery.

Finnegan, 51, personal friend of President Truman, took the decision quietly. The verdict came at 1:18 a.m. EST after nine hours of deliberation.

Judge Rubey M. Hulen will pronounce sentence March 24. Maximum penalty under the conviction is four years in prison and $20,000 in fines.

The counts under which Finnegan was found guilty involved acceptance of $5,000 from the Warwick Hotel Corporation for helping the firm in a claim against the coast guard for damage during the Second World War occupancy, and for taking $3,000 from the American Lithofold Corporation to represent the St. Louis printing firm in connection with a reconstruction finance corporation loan.

The jurors found that Finnegan by accepting these sums, violated a federal law prohibiting officers and employees from taking compensation from outside parties to represent them before government agencies.

In his defence testimony, Finnegan denied he represented either firm in connection with government matters, adding he received the money for outside work which he did for the companies.

The bribery counts from which he was freed involved the now-defunct Karol Kell Garment Company.

The government charged he took two $250 cheques from the firm to influence his decision in the company's tax troubles. The government also contended that Finnegan received $641 worth of furniture to help Karol Kell with an R.F.C. loan application.

Finnegan is the second former tax collector convicted of illegal acts while performing federal duties.

Living Cost Index System To Be Changed In Summer

OTTAWA, March 14 (CP) — Like many housewives, the cost-of-living index is going to get a new outfit this summer and, again that won't make the bills any smaller.

The Bureau of Statistics is going to scrap its present system of computing the cost of living. Instead of basing prices on 1935-39 equalling 100, the Bureau will take 1949 prices as the base.

The new price barometer isn't going to be called cost-of-living index either. The new name is "consumer price index."

The Bureau said the decision to change the index's name was made because the old title is confusing. The index is meant to measure the price changes of certain consumer goods bought by the average family.

The Bureau also found from a country-wide sampling in 1948 and 1949 that Canadians have changed their buying habits. Fewer pay rent and more own their own homes; more use fuel oil and, on the average, spend more for food.

Thus food costs will make up 32 per cent of the index, up one per cent from the old one. Home furnishings and fuel and light will be combined into one sub-index called household operation, instead of the two previous ones. This group will make up 17 per cent of the new index instead of the 15 per cent the two groups made in the old index.

Clothing will make up 12 per cent instead of 11 and the rent sub-group will become "shelter" with 15 per cent of the new index instead of 19 as in the old one.

Fresh fruits and vegetables will be surveyed under foods and children's wear will be added to the clothing sub-group. Fuel oil will be surveyed and the list of household equipment items expanded.

The survey of transportation and recreation costs will be widened and life-insurance premium costs will be dropped.

All this will bring the index down to around 110.0 or 120.0 instead of its present figure around 200.0.

First Investigators Arrive In Korea

TOKYO, March 15 (AP).—The Communist radio at Pyongyang today said representatives of eight foreign countries reached North Korea March 4 to investigate the alleged germ warfare by the United Nations.

The broadcast, heard in Tokyo, said the investigators included lawyers and educationists from Austria, Italy, Red China, France, England, Greece, the Netherlands and Egypt.

They will work in groups of two at Different spots where the Reds say the U.N. dropped germ-laden containers, the radio said.

The U.N. command and the U.S. State Department have denied Red charges of bacteriological warfare.

Once City Boy Now Heads Uranium Mine

Indore mine, the president of which is Paul Gliddon, formerly of Peterborough, is expected to become this spring the first uranium producer in the Northwest Territories since Eldorado.

"As a matter of fact," says the Yellowknife weekly, "in titles, the company considers its Pitch 8 mine to be the scene of the farthest north private enterprise uranium operation on this continent. Eldorado is located 80 miles farther north, but it is a government operation.

"At Hottah Lake, Indore's new tractor is busily engaged in clearing a 4,000-foot air strip on the ice as landing ground for Associated Airways' big Bristol freighter. Shortly, a fuel haul and movement of the heavier equipment necessary for shaftmaking will be under way.

Indore will move in at least 8,000 gallons of oil, sufficient to maintain mill and surface equipment until next December when additional supplies will be obtained by using the tractor to haul it from Sawmill Bay on Great Bear Lake."

The "News of the North" story mentions a program of construction of mill buildings, warehouse, cookery, garage, and machine shop.

High Grade Ore

"A test sample from Indore's Pitch 27-28 property, near the main mine at Hottah Lake, has this week (Feb. 28) been forwarded to Ottawa. The available surface ore is extremely highgrade, a sample run by the Department of Mines returned 5.29% U308.

If tests indicate that this material will lend itself to treatment similar to the Pitch 8 ore, this will greatly enhance Indore's ore reserve position since it will be possible to obtain a considerable tonnage from this property using open pit mining methods."

The report also refers to expected arrival of a compressor to be flown to the mine on arrival at Yellowknife.

Mr. Gliddon is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Gliddon who conducted the Peterborough Conservatory of Music years ago. Its concert hall was at the northeast corner of Hunter and Rubidge Streets.

Rupert Gliddon was also the director of the 57th Regimental Band. The family is gratefully remembered for the cultural asset to the community which they established in the Conservatory. Paul Gliddon as a youth was an accomplished clarinetist. In other years he was a newspaper publisher in the Rouyn district of Quebec, and again was heard of in the opening of the Yellowknife goldfield. The weekly tells of his present interest in uranium as president of Indore.

Bill Passed To Launch Hospital Inquiry

TORONTO, March 15 (CP). — The wheels of legislation turned rapidly this week at the Ontario Legislature to push through a bill which is expected to launch next week an investigation of East Windsor Hospital at Windsor.

The bill, introduced only Wednesday to permit investigation of any hospital or other organization receiving provincial grants, was put through committee stage on Friday.

On Monday it will be given formal third reading and Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt will enter the chamber to give royal assent to it and to a number of minor bills which have passed through all stages of legislation.

Attorney-General Porter, who said there is evidence of "certain possible irregularities which may turn out to be quite extensive," added that a royal commissioner will be appointed for the East Windsor inquiry as soon as royal assent is given.

Another inquiry will be undertaken by a select committee of the Legislature appointed Friday. It will inquire into the laws affecting corporations in Ontario.

Wider Scope

Premier Frost, announcing the government's appointment of the committee, said it will also be given "plenty of opportunity to inquire into the effects of corporations on Canadian life."

The committee, with nine members under the chairmanship of Kelso Roberts (P.C.-Toronto St. Patrick), will be empowered to meet between session of the Legislature. Its first duty will be the study of a bill introduced on Friday by Provincial Secretary Welsh, containing the first complete revision in 45 years of the statute governing corporations.

Three cabinet members are on the committee. They are Attorney-General Porter, Col. Welsh and Public Works Minister Thomas. Other members are W. M. Nickel (PC-Kingston), E. L. Weaver (PC-Toronto St. David), Elmer Brandon (PC-York West), Aurele Chartrand (L-Ottawa East) and W. J. Grummett (CCF-Cochrane South).

Mr. Frost said some farming district representatives are included among the majority of lawyers of the committee because of the increasing importance of farm co-operatives.

Approve Principle Of Bill

The House also approved the principle of a bill revising the warble fly control statute. Agriculture Minister Kennedy said he hoped the present control program would eliminate the cattle pest in the province.

The warble fly, whose grubs burrow through a cow's flesh and damage the animal's hide when they emerge, "has caused losses running into many millions of dollars to the livestock industry annually", Col. Kennedy said.

Other cattle diseases and pests had been either eradicated or partly controlled, he said. Improved livestock health standards had resulted in a doubling in the last seven years of exports of dairy and purebred cattle. If diseases could be wiped out "the markets of the world would be ours".

Evacuate 16 Villages

MANILA, March 15 (AP). — The Philippine News Service today said a sharp earthquake jolted the Sagay area near grumbling Hibok Hibok volcano on Camiguin island Friday. Camiguin is 30 miles north of Mindanao in the southern Philippines. Evacuation of 16 villages at the base of the volcano is in full swing. Last December the volcano brought death to an estimated 800 to 1,000 persons.

7 Non-Russians Get Stalin Prizes

MOSCOW, March 15 — (AP) — Stalin prizes in literature were given today to seven non-Russians —the first time prizes went outside the Soviet Union.

Among the 104 awards, one went to Russian composer Dmitri Shostakovich for his composition of 10 poems for chorus. He got a second place award of 50,000 rubles ($12,500) at the Russian-set official exchange rate).

(Shostakovich has been denounced frequently on the grounds he has strayed from the Soviet line with his music.)

Non-Soviet winners were authors of works translated into Russian. All these awards were of second and third prizes.

Four of the foreign winners are Chinese. French writer Andre Steele won a second prize for his novel "First Blow." Third prizes were awarded to two Hungarians.

Treats Out-Patients With New Efficiency

HOUNSLOW, Middlesex, England — (CP). — An out-patients department in a local hospital is believed perhaps the most modern in Britain.

Patients are treated with conveyor-belt speed and efficiency, under fluorescent lighting in a cream-walled waiting hall that holds 300. Nearby is a restaurant. And when their turn comes, patients are shown to one of 10 cubicles that show a colored light if still in use.

The hospital overcomes one of the headaches of the National Health Service. At some other hospital, patients wait on hard wooden benches, sometimes from 10 in the morning till late in the afternoon.

U.N. Negotiators Offer Reds Package Deal

MUNSAN, Korea, March 15 — (AP). — United Nations negotiators today offered the Communists a compromise "package deal" to settle five secondary issues blocking agreement on how to police a Korean armistice. The Reds indicated they will accept only the parts of the package favorable to them.

In an adjoining tent, Communist negotiators accused the U.N. Allies of "illegally" killing prisoners of war in a bloody riot on Thursday at the U.N. command's Koje Island prison.

U.N. command spokesmen predicted the Reds will seize on the incident for an all-out attack on Allied demands that war prisoners be given the right to choose whether they are to be repatriated. The Communists want all prisoners returned, regardless of their wishes.

"We'll undoubtedly be hearing more later," Rear-Admiral I. E. Libby, told newspapermen after advising the Communists of the latest Koje riot in which 12 Communists were killed and 26 injured.

The Reds branded the riot a "sanguinary incident."

Before the 21-minute session ended, the Reds accepted a U.N. proposal to turn the deadlocked prisoner-exchange negotiations back to staff officers.

Conditional Offer

U.N. staff officers working on truce supervision offered conditionally to accept the Red proposal to inspect only five ports of entry during an armistice and to yield on two other points if the Communists gave in on two issues. The U.N. has wanted six ports inspected on each side.

The Reds immediately accepted the three U.N. concessions, and indicated they were not interested in talking about the other two points.

The "package deal" also provided that the U.N. would drop demands for reports on the location of major military units and a guarantee that each side refrain from concentrating troops to threaten the other side during a truce.

In return, the Reds would have to agree to ban the inspection of secret weapons and to include the word "Korea" in armistice clauses prohibiting naval blockades during an armistice.

Former City Man Named Best Pal Canadian Boys

Rufe C. Gibbs of Vancouver, formerly of Peterborough, has been elected the Canadian Boys' Best Pal. The annual award was made by the Canadian Boys' Club.

Mr. Gibbs maintains a recreation centre in Vancouver at his own expense. He remodelled a downtown building and turned it over to the Vancouver Boys' Club Association.

Friends say that Mr. Gibbs, a fishing tackle manufacturer, has spent more than $40,000 on boys' work. In the club rooms the boys get boxing instruction from an ex-boxer and there are also handcrafts: airplane making and radio building.

It is Mr. Gibbs' way of fighting juvenile delinquency in the city. A bachelor, Mr. Gibbs has been playing "father" to thousands of boys in the east-end of Vancouver during the last 15 years.

The "Mand and Boy" trophy was presented by Leo Maki, who directed the Rufe Gibbs unit before he became C.B.C.A. director for all Canada.

Great Pleasure

"Presenting this trophy is a great personal pleasure because I grew up in the area the Gibbs' Club serves and I know how much it has helped and influenced youngsters who would never have got a chance if it hadn't been for Rufe Gibbs," said Mr. Maki.

Mr. Gibbs is the brother of the late J. A. Gibbs, real-estate agent in Peterborough. Mr. Gibbs was on his way to visit his brother in Vancouver when he died in September, 1950.

The parents of the two Gibbs' brothers were the late John Gibbs and Eliza Drury.

Rufe Gibbs was a toolmaker at C.G.E. before going to Vancouver.

Hand-Picking U.S. Soldiers

WASHINGTON, March 15. — (AP)—The United States Army is hand-picking the soldiers it sends to remote posts in the far north perimeter of defence.

This was pointed up today in a new regulation governing assignment of personnel to Fort Churchill, Man., where Canada and the U.S. have operated an outpost and training station for several years.

The regulation sets a higher-than-usual physical and aptitude standard.

Soldiers with any evidence of circulatory troubles are rejected because reduced blood flow might make them easy victims for frostbite. Other factors disqualifying them include chronic sinusitis and skin hypersensitivity to sun or wind.

An army spokesman said:

"The nature of the mission and the fact that it is being carried out jointly with another government requires that personnel serving at Fort Churchill be above average. They must possess characteristics which will enable them to promote friendly relationship with nationals of another government, as well as being professionally qualified for military specialties."

The two countries jointly operate weather and radar warning stations at other and even more northerly points on the continent.

Rabies-Bearing Bats Moving Towards U.S.

DETROIT—(CP)—Vampire bats carrying rabies are moving steadily northwards toward the United States, says Arthur M. Greenhall, curator of the Detroit zoo.

Although they are capable of enduring cold climates, they are unlikely to get as far north as the Canadian border, the curator says. But they may spread rabies through other animals which will.

At present the northernmost point from which they have been reported as Monctezuma, Mexico, 125 miles south of El Paso, Texas. But, since 1908, they have moved 4,000 miles northward from Brazil.

The bats strike at night, undetected. Victims know when they are carrying rabies—and they often are—they leave dead men and dead cattle in their wake.

The curator started a study of rabid vampire bats in Trinidad in 1933 after 53 persons and thousands of cattle had been killed within a few months.

Old Tree Dying

MEXICO CITY, March 15 (AP) —The Santa Maria yule cypress, believed to be Mexico's oldest and largest tree, was reported today to by dying of drought. The tree, which guidebooks say is 1,500 years old, is in the little town in Oaxaca State in Southern Mexico. Townspeople have asked the agricultural ministry to open a well and supply a pump to water the 160-foot tree with its trunk 52 feet in diameter.

Leaves Money To Fund

LOS ANGELES, March 15 (AP) —Comedian Hugh Herbert left nearly all of his $200,000 estate to the Motion Picture Relief Fund, his lawyer disclosed Friday. The actor, who died Wednesday, cut off his former wife, Mrs. Rose Herbert, of Fort Worth, Tex., with only $10,000.

2 Canadians Die Of Fever, 16 Hospitalized

OTTAWA, March 15 — (CP).— A strange disease peculiar to the Far East has affected 18 soldiers of Canada's 25th Brigade in Korea and two have died, Army Headquarters said Friday.

Eleven of the cases have been repatriated to Canada where they are undergoing treatment in veterans hospitals, while five others are in hospital in Kure, Japan. One case is classed as serious.

The disease, which first broke out among American troops in Korea last year, is known medically as epidemic hemorrhagic fever. It was first reported by the Japanese during their campaign in Manchuria in the late 1930's.

The disease causes bleeding under the skin and internally and sometimes causes a kidney blockage.

Carried By Rodent

Doctors know little about the disease, but believe it is a virus infection possibly carried by a small rodent peculiar to the Far East.

Headquarters did not name the soldiers who died of the disease.

An army spokesman said their deaths had been reported privately to the next of kin and the soldiers would not be included in the regular battle casualty lists from Korea, but would be classed as dying from natural causes.

First cases among the Canadian troops were reported last fall. The last case occurred in January.

Canadian and American doctors are working on a treatment for the disease.

Medical authorities report that penicillin and other antibiotics have had little effect in treatment carried out so far.

Raid Apartment

geant Roy Perry were wounded, was shot down and captured after a furious gun battle in his dingy basement apartment three blocks from the scene of Suchan's arrest.

Mayor Allan Lamport accompanied the police squad today as the scene shifted suddenly back to Toronto.

The police moved fast. Boyd had rented the Heath Street apartment only Friday when the previous owners moved to Mexico.

While Montreal officers still combed the city and suburbs tracking down a flood of rumors that the missing bank robber had been sighted, Toronto police moved in on Boyd's hideout and nabbed their man.

End Chain of Events

Boyd's arrest at 6:15 a.m. ended a series of events that began with a $24,000 bank holdup in a west-end branch of the Bank of Toronto here March 4 and grew into one of the most intensive police searches in eastern Canada.

It was while they were investigating Perry halted an automobile two days later a few blocks from the bank and were met by a hail of bullets. Tong, shot through the lungs, remains in serious condition. Perry, less seriously wounded, is recovering.

It was Tong's memory for names and faces that put police on the trail of Jackson and Suchan and linked them with Boyd. Boyd and Jackson had been suspected of several earlier bank robberies in the Toronto area in the weeks following their jail-break.

Suchan Rallies

In Montreal, the two captured gunmen lay wounded in separate hospitals.

Hospital authorities said early today that Steve Suchan has recovered slightly from a "turn for the worse" he took Friday night. The spokesman said, however, that his condition is still critical and he is under an oxygen tent.

"It is wrong though, to say he is near death," a doctor said. "He has had several setbacks of this nature in the last two days and rallied."

In another hospital, Jackson's condition is said to be "improved." He was able to sit up in bed and be shaved by the hospital barber Friday night.

North Will Shape Canada's Future Fisher Tells Club

That enthusiastic Canadian, John Fisher, spoke to the Peterborough Sales and Advertising Club Friday night.

In an hour-long speech, he ranged from the city-to-be of Kitimat, B.C., to Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. He spoke of the past, the present, and the future of the nation.

His talk was based on "the intangibles in Canada that compensate for the premium we have to pay".

He spoke of the sense of public interest inherited from the traditions of Great Britain. Because of that inheritance, Canada is a well-run country.

"In the United States you see the railroads opposing the St. Lawrence Seaway. The coal mining companies are against it, and so are the eastern ports.

No Opposition

"In Canada, the railways, which could present an almost unconquerable lobby, do not oppose the seaway. The city of Montreal, which will lose when the seaway is built, has not opposed it."

Because of the inheritance of public interest, and because of other feelings and traditions brought here by the early settlers, Canadians are different than "our American cousins", said Mr. Fisher.

"L'affaire MacArthur couldn't have happened here," he stated.

One other intangible, and an important one was the ability to get away. In Peterborough, people were lucky. "You'd never find another city where you can get away so easily and so completely to the green kingdom of God," said Mr. Fisher.

Mr. Fisher made one prediction: "From the northland will come the things that will shape our future."

John Fisher was introduced by R. B. Arnold, and thanked by Don Loucks. Chairman for the evening was James Wharry.

Following Mr. Fisher's address, a fashion show was presented. Commentator was Mrs. Maurice Holt.

Sunday's telecast, to be carried over the facilities of station WPTZ, is believed to be the first TV operation to be seen by the general public. Call For Inquest Into Death Of Madoc Man Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, of Belleville, has ordered an inquest to find out what caused the mysterious death of Almond Boyd, 40-year-old Marmora township carpenter.

Boyd's body was found March 7 on the back verandah of the old Boyd family homestead, three miles west of Marmora village. It was covered with snow, indicating it had lain there several days at least.

Inspector Ralph Taylor, of the O.P.P.'s criminal investigation branch, returned to Toronto Friday after checking on Boyd's movements shortly before his death.

Was At Party?

Unconfirmed reports in the district were that Boyd had been at a party and was knocked to the floor during an argument.

Nobody had been living in the old house for several months but Boyd occasionally went back there. The door was locked and Boyd apparently never did get inside.

He was found by two neighbors who had been asked by his aunt, Mrs. Bert Boyd, of Marmora, to look for him. He lived at her home in the village.

The inquest will be in Madoc but the date has not yet been set. Cpl. Jack Hatch, of Madoc, was in charge of the investigation.

Roseneath Girl Back From Japan

ROSENEATH, March 15 (ENS) —Miss Luella Rorke, a former Roseneath girl, is on leave of absence on furlough after spending the past four years as a United Church missionary in Japan.

Miss Rorke resided for some years in Roseneath when her father was pastor of the then Methodist Church here. Previous to World War II, Miss Rorke spent many years as a missionary in Japan, during the war she was transferred to Trinidad, returning to Japan in 1947.

On Thursday afternoon Miss Rorke was guest speaker at Trinity Hall, Cobourg, when the Cobourg W.M.S. entertained the members of their sister societies, from Camborne, Cold Springs, Baltimore and Roseneath.

Miss Rorke plans on visiting a number of places in this district previous to attending the Dominion board meeting in Toronto in April. Then she expects to spend her furlough with her sister in Ottawa. Her future itinerary will be planned by the Ottawa-Montreal conference branch.

As guest speaker at Cobourg, Miss Rorke said in part: "The national situation of Japan is considered the most critical of all foreign countries. What happens there in the next 10 years decides the next 100 years, if Communistic leaders should succeed it would hinder our plans for Japanese success."

She concluded by saying "Japan's success depends not on military forces but on Christian idealism, non-Christian Japanese are being influenced by what is being done for them by Christians."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. H. Calnan and thanked by Mrs. W. M. Bradley.

On motion of Mrs. R. C. White and Mrs. C. W. Varcoe, Roseneath, a vote thanks was tendered the members of Cobourg W.M.S. for their hospitality.

British Yards Have Backlog In Shipbuilding

LONDON—(CP)—With an unprecedented inflow of orders during 1951, British shipbuilding yards are stocked up with work on 1,100 merchant ships, either in the process of construction or still to be laid down. The full program comes to more than 6,500,000 gross tons and represents as estimated outlay of about £1,000,000,000 at current prices. Nearly one-third of the tonnage is earmarked for export.

Returns compiled by Lloyd's register show that at the beginning of this year merchant shipping under construction in the major countries of the western world, amounted to nearly 5,500,000 tons. Of this total, more than 2,200,000 tons, or 40.2 per cent was being built in British yards, 164,000 tons more than in 1950.

The return discloses that during the last quarter of 1951 work was started on 69 new ships in the United Kingdom, bringing the total tonnage begun during the year to 1,480,000 or 36.3 per cent of the world's total.

But with new orders piling in a backlog of more than 4,000,000 gross tons was placed on the order books, equivalent to about 3½ years normal production at the present rate of output.

Spokesmen for the industry have made it clear, however, that orders placed for new ships will not of necessity pile up at the end of a long queue. If ample supplies of the right type of steel are available, they say annual production could be stepped up to about 1,750,000 gross tons, compared with the present average of 1,340,000 for the last three years.

A particularly heavy demand continues for oil tankers. In British yards alone, 105 ships or 56 per cent of the aggregate tonnage under construction, is represented by this class of vessel. Oil tankers also represent 33.4 per cent of the total merchant shipping under construction in other western alliance countries.

Output figures were not available for Russia, China, Poland and other "iron curtain" countries.

Scene Change Wins Adjudicator's Praise

TORONTO, March 15 (CP). — A scene change by the Playcraftsmen of Toronto won the admiration of adjudicator Pierre LeFevre and the audience Friday night at the Central Ontario Regional Drama Festival.

The play was Vernon Sylvaine's "Quiet in the Forest," which calls for a quick switch from a scene of debris in a bombed-out house to the house as it had been before it was hit.

Mr. LeFevre said he felt the Playcraftsmen justified their reputation at Hart House in the production.

Bank Out of Money

PORT ARTHUR, March 15 — (CP) — Northwestern Ontario bushworkers, on their annual influx to cities as the hauling season ends, ran a downtown bank out of money for a short time on Friday. A hundred of them appeared to cash cheques for an average $700 each and the bank was forced to stop payment of them for 10 minutes until more money was obtained from a neighboring bank.

Second Pair Of Winners Baby Picture-Quote Contest

The second pair of winners in the Examiner's Baby Photo-Quote contest are reproduced today. The winning pictures and quotations were submitted by Mrs. R. Penrose and F. I. Wismer of Keene. Each will receive $5.00.

During the past week several hundred entries have been received and many with excellent quotes. However many of the pictures submitted have been poor snaps which failed to show expression in the baby's face.

Daily Monday through to Friday the Examiner publishes on this page a series of baby pictures by Constance Bannister. Then on Saturday the two best pictures of the week submitted by the readers of the Examiner are published.

Expressiveness of the photo and cleverness of quotations are two essential points on which the judging is done and many entries have failed to measure up to these.

Must Provide Attractions For Industry

TORONTO, March 15 (CP) — Communities must have their affairs in order and provide attractions to lure new industry, delegates said Friday at a symposium of the third Industrial Development conference.

More than 300 provincial delegates, the majority from small communities, discussed problems and decided the solution lay primarily in self help.

When Orillia and Fort William representatives indicated they hadn't been too successful in wooing industry, Henry Walters, delegate from Brockville, told them they "should get to work at home."

Taxpayers should realize that expenditures on industrial promotion will yield returns. In creating the industrial climate to enable municipalities to share in Ontario's $8,000,000,000 industrial boom, they'd perhaps have to undertake a housing program.

Midland did this in the case of Ernest Lietz Company of Germany, manufacturers of Leica cameras.

Fully Developed

One big problem disclosed in the discussion was the fact 'that 90 per cent of Ontario communities are fully developed.

Cornwall, Waterloo, Hamilton, Clinton, and other delegates made this evident. Hope was said to lie in annexation or purchase of industrial land in a neighboring township.

Brantford, Woodstock and Scarborough followed the latter course successfully. Cliff Beamon, Brantford, said his city purchased more than 100 acres in Brantford township, developed it with services, rail and highway take-offs and made nearly 100-per-cent profit on every acre.

Speaker Says Canada Not Above Prejudice

BETHANY, March 15 (ENS).—The March meeting of the United Church Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. George Waddell on Wednesday evening. The president, Mrs. T. J. Jackson, conducted the opening exercises and worship service assisted by Mrs. G. M. Longfield, who read the scripture lesson. Mrs. Mervyn Porteous read a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Howard Veal, of Omemee, recently returned missionaries from China, who entertain no hope of going back to that troubled country while the Communists rule the people. Mrs. Waddell gave a short talk on stewardship.

Mrs. Walter Rowland took charge of the study period, telling of the church's relationship and work among the Chinese and Japanese in Canada, saying in part: "Our Canadian people as a whole have not risen above race prejudice, discrimination and intolerance. We have not treated these people with neighborly Christian kindness and have done little to make them feel at home in our midst; but through the workers in community centres, night classes and Churches of All Nations, a great deal is being done."

Mrs. Rowland read a dialogue between two prominent Christian Japanese, showing their influence in their own communities.

Trio Acquitted

WHITBY, March 15 (CP). — Joseph Levy, Harry Swartz and Dan Kuflowitz, all of Toronto, on Friday were acquitted of assaulting Percy Taylor, night watchman at the Skinner Company plant in Oshawa last April 1 with intent to steal nickel. The three men previously were acquitted. Along with Morris Baker and Sidney Stern, also of Toronto, of conspiring to steal nickel from the plant.

Pulp Makers Drop Prices To Obtain British Market

By THOMAS HARRIS

STOCKHOLM, March 14—(Reuters)— Wood-pulp manufacturers in Sweden, Norway and Finland, Britain's biggest suppliers, now have agreed to scale down their prices to the maximum set by Britain as a condition for granting them import licences.

The new prices, about 20 per cent below previous ones, mean British paper mills will be able to manufacture cheaper newsprint.

But many Scandinavians are smarting under what they call a "British dictate."

Foreign Ministry officials of the three countries after a meeting in Stockholm, issued a communique criticizing Britain's "unilateral action" and hinting they will make retaliatory cuts in their imports from Britain.

Scandinavian newspapers have been urging pulp manufacturers to refuse to sell at the reduced prices so that Britain would have to go without Scandinavian pulp, grant higher ones or find dollars to buy pulp from Canada.

Britain's action means cheaper pulp for most of West Europe as well as for herself.

Two Sides

In Sweden, where comment has been sharpest, some experts forecast that a general drop of 20 per cent in pulp prices would cause the country to lose $156,800,000 a year and upset her present favorable foreign trade balance. The loss from sales to Britain alone, they say, will run to $22,400,000 a year.

However, other analysts such as the Liberal Dagens Nyheter, Sweden's biggest newspaper, say things are not as black as the experts paint them.

An all-round drop of 20 per cent in prices still would leave Sweden earning nearly twice as much from pulp as she earned in 1950, they say.

Another point made by the second group of experts, anxious to see the British side, is that the Swedish government could solve the problem by abolishing the export tax on pulp.

The government introduced this tax because the high prices Swedish pulp brought in Europe were causing inflation at home because the record profits made by exporters led Swedish workers to demand higher wages.

It was intended that this tax should be paid by the exporters. In practice they tacked it on to their prices and found European buyers still eager to buy.

Newton R.C.A., of Montreal who also attended the unveiling.

Appeal Filed Against Award

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)—An appeal has been filed against an award of $55,000 to three Detroit girls who sued an Ontario construction company in an automobile accident case.

Toronto lawyers A. J. Sneath and George T. Walsh said Friday they have launched the appeal on behalf of Shaw Construction Company of Sarnia. It will be heard in the Ontario Court of Appeal at a date not yet fixed.

Mary Kraljevich, 20, was awarded general damages of $36,020 for injuries she sufered in the October, 1950, accident. Her sister, Florence, 19, was awarded $9,840 and Mitzie Frye, 19, a friend, $4,788. They were represented at an Ontario Supreme Court hearing in Windsor earlier this month by Isadore Levinter, Toronto lawyer.

Previously The Canadian Press reported erroneously that Mr. Levinter was counsel for the company in the case.

Two Fever Cases Treated In Canada

TORONTO, March 15 (CP) — Dr. Ian Macdonald, chief of medical services at Sunnybrook Military Hospital in Toronto, said Friday night that two cases of hemorrhagic fever are being treated here.

"Both cases are well on the way to recovery," he said. "The men were admitted late in December. These are the only cases we have received in Toronto."

Erin's Sons Prepare To Mark Birthday Of Patron Saint

Out come the green ties and shamrocks again as the sons of the Ould Sod prepare to celebrate St. Patrick's Day on Monday.

One of the biggest celebrations in Canada, that of Montreal Irishmen, will be held Sunday afternoon when the United Irish Societies hold their annual parade. Impressive floats will be dotted among the long line of marchers from parish groups, military units and many Irish organizations of the city and surrounding municipalities.

Smaller celebrations will be held in cities and towns across Canada Monday when Canadian Irish and Sons of Erin the world over commemorate the death of the saint who brought Christianity to Ireland.

Among special events this year is a British Broadcasting Corporation program direct from the ancient St. Patrick's Memorial Church at Saul in County Down. The church stands on the spot where St. Patrick preached his first sermon after landing in Ireland in A.D. 432.

After being a prisoner of a marauding chieftain in Antrim for six years he went to the continent, where he established his religious reputation and was commissioned by the Pope to work in Ireland.

Great Missionary

He preached and taught, organized parishes and built churches—he founded probably 365 churches and baptized 12,000 person. Among his converts was his captor of earlier years.

He banished the snakes and he made the Shamrock the immortal emblem of Ireland, using the tiny plant as a representation of the Holy Trinity.

St. Patrick's Day was decided on only after a lengthy Irish argument which according to legend ended in a truly Irish compromise.

It is said that 'one faction' in Ireland claimed the Saint died on March 8, while an opposing party held that March 9 was correct. A Solomon-like Irish priest, Father Mulcahey, is said to have settled the argument by the addition of eight and nine and March 17 has stood to this day.

Telegraph Boy Rescues Cat

PARIS, March 15—(Reuters)— Michou, the alley cat whose plaintive cries have rang out for five days from the top of a 65-foot acacia tree, was rescued Friday by a small, anonymous telegram boy.

Hearing of the cat's plight the boy went to the scene, where around the tree stood the Montmarte fire brigade, a section of the Montmarte police force, city hall tree climbers, a retired trapeze artist and a spiritual medium.

The boy, saying nothing, scrambled up the tree. Seconds later he was down again, pushing the cat before him. Inevitably, his name was demanded.

The lad shook his head.

"Nothing doing," he said. "I'm supposed to be delivering telegrams".

Russia's Hundred Million To Our Half Million

In a Toronto speech last Monday Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Arctic explorer and propagandist, berated Canada for the emptiness of her north. He compared the Canadian Arctic with the Russian. Edmonton, he said, is considered as far north as Canadians want to live. Beyond that they believe that the country is suitable only for mining and the fur trade. Yet Moscow, a city of 6,100,000, is 150 miles north of Edmonton. This continent's entire northern population is less than 500,000, yet Russia's north is peopled by a hundred million. In Alaska, Canada's far north and Greenland there is no town of more than 30,000, Dr. Stefansson said, yet the U.S.S.R. north has more than fifty towns of 50,000 people. Why is there the difference?

* * *

The chief reason for the difference is of course that Canada has not got a hundred million people to put into her far north; she has little more than two Moscows (the people, not their institutions) to put into even the salubrious south of the entire country. And even if Canada had enough people to populate the north as Russia has done, she has not, nor will not take, the coercive means to do it. Canada does not put her criminals into wild Siberian wastes; she keeps them housed warmly in places like Kingston. Canada does not send her political dissenters to Arctic Circle labour camps; she puts them on Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition benches in Ottawa or Queen's Park.

* * *

Dr. Stefansson says that the Canadian north is not as cold as the Russian north. Minimum temperatures in the northern U.S.S.R. are on the average ten degrees below Canadian records. Therefore the weather should not be an impossible obstacle to Canadian colonization of the north. It is generally believed, too, that the Canadian north has more natural resources than the Russian north; in fact, some scratchings which have already been made (for radium, to name but one mineral), suggest that the Canadian north is fabulously rich. There should thus be no insuperable barrier to people earning their living out of the north, instead of today being subsidized groups at weather stations, depending almost entirely on imports. The mining communities there have but one export—minerals.

* * *

Dr. Stefansson blamed the empty and inert north on lack of policy, to the decline of the pioneer spirit, to a failure to represent truthfully the potential of the north. There is truth in these allegations, but not full truth. Canadian scientists in forestry, mineralogy, fishing, aeronautics, geography, archaeology, agriculture and medicine have been probing the north; commercial and governmental agencies, aware of Russian northern settlement and exploitation, have been investigating Canada's Arctic possibilities. The new air routes over the top of the world—the shortest between America and Russian metropolitan centres—have given Canadians an urgent interest in Arctic air bases and Arctic air navigation.

* * *

A Canadian northern policy is emerging; its bases are being laid in conformity with Mr. Mackenzie King's statement in the House of Commons in 1947 that "Canada's northern program is primarily a civilian one, to which contributions are made by the armed forces." Canada is conscious that the spacious land area of the North West Territories and the Yukon—1,460,000 square miles, two-fifths of the total area of Canada—and that the 6,000 miles of mainland shoreline on the Arctic and the Arctic islands shorelines of 27,000 miles, are the North American frontier; a frontier to explore and exploit as well as to guard.

* * *

Only an acute military urgency will put hundreds of thousands of people into the north in any near future; to man army and air force stations and to operate factories removed, as in Russia, from central industrial targets. The fullness of time, not a government policy, will populate the north; that time will come when Canadians need its room or its resources. And in that time, the settlers will have to forego the ridiculous southern Canadian aping of European and American habits and dress (wool suits in hot summer; thin stockings and fedora hats in cold winters). The greatest hindrance to northern colonization may be Canadians' refusal to live as if they were northerners.

Situation Normal

During the war years, stories of battles, generals and heroes crowded crime and girls off the front pages. During the post-war years, international crises (economic and political) and the cost of living relegated murder and cheesecake to minor headlines. A new normality seems to have come upon the western world. Crime and love are back to the front page. Either crises and war and high costs have become stale stuff and boring, or they have decreased.

Even the quite sedate Toronto morning paper reflects the return to normality. Its front page one day this week was larded with the pre-war type of story: "Tong Well Started on Road to Recovery"; "Fugitives in Toronto, Underworld Reports"; "Sentenced to Hang for Murdering Employer's Wife"; "Order Murder Trial for Brothers In Slaying of Welland Cab Driver"; "Carry More Arms In Police Cars".

While The Examiner takes a quiet attitude to gore and crime and refrains from wallowing in such messy matters, even we report on page one the Meek Sentence To Hang. Has crime increased? No; we think that the news is returning to normality, disturbed only now and then by budget shocks and foot-and-mouth blisters.

$100,000 Township Surplus

Stamford Township, in Waterloo county, and suburban to Niagara Falls (the town, not the water) must have a flushed face. Its council has discovered that it has a surplus of more than $100,000. If the Council of Otonabee or Lakefield were to make such a happy discovery, it would indeed be red in the face with pride.

Lakefield, Otonabee or even Peterborough people would be very much interested in knowing how Stamford did it. We have not access to its taxation figures of last year, but in 1950 the tax rate was $42.90 a head, compared with Peterborough tax in 1950 of $50.50 a head, Otonabee $33.06 and Lakefield $27.31. Stamford had a population of 15,633. Ah! we begin to get some notion why it could accumulate a surplus of $100,000—by careful management of a high tax return. Stamford people were taxed more than most Ontario places of its size. Brantford, for instance, with 15,086 assessed people, levied a tax which amounted to $29.77 each. Stamford's tax amounted to $42.90 a head.

What is Stamford going to do with its $100,000 surplus? The laws of the Province do not permit a municipality to build up a surplus against needy times. Stamford has plans to put up a $29,000 police station, but even that will leave a tidy sum to ease the taxes this year.

U.E. Accused Of Deception

The United Electrical Workers Union (U.E.) which is the legal bargaining agent for the production workers of the Canadian General Electric Company in Peterborough, also tried to get into the De Laval plant. It tried twice, in 1950 and 1951. The first time it failed to get enough members to seek certification. After the second campaign there was the routine review by the Ontario Labour Relations Board, whose results have already been reported in this newspaper. The Board accused the U.E. of "deception" and "misrepresentation" and "making a mockery of the Board's efforts." It unanimously found that in its attempts to win certification at the De Laval, the U.E. had engaged in "one of the most determinedly dishonest schemes for procuring evidence necessary to support an application . . . that has come to our knowledge." Never has the official Ontario Labour Relations Board used such strong language against a union before. Never, presumably, has such a condemnation been thought necessary. The union thus accused of "deception", "misrepresentation" and "dishonest schemes", is the same union which a majority of C.G.E. workers have chosen to represent them.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The latest census reveals that there are very nearly as many women as men in Canada. This is good news, for as countries advance in civilization their population tends to be about evenly divided between the sexes. But don't ask us why!

A Canadian writer, commenting on the centenary of the death of Nikolai Gogol, says that the Russians refer to him as "the Russian Mark Twain." We would be less surprised to hear that they refer to Mark Twain as "the American Gogol."

It is estimated that the world's population is growing at the rate of 75,000 per day. This clearly accounts for the state the world is in; the very limited amount of common sense has to be spread thinly over the unlimited population.

Among murderers in the U.S.A. men outnumber women 13 to 1. One fifth of all suspected murderers are released for lack of evidence, another fifth are acquitted, and only one in twenty who is condemned dies for his crime. There are five times as many murders, per capita, in the U.S. as in Canada. Could it be because we hang so many of those we catch?

Novels For Pleasure

LUCY CARMICHAEL by Margaret Kennedy (MacMillan).

HIGHBROWS tend to scoff at Margaret Kennedy, and by so doing they reveal that their brows, though high, are also narrow. For Miss Kennedy can do what many an author petted by the highbrows cannot approach; she can create characters and tell their story in such a way that we deeply care what happens to them. That is, after all, one of the chief tasks of a writer of fiction. "Lucy Carmichael" will hold children from their play and old men from the chimney-corner; it certainly held this by no means sentimental critic from all other employment until he had finished it.

MISS KENNEDY'S strong suit as a writer is her ability to create interesting girls. The success of "The Constant Nymph" in 1926, and its successor "Escape Me Never" was the success of the girls who carried the plot. In "Lucy Carmichael" she gives us a girl of great interest and charm and reality, in a plot which collapses at the end; but who cares? The worst and feeblest plots of all are those devised by Life itself; why should a writer who can create character fuss too much about plot? Everybody likes charming girls, and Lucy Carmichael is a charming girl.

She begins her adult life with a stroke of undeserved ill-luck. In order to recover from that, she goes to work in one of those curious places which are becoming more common all the time, in which culture is dispensed to those who want it—a sort of intellectual soup-kitchen for the poor in spirit . . . She becomes involved in the politics of this monkey-house, and breaks away. She finishes in love with a man who appears in the book only by reference until the last two or three pages.

THIS IS A good story, well and honestly told, with a kind or Trollopian zest for the intrigues, pettiness and drudgery of life, but also with a great deal of sensitive, convincing comment upon life.

Let the highbrows sniff all they will, there is more craftsmanship and novelist's art in this book than in much that they would like us to admire. Written frankly to give pleasure, it does so generously and well. Recommended.

JEFFERSON SELLECK by Carl Jonas (McClelland & Stewart)

CARL JONAS IS A mid-western American who knows in his bones the country and decades (1915-1950) he writes of, and "Gateway City" where Jefferson Selleck was at home and which, as a real estate man, Selleck helped to fashion. The author also knows how to contrive a novel. It seems as if he had sat beside Jefferson Selleck's couch and taken down the man's story verbatim, so realistic is it. It is the kind of realism of Sinclair Lewis' "Babbitt", thirty years later.

THE FORM OF the story is notable. Selleck, a prosperous middle-westerner has a heart attack. He is ordered to be quiet. This man of petty affairs, mildly rapscallion business deals, commercial prosperity and clubbable heartiness, whiles away his enforced leisure by dictating his memoirs. It is a therapeutic occupation undertaken at the suggestion of his doctor. That somebody, even his doctor and his son, should think his reflections important, stimulates the pride of Selleck. His naive pomposity is cleverly shown.

It is the pomposity of a man of property, who, confronting death and his diary, says to himself (and he hopes, to the world): 'I will honestly say what I think, and set down what I have experienced'. Of course, he is not honest, but his unwitting circumvention of truth, his attempts to be rational and yet justify his life, and his cliches honestly reveal the man, the mid-west and his times. The realism of the fictional memoir is footnoted by his doctor, who collates events and times as an academic editor would do.

Here is a sample of Jeff: the Jeff who in his glory won the hand of the daughter of a rich town family ordinarily beyond his circle; who on the marriage night found himself relegated to a couch by his weeping, resentful bride; who nevertheless managed to beget children; who joined the right clubs; who hankered for glory and righteousness in democracy and found that success came haphazardly, sometimes through shady dealings and love not through a worldly marriage; the Jeff who remained immature in all but sharp business affairs and even in them seemed slightly bewildered that life was so patchy.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR YEARS Jeff had kept hunting firearms. They were a sop to his dream of daring and manly adventure. Once he did go big-game hunting (pampered by guides). The expedition resulted chiefly in a lot of drinking, and the killing of a cow in mistake for an elk. But at the end of it, as the ailing Jeff dictates his memoirs, he has this to say: "And now in conclusion I should like to state briefly the values which come to a man while hunting. First of all there is the fellowship of good sportsmen with each other, secondly the thrill of pitting your own skill, craft, and marksmanship against the prey which you are seeking. But thirdly and lastly the whole out-of doors is our American birthright, a heritage from the frontiersmen who were our fathers or their fathers. Straight shooting, fair play, good humour, taking the rough with the smooth, the hard with the easy, these are the things which all of us believe in".

THE NOVEL IS A satire, but it is also a story of pathos. American decency and hope. One ends it with some admiration and certainly sympathy for Jefferson Selleck, akin to the pathetic sympathy and awe one has for Babbitt and his civilization. Selleck dies with our regard and even with our affection.

The book has this remarkable physical aspect. The dust cover is American, the binding and printing are Canadian. Many American novels listed as being published also in Canada are really wholesale imports from the other side by Toronto publishers, who might put a different dust cover on it. Incidentally, the Canadian cover of the book is tawdry compared with the American dust cover.

OLD HORSE CROMWELL

Letters To The Editor

SAYS PUBLIC DOES NOT KNOW FACTS

Sir: I have read with profound concern newspaper articles and published letters regarding the misfortune that has befallen Mr. Brant and most of all the vicious attacks upon the Department of the Administration of Justice. The writers of the letters were obviously moved to express their respective opinions and to lay the blame upon the Administration of Justice as a result of the story that first appeared in your paper.

The people of Peterborough know little if anything of the facts back of this case. If they did, they would not so attack the Court or the Police. Unfortunately the Police are at a disadvantage. In their public office they cannot singly or collectively answer orally or by letter libellous or slanderous charges directed at them. There are those who gloat over an opportunity to revile these respectable gentlemen who walk the streets and laneways on cold and snowy nights while the citizens sleep in security. They stand always at the beck and call of the public. These are the men who question the vagrants and face gun-men — lie wounded and even die ruming down the criminal and by their heroic conduct are guards against and a warning to the potential criminal.

It is indeed sad that this unfortunate Mr. Brant wandered around as long as he did without securing medical attention. If he had complained to the Police that he was troubled with his feet, there is no doubt he would have received proper attention as he did when he eventually did complain. He exhausted his welcome after a sojourn at the Salvation Army hostel and I am informed that he did not complain while he was there. I was in the Police Court on the occasion when he was there and I recall he was noticeably warmly dressed for one charged with vagrancy. The Reverend Major Everitt of the Salvation Army was also present and he is always available to hear and assist the unfortunates. (We place so much reliance and dependence on that noble body of people and give so little to assist them).

To the Citizens of Peterborough I wish to say I will be one of the first to contribute to any organized fund to help this unfortunate person, but I now assert that you who placed any blame upon any officer or officers of the Court or Police of Peterborough, you are grievously in error. I, as both prosecutor and defence counsel in the Criminal Courts for many years and with the experience from one end of Ontario to the other, say that there is no abler, more gracious and more kindly gentleman that Magistrate Philp, Q.C., and I say from my personal knowledge of this gentleman he would be the first one to show consideration for any person whom he thought was sick or ailing. Your Crown Attorney, Mr. Bradshaw, prosecutes with ability and fairness to all. The Chief of Police, his staff and officers, you should be proud to know are famous as one of the best constabulary in Canada. They all have their duties to perform, and do it nobly. How rarely do we hear of any violent crimes in this city! Little do people know how often these gentlemen put their hands in their pockets to help along some needy unfortunate.

How quickly people forget! Only a few weeks ago the police were subjected to criticism for not running down a vagrant, still unidentified, who was said to have approached a housewife who was befriending him with a meal at her home and whatever happened was said to have so shocked her that she died as a result thereof the next day.

There are no funds or accommodation provided by the city for habitual vagrants, nor is there a fund to pay for transportation for undesirables who come to the city to make nuisances of themselves, but the city does help them along on the road the vagrant himself selects by taking them to the city limits.

There are in this city many organizations described as "charitable." There is this week a drive for funds. Would it not be well for them to establish some permanent contact with the police and set aside some of the funds so that when an unfortunate drifts or comes intentionally into the city and seeks shelter in the police station, the police will not be obliged to charge him with vagrancy in order to collect the cost of the food from the city treasury? By such an arrangement he might be comfortably quartered and fed, warmly clothed for the then prevailing weather, examined by a qualified physician, and when and if he is in sound health and is willing to leave, supplied with transportation to take him safely back to the municipality from which he wandered if he returns repeat the process.

QUESTIONS ON TIMBER BY-LAW

Sir: I have noticed considerable comment in the columns of your paper in connection with this famous timber cutting by-law, which has brought about considerable criticism throughout the county from a number of our ratepayers. I might here add some more fuel to the fire and voice my opinion on this matter.

It appears to me that many people have the idea that when our governments enact legislation that our local councils have no other alternative but to adopt it, but such is not the case. The government is a representative body for the people, just the same as local or county councils are, but the government is the head. The government places many acts of legislation on the statute books that our local councils may, by passing by-laws, put it into effect. But it is a very rare case where the government compels our local councils to adopt any legislation in matters such as this unless the councils themselves deem it advisable to do so.

Take for example your new High School, also the appointment of your county assessor, which I think that you will all agree from a financial standpoint were very important matters to be dealt with. The government did not in any way compel your local or county councils to take on this elaborate expenditure to burden the taxpayer with such a tremendous tax for the next half century.

I have been informed that a number of our local councils have passed resolutions opposing the passing of this by-law, but bear in mind Mr. Ratepayer that the local councils have no voice when it comes to the county. It is then up to the Reeve to vote as he sees fit on this by-law, and it has often occurred that all Reeves do not consider the financial interest or well being of a majority of their ratepayers when voting in the county council on such matters as these. The remark has also been made that the ratepayers do not understand. Maybe not, but one thing sure is that the ratepayers well understand that the many acts of legislation that have been passed by our county councils for the past four or five years have created a burdensome debt that they are now called upon to pay, and not very many years ago we had a county free from debenture debt, and where is it today? The comment of many ratepayers of this county at the present time is that a considerable amount of this debt was brought on the county by thoughtless and careless voting of the county members with no regard for the financial burdens that they were placing on our ratepayers.

In closing, I would suggest that a large number of ratepayers that are opposed to the passing of this by-law meet with their county members in their March session. They are all good social fellows to meet, and no doubt will be pleased to hear of the nature of your objections to said by-law, and don't be backward in letting them know that they are your servants, not your masters, and you might also glean some information from them as to how many high collared gentlemen that will be required to see that none of our residents break this by-law, and if they think that we would have men in our own county that would be capable for this position, and what their salary might be—also how many cars they would require at one hundred dollars per month.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

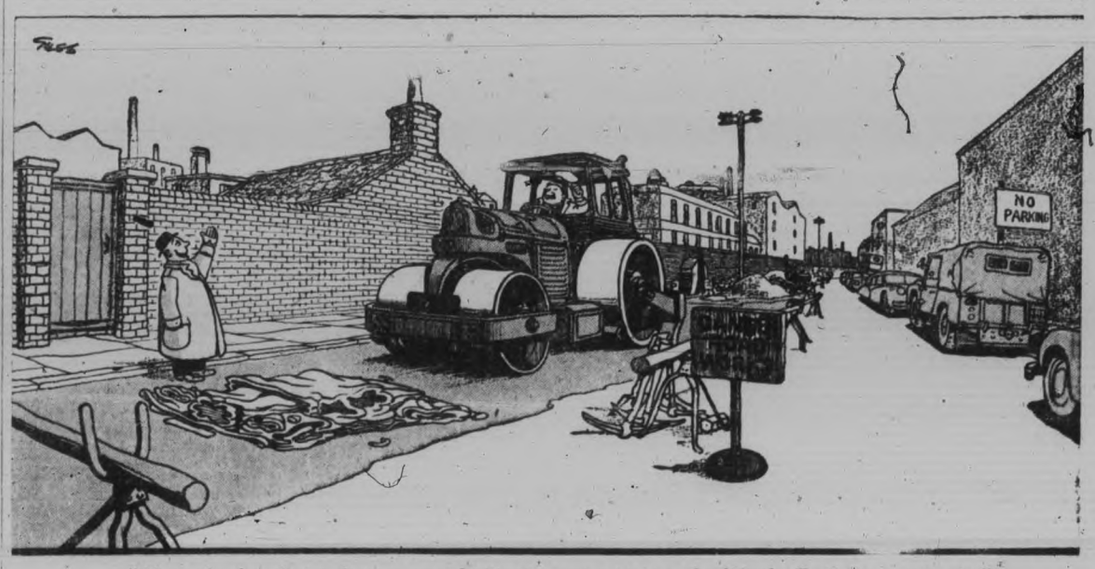
So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them . . . And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground. And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul. (Gen. 1: 27, 31; 2: 6, 7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Shall mortal man be more just than God? shall a man be more pure than his maker? Behold, he put no trust in his servants; and his angels he charged with folly: how much less in them that dwell in houses of clay, whose foundation is in the dust, which are crushed before the moth? They are destroyed from morning to evening: they perish for ever without any regarding it. (Job. 4: 17-20.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, saith the Lord, thoughts of peace, and not of evil, to give you an expected end. (Jer. 29: 11.)



"Many thanks. I now have a very legitimate excuse to pass the 'Needs Test' for a new car."

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

A note this week from my old guiding pal up at Boulder Lake said: "How's she goin', Slicker?

This week me three pet skunks—Incense, Brimstone and Phewie—up and got outa the wooden box under me bunk. They hie-tailed her for the woods; could be because the shack was so closed-up and stuffy-like all winter.

But, SPRING HAS CAME, I reckon.

That's fer shore.

Trollin' Jones."

Yes, Old Timer, spring drummed in Monday evening on a steady beat of rain. By the following afternoon the hills throughout the countryside were slashed with scaberous brown streaks. Surface water gullied down the slopes onto the stiff brown ploughed fields and covered the low corners to the tops of snake fences. Water gurgled under culverts and turned swamps into acres of lakes. Heavy draft horses plunged through wet snow and mud of woodlot trails with the last few loads of body hardwood. Empty sleighs returned to evaporator houses loaded with well-scrubbed sap buckets. Cattle foraged at sodden straw stacks in the lea of rain-blackened barns. The River ran full and swift to the banks carrying pans of opaque gray ice. Flooded orange-red willow clumps bent to the current. Crows tumbled upwind over stands of dark threshing pines. Kids sloshed home from school and, tossing battered books and battered lunch pails on the kitchen table, called,

"It's spring, Mom. Sap'll soon be runnin'."

Some Bang-up Carpentry

Algonquin Park, besides being one of the major tourist attractions of the province, produces a second product, fine pine lumber. And from this material of a thousand uses comes shooks or boxes made in Pembroke and shipped to Beloil, Que., to be filled with blasting Forecite for mine and construction work. Northern people call the dynamite containers powder boxes.

How far do powder boxes travel? From Yukon to Labrador and every development site in between.

As an old powder box carpenter in former bush days I can see why, at some mines, men have been fired for breaking up boxes after they have been emptied of their contents. In crude camps where lumber is non-existent their wood is priceless.

I used them for shelving, flooring, cupboards and for chest drawers and the odd flattened whiskey case added to a change of pattern (an empty one, I picked up somewhere). In our field office boxes became filing cases, stools, ore sample containers, waste baskets, wall cupboards. Every miner and bushwhacker in the bunkhouses had a pair nailed above his bunk containing personal effects and others on the floor filled with clothing. A pet cat used one for a maternity ward.

Powder boxes are so smooth and close-fitting that they are easy to transport. They travel by canoe, boat, wagon, truck, train, car and plane to all corners of the Precambrian Shield. After years of hard use—about 22—they start to give up at the joints.

Powder boxes make modern-day pioneering possible.

Some Fishy Misinformation

An item in a Rochester newspaper entitled "LECTURES TO CLEAR UP 'MYSTERIES' OF CANADA" tells of a series of six talks being put on by the University of Rochester. Of eight citizens on the main intersection of the city who were queried about our noble land, it was evident that they all knew Canada for a land of fishing but most of these admitted that they did not know any more about it than the fish do.

Canada was responsible for Canadian bacon, said one lady. Another believed the country was under the rule of England, had a king and queen. Population? about three million. They all were willing to attend the lecture series to learn more, especially about the wild North country and its fishing areas.

Famous Deaths—I

Lincoln (April 15, 1865)

In the afternoon of Good Friday, April 14, 1865, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln drove together and he talked to her with keen pleasure of the life they would live when the Presidency was over. That night Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln went to the theatre, for the day was not observed as in England. The Grants were to have been with them, but changed their minds and left Washington that day, so a young officer, Major Rathbone, and the lady engaged to him, both of them thereafter ill-fated, came instead. The theatre was crowded; many officers returned from the war were there and eager to see Lincoln. The play was "Our American Cousin," a play in which the part of Lord Dundreary was afterwards developed and made famous.

Some time after ten o'clock, at a point in the play which it is said no person present could afterwards remember, a shot was heard in the theatre and Abraham Lincoln fell forward upon the front of the box unconscious and dying. A wild-looking man, who had entered the box unobserved and had done his work, was seen to strike with a knife at Major Rathbone, who tried to seize him. Then he jumped from the box to the stage; he caught a spur in the drapery and fell, breaking the small bone of his leg. He rose, shouted "Sic semper tyrannis," the motto of Virginia, disappeared behind the scenes, mounted a horse that was in waiting at the stage door, and rode away.

This was John Wilkes Booth, brother of a famous actor then playing "Hamlet" in Boston. He was an actor too, and an athletic and daring youth. In him that peculiarly ferocious political passion which occasionally showed itself among Southerners was further inflamed by brandy and that ranting mode of thought which the stage develops in some few. He was the leader of a conspiracy which aimed at compassing the death of others besides Lincoln . . .

Booth himself, after many adventures, was shot in a barn in which he stood at bay and which had been set on fire by the soldiers pursuing him. During his flight he is said to have felt much aggrieved that men did not praise him as they had praised Brutus and Cassius . . .

On the night of Good Friday, Abraham Lincoln had been carried still unconscious to a house near the theatre. His sons and friends were summoned. He never regained consciousness. "A look of unspeakable peace," say his secretaries who were there, "came over his worn features." At 7.22 on the morning of April 15, Stanton, watching him more closely than the rest, told them what had passed in the words, "Now he belongs to the ages."

Find Underground Temples Golden Co-Cathedral, Modern Forts and Harbors

By COL. J. R. WILKINSON

(The second of two articles written specially for The Examiner by a resident of Malta.)

To the simple holiday-maker, Malta has much to offer. A mild climate, excellent sea bathing, sailing and many other amusements. Being in the sterling area, there are no exchange difficulties. The shops are well stocked with many articles unobtainable in England, purse-strings being the only limitation.

Neolithic man left the island studded with Stonehenge-like structures, the more important of these, the temples, all conforming to a more or less standard design. Each is, or was, enclosed within a high wall of single standing stones with a gate leading into an eliptical courtyard, paved with coarse slabs or with torba (crude cement). The central doorway, facing south (indicating sun-worship) gives access to a corridor from which chambers open out on either side. These chambers are usually either oval or semi-circular. The internal walls curve inwards as they rise, as though intended to meet a vaulted roof or to join like a tent. It is thought that, in addition to being roofed, these buildings were covered with earth, thus forming a large mound and giving the devotee the impression of a series of caves dug in the earth. One of these temples is, in fact, underground. It is known as the Hypogeum (hypo, under; ge, earth) and consists of four sets of caves and galleries cut in the natural rock at different levels.

Ducts For Oracle's Voice

A feature of all these neolithic temples in Malta is the system of ducts cut in the stone, which carried the voice of the oracle from a small room behind the altar to the waiting worshippers. The system is still intact in the Hypogeum and it is a curious fact that it will not respond to a female voice. A man's voice booms throughout the temple, but if a woman speaks into it nothing is heard at the other end.

Mdina, the ancient capital of the island, is an interesting and almost untouched example of a medieval walled city. Within the confines of its moated bastions, its area being little more than thirty acres, there are narrow winding streets lined with old houses which seem to lean towards one another as if whispering secrets. Like all medieval strongholds, Mdina stands on a hill with a satellite town nestling at its feet. From a distance it looks like the castle of the Wizard of Oz. Outside the walls is a museum built over the tesselated pavement of a Roman villa, said to have been the residence of the "chief man of the island" when St. Paul landed.

Ruins In Valetta

Probably the most popular points of antiquarian interest in Malta are to be found in Valetta, capital of the island since 1571. Valetta stands on a peninsula bisecting the Grand Harbour. It measures approximately 1,200 by 800 yards and is surrounded by enormous bastions. These were considered impregnable against the weapons of the Middle Ages. Within this confined space are concentrated all the more important buildings erected by the Knights of St. John during their stay of two-and-a-half centuries in the island. Many of these, thanks to the Luftwaffe, are now in ruins.

Talking is like playing on the harp; there is a much in laying the hands on the strings to stop their vibrations as in twanging them to bring out their music.
O. W. Holmes: The Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table, I, 1858.

In the time of the Knights, the principal building was the Sacred Infirmary, for the Order was, and still is, a Hospitaller order, its primary activity being the care of the sick. The Valetta hospital was, at one time, the admiration of Europe. The Great Ward was 500 feet long by 34 feet wide and it was considered a worthy boast that every patient had a bed to himself and that the bed linen was changed at least once a fortnight. The feeding vesels used by the patients (other than galley-slaves who used pewter) were of silver, the weight of silver in use being over 1,200 lbs. avoirdupois.

The Sacred Infirmary has now been converted to other uses, consequently the most interesting buildings, from the sightseer's point of view, are the Grand Master's Palace and the Co-Cathedral of St. John.

Grand Master's Palace

The corridor on the first floor of the Palace, where are situated the State apartments, is lined with suits of armor, each representing a long-departed Knight of Justice of the Order. Behind each effigy is his shield of arms and a card showing the name, rank and offices held by the erstwhile wearer. Among these is Sir Oliver Starkey, a Yorkshire knight who flourished in the 16th century; also Sir William Weston, Grand Prior of England in the same century. The State apartments contain many fine pictures, friezes, tapestries, and other relics of the Knights, including two suits of gold inlaid armor. The Armoury, with its specimens of medieval armor and weapons, is well worth a visit.

Perhaps the grandest monument of the Knights is the Co-Cathedral of St. John, once their conventual church. From the time of its completion in 1578, Grand Masters and Knights vied with each other in beautifying it. Today it is a magnificent example of Baroque architecture and ornamentation. With its marble mosaic flooring, its wonderful painted roof, its gilded pillars and its tapestries, it is a place which inspires admiration of the skill and devotion which have so obviously been put into it.

Soldiers Looted

When Napoleon came to the island in 1798, his soldiers removed valuables worth £70,000 from the Church of St. John. They even stripped the gilding from the pillars as far as they could reach. Today, these pillars are white for about seven feet from the ground and then soar in gilded splendor to the roof. Among the heavily bejewelled relics in the Church, mostly brought by the Order from Rhodes, was the right hand of John the Baptist. On the forefinger was a magnificent diamond ring which was removed by Napoleon who placed it on his own finger with the remark that it looked better there.

The last building to be erected by the Knights in Valetta was the Bibliotheca. It contains not only the archives of the Order but many priceless books and documents. In one volume of the latter are autographed letters from various sovereighs of Europe of the 17th and 18th centuries. Here can be seen the signatures of Henry VIII, Charles II, James II, Paul of Russia and Marie Antoinette, to name only a few. Not many of the documents have been examined beyond rough classification for binding. Even the parchment covers are themselves old letters which may quite possibly be of historic value. What a treasure island for students and research workers!

Bull of Pope Paschal II

Among other interesting documents in this library are the Bull of Pope Paschal II, dated 1113, by which he takes the Order of St. John under his protection; the Act of Donation, dated 1524, by which the Emperor Charles V conveys the islands of Malta and Gozo, together with the fortress of Tripoli, to the Order; also a deed, dated 1107, signed by Baldwin, King of Jerusalem, giving certain property on Mount Tabor to the Order of St. John.

But with all due respect to antiquities, it cannot be denied that the hub of Malta is its Grand Harbour. Here, ancient and modern combine to form a wonderful picture. Frowning bastions, two hundred feet high, look down on modern warships and merchant vessels of all nations. Rippling in the breeze can be seen the flags and ensigns of Great Britain, the red and white flag of Malta and the ancient flag of St. John, as well as the flags of many other maritime nations. Guarding the mouth of the harbour are Forts St. Elmo and Ricasoli, built by the Knights and still in use. On the south shore is Fort St. Angelo, scene of the gallant stand of the Knights and their Maltese men-at-arms against the mighty Turkish armament of 1565. Admirals' barges, naval picket boats, tugs, and small sailing craft move over the water like mayfly on the surface of a trout pool. It is a sight well worth the expenditure of an hour or so.

And we have still by no means exhausted the tale of Malta. So varied is its history and so profuse the relics left by its former rulers that a full description would fill several volumes. Considering its size (95 square miles) there is so much in little Malta that it is no exaggeration to describe it as Multum in Parvo.

HOLY OF HOLIES in the neolithic Hypogeum at Malta. These prehistoric temples are as ancient as Stonehenge in England. The Hypogeum is built underground. It consists of four sets of caves and galleries cut in the natural rock. Behind the altar room shown here is a small room from which a system of ducts through the stone carry a hidden voice to waiting worshippers. If a man speaks into the duct, the voice booms; if a woman speaks into it nothing is heard at the other end.

One Earle a Financier, Another Lost Millions of Dollars

By RICHARD F. CHOATE

With the death a few days ago of Arthur Percival Choate Earle finis was written to a noteworthy chapter in the history of family life in the earlier Peterborough. In this chapter is recorded the history of two native sons, uncle and nephew, both well-known to many present residents, who moved through long lifetimes along the parallel paths strangely mapped by the hand of Fate. Both were endowed with rare native genius, suggestive of psychic acumen; both moved to national, indeed international, eminence in the world of finance; and both came at last to tragically sudden death in New York City.

The passing of Mr. Earle while alone in his room at the Hotel Seymour, recalls to memory the death in 1930 of his uncle, Arthur Percival Choate, who was then living in seclusion after a career in the stock market operations in which he had won and lost fortunes running into the millions.

Father English Teacher P.C.I.

Death of "Percy" Earle, as he was known to his boyhood friends in Peterborough, will bring a reminder also to many of the older generation of his father, the late Barton Earle, whose broad scholarship and inspirational powers as a teacher gained for him distinction as one of the greatest English Masters who have served at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. Another son, the late Oliver Barton Earle, was founder of the Kidd Button Co. of Toronto, which under the direction of his sons, remains one of the largest wholesale houses of its kind in Canada. Mrs. O. B. Earle now lives on River Road North, Peterborough.

Arthur P. Choate, born in Warsaw, was a son and Arthur P. C. Earle a grandson of Thomas George Choate, long reeve of Dummer and prominent in County Council affairs.

Percy Earle whose mother was Mary Choate, was a boy chorister at St. John's Church in the curacy days of Rev. C. B. Kenrick. Matriculating from the Collegiate he joined the North American Life Assurance Co. in Toronto. His keen mathematical mind soon won for him his degree as a full-fledged actuary, the youngest in the British Empire who had passed the examination. He was too young, indeed, to practice. Within a few years, however, he accepted the offer of the wealthy, newly-formed Pittsburgh Life to become its actuary and soon became its manager.

Returning to Canada he carried forward the organization of the Montreal Life; then a new and relatively small company. After he assumed the presidency (a post he held until his death) the company grew from strength to strength through the years. He was President also of the Aetna Life of England. Although a sufferer from diabetes for 30 years, Mr. Earle proceeded with unflagging energy to expand his business interests far beyond the insurance field. President of the Base Metals Mining Corporation and of many other mining companies, including American Yellowknife, Donalda and Eldona, he became in his later years a directing figure in Western Oil and uranium operations.

Youth In Peterborough

In his earlier days in Peterborough, Percy Earle was already proficient in the field of athletics. As a distance runner and as a tennis-player he proved his nettle. His next door neighbor, with whom he played in the vacant lot adjoining the old Earle home on Water Street, near Smith Street, (now Parkhill Road), was Ben. Simpson, who as a member of the Hamilton Tigers, was for many years one of Canada's top-rank football celebrities. Across the street then lived Simon R. Armstrong, who served long as City Clerk.

Situated on Elcombe Crescent, just behind, was the home of Edwin Elcombe, widely-known taxidermist, who stuffed and mounted the fabulous fish and game monsters taken by Kawartha sportsmen. A favorite form of mildly-stimulating sport for the boys of the time who swam in the Inverlea purlieus was to jump from the girders of the old Black Bridge into the Otonabee. The Water Street river front was then a shaggy and unsightly strip. The later planting of shrubs, like so many other beautification projects in Peterborough, may be credited to the vision and energy of the late Alderman Walter Stocker.

Millionaire Uncle

Arthur P. Choate, the uncle, was a familiar figure to many Peterborough people of today. In the early years of the century he returned to Peterborough and purchased the large house which stands on the Chemong road at the Lindsay highway. On the death of his parents he sold the property and again engaged in Wall Street operations. He also conducted a large-scale fruit plantation enterprise in Central America. His first fortune of a million dollars or so, which was made largely in railway stock operations, was wiped out. Plunging in again, he recouped these losses but again suffered heavy reverses. In the days of his ebbing fortune he fell on the steps of his New York boarding-house, suffering a skull fracture and from which he died a few days later. He was buried in St. Mark's Cemetery, at Warsaw, his birthplace.

Beginning as a young reporter on the Peterborough Review, A. P. Choate received from W. F. Maclean (late M.P.), publisher of the Toronto World, this letter, written in longhand, December 9, 1887, now in the writer's possession:

If you would care to try your hand on a Toronto paper I think I could make an opening for you, provided we agreed on terms. Let me know what experience you've had, what work you do best and what salary you now draw.

Gaining experience on the World, the newcomer went later to the Mail as Financial Editor. Here, receiving a salary of some $20. or $25. a week, he piled up his first million.

On May 3, 1901, Mr. Maclean was publishing in the World under a front-page display heading, "Money Comes Thru (sic) Brains", a news story of the Wall Street coups of the young reporter he had brought to Toronto, who was then resigning from the Mail to take a long rest abroad. "The whole of Mr. Choate's success", it was remarked, "is owing to the concentration of all his energies in the study of the legitimate and technical conditions of the market."

Writing in the "Fourth Column" at the time of A. P. Choate's death in 1930, Mr. Verne McAree who had been a co-worker on the Mail, remarked: "It is perhaps true to say that up to that time nobody in the history of this city had ever made so much money so fast. This is evidence enough of the brain power of Choate. He was the boldest speculator ever to appear on the local market and no man before or since ever knew more about the stocks in which he invested."

(Ed. Note: This account of the Earles will be concluded next week when Mr. Choate writes of the father of A. P. Choate Earle, English Master at P.C.I.)

CAPITAL PUDDING FROM SPOILED BREAD, OR FRAGMENTS

TAKE the bread of a "sad" or "heavy" loaf, or crusts and other fragments, soak them in hot water, stirring, and pouring off,—repeating this if necessary; then put the soaked bread into the pudding bag, and by twisting very tight, and pressing it under a board, get out as much of the water as possible. Then mix this pressed bread with milk, sugar, and spice (as powdered cinnamon and nutmeg) and add flour enough to bind it into a proper consistence. Then put it into the pudding bag for boiling. It is a simple, economical, and who-some pudding for children, and it is best eaten with syrup of fruit.

"What is the chief use of bread?" asked an examiner at a school examination. "The chief use of bread," answered a contemplative urchin, apparently aroused by the simplicity of the inquiry, "is to spread butter and treacle upon!"

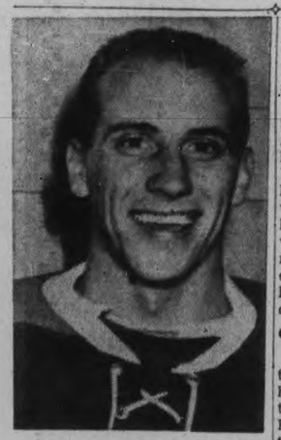
Petes Beat the Hawks, 5-3 For Fourth In a Row But Series Under Protest

The Petes beat Belleville Hawks 5-3 on Quinte ice last night to sweep their O.H.A. best-of-seven senior "B" group semi-final series in four straight games. They now advance into group finals against Kingston, provided a Belleville protest on Petes' use of junior players in this series is not upheld. The protest will be considered at an O.H.A. sub-committee meeting in Toronto today. Only 850 fans took in the tilt, a fine tussle on good ice.



AIDS ON TWO — George Steele helped the Petes in their 5-3 win in Belleville last night as he assisted Gus Leonard twice on goals in a fine showing. It was Petes' fourth straight semi-final playoff win over the Hawks.

It was fast and quite clean throughout with the Petes drawing three of the four penalties handed out by Referees Maurice Walsh and Jim Crombie in a well-handled fray. Jackie Wardhaugh was hurt in the first period when hit accidentally by a stick and was taken to hospital where he required a dozen stitches in a cut over the eye. Both sides fought hard but kept their tempers in check.

Goalies Shake

Following the game, only the two goaltenders—both of whom had played a starry role in a tight tilt—shook hands. Other Belleville players refused to on the grounds that the series was not over. They maintained that they'd be meeting again when the protest was ruled in their favor. "Without your Oddfellows' juniors, too," they said. The Petes laughed it off and replied that they could beat the Hawks any time, with or without.

Along with Ray Harding, outstanding players for Jim Ellis' squad were Gus Leonard, George Steele, Arn Dugan, Junior West and Red Peters. But there was little to choose among the whole crew, all turning in a nifty effort for their fourth straight playoff win. Freddy Garvey was back in the fold and went well, also. Leforte, MacDonald, Barrett and Doran were probably the pick of the Hawks, who went down fighting fiercely to the finish.

Petes Start It

There was but one goal scored in the cautious first frame, West tallying in close from Wade halfway through on a nice play. Not a penalty was drawn. It opened up plenty in the second with the Petes too speedy and checking back well to earn a 2-0 margin. Gus Leonard notched their first one from Steele on good combination and Petes added one late in the heat as they ganged up on Leforte. Peters, Floyd and MacDonald drew minor penalties through the heat, but the Petes at all times looked better.

Hawks fought back hard in the third. Barrett finally tallied halfway through on a play built up by Bastedo and Trumble, finishing in close. Gus Leonard got that back shortly on Steele's pass, but MacDonald blasted one into the hemp for Hawks with Jones and Doran aiding as they tore right in. Robinson sashayed inside to sink one for the visitors after some nice passing from Dugan and Earl Leonard, and then Belleville bored in hard, but they only scored one more. Barrett got it from Moher and MacDonald in the final minute of play. Collins drew the only penalty of the period. The Hawks were battling hard and gave Harding plenty of action but he was on his toes and had a good defence as well as back-checking forwards. The Petes got some of their goals on partial breakaways, using their speed with Quinte players up the ice. Teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling and E. Leonard; centre, Garvey; wings, Collins and Floyd; alternates, Wade, Peters, Robinson, Dugan, West, G. Leonard, Steele and Stewart.
Hawks: Goal, Leforte; defence, Reeves and Semark; centre, Doran; wings, Goyer and Jones; alternates, MacDonald, Desjardins, Barrett, Day, Wardhaugh, Moher, Bastedo and Trumble.

Nurses, Lindsay Get Wins In Girls' League

Lindsay Lasses moved up into the senior semi-finals of the Girls' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. last night by edging out a 39-38 win over Black's to sweep their round 64-54. They now meet Nurses for the girls' senior city cage final round against Neill's. Nurses beat C.G.E. 30-19 to reach semi-finals by a series score of 50-41. The losers drop to intermediate playoffs.

The first half of the first game last evening in the twin bill at the Y.W. was a tight one with Black's having a 22-20 margin. But Lindsay battled back to outscore their opponents 19-16 in the second half and it was a matter of seconds as they fought it out right to the final whistle.

M. Owen was the big star for Lindsay as she accounted for no less than 23 points. R. Gilson got four as two each went to S. Meath, D. Copp, L. Cullis, M. Vanstone, D. Wakelin and B. Green. For Black's R. McInroy was good for 10 points, one more than C. Raper, while R. Naylor got six, M. Hollingsworth five, E. McIlhagga four and B. Pollock and M. McGill two each. Teams:

Lindsay: S. Meath, D. Copp, S. Algar, L. Cullis, M. Vanstone, D. Wakelin, R. Gilson, M. Owen, B. Green.

Black's: E. McIlhagga, R. McInroy, M. Hollingsworth, M. Vint, B. Pollock, M. McGill, R. Naylor, M. McIlvena, C. Raper.

Close At First

The nightcap was plenty close at first, winding up at the halfway mark with C.G.E. leading Nurses 13-12. But the latter dominated play in the final session to outscore Eleectrics 18-6 with some neat passing and accurate shooting. There were few fouls called in this fairly fast tussle.

Bev Pringle and S. Slater accounted for 10 points apiece for the Nurses, the former being strong in the first half. Betty Jaquith clicked in the last part of the game for two baskets while A. Davis was solid throughout but dropped in three baskets in the late stages of the tilt. B. Luther led the losers with six points, M. Batley being good for four, and F. Greenlaw, J. Luther, M. Jones and D. Jackson two apiece. M. Waye sank a free throw. Teams:

C.G.E.: B. Luther, D. Jackson, M. Jones, M. Batley, P. Nixon, M. Waye, J. Luther, P. Greenlaw.

Nurses: B. Pringle, S. Slater, B. Jaquith, B. Dawe, A. Davis, J. Plunkett.

Referee, D. Burrows.

Hoop Teams Clash In C.O.S.S.A. Play

Six Peterborough and district teams are competing in Toronto today for C.O.S.S.A. boys A and B, and girls' basketball championships.

P.C.V.S. Garnet and Grey team were drawn against Belleville Collegiate's senior and junior in the semi-finals of the boys' A school championships. This tournament is being held at Hart House, University of Toronto.

In the other semi-final rounds Niagara Falls Collegiate are playing the Georgian Bay representatives, Barrie Collegiate Institute, in the junior, and Niagara Falls, defending champions, against the Orillia Collegiate in the senior.

Pre-series favorites for the senior final place the Garnet and Grey against Niagara Falls, with the Falls quintette favored to win by a margin of 20 points.

A New Series

In a new basketball series, listed under the B schools, the small collegiates in the district, Port Perry High juniors play the first game of that tournament against Trenton, winners of the Bay of Quinte area. In the other semi-final junior game Ridgeway-Crystall High meets Midland.

In the other half of the B schools tournament, played at the Danforth Tech, Port Hope seniors meet Albert College, Bay of Quinte champions, while Beamsville plays Collingwood in that semi-final.

Lindsay Collegiate's junior girls represent the Lake Ontario area's junior section in the girls' tournament at the Ontario College of Education. There they meet the Trenton High School, and if they win that, meet the winner of the Niagara Falls-Midland semi-final in the final game.

Port Perry senior girls, who edged P.C.V.S. for the Lake Ontario district, open the senior girls' championships against Belleville. Beamsville and Newmarket meet in the other senior semi-final.

Sell Two Forwards To Detroit Wings

VANCOUVER, March 15—(CP)—Owner Kenny MacKenzie of New Westminster Royals Friday night confirmed that forwards Guyle Fielder and Gord Fashoway have been sold to Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

Fashoway, top goal producer in the Pacific Coast Hockey League, and Rookie Fielder, will report to Detroit next season.

In return, New Westminster will get cash and players.

The deal was believed the biggest ever engineered between the two leagues.

MacKenzie bought both Fashoway and Fielder from Chicago Black Hawks, paying $2,500 for Fielder and $6,500 for Fashoway.

MacKenzie said he expects his goalie, Lucien Dechene, to move to the National League next season. To replace him, MacKenzie has put Roy McMeekin of Kelowna Packers on his negotiotion list.

HOCKEY GREATS — One-time shining stars of hockey were among 460 leading personalities of the sports world, ranging in age fom 17 to 72, who attended in Toronto the first annual $25-a-plate sports celebrity dinner of the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association. Proceeds of about $10,000 went to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. Here, left to right, are: Joe Malone, centre of the old professional Quebec Bulldogs 30 years ago, who scored more than 400 goals in his brilliant hockey career; Aurel Joliat, the 135-pound "Mighty Mite" who teamed with Howie Morenz on the Montreal Canadiens for 10 years; Bill Cook, now New York Rangers coach who built a reputation as one of the greatest right-wingers of all time while with the Rangers 1926-36; E. C. (Newsy) Lalonde, who from 1905 to 1926 played big-league hockey or lacrosse in Montreal, Toronto, Regina, Saskatchewan, Vancouver and New York; and Frank (King) Clancy, considered one of the greatest inspirational leaders to lace on a skate as a hockey player.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A lot of hockey fans will be disappointed to learn that they've seen the last of the Eagles for this season. O.H.A. suspended them for the balance of the season for failure to play in Kingston last Wednesday, and that gives the K's the semi-final round. Eagles had protested Kingston's use of Goalie MacDonald, brought up from the Maritimes for this seasor. And it looked like a sharp last-minute trick by the Kingston club. However, Eagles should have played that third game and let the O.H.A. consider their protest. One can't force the Ontario puck body to do anything by threats of refusal to play—that invariably results in a club suspension.

* * * * * * *

It's too bad for the Eagles and for their many followers here. The Petes, too, still had hopes that the Eagles would return to form and rub out Kingston. Which would have meant a Petes-Eagles' final group series. A natural, eh? The Eagles had their ups and downs this season and near the end of the schedule were just half a game out of first place. However, they finished in third, and then dropped two straight to Kingston in best-of-seven semi-finals. Coach Ned Vitarelli juggled his lines around a lot in a desperate attempt to come up with a winning combination, but the club didn't quite measure up towards the last. So, the Petes alone will carry the local hockey banner from here in this spring.

Al Burns Doing Well

Al Burns is doing a fine job as playing coach this season of Lindsay Muskies. His intermediate "A" puckists captured the Lakeshore League title and are set now for provincial playdowns. The hard-hitting defenceman, who performed several seasons for Eagles, has another former member of that club with him, Sixty Coombs—and the latter has been scoring a lot of goals. Burns insists that his men play heads-up hockey or they'll get flattened by him and his blue-line mates in practise. Toar Morgan, the wrestling taximan of Lindsay—who has shown here often in mat bouts—is president of the intermediate Lindsay club.

* * * * * * *

Speaking of wrestling, hateful Hans Hermann is pitted against Whipper Bill Watson in the main bout here next Tuseday night. No question as to which grappler will get the support of fans in this one. They just don't like any part of Hans' huge frame, nor his cocky strut, nor yet his rough tactics. Whilst popular Whipper has a host of friends among local mat followers. It should be quite a dish for them when these two huskies clash. Rugged Fred Atkins goes against tall Bill Stack in the semi-final on this card. The prelim puts Strangler Bob Wagner in against Irish Tom Collins, who will be celebrating the night after March 17th.

Whoops, Hoops and Cops

Results of last night's cage colleens' tussles are in elsewhere, and there's a Y.W. exhibition at seven this e'en betwixt Toronto Lakeshores and Towne Togs. Latter go into L.O.B.A. intermediate "B" semi-finals next week against the Toronto-Falls winner, playing away Wednesday and back here the following Saturday. St. Kitts and Stratford will meet in the other semi-final girls' bracket. Wouldn't surprise us any if the classy Togs took it all this semester. Meantime, P.C.V.S. senior and junior boys are off to Toronto today to do or die in C.O.S.S.A. hoop playoffs. Basketball is nearing the end of the trail for the year.

* * * * * * *

Well, Petes made it four straight, as they said they would. Took the Hawks 5-3 in Bella Villa last eve before less than 1,000 fans. So they should now be proceeding into O.H.A. senior "B" group finals 'gainst Kingston, starting Monday. A best-of-seven serial. However, the Quinte crew have protested this series to the O.H.A. on the grounds that the Petes were not entitled to use juniors from the Oddfellows, as they didn't sponsor this junior club. The O.H.A. subcommittee is meeting in Toronto this aft and will consider the protest. So, until we hear their ruling we can't say the Petes are group finalists. But it's just a matter of form. They can beat the Hawks anytime; with or without using a few juniors. They looked classy in their win last eve, the whole crew clicking up to form.

Dealing 'em Off the Cuff

Petes will likely be playing here Monday night against Kingston (if the Quinte protest is tossed out) or against Hawks, provided the latter's protest is upheld....Havelock downed Marmora last eve to even up their best-of-five T.V.L. semi-finals at a win each; next one is Tuesday eve at Marmora....Kincardine tangles with Campbellford on the latter's ice tonight in O.M.H.A. midget "C" finals....Pat Wilson's Stratford squad beat Owen Sound 5-1 to open O.H.A. senior "A" finals....Sacred Heart edged St. Alphonsus to capture the senior title of the Separate School Hockey League.... Roy Suddards rolled a terrific three of 1002 for season's high in the men's City Bowling League....Lindsay Collegiate's bonspiel drew a hefty entry of young curlers....Bill Jamieson, Cobourg southpaw, will be with Pine Bluffs this season in the Cotton States League, a class "C" circuit..Grant Henry is in the Canadian badminton mixed doubles finals now....Lindsay lasses eked out a 39-36 cage win o'er Black's last e'en, as Nurses won 30-19 from C.G.E.....'Tis the columnistic end.

Joanne Hewson 3rd In French Ski Meet

CHAMONIX, France, March 15—(CP)—Joanne Hewson of Montreal finished in a tie for third place Friday with a U.S. Olympic gold medallist and a French girl in the women's downhill race of the Arlberg Kandahar international ski competition.

Merl. Buchner of Germany won the race over a mile and three-quarters course in two minutes, 15.6 seconds. Another German girl Hildeseuse Gartner, was second.

The 20-year-old Montreal girl, a member of Canada's ski team in the Winter Olympic Games at Oslo last month, was tied with Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence, who won two gold medals at Oslo, and Marysette Angel of France. Sandra Tomlinson of Vancouver, B.C., was 20th in 2:27.2.

A total of 72 skiers from nine countries will compete in the men's downhill event at Les Houches tomorrow.

Grant Henry Finalist Mixed Doubles

WINNIPEG, March 15 (CP)—All but two defending champions watched from the sidelines today as Canada's top badminton players reached the showdown stage in their annual tournament.

Only Darryl Thompson of Vancouver and the Vancouver team of JeJan Bardsley and Lois Reid stood a chance of getting their names inscribed on silverware for the second straight year.

Thompson will face Don Smythe of Toronto in the men's singles final. Smythe and fellow-townsman Bud Porter tackle Ken Williams of Calgary and Ken Forsythe of Winnipeg for the men's doubles crown while Porter teams with Edith (Johnny) Marshall to meet Noreen Cossar of Toronto and Grant Henry of Millbrook.

Barbara Ince and Joan Warren of Toronto will try to take the women's doubles championship away from Miss Bardsley and Miss Reid. Marge Shedd of Toronto meets Marje Mapp of Montreal for the women's singles title.

Junior champions were crowned Friday night in both the women's and men's divisions.

Easy Defeat

Jean Dunkeld of Montreal easily defeated Miss Cossar, 11-5, 11-5, in the junior women's final, while Jim Carnwath of Woodstock, and Toronto captured the junior men's wind-up with a 15-7, 15-9 win over favored Ross McAllister of Toronto. Carnwath was runner-up to McAllister in the Ontario junior final.

The hard-smashing Thompson won his way into the senior men's final by blasting Forsythe, 11-15, 15-5, 15-5. Smythe advanced with an easy 15-1, 15-5 victory over Williams.

Thompson failed in his doubles bid with Bert Jones, losing a hard-fought semi-final to Porter and Smythe, 18-15, 15-18, 15-4. Forsythe and Williams downed Jack Muir and Bev Westcott of Toronto, 15-5, 15-10, in one of the night's upsets.

Top-seeded Miss Shedd had to get by a stubborn Joan Warren, also of Toronto, 8-11, 12-10, 12-10. Miss Mapp had no trouble beating Clair Lovett of Vancouver 11-8, 11-1.

Misses Shedd and Mapp dropped a 18-15, 15-12 decision to the Ince-Warren combination in the women's doubles.

McArthur Rink Captures The Empress Trophy To End Week's Bonspiel

By HERB MARTIN

When the prizes were presented in the club's parlors late Friday evening, the all-week open mixed rink bonspiel came to a successful conclusion. The main event—the Empress Hotel trophy—was won by the veteran Tom McArthur. F. Stenson was runner-up; both rinks from the local club. Harry McCallum, another veteran of many bonspiels, of Fenelon Falls, captured the Calvert trophy, with C. Giraux's local rink runner-up. The Eaton trophy went to G. Cook's Lindsy rink, while N. Hamley's rink was runner-up.

A. Simmon's rink from Toronto High Park took the G. K. Fraser trophy with F. Brown, Keene, runners-up.

Just One Here

Although the prizes on the whole were fairly evenly distributed, only one trophy of the four stayed at home.

As for the bonspiel, it was tops. Dr. McCartney's committee, assisted by the ladies, did a wonderful job; they took care of everything in fine style.

It was a great week; good curling, keen competitions, followed by big crowds each day.

As one visiting skip said: "Peterborough must now be considered as one of the outstanding curling centres of the province."

Weekend May Be Crucial For Several NHL Teams

By CRAIG SWAYZE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

This weekend is a rare one as far as the National Hockey League is concerned. For the first and only time this season, the six member teams will meet in a trio of double schedules. Tonight, New York Rangers will be in Toronto for a game with the Maple Leafs while Montreal Canadiens entertain Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks play in Detroit against the Red Wings. On Sunday, the teams simply reverse the venue of their games.

With all clubs having but five scheduled games remaining, the weekend could be as crucial as any of the 22 run through since the season opened Oct. 22. Only Detroit and Chicago will be unaffected by play—the Wings having clinched their fourth straight N.H.L. title a week ago while the Hawks are mired hoplessly in the cellar, 26 games off the pace.

In meeting New York, the Maple Leafs may have more than a chore on their hands. Although both clubs are fighting for position—Rangers trying to wipe out the one-point difference between themselves and fourth-place Boston, Leafs to slice the runner-up Canadiens' five-point lead—the difference lies in the fact that Toronto is already assured of a post-season playoff berth while the Blueshirts must rely on their current showing to make Stanley Cup play.

Take No Chances

Meanwhile in Montreal, the Canadiens aren't taking any chances on the Leafs moving into their second spot. Coach Dick Irvin announced Friday night that Maurice (The Rocket) Richard will be dressed for tonight's clash with the Bruins and would probably make the Sunday trip to Boston.

Out of action with a groin injury since Feb. 4 the Rocket worked out with the Habs on Friday and reported feeling fine. It is on his request that Irvin is inserting him in the lineup, only a few days after the right-winger returned from a rest in Florida.

Even though fourth place is the last playoff spot, the runner-up slot is an escape from meeting Detroit in the first round of Stanley Cup play as well as assuring each player $500 more than third place. The Leafs will have to fight hard to make it, but the Habs still have two tough games against the Wings in their remaining five while Toronto's schedule includes Chicago and Boston.

Paul's Closest Friend Was Young Man Timothy

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Paul the Apostle had many intimate friends and associates in the fellowship of the Christian life, and in the churches that he established. This is made plain in many passages and references in the Book of the Acts, and in the Pauline Epistles.

But the closest and most intimate of all these relationships was that with the young man, Timothy, whom he called his son, and to hom ne addressed two notable Epistles.

Timothy, of course, was not Paul's son in a family sense. So far as we know Paul was unmarried (See I Corinthians 9:5), but it is a matter of conjecture whether he was a bachelor or a widower. What seems certain is that he had no child of his own.

But a flesh-and-blood relationship could hardly have made Timothy Paul's son more in sentiment and effect than he actually was. So far as one can see the deep attachment on Paul's part, that of a lone man for one upon whom he could bestow his affection, was reciprocated by Timothy, a response that is not always forthcoming from youth to old or middle-age.

Apparently Timothy never failed him, as Paul believed young John Mark had failed, in the incident leading to the sharp contention between Paul and Barnabas (Acts 15:38, 39).

It is to be noted, however, not only that John Mark made good, as the Mark who wrote our second Gospel, but also that he became restored to Paul's good will and favor, as a fellow-worker and a "comfort to him" (Colossians 4:11).

But Timothy was the young friend, who stood closest to Paul; and to his "son" Timothy Paul wrote two Epistles, full of good counsel for youth, from which men of today might well profit.

The history of men of strong character and achievement in relation to their sons—and it includes much concerning mothers and daughters as well—is full of the stories of sons who became weaklings, wasters, and failures, largely because the fathers sought to put around them protecting influences and safeguards, to save them from the struggles and hardships which they themselves had had to endure, and the conquest of which had made them strong and successful.

When Paul met Timothy, and when he wrote to him the two great letters, the Epistles of I and II Timothy, he had already endured much suffering and persecution.

Far from writing to his "son" in terms of sentimental softness, however, he admonished him to be a good soldier, and endure hardness.

His one concern and prayer for Timothy was that he might be faithful in the stern and trying days ahead. Many refrences in the Acts and Epistles reveal how thoroughly Timothy fulfilled Paul's trust in him, assuming an active leadership in the churches.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

HEADS COBOURG ROTARY

Slate of Cobourg Rotary Club officers for 1952 was named Friday. President by acclamation is Johnny Ewart.

BELLS CHIME SIGNAL

Bells of all Port Hope churches chimed Friday night to mark the beginning of the Red Cross fund campaign in that lakeshore town.

NEW PLANT

Construction will begin in the next few weeks on a new $10 million truck assembly plant to be erected by the General Motors of Canada Ltd. in Oshawa.

NO FURTHER INCREASE

The Board of Education, on the recommendation of the appointments committee, have decided not to grant any further salary adjustments for 1952. In 1952 the total wage bill is estimated at $885,400 or 86 per cent of the budget.

CONSTABLE STARK RESIGNS

At its March meeting Thursday, the Police Commission accepted the resignation of constable Douglas M. Stark. In his letter of resignation, constable Stark asked to be relieved of his duties March 22. He joined the city police force on October 1, 1949, and is leaving the department to accept another position. The commission authorized Chief John Thompson to advertise for a new constable to replace Constable Stark.

Community Fund Campaign Raises $72,746 In Week; $12,254 Needed

No End To Campaign Until Objective Reached Chairman Alex Elliott Tells 125 Fund Drive Workers At Final Dinner

The Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund has netted $72,746 in the first week of its campaign. A total of $12,254 will have to be collected before the fund reaches its objective of $85,000. "The campaign will not end this year until the objective has been reached," said campaign chairman Alex Elliott at the final dinner of the campaign held in the Empress Hotel Friday night.

"I would like to thank all the campaign workers for what they have done and what they will do," he continued.

Approximately 125 campaign workers were in attendance as the four division captains reported their totals collected to date.

As yet the Women's Division under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. F. Watts is the only division to make their objective. Mrs. Watts reported that her workers had turned in $6,594 — $1,594 more than their $5,000 objective.

"We hope to reach $7,000 when our division has finished its work," she said.

The Industrial Division has collected $33,967 of its $38,000 objective. Chairman Thomas Glover reported that the division expect to be over the top in another week or 10 days.

The Special Names Division under the chairmanship of S. J. Whitehouse has collected $22,000. Its objective is $25,000. This chairman reported that 90 per cent of the work had been completed in his division.

Co-chairmen Ford Warren and W. Roberts reported $9,541 of the Retail Division's $17,000 objective collected. Both chairmen were optimistic that the division would reach its objective.

Mayor Hugh Waddell, who was a guest at the dinner, thanked the canvassers for their work in the campaign.

"All of Peterborough owes you a great debt of gratitude for the time and effort you have spent in this campaign," he said.

The appreciation of the agencies included in the campaign was expressed by Capt. Douglas Sharpe of the Salvation Army.

Board Approves Essay Contest On Conservation

The Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association have asked the Board of Education for permission to sponsor an essay contest in city public schools. The Separate School Board have already given their permission.

Cam Rowatt of the association said the essays are to be 200 words in length and open to pupils in Grades 5 to 8. The subject is "Protecting Our Wild Life."

The board have given their approval on the understanding that a satisfactory arrangement can be worked out between K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, and the association.

Must Be Voluntary

Mr. Wightman said he didn't want the curriculum upset by the showing of conservation films during school hours. The essay-writing must be voluntary.

Mr. Rowatt told the board that he thought the contest—to be held during Wild Life Week, April 6-12—would help the school children realize the importance of conservation.

On behalf of the Association, Mr. Rowatt presented each of the elementary schools with two copies of a textbook "Peter's Adventures in the Out-of-doors," by Mrs. Muriel Miller Miner. The text has been approved by the Department of Education.

Order Inquest Into Death Of M. Martin, 68

An inquest has been ordered into the death on Jan. 27 of Murney Martin, 68, of 267 Simcoe St. Mr. Martin was fatally injured Jan. 12 when he was struck by a car while walking along the north side of Otonabee St. about 11.30 p.m.

The inquest will be 2.30 p.m. Wednesday at the police court. Coroner Dr. H. G. Carleton will preside.

Martin was struck from behind by a car driven by Elwood McIlmoyle, of 33 Armour Road. The accident occurred on Otonabee St., just past the intersection with Short St.

Saw Too Late

McIlmoyle told police he was driving east and pulled out to pass another car. He did not see Martin until it was too late to avoid hitting him.

Martin was taken to hospital where his injuries were said to be a broken left leg, concussion, and cuts on the forehead and chin. Next day he regained consciousness and his condition seemed reasonably good.

He died Jan. 27.

Majority Of Tenants Aware Of Agreement For Removal

"A great majority" of the tenants in wartime houses on the Hatton property are aware of the agreement between the city and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. "This agreement isn't mentioned in the lease," E. J. Collins, assistant manager of the corporation's office here said today, "But I believe almost all, I'd say a great majority, have been told of it at one time or another."

The agreement is for the removal by June 30, 1952, of the 125 houses built at the west end of Charlotte St. during the wartime housing emergency.

The Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) Monday night protested the removal of the houses and its president, Alfred Barber, hinted at a "setup" between the city council and real estate dealers.

Said Mr. Barber: "It seems like some sort of setup between the city council and the real estate people so only expensive houses—beyond the reach of the average working man—will be built."

Refused Chances

Mr. Collins pointed out today that many of the residents in the Hatton property houses have at one time or another lived in other wartime housing subdivisions. While there, they refused opportunities to buy houses they were living in.

Some have no intention of ever buying, Mr. Collins said.

The labor council protested that residents of other wartime housing zones were given the chance to buy their houses and bring them up to standards required by the city's building bylaw. They felt tenants of the Hatton property should get the same opportunity.

One point that has been overlooked in the discussion is that the district containing the Hatton property has been zoned as a "first density area" where highest quality homes will be built. The city has not indicated in any way that it wishes to change this classification.

Mayor Sends Letter

Mayor Hugh F. Waddell has sent a letter to the labor council, reciting the background to the agreement, and presenting the council's views.

The original agreement for removal of the houses was made in 1947, and it is understood that the tenants of the Hatton property at that time were quite reconciled to it.

Near the end of 1951, Central Mortgage and Housing offered the city an opportunity to buy the Hatton property, houses and land, for $175,000. This offer the city turned down, and countered it with an offer to buy the land when the houses would be vacant.

After a good deal of discussion, the city passed a resolution asking Central Mortgage and Housing to stand by its agreement.

Must Leave City

Included in the resolution was a clause asking that the buildings be sold by the corporation for removal only and with the distinct understanding that the buildings are not to be re-established within the city's boundaries.

The city also asked in the resolution for 30 days after removal of the houses in which to consider purchasing the land. Central Mortgage and Housing has not said yes or no to this. It was reported Tuesday that the city had been granted the 30 days.

Mr. Collins said no definite plans have been made for removal of the houses, but said any such plans will be announced soon after they are final.

North Monaghan Building Plans

While Peterborough this week was entering into the land assembly agreement for planned housing development north of the Smith township border, North Monaghan council was dealing with private realty enterprise farther than ever west of the city.

Council approved the subdivision plan of A. E. Longmire, Homewood Ave., on the south side of the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway, opposite the Lillico farm. It is part of lot 4, concession 11.

The Longmire block provides lots for 18 dwellings, and it is understood that sale is to be in the lot form. The plan has to receive the approval of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development.

On the road east of Brealey's School, C. E. Armstrong has a similar property project. Plan of its layout was studied by the council who were not quite satisfied with the outline of a proposed new road in the subdivision. Councillor Fred Stenson was delegated to interview Mr. Armstrong about new street details.

There has already been considerable building activity on that extension of Sherbrooke St. between Kawartha Golf and Country Club and the Brealey school corner.

10,000 Programs Distributed For Spring Show

Nearly 10,000 programs for the Central Ontario Spring Show at Peterborough Exhibition Park, March 26 to 28, have been distributed in the ten counties comprising the area from Frontenac and Prince Edward counties to Ontario county.

This wide circulation following some thousands of previous announcement cards has been accomplished through the county offices of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and their representatives, the Quaker Oats Company, Canada Packers and most of the farm implement dealers here and elsewhere.

Review Plans for Show

Plans for the show were reviewed at a meeting here Friday afternoon, attended by about thirty promoters from the district. Mel McHolm of Port Hope was chairman. Reports promised that the seed exhibits should be as numerous as ever they were at the Quinte District Seed Fair, which the Spring Show has replaced.

Frank Paterson told the meeting that all the display space in the main building has been taken. Farm machinery will occupy the building used at Exhibition time for domestic products and art. The flower show building becomes a general meeting place with morning and afternoon programs.

New technicolor films have been selected with special concern for their practical interest relating to the main subject of the show: "Grassland Farming For Profit." For example, one that is well worth a sitting tells the story of phosphorous, its source, processing, and uses, especially in agriculture.

Square Dancing

The entertainment feature of the show will be the square dance contest for county sets. This is Dr. Harold Worton's contribution, and it is likely to draw a night crowd Thursday, March 27. At the London, Ont., seed fair two weeks ago, this same type of dancing competition packed the auditorium.

Reports of the committee members Friday were all encouraging. The publicity department has been receiving support from district papers, radio information will be used next week.

Dr. J. D. MacLachlan, president of O.A.C., will open the show Wednesday at 2 p.m.

The Thursday afternoon offering focuses attention on a grassland panel to be conducted by Ken Fallis of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Tiny Chinchillas Carry Load Of Gold On Back, Breeders Replenish Ranks

By NICK NICKELS

If you are expecting to receive $1,000 or more rebate from the Income Tax department, come the end of April, you could do worse than buy yourself a pair of chinchillas. These, in the normal course of events, might set you up in the chinchilla breeding business in a small way, even make a living for you in a few years if you gave the little beasties your constant attention. Running a chinchilla ranch is a full-time job as G. Robert Schwab of 369 Mark St., will tell you.

What are chinchillas?

They are native rodents of Chile, gopher-like creatures that lived in the Andes mountains by the millions until human greed for their wonderful pelts all but exterminated them.

An American mining engineer, M. F. Chapman, got in before the final slaughter and brought 11 animals home with him to California in 1923 and from them laid the foundation for the North American stock which, by now, has reached 120,000 animals, 10,000 of them in Canada.

Raised For Breeding

They are not a ranch pelt proposition yet. The money in raising them is in the sale of breeding stock. Their fur, according to experts in the fur business, is the lightest, warmest and most precious in the world. Each hair on their bodies springs from a root that contains 80 almost-invisible hairlets of cobweb texture. When it comes to pelting the animals for a full-length fur coat it will take 800 pelts to finally match the necessary 200 skins. And the price of the finished product would be fabulous.

Mr. Schwab, a naturalized Swiss-Canadian watch and tool maker, gave up clock punching in 1942 when he bought a pair of Cardsen, Alta., breeders for $2,000 to start his Kawartha Chinchilla Ranch. He recalls that his wife was aghast at the financial plunge but in ten years' time he has become an international expert. For the first few years he kept the cared animals in his basement and later built an insulated cement-block building, 18 by 36 feet, in his back yard. It will accommodate 50 cages, about half of them occupied at the present time.

Paired For Life

These two pound cottontail creatures with Mickey Mouse ears have two litters of two young each year. A male and female are paired for life—10 to 12 years—and live on hay, dried beet pulp, commercial pellets and greens in summer. They are clean and have no offensive odors at all and sleep through the day. Two feedings are given morning and evening amid a deal of chattering.

An experts' expert, Mr. Schwab wrote the first authoritative book on raising chinchillas for profit and since it was published in 1947 its sale has been, and still is, widespread. He has bundles of show ribbons to prove that his methods are the best in the business. Honorary president of the Chinchilla Breeders of Canada, executive of its Trent Valley Branch of 17 Peterborough district breeders, Mr. Schwab could count on prompt and accurate delivery of mail addressed to "Mr. Chinchilla, Canada."

Car Jumps Curb Driver Charged

A Lakefield man, Jack Lavery, was arrested Friday night, after his car went out of control making a left hand turn, mounted the curb and crashed into a tree.

Lavery was travelling west on Parkhill Rd., and when he attempted to turn south on George St., his car struck the southwest curb of George St., and went along the sidewalk for about 63 feet before striking a tree.

In police court today, he was charged with driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol, and the case was adjourned to March 19.

A witness to the accident, Mrs. Edward Reid, 709 George St., said a hub cap which came loose from the car narrowly missed her.

Constable W. A. Scott investigated Lavery's car was damaged considerably.

Lad Falls In Barnyard Suffers Cut Near Eye

A jagged sharp object imbedded in a strip of ice, severely cut Allan Mahood, 7, R.R. 1, Lakefield Friday night, when he slipped and fell in his father's barnyard.

He was brought to Civic hospital. Stitches were required to close the wound, and a piece of shattered bone in the boy's nose had to be removed. His condition is described as good today.

Allan fell as he was leaving the barnyard after helping his brother Jimmy, 10, with the evening chores. The sharp object narrowly missed putting the boy's right eye out.

Lose Privileges

TOKYO, March 15—(Reuters)—United States army headquarters announced today that foreign correspondents in Japan will lose their army occupation privileges at the end of this month. Correspondents will not be permitted to use army shopping and canteen facilities, housing transportation or U.S. military currency after March 31. This does not apply to correspondents covering the war in Korea.

No Takers For Job As School Guard-Chief

"I have exhausted every resource to obtain a guard at the Queen Mary School," Police Chief John Thompson told the Police Commission, Thursday.

Chief Thompson explained that John Fredenberg, 545 Sherbrooke St., had resigned last Saturday. The back-log of applicants has been used up, Chief Thompson said, and he had not been able to find a replacement.

The commission instructed Chief Thompson to advertise for someone for the job.

Possibility of Lawsuit

Auditorium Rental Poses Legal Problem

Once again the letting of Queen Mary Auditorium for other than educational uses is posing a legal problem for the Board of Education.

There is a strong indication that if the Summer Theatre is held again the board will be involved in a lawsuit.

A legal firm in Toronto has given the opinion that the board, in renting the auditorium to such groups as the Summer Theatre, has "gone far beyond its powers."

Last year the board got the City Council to pass a parking bylaw so that cars would not be parked on the residents' side of the road in the Queen Mary block. Parking was on the school's side of the road only.

In this way the board hoped to avoid a lawsuit on the grounds that the parking, as well as the noise caused by theatre patrons coming and going, was a "nuisance."

There was no injunction taken out against the board last year and the trustees hoped that this "perennial problem" was solved at last.

The Toronto solicitors say that the board is vulnerable on the grounds (a) that the performances are a legal "nuisance," and (b) the theatre is being used contrary to the zoning bylaws of the city.

"I'm afraid the matter will have to be treated with as much consideration as last year, perhaps a little more," said Chairman W. B. Gordon.

"I think we should leave it in the hands of our solicitor," said G. Wilson Craw. "That's the only way this problem will be cleaned up."

The matter was then referred to the supervision committee for consideration.

Western Oils Surge Upward Late In Week

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Western oils surged upward late this week as sustained speculation dominated Stock Market dealings and pushed the Toronto exchange's index to the highest level in its 15 years of operation.

The steady flow of reports of strikes from Western Canada oilfields and encouraging marketing prospects brought a rush of trading Thursday that boosted the day's turnover to more than 3,700,000 shares—the highest level since the record-breaking sessions of last October.

The week's trading started on a highly selective basis as investors and speculators calculated the prospects of individual companies and the probable action of the market as a whole. A few leaders such as General Petroleum, Federated Petroleum and United Oil turned upward Thursday and although enthusiastic trading spread rapidly to a wide list of issues, prices generally made little headway.

Prices Jump

However, Friday prices jumped amid fierce competition. Gains ranged from a few pennies to the $1.50 jump of Federated Petroleum. In both sessions, oil trading accounted for about two-thirds of the day's turnover.

A few golds, such as McIntyre-Porcupine and Dome, with Western Oil interest caught some of the enthusiasm but generally it was a quiet week for industrials, golds and metals.

Toronto opened the week Monday with a slight rally. Before the close, however, industrials and oils had turned lower while golds and metals held steady. Montreal papers eased but industrials held gains and losses in balance. All Toronto sections slipped Tuesday while papers and industrials eased in Montreal.

Industrials edged upward in Toronto Wednesday while papers and industrials strengthened in Montreal. Toronto and Montreal prices made little headway Thursday. Oils climbed away from a mixed market in Toronto yesterday while papers edged upward in Montreal.

Prices drifted lower in New York Monday as rails dipped. Rails recovered strongly Tuesday, however, to spark a general recovery. Prices turned mixed on Wednesday and pushed upward Thursday. Oils bolstered a slightly higher market Friday.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed industrials up 1.32 at 330.65, golds up .59 at 83.84, base metals down 2.68 at 192.28 and western oils up 3.23 at 138.67.

In the Montreal averages, banks were up .05 at 30.00, utilities down .1 at 86.4, industrials down .6 at 216.1, combined down .4 at 172.9, papers up 1.83 at 755.70 and golds down .82 at 65.68.

In New York, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed 20 cents to $100.70.

Splendid Debut

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15—(AP)—Red Schoendienst had an auspicious start in his debut at shortstop for the St. Louis Cardinals Friday. He banged out two doubles and handled six chances, including the pivot spot in a pair of doubleplays. Manager Eddie Stanky expects to take over Red's old spot at second base today against Philadelphia Phils.

BIG BUTCH BOUCHARD is standing close to Leafs net as Geoffrion lobs in the final goal to win the game for the Habs by a score of 3-1. He came down brushed by Juzda, passed to Boom Boom in front of the cage. The latter jabbed the puck home. The win gave the Canadiens a fairly comfortable 5-point lead over the Leafs, who were hoping to take over the second place slot.

Indians Trip Mercurys 5-1 In First Of O.H.A. League Finals

By The Canadian Press.

It took Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds six games to repeat their 1951 capture of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A title, but when they did come through in the game that counted, Don Grosso's boys made no mistake about it.

Defeating North Bay Black Hawks 6-1 Friday night before a record 6,212 fans at Sault Memorial Gardens, Greyhounds earned the right to meet Noranda Copper Kings, winners of the Porcupine Senior Hockey League, in a best-of-seven series for the all-Northern Ontario title.

Sault Ste. Marie split four games with Black Hawks and tied a fifth before winning last night's deciding tussle.

In Ontario Hockey Association Senior A play, Stratford Indians made it look as though they had regained all their mid-season vim and vigor Friday night when they downed Owen Sound Mercurys 5-1 in the first game of their best-of-seven league finals.

Heavy Impression

Indians—who barely scraped against Brantford Redmen, winning that series 4-3—made a heavy impression on the Mercurys, last year's Allan Cup champions.

Guelph Biltmores delighted a home-town crowd Friday night when they managed to edge Toronto Marlboros 3-2 to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven O.H.A. Junior A semi-finals. Bilts carried the play throughout and outshot the Marlies 35-14 over the route. The teams play back in Toronto Sunday afternoon.

At the lakehead, Fort William Beavers took a 3-0 lead Friday night in their best-of-seven Thunder Bay senior finals when they dropped Fort Frances Canadians—last year's Allan Cup finalists—5-4. The fourth game is scheduled Sunday afternoon.

Scores Twice

Morris Saplywy scored twice for Fort William with Rod McKenzie, Johnny Irving and Arnie Sorel adding the others. Frank Eisenzoph, Rick Ricard, Don Lovisa, and Wally Christianson tallied for the Canadians.

At Guelph, Ron Murphy, Billy McCreary and Harry Howell scored the Biltmores' goals while Danny Poland and Earl Balfour came through for the Marlboros.

George Aitken banged in three tallies for Stratford with Mickey Roth and Al Ritchie getting the others. Tommy Burlington scored the lone Owen Sound goal.

Roy Heximer and Hec Pozzo garnered two goals each for the Sault Ste. Marie club while Johnny Offidani and Gunnar Telkinen added the others.

Here And There In Sports

Richard worked out for 45 minutes with his team mates on Friday.

"It's the best I've felt in a long time," he said. "There's still a little pain but I feel much better."

Rolling up three victories with a high plus of 17, the H. J. Awrey rink of Hillsburg, Ont., Thursday won the top prize at the first annual farmers' bonspiel in Brampton.

The 1953 Canadian badminton championships will be held at the Carlton Club, Toronto, it was announced Friday in Winnipeg. Dates were not given.

Mike King, selected twice as half-back on the Western Interprovincial Football Union's all-star team, Friday signed a contract for his third season with Edmonton Eskimos. King is a former Toronto Argonaut.

Weston Dukes Friday night won the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B Big Six championship, defeating Toronto St. Michael's 4-2 and capturing the best-of seven final series 4-3.

In Milan, Italy, Edmonton Mercurys Friday night wound up their three-game tour of Italy with a 10-0 shutout of a team made up of foreign players living in Italy. The 1952 Olympic champions leave today by train for Zurich, Switzerland, whence they will proceed by plane to London. After seven matches in London, the team is expected to play in Paris.

Austerity Worries Hard On Housewife

LONDON (CP)—The "little woman" faced with the problem of keeping her expenses within the weekly household allowance has far greater financial worries than the husband, says the current issue of the Houseworker, organ of the National Institute of Houseworkers.

"When money is short, it is always the mother of the family who must sacrifice all luxuries," the paper says. "It is she who must forego a new coat, a fresh hat and other little luxuries in order that her children will be well cared for."

Suddards Rolls 1002

Roy Suddards of McGillis in the Men's City Bowling League turned in a dazzling display of bowling Thursday evening as he trundled the pins for a season's high triple of 1002 to displace Harold Mesley, who had previously held this honor for most of the past season with a triple of 953. Suddards' games of 389, 324 and 289 also gave him high single for the evening, and his teammates ably backed him up to post total pinnage of 3739, which included a 1390 single team score to take down this individual also.

McGills completed the sweep by whitewashing DeLaval for a 6-0 point win as did Sunoco over Bonds for the same count, as 4-2 margins were taken by Madill & Post, Kawartha Garage, and Bassells over Clapper's, Anthony's, and Moore's respectively.

Good single games were rolled by Harold Mesley 352-302, Bill Boon 312, Jack Wade 302, Hank Gordon 311, Dick Martyn 326, Jack Martin 320, and George Walton 302.

Madill & Post are declared the new champions of the Duffus Trophy for the season of 1951-1952, which is rapidly drawing to a close with but two nights of bowling remaining.

London Students Get Lessons By TV

LONDON—(CP)—Pupils in 12 London schools will get their lessons by television during May.

Every school-day for one month the children will see and hear teachers over a special closed circuit which ordinary viewers will be unable to pick up. The pupils will be between 11 and 16 years of age.

Each age group will receive 20 TV lessons. Inspectors of the school broadcasting council will periodically test the classes' reaction.

Science lessons now are being planned. Other subjects will include geography, history and current affairs. The new plans are in charge of George Barnes, British Broadcasting Corporation's director of television.

For many years the BBC has given a wide range of radio lessons daily to schools all over the country. The new plans are expected to expand rapidly if they prove successful.

Thinks Fishermen Lucky

OTTAWA, March 15—(CP)—A prairie farmer told a Maritime fisherman Friday night that he's lucky he doesn't milk and feed the fish once he catches them.

If he did, said Robert Fair (SC—Battle River), the fisherman would work 365 days of the year, as does every good farmer, milking and feeding his cows.

With good-natured taunts, the Alberta farmer-member directed his remarks at A. Wesley Stuart (L—Charlotte) who told the Commons the other night that the Atlantic-coast fisherman works 52 weeks a year while the farmer—so he had heard—spent half the year basking in Florida sunshine.

That sunshine business, Mr. Fair said in the Throne-speech debate, is a "myth." Cows must be milked and fed every day, including Sundays. Fish don't.

Harriman, the first to testify, said any reductions in the program would "gravely impair" our national security.

Find Air Travel Fascinating Writer Declares

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor

This writer's first bit of travel was by a sort of stagecoach, from Montague to Cardigan, P.E.I., before the railway was extended.

At that time the flying machine was thought to have little future.

With that sort of background, I am always surprised, nowadays, when I find myself high over some large piece of ocean—surprised and respectful.

So it was on a recent visit to Brazil; and, for those interested, this story and the next in the current series will be especially about the 12,000 miles of flying involved.

There are few more comfortable or stimulating places in which to exercise your sense of wonder than on the lounge-deck of a luxury air liner.

A Little World

New York, the departure point on this flight, is left behind. Trinidad is 2,000 miles away, and Rio de Janeiro a further 4,000 miles.

It's dark outside, and if you could see anything it would be a vast floor of clouds. But you know that the Atlantic ocean is some 18,000 feet below, and somewhere to port through the night will be Bermuda and the Sargasso sea.

You meet a couple of Montrealers and discuss politics; talk with a man from Cleveland about the St. Lawrence seaway; discuss international finance with a representative of the World Bank at Washington.

For the moment you are all sharing a little world remote from daily life—a world governed by the beat of four propellors and the laws of aerodynamics.

Great Curiosity

The curiosity of air travellers, unless they are very seasoned ones, is almost insatiable. Each new sight is an event. We certainly all dashed to look down on San Juan, Puerto Rico, a fairyland of lights and our first real view since we left New York.

Port of Spain, Trinidad, seemed to have the quietness belonging to 2 a.m. when we landed there, but we got our first feel of the tropics.

On such a trip you notice everything: the faces of the parrots which screeched at us when we spoke to them; or the fact that the cry of a baby is the same wherever you hear it.

It was away past bedtime when we left Port of Spain and we tumbled into our berths, knowing that we were passing from ocean to jungle along the northern coast of South America.

But if you know the world's mightiest river only from books, will you stay in bed when the loud speaker says the Amazon is below? Don't you want to know when you are making your first crossing of the equator?

Neck Craning

We wanted to know. We craned our necks at the miles-wide muddy stream below us.

From Belem we cut across the eastern rump of Brazil.

Finally came Rio De Janeiro itself, termed the most beautiful city in the world, fronting on the ocean in shining beaches, winding its way back through its mountains, its hundreds of tall white buildings shining in the late-day sun.

We were to have two weeks there, and at Sao Paulo, before the homeward trip would take us across the Andes.

Japanese Hockey Fans Welcome Canadians

TOKYO, March 15 (Reuters).—Japanese hockey fans Friday welcomed the news that a team from the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade is planning a series of games in Japan.

Reports from Korea said 28 Canadian hockey players, fresh from their "seasons" on the frozen Imjin river, will arrive in Japan March 17.

A Japanese hockey fan said Friday lovers of the sport in Japan look to Canada as leaders of the hockey world.

HISTORIC CANALS

ANN JACKSON, wife of the wounded Toronto gunman Leonard Jackson, took to the airwaves in an effort to convince the still-sought Edwin Boyd to surrender. Second Canadian Starring In London Stage Thriller

By MURIEL NARRAWAY.
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON (CP).—The stage production of Agatha Christie's thriller, "The Hollow," which completed a year's run here in January, just can't get along without a Canadian.

Fair-haired Barbara Cummings of (58 St. David St.) Thorold, Ont. is the second Canadian to appear before packed west end audiences in this typical Christie story of an English week-end house party, in which murder is the main dish.

Barbara plays Veronica Cray, a Hollywood star of doubtful years, who returns to Britain to find out whether an old flame is still susceptible, and finds herself suspected of murder.

"I really enjoy the part," says 26-year-old Barbara, who, like her predecessor, finds it hard to appear sufficiently old and sophisticated. The part was first played by Edmonton-born Dianne Foster, 23-year-old wife of Andrew Allan, drama supervisor of the C.B.C.

For slim, five-foot-seven Barbara, who took over in September, this is the first west end role of any size and she hasn't lost the thrill of appearing before audiences that are among the world's most discriminating.

"It's still packing them in, and will probably play throughout the summer," she said appreciatively.

Took Small Parts

After five years in London, climbing the hard way by a series of small parts, this means a lot to Barbara. But it has a wistful side too.

"You know," she said in an interview, "this is the first time in those five years I've really felt homesick for Canada. I'm going home on holiday as fast as I can."

Barbara first saw Britain in 1943 when she arrived with the Canadian Army show that toured the European battle areas. In 1945 she returned for a nine months session at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, using her war gratuity to help with expenses.

Since then it's been hard work and little glamor. Her first appearance on the British stage was a six months' provincial tour in 1947 with the Restoration comedy, "Immortal Lady." Later she understudied the female lead in "All My Sons," starring Hollywood's Joseph Calliea. She also had a small part in Paul Muni's "Death of a Salesman," sharing honors with Mary Laura Wood of Sackville, N.B.

With occasional spots on radio Luxembourg and British television, and small parts in such films as "Lili Marlene" and "House in the Square" starring Tyrone Power, Barbara has been happy in London. And, provided she can make an occasional trip home, she's keen to stay.

IN LONDON THRILLER — Fair-haired Barbara Cummings, of Thorold, Ont., plays a leading role in Agatha Christie's murder thriller, "The Hollow," which has been running more than a year to packed houses in London, England. Barbara First came to Britain in 1943 with the Canadian Army Show. Later, in 1945, she returned to study at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. Since 1947 she has played minor roles in and outside London before taking her present important part in the hit production.

167 Horses Nominated For Derby Race

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 15—(AP)—The lure of the Kentucky Derby's gold and glory resulted today in the nomination of 167 three-year-olds for the 1952 renewal.

Only once before in 78 years of competition for the United States' most coveted racing cup have more horses been nominated. The record 196 were named 24 years ago for the 1928 running.

The big pot of names stirred speculation that the biggest of all Derby fields will line up for the 1952 race. The most to answer the starter was 22 in 1928 but purse and prestige considerations are different now, making the challenge more inviting. Last year's Derby attracted 20 starters and there were 45 fewer nominations than this year.

Derby officials indicated they would prefer to "wait and see" before answering the question: "suppose there are more starters than space in the starting gate?"

Included In Nominations

The nominations include the top three-year-olds developed in juvenile racing last year and early tests for three-year-olds this year.

But on that score, too, the standouts are many, giving added rise to the outlook for a crowded field.

Tom Fool, Hill Gail and Windy City II are best liked at present, but no less than 15 horses have shown enough promise to be pointed for the test of tests.

Tom Fool, campaigned by the Greentree Stable, won five of seven races as a juvenile to become the year's two-year-old champion with winnings of $155,960.

Calumet Farm's Hill Gail gained much stature when he won the Santa Anita Derby. Windy City II, the imported champion of Ireland, England and France, was beaten four lengths in that race by Hill Gail, but railbirds can't forget the two times Windy City II beat Hill Gail.

The mile-and-a-quarter Derby May 3 once again will carry an added purse of $100,000, and if enough owners pay the $1,000 starting fee it not only will have the biggest field but will carry the biggest total pay-off.

10,000 Chinese Aid Rebels In Indo-China

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China —(AP)— Communist Chinese military advisers and technicians appear to be coming into Indo-China in steadily increasing numbers to back up the Communist-led Vietminh forces.

French and foreign intelligence sources now estimate there are about 10,000 Red Chinese aiding the soldiers of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh in his war against the French and Viet Namese. This figure represents an increase of 4,000 within five months.

Intelligence officers say the Red Chinese work behind the Vietminh lines, keeping tab on the communications network and teaching the Vietminh how to direct artillery and mortar fire.

Whenever and whereever the Vietminh take territory in the North Tonkin area of northern Indo-China, they are reported quickly followed by Red Chinese establishing themselves in key control points.

The Chinese however, seem to be clever in keeping out of the way. Thus far, in all the fighting in northern Indo-China, neither the French nor Viet Namese have ever found any killed or wounded who could definitely be identified as Red Chinese.

There is still nothing to indicate that Communist China is at any time soon going to move bulk forces into North Tonkin to aid the Vietminh, but the threat of invasion is ever present. The Chinese have a concentration estimated at 250,000 troops and strong air forces in southern China provinces not far from the Indo-China border.

They could cross the border without opposition at any time since practically all of North Tonkin is in the hands of the Vietminh, with the exception of the French-held perimeter around Hanoi and a northeastern strip in the Moncay area.

TWO B-29 SUPERFORTRESSES whose pilots were flying on instruments collided in midair and carried 15 crewmen to their deaths near San Antonio, Texas, recently. One plane crashed immediately after the collision, scattering fragments over a five-mile area. The other fell several miles farther away and burst into flames. This picture shows the scattered remnants of the first plane to crash.

Winters Opens Sportsmen's Show

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)—Resources Minister Winters Friday night opened the fifth annual Canadian National Sportsmen's Show and asked that everyone observe the show's theme—"Concentrate on Conservation"—so that Canada can "achieve the destiny in store for us."

In a brief address to some 6,000 persons in the Colliseum Arena, the minister recalled how the attitude had changed toward conservation.

"Once, we praised our forefathers for pushing back the forests. Now we realize forests are our greatest natural resource."

The show, he said, was ample evidence Canadians had a real desire to come to grips with the problem.

Singer's Responsibility

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)—Rudolph Bing, manager of New York's Metropolitan Opera, Friday night told a Rotary Club meeting that "it takes greatness of mind" for a person to realize that he will not become a great singer and yet obtain artistic satisfaction and give service by making himself an "absolutely first-class singer of the second magnitude."

Army Plans Shows To Inform Public

OTTAWA, March 15 (CP) — The army is going to put five shows on the road this summer to show the folks across Canada what the army is and how it works.

Each of the five commands has been told to assign four officers and 70 men to display teams that will spend June and July touring their regions, each with a 20-man bugle band and a precision squad capable of putting on drill displays, physical training exercises, mock battles, military tattoos and weapon demonstrations.

They will have their own tents, food, vehicles and even a light aircraft to publicize their wares.

Hint Britain Develops New-Type Plane

TAWTENSTALL, Lancashire, England, March 15—(AP)—Britain's air chief hinted Friday night Britain has a new plane in the works that will beat any plane Russia has shown.

Lord D'Lisle and Dudley, air minister, called it the "finest kind of aircraft in the world."

In a speech here he said Britain can't match Russia in numbers of planes produced now but the new one is better than the Soviet MIG-15 now being used by the Reds in Korea.

Allow Pay Boost

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) —A wage stabilization board panel reported Friday that the board's rules would allow a pay boost for steel workers ranging anywhere from 8 to 23½ cents an hour. Steel workers are threatening a country-wide strike for wage increases.

To Stand Trial

SWEETSBURG, Que., March 15 (CP)—Kenneth Ford, 38-year-old resident of nearby Cowansville, Friday was ordered to stand trial at the fall session of criminal assizes on a charge of murdering his wife. The body of Ford's 28-year-old wife was found in the bathtub of the couple's home, the head badly battered.

New Zealand Increases Trade Exports 400,000 Tons Of Meat

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z.—(CP)—Almost alone among countries producing food of animal origin, New Zealand has steadily increased her export surplus since the war and seems likely to continue to do so.

In many countries the drop in export surplus is due to rising living standards, but no great rise in food consumption has occurred here. The immigration policy has been cautious and caused no sudden rise in demand for domestic foods.

Coupled with the steadiness of local demand, there has been a drive to increase production. More land has been opened up and grassland farming techniques have enabled land to carry far more animals than in the past.

Farming experts consider this output drive has still a long way to go. A. P. O'Shea, secretary of the dominion's central farmers' organization, has predicted that the country will increase exports of food products by two-thirds in the next 25 years. Other authorities think she can double her surplus if given the incentives and materials.

New Zealand expects to export 400,000 tons of meat to the United Kingdom this season, more than Argentina and Australia combined. At the same time she is actively seeking new export markets in North America and other countries.

The position is not so marked in dairy produce. Denmark again being a competitor, with New Zealand as Britain's largest supplier. However, this country's export surplus is steadily rising, reaching a record 303,400 tons last year.

Already Australia, once a major butter exporter, is looking to New Zealand as a future supplier to relieve chronic seasonal shortages in some areas. New Zealand has also been expanding her dairy produce markets in other countries and has sent butter or cheese to Eire, Canada, the United States, Italy, Germany and Belgium.

For years New Zealand sold the bulk of her food surplus to Britain at prices well below world parity. In spite of this and high freight rates on food from New Zealand as compared with nearer countries, the dominion has been able to pay farmers enough to create an incentive to increase production. At the same time she has built up big reserves in the stabilization or "guaranteed price" funds to enable payments to farmers to be maintained at a reasonable level. These funds are becoming so large as to be a serious embarrassment and attention is being given to their utilization.

Big price increases in the last few years have brought payments to New Zealand for her food exports nearer world parity.

Car Exports Drop Workers Laid Off

COVENTRY, England —(CP)— Production of automobiles is being cut at some factories in Coventry and Birmingham and some workers are being laid off.

Spokesmen for the factories blame resistance overseas, particularly in Canada, Sweden and Australia.

About 300 workers have been released by Singer Motor Company factories in Coventry and Birmingham. A number of men and women at the local Austin works have also been laid off.

British car exports to Canada slumped sharply last year. Canadian restrictions on instalment buying were blamed. This year, with restrictions slightly eased, officials in both countries hope that sales in Canada will start picking up again.

The Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano disclosed Friday the Commission was created as part of a campaign by Italian Catholic Action to impress on the country the Roman Catholic concept of the family.

The Commission, it said, will draw up its guide on the basis of pronouncements on marriage problems by the Pope, of Roman Catholic moral doctrine and of medical science.

Firms Begin Experiments With Tar Sands

EDMONTON, March 15 (CP)—Mines Minister N. E. Tanner Friday announced that the first large-scale exploratory work toward extracting oil from the Athabasca tar sands in northeastern Alberta will start this summer.

The sands, straddling the Athabasca River about 165 miles northeast of Edmonton, are believed to contain between 100,000,000,000 and 300,000,000,000 barrels of heavy oil, constituting the largest known reserve of petroleum in the world.

Mr. Tanner disclosed at a press conference that five Canadian companies are taking out leases covering 250,000 acres in the Mildred Ruth Lake area and have paid deposits totalling $250,000 to guarantee carrying out their program.

The five companies are Ashere Oil Co., Pacific Petroleum, Calvin Consolidated, New Continental of Canada, and Charter Oil Co. Three of the companies have undertaken to start work by August, one by September, and the fifth by October.

Special Process

Mr. Tanner also announced that the Swedish Shale Oil Company has arranged with the government to carry on work with a special extraction process. Arrangements are being worked out under which the Swedish company will lease part of the government's pilot plant at Bitumont, Alta., for $25,000.

The minister also said that Lloyd Rogers Champion, Montreal investment banker who a year ago took out the first permit to carry out exploratory work, has obtained a new reservation covering 3,840 acres. He is guaranteeing to spend $20,000 in field research work approved by the minister.

Charge Liberals Running Political Machine In N.B.

By The Canadian Press.

Hugh Mackay (P.C.-Kings) attacked provincial government policies and repeated charges that the Liberals are running a "political machine" when he opened the budget debate Friday in the New Brunswick Legislature.

He accused the administration of deliberate discrimination against the city of Saint John. He said the largest city in the province is ringed with some of New Brunswick's worst roads, has some dangerous ferries and that the Trans-Canada Highway had by-passed Saint John.

Budget debate is well under way in most other legislatures. In Alberta, C.C.F. leader Elmer Roper said he is alarmed at the way in which vast Canadian resources are "becoming alienated to American finance capital."

Americans own almost all of Canada's resources of iron, nickel, oil, natural gas and pulpwood, he declared.

Want Convictions

At Winnipeg, George Renouf (P.C.-Swan River) charged that the "whole aim" of game wardens in his constituency is to get as many convictions and impose as many fines as possible.

He urged compensation for farmers who he said were fined and had rifles confiscated because they shot marauding elk and deer to protect their crops.

The crown corporations committee of the Saskatchewan Legislature discussed the advisability of equalizing telephone rates in all sections of a city. A. T. Stone (C.C.F. Saskatoon) asked if there was any reason for the practice of charging higher monthly rates for city subscribers living in outlying zones. He said it seemed like "an old capitalistic" practice.

Newcastle disease, perennial poultry killer, came up in the Nova Scotia house, where a motion asking the federal responsibility for dead birds was defeated.

Agriculture Minister Mackenzie said the province already is pressing for more payments for breeders who lost poultry in outbreaks of several months ago.

All-America Selections Are Well-Tested

By HENRY PREE
Written For NEA Service

A valuable assistance given home gardeners is the annual All-America Selection of flowers. Through its carefully selected trial gardens in all sections of this country amateur gardeners are saved the time and labor of experimenting with unknown varieties. These trial gardens, under the care of experienced growers, are continuously at work to make sure that seeds and plants of the highest quality are available for gardens on this continent.

Four new flowers, 1952 All-America Selections are led by Fiesta cosmos, the silver medal winner. Honorable mentions go to Ballerina petunia, Persian Carpet zinnia and Globe Mixed phlox. All are popular annuals, easily grown from seeds.

Fiesta is an early Klondyke cosmos in the festival colors of its native Mexico, the royal colors of Spain. This is the first cosmos in which scarlet appears, with wide striplings of scarlet and gold lengthwise in each petal. Fiesta is the earliest cosmos to bloom, the easiest of flowers to grow in any sunny location and is a trouble-free garden subject for cut flowers or border display.

The bushy plants reach about 30 inches in height, their lacy and airy foliage a foil for many wiry-stemmed flowers over weeks of blooming. Growth is similar to Orange Flare, with the extra and somewhat ruffled petals of Orange Ruffles, semi-double in appearance.

Ballerina Petunia delights us with glowing salmon-pink blooms from early spring until late fall. Belonging to the dwarf giant fringed class, the large flowers are daintily laced and ruffled for beautiful cut-flower arrangements as well as for a continuous garden show.

Its hybrid vigor provides uniformity in strong, compact growth and steady production of lovely big flowers. Ballerina is well adapted to bedding, informal edging, pots and wind or porch boxes.

Persian Carpet is a most descriptive name for the oriental colorings in a new strain of Mexican hybrid zinnias. The plants grow a foot or more tall. The flowers are rather small in comparison with the giant zinnias. But the two-inch flowers are fully double, borne in profusion over a long season and each plant seems to produce flowers of magically different coloring.

The oranges, purples, golds, rich browns and hennas woven into the treasured rugs of Persia, seem to come to life in this new strain of zinnia. Small enough for porch and patio boxes, its even, bushy habit and attractive foliage adapt it to beds and borders. It provides a wealth of cutting material, always in demand.

Fiesta cosmos, which tops the 1952 All-America Selections, has petals that are boldly striped lengthwise in flame red, orange.

Globe mixed phlox refers to the globe or dome-shaped plants, a new plant shape from Japan. They are covered with regular-sized flowers, although the plants are only about six inches high and somewhat broader. The foliage is practically covered with their mounds of bloom, colorful for low bedding, ground covers, rock and wall gardens, pots, boxes and edging.

Dominant colors are phlox red and white, with some pink and salmon shades present. It is not a balanced color mixture although striking and rich. Patio gardens will find wide use for Globe Phlox.

These flower winners, along with many other entries, have been widely tested over the past two years in all sections of the United States and Canada. They are new and different, quite easily grown and make a colorful garden display over a long blooming season. Seeds should be obtainable through any reliable seedsmen as long as they last this first season of distribution.

Gardening Questions

Q—Is there a summer flowering dogwood for our northern climate?

A—Not to my knowledge. Maybe you have in mind the Mountain Stewartia, a native of Georgia, whose large white flowers appear in early July. With protection it is semi-hardy in Southern Ontario.

Q — What are "ericaceous plants"?—W.P.

A—These are members of the Heath Family. All are woody plants, mostly shrubs like Rhododendrons and Blueberry, or ground cover materials such as Trailing Arbutus and Scotch Heather; while some are trees, with the Madrona Tree and Sourwood as examples.

THE ABILITY TO ARRANGE FLOWERS in an artistic way is a real art. Children like having a hand in the arranging and also in the caring for flowers both in winter and summer. A few winter bulbs for blooming in the cold weather is something all children like to have that they can call their own.

FOR PARENTS ONLY:

Love Of Flowers Is A Gift Parents Can Give Children

By NANCY CLEAVER

"One of the gifts which my parents gave to me which I appreciate greatly, is a love of flowers," an older woman once told a friend.

"I am so thankful that as a small child I was allowed to help plant and care for bulbs for winter blooms and flowers for the garden."

A gardening hobby is one which may be begun in very early years and can be enjoyed throughout life. The Seed Catalogue's arrival is a real event in many homes. The lovely colored pictures of vegetables and flowers are most attractive, even if they are almost too optimistic! A little child can learn the names of many favourite flowers and also the different colors by playing a little game of finding flowers or colors with an older member of the family.

When mother and dad are making plans on paper for the garden, if there is a small boy or girl in the family, do include the child in the discussion! If at all possible, promise the child a small piece of land for his very own. Let him draw his own plan. Make a few suggestions of vegetables and flowers which are easy to grow. If seeds are started early indoors, let the younster help in caring for them, turning the boxes toward the light and watering the plants.

Flowers make a very special appeal to girls, but boys, too, may be quite proud of the flowers they have grown themselves. Lessons of finishing up on a task, carefulness and patience may be all learned in gardening. It is good, too, for a child to feel that he has his own share in this family enterprise.

The ability to arrange flowers in an artistic way is a real art. Many people make the mistake of crowding too many flowers into one vase. A mother who has a knowledge of flower arrangements can teach her daughter how to make a pretty table center. Anyone who wants to learn more about flower arrangement may find information at a public library.

Children love to pick flowers for a sick or shut-in friend, or for someone who has shown them special kindness. A small boy or girl should have the opportunity to discover the joy which comes from giving others pleasure. A mother, who had sent her little girl to an invalid with a bouquet of sweet peas from the garden said to her daughter when she returned home:

"Smell your fingers". The small girl immediately noticed the faint, but lovely perfume of the sweet peas. The mother said to her:

"A kind act done to another person, whether it is giving flowers or anything else, always leaves some fragrance on the fingers of the giver."

British Show Business Hard To Crack

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON—(CP)—A young Canadian couple, Ken and Jean Buckley, find that making good in Britain's entertainment world isn't as easy as they thought.

They've had a few tough breaks since they headed this way in September, 1950.

"Our biggest mistake at the start," said Toronto-born Ken, who lived most of his life in Montreal, "was in coming with too little spare cash." For anybody trying to break into show business over here, he suggests cash in hand to cover living expenses for about two years—just in case the going is tough at first.

Ken should know. After five year's radio experience in Canada, his first British job was three months in repertory at the princely salary of £2 a week.

"That took quite a slice out of our savings," said Mrs. Buckley, whose Canadian home is a farm near Thamesville, Ont.

Jean, a quiet, dark-haired girl who lets her husband do most of the talking, ekes out the family income by working as a stenographer in London's west end. She also has to cope with housekeeping in a tiny, one-room flatlet in the Kensington district.

The Buckleys—Ken is 24 and Jean 21—met while working at a radio station in Chatham, Ont., were married at Windsor and came to Britain in search of experience in acting and script-writing.

For a time Ken worked as an usher in a movie-house, making less than £6 a week, and as a wine waiter during the Festival of Britain.

He was to have written the commentary for the Royal Tour of Ceylon but that was postponed because of the King's death. He also provided a script on a Canadian's experience in British repertory, had it accepted by the BBC, and relayed—to the Polynesians.

Versatile Ken spent three months writing a children's hour program for British television. Such occasional jobs, coupled with small parts in radio and films, keep the wolf from the door.

"Anyway, we've got to make good to get ourselves the fare back home," says practical Jean.

MISS BEVERLEY JEANNE PRINGLE, Reg. N, and Mr George Alfred Gray, B.S.A., whose engagement is announced. Their marriage will take place on Saturday, April 5th, at Murray Street Baptist Church. Miss Pringle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bruce Pringle of Peterborough. Mr. Gray is son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Percy Gray of Burlington.

Days Of Tragedy and Glory Marked Reigns Of Queens

LONDON — (CP) — Days of most glorious empire and achievement, days of deepest tragedy and violence, have formed the times of Britain's Queens.

Take any number from six to 10, and you can find some authority for just how many Queens have ruled the distant isles since Anglo-Saxon times. But through all the changes of ruling houses, the civil conflicts and joustings for power, the lineage of today's Queen Elizabeth traces uninterruptedly back into the midst of Anglia before the Norman conquest. (Egbert back in 802 A.D.)

The first was Boadicea, whose husband ruled in Norfolk when Nero ruled in Rome. After her husband's death, Boadicea roused the people against the Roman legions. When the invaders marshalled forces and firmaly conquered the provinces, Boadicea took poison.

The next early queen was Aethelflaed, oldest child of Alfred the Great and wife of the Earl of Mercia. Her brother Edward was King but Mercia remained semi-independent.

This was in the 10th century. In the 12th century, some-time Queen Matilda, daughter of Henri I, emerged. Her marriage to Goeffrey Plantagenet brought that great family to the throne. First, however, Matilda was married to the German emperor-elect, Henry V, but when he died in 1125 she returned to England to take that throne over on her father's death.

The people were reluctant to have a woman ruler, didn't like her second husband, and chose her cousin Stephen to be king. Matilda captured Stephen and had herself proclaimed "Lady of England" or "Queen of England." She later went off to Normandy, leaving her son, the future Henri II to carry on against Stephen.

Nation In Turmoil

It wasn't until the 16th century that ladies again reached for the sceptre.

The nation was in turmoil and both France and Spain were reaching for the prize when Henry VIII died. He had broken with the Roman Catholics, thrown his influence to the Anglican church, and caused all sort of conflicting groups to organize. Henry's young son by his third wife, Jane Seymour, became Edward VI. The new ruler was persuaded by plotters headed by the Duke of Northumberland to name as his eventual successor Lady Jane Grey, granddaughter of Henry VIII's sister. This was to thwart lusty Henry's chosen line of succession.

When Edward died in 1553, his death was kept secret for several days and Northumberland announced the 16-year-old Jane was queen.

Adherents of Mary, Henry's oldest child by his first wife, Catherine of Aragon, won popular support. Timid Jane quit willingly after a reign of nine days. A year later she was beheaded for treason.

Treason

The new Queen, ill-starred Mary, was a lonely, friendless young woman whose first determination of being crowned was to restore catholicism. In three years more than 300 Protestant leaders were burned at the stake, and she had won her place in history as "bloody Mary."

Elizabethan Age

She died childless and without naming a successor. The stage was set for Elizabeth, daughter of Henry's second wife Ann Boyelyn, and the ensuing brilliance of the Elizabethan age.

Strife-torn England rejoiced when Elizabeth came to the throne in 1558 and applauded her proud boast that she was purely English.

Elizabeth never married, but made her availability a powerful weapon in dealing with foreign governments. Her 44-year reign made England a world power.

It was 86 years later than England's next sovereign queen came to the throne. She was Mary Stuart, Protestant daughter of strongly Catholic James II.

William, also a Stuart, on his mother's side, was the conquering hero of his native low countries, when in 1688 he was invited to "secure the infringed liberties" of England. The British government agreed to have William and Mary as joint sovereigns. Her reign was one of comparative calm and no fireworks. The fact she was childless paved the way for the young-

Scottish Holding St. Pat's Dance

Since the exact birthplace of Saint Patrick seems not to have been recorded for posterity the Scotch may continue to claim the origin of Ireland's patron.

The Canadian Scottish Club of Peterborough is holding tonight at the Empress Hotel the first of annual dances to celebrate the birthday of Saint Patrick, March 17th.

Though this practice may be looked on with disfavor by the Irish they can of course join the party and enjoy mid-Lenten recreation in a good cause. Various writings about Patrick also give the Welsh, the English and even the French an opportunity to claim a hand in his birthday observance, so these affairs could turn out to be gatherings of the Old-Landers.

Marjorie Fisk Wed Today To Mr. Robert J. Hatton

Attended by members of the immediate families and close friends the nuptial vows of Marjorie Verna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon W. Fisk, and Mr. Robert John Hatton, son of Mrs. Alfred Hatton and the late Mr. Hatton, were solemnized at the home of the bride this afternoon with the Rev. Arnold Mathews of George Street United Church officiating.

A profusion of spring bloom and ferns formed an attractive setting for this early spring event.

The bride, entering the drawing room on the arm of her father, was charming in an original strapless model, ballerina length, of exquisite white lace combined with taffeta and layers of white net. Complimenting the gown was a chic lace jacket. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion fell gracefully from a Gainsborough Mary Queen of Scots coronet. All white accesories were worn and she carried a nosegay of American Beauty roses surrounded by sweet peas.

As maid of honor for her sister, Miss Shirley Fisk of Hamilton, was wearing pale blue lace, similar to that of the bride, with matching accessories and smart cloche of blue feathers with rhinestone trim and carrying a nosegay of roses.

Mr. William Jones attended the groom and Robert Fisk acted as usher.

Traditional music was rendered by Charles E. Allen.

Midnight blue pleated taffeta was the choice of the bride's mother for the reception. Her hat and accessories of a lighter hue with corsage of blue sweet peas added a pleasing touch to the ensemble. Mrs. Hatton assisted, wearing a gown of grey corded silk, royal blue hat, contrasting accessories with pale pink sweet peas at her shoulder.

For a short motor trip South the bride donned a tailored suit of violet gabardine accented with deeper shaded accessories and hat of palest pink with roses nestling in the back. A grey kid coat with corsage of gardenias completed her costume.

Upon their return to Peterborough they will live at 176 London St.

DOROTHY DIX

Eligible Young Man Finds Girls Shy Away From Dates

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a man of 28 and would like to know how to attract girls. I have a pretty good disposition, go to sporting events and attend church. I have met girls at social gatherings and have asked them for dates, but have always been given some sort of line or alibi and no date. I am fairly tall, blonde, blue eyed and not bad looking I'm sure. I don't see anything wrong with my character. I'm a veteran and had the same trouble overseas, but it didn't worry me so much then. Now I am seriously worried about what could be wrong with me.

CONFUSED GEORGE

ANSWER: Seldom do I hear a wail from a man concerning a lack of dates. That's usually a feminine complaint.

You have done a fairly good job of analyzing yourself, George, and I'll do what I can for you, but the final reckoning is up to you. I doubt if you are being completely honest in evaluating your good and bad points. Obviously, there is something seriously wrong someplace, and just as obviously it is probably something that can be changed quite easily.

Are You Neat?

First, let's take your appearance! Your description sounds like that of a personable young man. But how about your grooming? Are you neat, immaculately clean at all times? Are your clothes pressed, shoes shined, collar clean, tie unspotted, hair cut and face shaved? Have you investigated the possible need for some of the sweet-smelling unguents constantly brought to our attention via radio and TV? Commercials are often something more than annoying breaks into our favorite programs. At times they convey painful truths to which one might profitably give heed.

Then there's your approach. Do you greet a girl as though you were scared stiff of her? Or as you were doing her a great honor by being pleasant? Both are wrong! A warm, cordial, friendly encounter is in order.

What about your conversation? Here's where I think some of the touble may lie. Are you so wrapped up in sports that they exclude all other topics in your conversation? Do you give the girl a chance to get a word in edgewise? Or are you, perhaps, so self-conscious that you make her carry the burden alone?

If you want to get ahead socially—and it will also help you in business—I suggest some attention to acquiring a little more formal education. Both your writing and spelling could be better, and if these deficiencies mirror your general knowledge, there is room for improvement. Perhaps your speech is careless. A certain amount of laxity in observing rules of pronunciation and grammar is not taken amiss, but lapses that are too frequent or too noticeable might irk the young ladies whose favor you seek. Read more; increase your knowledge of current events, books, movies and the theatre as well as sports. Learn to dance, if you cannot already do so. Above all, take yourself apart, figuratively, and try to find out what's wrong with the pieces. A little effort, a little patience, and the girls will stop turning down your invitations.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 24, and for some time have been in love with a man 39 who has been married before and has two children. Last summer we broke off, and he went away to get a job. I then met a man 28, and we became very friendly, though I wouldn't say I'm in love with him.

Then Dave, the first man, came back to town and we began seeing each other again. He said he is not financially able to marry, and thinks I should stop wasting my time on him and find someone else. Do you think I should wait for him, or not?

ELIZABETH

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It appears that you are being let down very gently, and the most graceful thing, by all means, it to take the hint and break off with Dave. Perhaps he met someone else while he was away this summer, or perhaps he is just marriage shy. One bad matrimonial experience often makes a man quite timid about a second try. At any rate, he obviously does not want to marry you, and you'll save yourself heartache and embarrassment by letting him go.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Six months ago, when I was 14, I met an 18-year-old boy. He gave me a ring that had his name in it. Two months ago I returned the ring because he was seeing other girls. Now he won't even speak to me. Was I wrong to return the ring?

BETTE R.

ANSWER: You were wrong to accept it in the first place. Having accepted it, you certainly weren't entiled to exercise such proprietary rights over a boy as young as he. You're acquiring domineering ways at quite an early age. Both of you were, and are, too young to become involved with rings. You were right to return the ring, but wrong to make demands.

Mrs. T. S. Gault, the rector's wife, was presented with a shoulder bag and good wishes for safe travelling and a happy holiday in England where she and her two daughters, Mary Rose and Patricia will spend the next three months. The Rev. T. S. Gault closed the meeting with prayer. Mrs. H. Rayson invited the members to meet at her home in April.

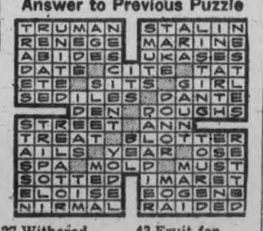
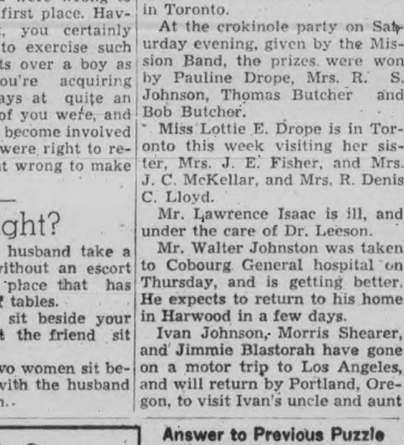
Answer to Previous Puzzle





MARY MOORE SAYS:

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION: . . . finalfly I am going to ask you to help me out your recipes are so delicious . . . that fruit cake you gave us in the paper uncooked—well it is certainly something special . . . has a nice glaze on it. Could you give me some recipes for Danish pastry. Have you any Swedish recipes for bread or buns. A German lady used to mix up a big batch with yeast and it looked so yellow . . . but she couldn't tell me how because she couldn't speak English.

Would you have any casserole dishes for a hungry gang . . . yeast doughnuts too . . . Viola.

ANSWER: I have shortened your letter Viola because I want to save space for my answer. These Danish pastry instructions are long. I would like to ask readers who are interested in Danish pastries to clip this now.

Danish Pastry Dough

One-quarter cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ cup scalded milk, 2 well-beaten eggs, ½ teaspoon vanilla, rind of ½ medium lemon, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 ounce compressed yeast, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 cup sifted cake flour, 2¼ cups sifted bread flour, ½ cup cold butter or butter and margarine. Mix together scalded milk, 2 tablespoons butter and ¼ cup sugar. Stir in beaten eggs, vanilla, salt and rind. When lukewarm add yeast which has been mixed with the 1 tablespoon sugar. Sift together the sifted flours and gradually add them to form a soft dough. Knead gently on lightly-floured board for 5 minutes. Place in greased bowl, brush top with melted shortening, cover and let rise until doubled. Knead again for ½ minute. Let rise again until doubled.

The ½ cup butter must be washed unless it is unsalted. Squeeze it between the hands under running ice cold water until it is waxy. Divide in 2 portions—keep 1 portion cold while working with the other. Roll twice-risen dough to a 6 x 12-inch rectangle. Dot two-thirds of it with pieces of the half portion of butter. Fold unbuttered portion toward you over buttered part, then fold remaining third over the first two thirds. Press edges together. Cover, on platter, and chill 30 minutes. Roll out to rectangle 8 x 14 inches and distribute second portion of butter over it the same way. This makes 2 rollings—for after second folding dough is rolled out, then chilled 1 hour. Cut into desired shapes (see below).

Danish Alligators

(I think these are close to what you describe Viola).

Use one-third of dough to make 16 "alligators". Roll dough to rectangle 8 x 16, brush with melted butter. Filling goes along strip in centre of dough, one-third of the width of the dough:

Filling: One-quarter cup stewed dates (or strained prunes or apricots or raspberry jam), ¼ cup (or more) chopped nuts, ½ teaspoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon icing sugar. Fold over uncovered sections to make long strip of dough in 3 layers. Cut into 4 pieces.

Cut each piece at wide end to form 4 or 5 sections or slices. Brush with melted butter, place on unbuttered baking sheet, let rise 2 hours, bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 15 to 18 minutes. When cool frost with Quick Icing of 2 tablespoons hot milk, 1½ cups sifted icing sugar and ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Add a few drops of yellow colouring if this is not yellow enough.

Swedish Buns

(Often used for hamburgers.)

Two cups scalded milk, ½ cup soft butter (or other shortening), 1 tablespoon salt, 2 ounces yeast mixed with 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 beaten eggs, about 8 cups sifted bread flour. Pour scalded milk over butter and salt, beat in beaten eggs, and when lukewarm add the yeast and sugar mixture. Sift in the sifted bread flour and beat well. When too heavy to mix with spoon turn out on well-floured board and knead gently for about 5 minutes. Place in greased bowl, brush top with butter, cover and let rise in warm place until doubled. Roll out to ½-inch thickness. Cut into buns with floured cutter. Place on greased sheet 2 inches apart, cover and let rise until very light and puffy—at least 1 hour. Bake at 425 15 minutes.

Yeast Doughnuts

One-half cup soft butter or shortening, ¼ cup sugar, 1 cup scalded milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ¾ teaspoon salt, about 4 cups sifted bread flour, 1 ounce compressed yeast, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 well-beaten eggs. Pour scalded milk over butter and sugar; add salt. Let stand 2 minutes, then beat in eggs and vanilla. When lukewarm add yeast mixed with the 2 tablespoons sugar, then sift in sifted bread flour to form a soft dough. Turn out on floured board to knead for 5 minutes, but do not add enough flour to make dough stiff—it must be soft. Place in greased bowl, grease top, cover, let rise until doubled. Knead 5 minutes. Let rise again. Then pat out, cut out in doughnut shapes. Fry in deep fat at 350 deg. Fahr. —starting at 360 as doughnuts chill fat. Turn over once when bottom is golden. Drain on unglazed paper. Sugar when cold.

Doubtless you saw the column on casseroles earlier in the week.

Noted Airwoman No Lover Of Train Travel

MONTREAL —(CP)—Jacqueline Cochran, who climbed from a successful beauty parlor job to become one of the world's outstanding woman fliers, believes that anything a man can do a woman can do better."

Miss Cochran was the only civilian woman to win the Distinguished Service Medal for her exploits in the Second World War. In 1938 she topped all pilots, men and women,, to win the Bendix air race from Burbank, California, to Cleveland, Ohio.

In wartime she flew bomber planes across the Atlantic. Since then she has flown fighter planes and jets.

"Once over Indianapolis I was flying at 8,000 feet when the motor burst into flames just as I was starting a dive," she says. "I landed safely with blazing motor at 125 miles an hour. That was one time I was happy to step on solid ground again."

She won the Burke Harmon trophy as the world's outstanding woman flier in 1937, 1938 and 1939.

Looking back over her 20 years in the air she admits that she has had her share of close shaves, but still thinks that "flying is wonderful."

On a recent visit to Montreal the famous flier was downhearted because she had to come here from New York by train—of all things. "It was the third time I've had to take a train in 18 years," she sighed.

Deer Breaks Neck Charging Into Mow

CAMPBELLFORD, March 25.—(ENS)—A deer that was to be given back its freedom today, died last night on the farm of Wm. S. Dunk, R.R. 5, Campbellford, when it charged head-long into the side of a hay-mow and broke its neck.

Mr. Dunk heard a commotion as he was working in the silo on Friday afternoon and, on investigation, found two small pomeranian dogs chasing a deer in a field near his barn. Mr. Dunk went to the rescue and caught the deer after it tried vainly to jump a fence. He picked up the animal and carried it to his barn. The deer was quite content to allow Mr. Dunk to carry it in his arms and to rest in the barn after its ordeal with the two dogs. When it had regained its strength, however, it became quite evident that it wanted its freedom, but Mr. Dunk feared that if he turned the animal loose, the dogs would again chase it. He phoned an Examiner reporter, who went to the farm to get a picture of the animal, but the deer died a few minutes before his arrival.

Reg. McCulloch, local Conservation Officer was summoned and he arranged for disposal of the carcass.

Printing Described To Roseneath Club

ROSENEATH, March 15 (ENS) —"Printing", was the subject of the address given by Charles Woodley, owner and manager of the Aldine Press, Toronto, on Wednesday to the Roseneath Men's Club. The speaker defined printing as, "An idea of conveying a thought to some one at a distance" and said printing originated in China in year 200 A.D. when it was roughly carved on a block of wood, stamped with ink and transferred to paper. He spoke of the progress made in printing through the years and said the first printing press on the North American continent was in Mexico, the first in the United States was in Boston and Halifax had the distinction of the first in Canada. Mr. Woodley had samples of the different kinds of printing and linotype letters and told of the speed of the various printing presses today, of a paper in New York printing 300,000 copies an hour.

The speaker's hobby is protography. He is president of the Toronto Camera Club and at the conclusion of his address presented two humorous colored movie films of "Family Life". He was introduced by Douglas L. Coyle and thanked by Silas Sherwin.

The meeting took the form of a dinner at 7 p.m. at Maple Lodge, the tourist home of Mrs. Leslie Sherwin upwards of forty were in attendance.

The president A. J. Campbell, presided. W. J. Montgomery was pianist.

The guest artists were a male trio from Fenella, Messrs. Carman and Murray Whitney, violinists and Mr. Elmer Harper, pianist, contributing several instrumental numbers.

Rev. R. C. White moved a vote of thanks to the hostess. The singing of "God Save the Queen" seemed a fitting conclusion to the meeting.

Childless Couples Get Bonus Houses

WOKINGHAM, Berkshire, England (CP) — Childless married couples, at the bottom of the waiting list for houses since the end of the war, are to be given a break by the Wokingham rural council.

They will be given first call on 48 new apartments given as a bonus to the council by the Ministry of Housing for completing its 1951 home-building program on schedule.

"When we got this bonus our thoughts turned to . . . the married couples without children," said A. H. W. Oliver, chairman of the housing committee. "It's time they got some consideration."

C.C.F. Veteran Tangles With 2 Liberal Members

OTTAWA, March 15 (CP). — A one-time Nova Scotia coal miner tussled with an Alberta lawyer and a Saskatchewan wheat farmer in the Commons Friday night.

The former miner was Claire Gillis, the 56-year-old C.C.F. parliamentary veteran from Nova Scotia's Cape Breton South and an early hand in both trade unionism and the Socialist movement in Canada.

Charging them with "complete political immaturity," he tackled John Decore (L.-Vegreville), Alberta barrister, and Joseph Hetland, (L.-Humboldt), the wheat farmer, for speeches criticizing the C.C.F. and labor unions.

The soft-spoken veteran — he was elected in 1940; they in 1949 —belabored the two members and blocked the taking of a final vote in an otherwise dull throne-speech debate.

He had no wish to delay the debate, said Mr. Gillis, but:

"When someone gets up, takes a straight kick at you right in the mouth, and then sticks his chin out and asks for it, there is nothing to do but give it to him."

No Punches Pulled

Then he proceeded to thump Mr. Decore for quoting a statement by Tim Buck, Canada's Communist leader, which endorsed a C.C.F. council handout criticizing the military program adopted by the North Atlantic Alliance. That, said Mr. Gillis, was an attempt to link the C.C.F. with the Communists.

He walloped Mr. Hetland for a speech charging that the ranks of labor included "hoodlums" and "irresponsible leaders."

Between times, the chamber voted 102 to 20 against a C.C.F. non-confidence motion calling for the establishment of a board with control over the prices of livestock and dairy products. Still before the House is a Social Credit motion charging the government with "failure" to stimulate food production.

Earlier, Production Minister Howe reported the federal government has spent $900,000,000 for defence production during the current fiscal year, $200,000,000 less than the $1,100,000,000 allocated for such expenditure.

Asks Tax Exemption

In other phases of the debate, Rodney Adamson (PC-York West) urged the government to help home owners by exempting municipal taxes and mortgage-interest payments from federal income tax. He also wanted a federal-provincial conference to discuss direct federal aid to education.

R. R. Knight (CCF-Saskatoon) suggested the government place the forthcoming redistribution of parliamentary seats in the hands of an independent committee. The work should be removed from all possibility of "political influence."

Robert Fair (SC-Battle River) appealed to the federal agriculture department to enforce the floor price of 26 cents a pound placed under pork last month. Some packing houses have been underpaying farmers.

Mr. Gillis said Mr. Decore had been "very unwise" to read the statement, which said the C.C.F. criticism of N.A.T.O. provided the basis for a "united front" by supporters of his Liberal-Progressive Party and the C.C.F.

Very Vulnerable

Mr. Decore himself, said the Nova Scotian, was particularly vulnerable on that score because the results of his own election in 1949 showed that 10 polls which previously had returned 3,000 Communist votes had gone to his favor. Someone might suggest that means he was a Communist.

"I would not be dragging out ghosts and skeletons if I were a member of this House on the Liberal side—not that kind of skeleton anyway," said Mr. Gillis.

As for Mr. Hetland, Mr. Gillis said he felt "sorry for him." He had said he agreed with unions, but "the fastest way to kill anything you want to kill is to accept it in principle and then proceed to knife it in the back—the oblique attack, kill it with kindness and it will die of its own volition."

The interests of the farmers and the unions were identical.

The "hoodlums" who Mr. Hetland had suggested were in unions actually were "just average, ordinary working blues who are eking out an existence without very much of a future to look forward to." They were being taken for a ride."

As for the "radical element" that Mr. Hetland suggested there was in unions, Mr. Gillis said he had seen "much more radicalism right in the House here and lack of decorum."

Day Of Tragedy

er sister Anne to take the throne when William died. (He survived Mary eight years.)

Brilliant Period

Anne was a bit on the dull side, silent, unprepossessing and extremely stubborn. England flourished in her reign and it was a brilliant period. Paradoxically, unartistic Anne gave her name to a whole period of furnishings and design which is still apt to show up in the family living room.

It wasn't until more than a century later, in 1837, that another woman was enthroned and became one of the nation's greatest rulers. Her name was Victoria and she was the only child of Edward, Duke of Kent, who had married late in life for the sole purpose of producing an heir to the throne.

Victoria was 18 when she succeeded William IV in 1837. Her marriage to the son of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha was an extremely happy one, and as Prince Consort he was in every respect her partner in the onerous job of being queen.

During the longest of all British reigns, 63 years, she gave her name forever to a way of life while Britain became a world empire upon which the sun never set.

These are the ladies whose blood, abilities, power and influence now have passed to another sovereign Queen, Elizabeth II, "Queen of this realm and of her other realms and territories, head of the Commonwealth, defender of the faith."

Cancer Specialist To Give Address

Dr. R. C. Burr, associate professor of radiology at Queen's University, Kingston, and director of the Ontario Cancer Institute, Kingston Clinic, will be the guest speaker at an open meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Cancer Society to be held in the Public Library auditorium Thursday night.

Dr. Burr graduated in medicine from Queen's University in 1932 and became a fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh, in 1935.

The guest speaker is bringing colored slides with him to be shown at the meeting.

The film, "The Doctor Speaks His Mind," will also be shown.

The purpose of the meeting is to educate people about cancer, Mrs. Maurice Holt, president of the Peterborough branch of the Cancer Society, said today.

British Laws On Libel Said Too Rigid

LONDON — (CP)—British libel laws are so rigid that even an innocent sentence sometimes results in penalties for newspapers, Labor member Tom Driberg told the House of Commons.

Speaking on a bill designed to revise and clarify existing regulations, Driberg recalled that as a journalist he once described a well-known British racehorse trainer as being "equally popular at Newmarket and at White's Club."

Newmarket is headquarters of British racing and White's is an exclusive London club.

"For that single sentence," Driberg said, "the newspaper for which I was writing had to pay him quite a substantial sum—£600 or £700, though it was settled out of court."

Driberg said the lawyer in the case claimed the sentence suggested the trainer spent half his time "gadding about in London at expensive clubs."

The bill now is in committee stage. It has already passed second reading.

Antibiotics Aid Poultry Growth

HALIFAX — (CP) — Feeding of poultry and swine with foods spiked with special antibiotic ingredients, a process started in Nova Scotia a little more than a year ago, has apparently produced better birds and animals at reduced costs, agricultural officials announced.

Use of the antibiotics bring the stock along quicker, making it ready for marketing at an earlier date. However, the foods have little affect on egg production, said one authority.

A prominent Annapolis Valley producer claimed it reduced the cost of raising "broilers" by about 20 per cent.

The foods, fairly general among bigger producers, are not so common among those operating at a small scale, although they are available to all.

Scientists now are trying to produce a feed which would have a similar effect on cattle and sheep.

Alberta Farmer Breeding Brangus Cattle

ATLEE, Alta.—(CP)—Brangus cattle are grazing on the Alberta range near here on the Red Deer River some 60 miles north of Medicine Hat. To young Bruce Dawson and his neighbors it is an interesting experiment and one of three in Canada.

Brangus are a blend of purebred Brahman and purebred Aberdeen Angus and the aim is to produce an animal with ability to turn sparsely vegetated pasture into more pounds of beef than other breeds.

Three men in Canada are engaged in this cross-breeding—it is being done on a much wider scale in the United States. They are Dawson, James Mitchell of Maple Creep, Sask., who keeps his cattle at Manyberries in the Medicine Hat area, and a breeder in Ontario.

The true Brangus carries three-eighth Brahman blood and five-eighth Aberdeen-Angus blood. They are black in color and hornless.

Compared with other average breeds, the Brangus weighs 50 to 75 pounds more at weaning time, 150 pounds more at two years and up to 300 pounds more at maturity.

Besides having more poundage to improve the pocket book, the Brangus is immune to pink eye and cancer eye. It has sweat glands. It also has a muscular membrane between the hide and flesh that enables it to dislodge insects and hence is less bothered by flies and mosquitoes.

Dawson obtained his first bulls in 1949 from Clear Creek Ranch, Welch, Okla. He started with half bloods and now has 30 quarter-bred heifers. He now is working on the three-eighths. So far, he says, he has put 100 extra pounds on calves.

Dawson says his animals have wintered well, all outside. As they progress in breeding they change appearance to some extent.

There is a small hump on the shoulder of the Brahman, he said, but on the half-blood, it is half-way between the crest and the shoulder. On the quarter-blood it is farther to the front and on the three-eighths it moves back.

Get Scores By Wire In Bowling Contest

TORONTO, March 15 (CP). — Yukon bowlers competed with a Newfoundland team recently but there was none of the banter usual in regular competition.

The teams were among 19 bowling in their home alleys across Canada. Score was kept by telegraph. The event was the annual competition by Canadian National Telegraphs employees for the trans-Canada bowling trophy.

Teletype printers in each alley kept bowlers informed of standings and scores during the event.

Toronto employees walked off with the trophy. Regina came second with a total pinfall of 13,860, some 834 points behind the champions. Montreal was third, just 60 points ahead of Edmonton.

Other teams taking part were Fort William, Port Arthur, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Calgary, Halifax, Charlottetown, Ottawa, Moncton, N.B., Saint John, N.B., and Sydney, N.S.

Percy Council Extends Tax Collector's Time

WARKWORTH, March 15 — (ENS)—The tax collector's time in Percy township has been extended to April 1 of this year by motion of the municipal council at their meeting Tuesday.

The motion for the extension of time was made by J. S. Atkinson and Eric Merrill.

Following the inspection of the bonds of the treasurer and tax collector, the council resolved that the bonds were satisfactory and voted to have them deposited in the vault of the township hall.

It was decided to increase the caretaker's fee $400 for the upper hall.

The municipal engineer is to be requested to draw plans for the building of two concrete culverts on lot 1, concession 13 and lot 7, concession 6.

Reeve George Broadworth presided for the meeting. Others present were: Cecil Grills, deputy reeve and Eric Merrill, William Johnston and Stewart Atkinson, councillors.

Men Being Paid For Not Working

LONDON—(CP)— Forty men are being paid a total of £550 this month for not working.

They are meter readers employed by the nationalized London Electricity Board. For the first time they have been working under supervision, and have increased their readings to the extent that for a two-week period there are no meters to read.

This is the sequel to a strike called last January after the management employed investigators to check on the readings. The men called the investigators "snoopers". The electricity board replied that supervision was necessary because some readers were knocking off work at lunch-time.

The 40 men who will draw pay for not working are among 79 readers employed in the Calpham, Putney, Wimbledon and Barnes areas of London. They finished their work two weeks early and had nothing else to do. Individual pay is £6 17s 6d a week.

Dr. Eldon Ray Named Principal

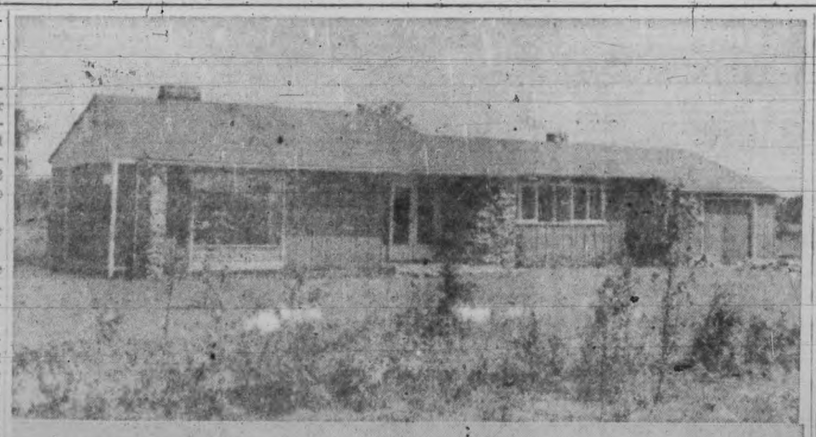
Dr. Eldon P. Ray has been confirmed as principal of Kenner Collegiate by the Board of Education. Dr. Ray has had eight years in Peterborough as a teacher at P.C.V.S. and he had 13 years' previous to that in Ontario secondary schools.

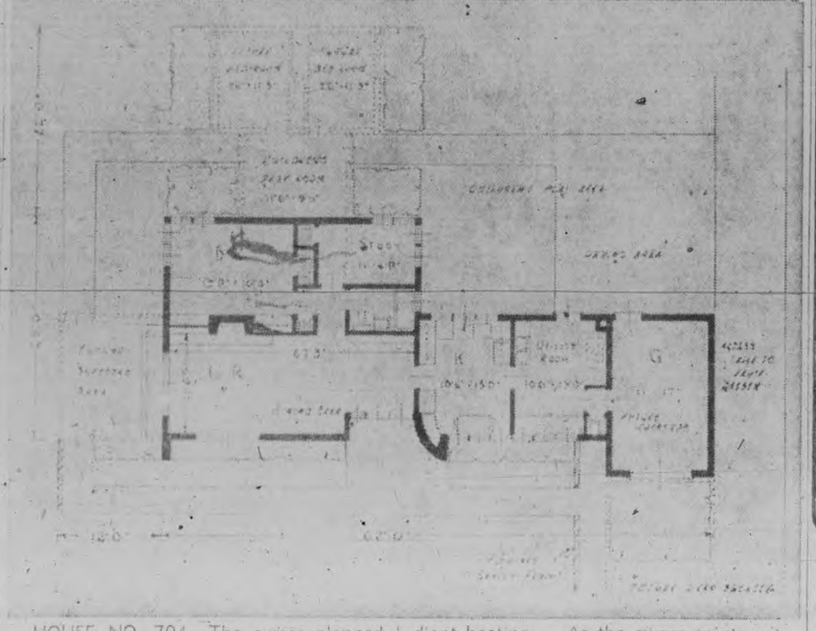
At present he is head of the history department at P.C.V.S.

He was recommended by the appointments committee last Saturday and was confirmed Thursday night.

Altogether there were 52 applicants and six of these, including Dr. Ray, were interviewed. He will be on a probationary period of two years with a salary as advertised ($5,000 minimum and $5,800 maximum with the cost-of-living in addition).

Kenner Collegiate has an estimated cost of $650,000 and should be ready to accommodate 300 students by Sept. 1





HOUSE NO. 704—The owner planned for the future when he designed this refreshing, sensibly modern home for himself. Future building will not be hit-and-miss — extension can be made in orderly manner following an original well thought-out plan. The house is built on a concrete slab on the ground level and has radiant heating. As the owner points out, it is particularly economical for the amateur owner-contractor to assist in construction, having neither high walls or basement. Walls are of "drywall" construction, using plywood both inside and out. The first stage occupies about 1,000 square feet. For working drawings write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Problem Of Moisture Control Increased In Modern Homes

Condensation in the home is usually a winter problem, when invisible water vapor tends to move from the warm interior of a house to the cooler space outside. Since it is a gas, and under pressure, it can move easily through many ordinary wall surfaces. Once past the inner surface of an exterior wall, any restriction of its flow may cause it to condense to water and, if cold enough, to freeze, with serious results.

Years ago, the problem of moisture control was unknown—for our older homes were so loosely constructed that the exchange between outside and inside air due to air leakage was sufficient to control excessive humidities within the house. The walls were porous and uninsulated — the space within the walls being warm because of heat loss. No condensation existed, except on windows, for the warm moist air from the house simply passed through the warm walls. The vapor did not condense within the house.

Plastic Deterioration

Condensation troubles began when the desire to save fuel brought into being today's tightly-constructed homes. Weatherstripping, storm sash, caulking and insulation are all contributing factors. The result, without proper vapor barriers, is to make insulation damp and less effective, cause paint and plaster deterioration, and damage house walls, particularly when ice is formed. With the correct use of vapor barriers (membrane through which water vapor cannot readily pass) it is possible to have tightly-constructed insulated houses without this problem.

A vapor barrier is a skin or film which greatly slows down or does not permit the passage of water vapor; aluminum foil is an example. May paper products are given coatings for this purpose; a vapor barrier must have a well defined surface coat, although not all such coats are vapor barriers. Impregnated papers without a defined skin are not truly vapor barriers but have water shedding properties. Double coats of asphaltic or flake aluminum paint may be adequate vapor barriers.

Metallic film (e.g. aluminum) is both a vapor barrier and a reflective insulation and may include a corrugated paper filler. Insulation batts may have a treated paper backing; this paper must have a continuous surface coat, and security depends on the manufacturer's integrity. In general, fibre boards do not include vapor barrier construction. Special vapor barrier materials may be purchased.

Placing of Barriers

Vapor barriers should be placed on the warm side of the insulation, that is, immediately under the interior finish of all exterior walls and ceiling. Ideally, the vapor barrier should form a continuous skin on the interior of the wall. Since this is not always possible, make a tight fitting job with as few gaps as possible, overlapping joints where convenient, otherwise using battens or other means of insuring against leakage.

A vapor barrier placed under the outer finish surface of a building does far more harm than good. Occasionally this may be seen on entire walls but more often around doors and windows. "Tar-paper" of impregnated building papers which shed water are the proper material to use under outer finish surfaces. A vapor barrier is useless on partition walls except under very unusual conditions.

Many other methods exist for condensation control. Special vents from bathroom, laundry and kitchen will help to reduce humidity in a house but this is not always desirable, since humid air is necessary for comfort. Attics may be ventilated by louvred openings and, usually with some difficulty, exterior walls may also be vented. These solutions are sometimes necessary when insulating old houses, often with blown insulation, under which circumstances it is often difficult to provide a vapor barrier. The purpose of venting is to carry the water vapor out of the house before it condenses. A high percentage of roofing materials prevent this escape and venting of attics is often done even when a vapor barrier is used in the ceiling.

Truck Hit By Train Driver Badly Hurt

PRESCOTT, March 15 (CP).—Thomas W. Blondin, Ottawa truck driver, Friday night suffered serious injuries when his transport truck was struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway train at a level crossing two miles east of here.

Provincial Police said the truck was unable to stop in time at the crossing. Blondin was taken to hospital at Brockville, where hospital authorities said he was in "very serious" condition.

Nature of his injuries was unknown, but police said he was thrown from the cab when the slow-moving train hit it.

Singapore Hub Of Two-Way Smuggling Trade

By A. L. McINTYRE

SINGAPORE, March 15—(AP)—The United Nations' blockade of Communist China and boom conditions in Singapore have transformed this great trading centre into a teeming hub of two-way smuggling.

Bigtime operators, who long have used loopholes to smuggle in opium for rich Chinese addicts, now use the same loopholes to send out strategic war materials to Communist countries.

Quantities of tin, rubber, tires, auto parts, tinplate, carbon black and other war necessities are flowing out of the colony despite the official ban.

British authorities admit cargoes are getting past customs.

One customs spokesman said: "contraband, opium, gold, liquor and tobacco coming in is small compared to the volume of prohibited goods going out."

"Strategic materials are the money-making exports of smugglers," he said, and named Red China and Indo-China as the main "importing countries."

Big Money

Customs men have made large seizures of strategic materials banned by Britain but they admit the biggest barrier to cleaning up the rings is reluctance of minor smugglers to reveal identities of their bosses.

"There is big money involved, and where big money is concerned little talking is done," a spokesman said. "Stooges arrested have sufficient inducement to keep their mouths shut. And they do."

Side by side with smuggling of strategic goods, illicit supplies of opium are pouring into the colony.

Ships of all countries which converge on this port bring the supplies. Agents on board dump watertight packages of the drug overboard. Small Sampans pick up the cargoes.

Sometimes larger cargoes are landed on the many islands lying off Singapore and hidden in the undergrowth. Motorized junks bring them into Singapore. Even the huge fleet of high-powered, radio and searchlight-equipped customs patrol boats cannot put an end to the traffic.

Profits are huge, middlemen handling the drug are numerous and many otherwise bona-fide importers now are believed engaged in the traffic.

Singapore's 66-mile vulnerable coastline and corruption among some customs men are two factors contributing to the flourishing trade.

DRESSED FOR ALL KINDS of weather, six scientists attached to the University of Montreal Microbiological Institute and Notre Dame Hospital are being wished a good trip by Dr. Armand Frappier, (extreme right) director of the institute, as they board a plane at Montreal Airport at Dorval for St. Augustin, 400 miles north of Seven Islands, to do research work on poliomyelitis. The scientists are (left to right): Dr. Sylvio Desautels, Bernard Marcil, Dr. Roger Desjardins, Jean Tasse, Dr. V. Pavilanis, heading the delegation, Dr. Denis Beliveau, and Dr. Frappier.

Sudbury Choir Wins At Ottawa Festival

OTTAWA, March 15 (CP) — The Elgar Memorial Ladies' Choir of Sudbury, Friday night won the class for choral societies of ladies voices at the Ottawa District Music Festival.

The Elgar choir was awarded 179 marks by adjudicator Ronald Biggs for its two selections of Edwards' "In Going to my Lonely Bed," and Dowlands' "Come Again Sweet Love." The group was marked 89 for the first selection and 90 for the second.

Two other choirs scheduled to compete in the class—the Kingston Ladies' Choral group and the Ottawa Commerce Alumnae—withdrew.

Mr. Biggs said Madrigal singing was rather rare in Canada and the Sudbury choir's selections showed splendid teamwork.

Men Needed In UK Industries But Many Workers Hunt Jobs

By SIDNEY WEILAND

LONDON, March 15 (Reuters). —Skilled workers are walking the streets of Britain today in search of jobs, though the country's economy is geared to rearmament and defense factories are short of men.

For the first time in 12 years, unemployment has reached a level where government and trades unions are seriously worried.

At the moment it mainly affects the textile, furniture, garment-making, engineering and automobile industries. Unemployment statistics mirror lack of raw materials, diversion of scarce steel supplies to rearmament, and public refusal to buy non-essential goods at high prices. At the same time many arms plants are undermanned.

This parodoxical situation is part of Britain's critical unbalance of manpower. A man without a job in London is no use to an undermanned aircraft factory in Birmingham unless he agrees to go and live there.

Faced with a rising cost of living, Britons are postponing purchases they think they can do without. New furniture and clothes are first to be jettisoned in an attempt to trim budgets.

27,000 Idle

At the end of January, the Tailors and Garment Workers' Union reported that 27,000 of its members were idle. The number grows each week.

The recession has continued in spite of a determined price slash by the big mass-producing garment factories. Even with the cost of a medium quality man's suit cut from £10 to £7, the shops are empty.

In nearby Shoreditch scores of furniture factories are working part time, some only two or three days a week.

Shortage of steel — Britain is importing it from the United States — has led to part time work in Midlands engineering plants, though some are carrying out defense orders.

Lack of work has struck hardest at the motor industry in Birmingham, Oxford and Coventry, with steel diverted to tank production. Shipbuilding has also been hit. The Lancashire cotton mills, now competing against renewed Japanese exports, have laid off thousands of women. Many mills are working only three days a week.

Short of Men

Generally, the arms factories are short of men — in these, the coal mines, the railway workshops and agriculture nearly 250,000 more workers could be absorbed at fat pay rates. The National Coal Board has even hired 1,000 Italian miners to make up the manpower lag.

To spread manpower evenly throughout the country would mean moving people from one area to another, and there is no legal compulsion.

Labor ministry officials, with whom the unemployed must register, do their best to get them to move. But men settled with families dislike moving to strange cities, where they might have to live for a time in overcrowded housing.

The unemployment crisis has roughly followed the price recession caused by rising prices and the diversion of raw materials to rearmament.

It has happened mainly since last September. In June the total of unemployed was 190,000. By September it had risen to 217,000, by October to 263,000, by November to 290,000, by December to 302,000, and by January to 378,000.

Pump First Gasoline Into New Pipeline

SARNIA, March 15—(CP)—The first of some 1,700,000 gallons of gasoline were pumped into the new Imperial Oil pipeline today to begin their 65-mile journey east to London, Ont. Delivery to the terminal tanks at London is expected Tuesday morning.

The 1,700,000 gallons are needed to fill the line. During the summer, the line is scheduled to be extended another 123 miles to Hamilton and Toronto.

The complete line is expected to cost about $10,000,000.

The pipeline will carry two grades of gasoline to London and when full storage capacity is available it will carry gasoline, diesel oil, stove oil and furnace fuel. About 10,000 barrels a day are scheduled to arrive at London.

Ex-Superintendent Jailed Six Months

HAILEYBURY, March 15 — (CP)—Harold Smith, 56, former construction superintendent on a government fish hatchery at Englehart, Friday was sentenced to six months for theft of materials from the job and falsifying documents.

Inspector Ward Kennedy of Provincial Police testified that Smith stole 200 bags of cement to use on his home and employed men to work on his house and charged their time to the government.

Irregularities on the job were first made public by a statement in the Ontario Legislature last year by E. B. Jolliffe, then leader of the C.C.F. opposition.

Has Memories Of Other AcademyAwards

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 15 (AP) —It's Oscar time again, and the signal for reminiscing about academy awards of the past.

Next Thursday night will bring a whole new set of memories. I have witnessed eight other awards presentations and each one brings back sharp recollections. For instance:

1943—Jennifer Jones was the star of this one, winning for her first big role, in "Song of Bernadette." No one was happier for her than her husband, the late Robert Walker. The actress' boss, David Selznick, now her husband, also was there.

1944—This was the year of the big "Going My Way" sweep. Bing Crosby was handed his Oscar by the emcee, Bob Hope. The other winner was Ingrid Bergman.

1945—"The Lost Weekend" and Ray Milland won this year. I can recall Milland fortifying himself with a drink or two before the event. Joan Crawford was the star of a great comeback story, winning for "Mildred Pierce" after Hollywood had said she was washed up.

1946—This event was noted for "The Best Years of Our Lives." And Harold Russell's holding an Oscar in each artificial hand. Also for Olivia de Haviland's snub of her sister, Joan Fontaine.

1947—The year of the big upset. Rosalind Russell came prepared to win for "Mourning Becomes Electra" but her friend, Loretta Young, won the big prize for "The Farmer's Daughter."

1948—You couldn't forget John and Walter Huston, arm-in-arm with their three Oscars for "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre." It was a great father and son act that was soon to be broken up by Walter's death. Walter was a native of Toronto.

1949—Broderick Crawford and "All the King's Men" swept the boards. Olivia de Haviland was on top again, this time for "The Heiress."

1950—This was the year of the absentee winners. Both Judy Holliday and Jose Ferrer got the news in New York.

His new title are: Baron Rideau of Ottawa, and of Castle Derg in the County of Tyrone, and Earl Alexander of Tunis.

Earl Alexander now is British defence minister.

Blackstock Farmer Slain Police Arrest Youth, 16

THE BODY of Sidney Goff was discovered in this passageway (Lower photo) in the barn on the Goff farm about 12 miles north of Bowmanville Sunday afternoon. A blood-stained hammer was discovered in its usual place in the barn which Goff's father (Upper Photo) indicates with another hammer. Russell Larmer (Lower Right), a neighbor, came over and helped with the chores after the slaying was discovered. A 16-year-old youth from the Bowmanville training school, who was working on the Goff farm, was sought and finally caught on a deserted farm less than a mile north at 3 a.m. today.—(Examiner Photos by Don Grant.) See additional pictures on page 11.

Remanded On Murder Charge Suspect Found Sleeping In Vacant House

By JIM ENGLISH, Examiner Staff Reporter

BLACKSTOCK, March 17.—Cold and frightened, 16-year-old Harold Deneau was captured at 3:30 a.m. today and charged with the hammer-slaying of Sidney Goff, a 37-year-old farmer of Cartwright township. Deneau appeared this morning in Bowmanville court and was remanded in custody until March 25 on a charge of murder. Goff's body, the head crushed by repeated blows of a blunt instrument, was found Sunday afternoon partly covered by straw in his father's barn. He had been dead about five hours when discovered. Deneau was arrested at gunpoint by Provincial Constable David Coffey, formerly of the Peterborough O.P.P. detachment. Constable Coffey found the youth in a vacant house about a mile from the Goff farm. He was asleep under a pile of sheets.

Deneau, a ward of the Bowmanville Training School for Boys, had worked at the Goff farm since last October.

Father Finds Body

Goff's father, Francis Goff, found his son's body about 4 p.m. Sunday, after Goff and Deneau had been away from the house about six hours.

The Goff farm is four miles southeast of Blackstock, and 12 miles north of Oshawa.

The capture of Deneau ended a province-wide search that started shortly after police were notified Sunday. All through the night, until Deneau was captured, O.P.P. cruisers blocked roads leading away from the Goff farm.

The search had extended as far west as Windsor, from where Deneau originally came.

Not Seen After Noon

Deneau, a lanky, fair-haired, pimply-faced youth, was wearing a khaki hunting cap, overalls, a training school sweater, with a denim smock, when he vanished from the Goff farm. He stands about six feet, one inch, and weighs about 145 pounds.

Deneau had not been seen since between 11 a.m. and noon Sunday when Goff's father, Francis Sidney Goff, 69, saw him tethering cattle in their stalls not more than 30 feet from where Sidney Goff's body was later discovered.

Seemed Cheerful

"Harold was cheerful when he left the breakfast table," said Mr. Goff. "He'd had a big breakfast, and went right out to the barn to finish the chores. That was about 10 o'clock."

Canadian Arrested In Robbery

Believe Woman Plays Part In Million Dollar Job

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., March 17. (CP)—Mrs. Marie Jeanne d'Arc Michaud, 36-year-old song writer, born in Ste. Agathe, Que., who is held as the possible tip-off woman of the $1,500,000 Redfield burglary at Reno, screamed hysterically in her jail cell today.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation took her off an eastbound train here Sunday. She had $50,000 in cash, 28 pieces of jewelry and a package of securities.

Mrs. Michaud is held under $100,000 bond on a charge of inter-state transportation of stolen property.

She had been a guest in the La Verne Redfield home so often that he said he was "shocked and greatly upset" by her arrest. "Why, I trusted her implicitly," he added.

Closely Watched

Upon awakening in her cell, Mrs. Michaud started screaming in French and English. She huddled on her cot with two blankets piled on her head. A jail matron sat at the foot of the bed, watching every move.

A hearing on her removal to Reno was scheduled for later today.

(In Montreal, sources connected with entertainment and art circles said they believe the woman held at Flagstaff once performed in Montreal as a pianist. These sources said she had married a Dr. Laurent Michaud who practised for a time in the Abitibi area of Northwestern Quebec before going to the United States.

The blue-eyed French-Canadian writer-artist is the sixth person arrested in connection with the Feb. 29 burglary. Four are men, two women.

Arrested On Train

Mrs. Michaud was arrested Sunday on the California Limited en route to Chicago.

The $50,000 which F.B.I. agents said she carried was the biggest piece of loot yet reported recovered.

Redfield reported $300,000 cash, some $250,000 in jewelry and $1,000,000 to $2,000,00 in securities was stolen in his safe.

Gerald Norris, chief F.B.I. agent in Arizona, said securities found in Mrs. Michaud's possession consisted of 179,721½ shares of stock in 57 corporations, "some of which are very substantial companies."

Norris said the jewelry included a diamond and emerald piece valued at $10,000, a necklace of 75 pearls valued at $10,000, a diamond baguette valued at $2,600 and a diamond ring valued at $3,150.

Almost simultaneously with her arrest agents hoisted the safe from a mine shaft in desolate country near Reno. It was smashed and empty.

The safe had been stolen in a noontime burglary.

U.S. Jets Blast Front-Line Reds

SEOUL, Korea, March 17 — (AP)— United States shooting star jets today sprayed front line Communist troops and artillery positions with rockets, bombs and bullets.

Pilots reported killing more than 70 Red soldiers, destroying 15 guns and 28 troop bunkers and damaging a tank.

F-86 Sabre jets flying cover for Shooting Stars exchanged shots with 12 Communist MIG-15 jets, but reported no hits. Sunday Sabres destroyed three MIGS,, probably shot down two and damaged eight in the first air battle in four days. U. S. losses were not announced.

Communist shore guns hit the superstructure of the Battleship Wisconsin, flagship of the U. S. Seventh Fleet, off Korea's east coats Sunday. Three sailors were slightly injured. Damage was described as superficial.

The Shooting Star jets concentrated on Communist positions along the eastern and centrol fronts.

Ground action was minor Monday under a thawing spring sun. Only light patrol clashes were reported by Eight Army headquarters.

One Allied division marked St. Patricks' day by firing green smoke shells at the Reds.

Mme. Auriol Crashes

PARIS, March 17 (Reuters)—Mrs. Paul Auriol, daughter-in-law of the president of France, crawled out unscratched when her plane crashed Sunday in a field near Limoges airfield, Southwest France. Mme. Auriol, holder of the world air speed record for women, was taking off when the plane caught the slipstream of another aircraft and crashed.

R.A.F. Ace Missing

LONDON, March 17 (Reuters)—Wing Cmdr. Johnnie Baldwin, British ace who shot down 16 enemy aircraft in the Second World War, is missing in Korea, it was learned today. The Air Ministry said Baldwin had been on a weather reconnaissance mission, serving with the United States Air Force under an officer-exchange scheme. He was accompanied by other planes on a reconnaissance Saturday. They flew into a bank of clouds and Baldwin's plane has not been sighted since. Baldwin was credited with killing Germany's Afrika Corps commander, Erwin Rommel, during an attack on Rommel's staff car near Caen, France, July 14, 1944.

Warns West Against Overconfidence

TORONTO, March 17—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent warned the West Sunday night against over-confidence that its growing military might has frightened off Russia and assure peace.

Western peoples will have to make more sacrifices and continue to build up their armed forces, he told the graduating class of St. Michael's College.

"The foundations of combined strength we already have laid in the free world have given us a greater sense of security and grounds for hope that the war all decent people dread can be prevented," he said.

"As our hopes of keeping the peace rise, as our sense of security grows, we in the free world are facing the greatest test of our understanding, our resolution and our patience."

Easy To Forget

"It is so easy to forget why we feel more secure and so easy to forget to pay the premiums on the insurance or even to ask ourselves whether we still need it. I myself am convinced that if we are not to lose the scurity now coming within our grasp, we must be ready to keep up the insurance, much as I hope we may never have the fire."

The tyranny of Soviet Russia was the most ruthless, most pervasive and resourceful ever to threaten the world. In the Communist doctrine it had an insidious appeal to the natural human craving for social justice for all sorts and conditions of men.

"Communism is all the more dangerous because it remains a dynamic faith for its deluded followers," said Mr. St. Laurent. "At the present time there is an uneasy balance between the areas dominated by Soviet imperialism and the Western world with its free and Christian traditions."

Plot To Upset Women's Rule

BISHOPS ITCHINGTON, Warwickshire, England, March 17 — (Reuters)—The men of Bishops Itchington plotted Sunday behind the Red curtains of the Malt Shovel Inn to overthrow petticoat rule.

They drew up plans for their election campaign to unseat the six women who have ruled for the last three years on the village council. The village has a population of 890.

"The women have been getting too bossy," grumbled Norman Hunt, leader of the men's party.

At the other end of Bishops Itchington the female cabinet calmly planned to stand on their record at the elections in May.

Said Mrs. Chappel Hyam, the women's leader: "We get things done while the men just talk."

Giant Snowslides Crush Mining Camp Rescue 33 People Trapped By Storm

BISHOP, Calif., March. 17—(AP)—A weekend of wild weather in California had a fortunate ending Sunday night in the rescue of 33 persons whose mining camp high in the Sierra Nevada was crushed under giant snowslides.

The 33 rescued were workers and their families at the U.S. Vanadium Corporation's tungsten mill—the world's largest—9,000 feet high in Pine Creek Canyon, 20 miles northwest of here.

Saturday a huge slide poured down. One end of the mill was caved in. Four homes were partially destroyed.

The season's third "major" storm, after battering the San Francisco area, hit Southern California Saturday. It caused flooding in low-lying sections and families had to be evacuated in several Santa Barbara and Los Angeles county communities.

In Los Angeles winds felled trees and power poles, caused electrical failures, drove two boats ashore and whipped heavy snow in the mountains into huge drifts.

Three lives were lost—one by drowning and two others by carbon monoxide in trucks stalled in deep snow.

A freak "twister" Sunday struck Santa Monica, blew down a garage, knocked over chimneys and toppled boats in several small shipyards.

Boyd Will Be Charged With Robbery Of 10 Banks, Police Say

TORONTO, March 17. (CP)—Sad-eyed Edwin Alonzo Boyd, 37-year-old former commando who became one of Canada's 10 most wanted Criminals, will be charged with the robbery of 10 banks, police said today. The charges will include seven he faced prior to a jailbreak last November. Detectives said they have established that one of an arsenal of firearms found in a North Toronto apartment in a surprise raid Saturday was stolen a year ago from the Canadian Bank of Commerce at nearby Pickering. The bank was held up by two armed men and robbed of $6,000.

Police said with this new charge, to be laid when he appears in court March 21, the total of bank robbery charges to face Boyd will be brought to 10.

In all Boyd faces 13 charges. The others are escaping custody, illegal possession of offensive weapons and car theft.

On Saturday the additional charges of bank robbery were laid—the most recent being the $24,000 holdup of the midtown College-Manning branch of the Bank of Montreal.

Has Extra Guards

Police said that extra guards have been placed around his cell block to prevent the recurrence of a jail-break such as occurred last year when he broke loose together with Leonard and William Jackson.

A police trap clamped its jaws on Boyd Saturday as he slept in a North Toronto apartment.

Details were released Sunday night on how it was done.

Delay Increase Railways Decide

OTTAWA, March 17 (CP).—The railways have decided to defer for a year a proposed freight rate increase averaging $2.35 a ton on western coal moving to Ontario markets.

George F. Buckingham, general traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said the increase—due to go into effect March 31—has been postponed to a year from that date.

No reason was given for the railway's decision, but it is known that representations against the increase have been in progress for months, largely from the Alberta government and the Western Coal Federation.

The present rate on coal from Alberta to Ontario averages $10.90 a ton.

For many years Western coal was carried eastward at a low, special rate.

A year ago, the railways said they planned to increase the rate by $4.70 a ton, split into two instalments, a year apart. The first instalment of the increase went into effect last March 31. The second instalment is the one now postponed.

Four Top UAW Officers Give Up Jobs Without Fight

DETROIT, March 17. (AP)—Peacefully and without any apparent resistance, Ford Local 600 of the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) turned over its control to the International Union today. The four top officers of Local 600 yielded their posts to an administrative group assigned by the U.A.W. international executive board. The group went into conference in the office of Carl Stellato, president of the Local.

Stellato and three co-officials were removed on charges that they failed to keep Communist influences out of the Local's management. The international executive fired five minor officials of the Local, Sunday.

After the action against the top officers, one of the latter, William R. Hood, recording secretary, said he would not "physically give up my office." Hood said he would refuse to "abjectly surrender without counsel with my membership."

Apparently, however, Hood made no effort to resist.

The six-member administrative board was instructed to take over the Ford Local by the U.A.W. executive board after witnesses testified before the House of Representatives un-American Activities Committee here that Communists had infiltrated the ranks of officers and dominated actions by the Local's general council.

The five fired officers, none above the unit level, were named by witnesses before the house group as Communists.

Named Chairman

Walter P. Reuther, international president of the U.A.W., was named chairman of the administrative board. Until Hood spoke up, it appeared the four top officers of the 43,000-member local had agreed not to stop the administrative board from taking over

First Set Of Triplets Born At Timmins

TIMMINS, March 17 — (CP).—This northern gold mining district's first set of triplets, two boys and a girl, were born Sunday night to Mrs. Edmond Aube, 37-year-old wife of a hardware store owner.

Mr. Aube, a former member of Timmins Town Council, and his wife have three other children.

Mrs. Aube, a native of Sudbury, is a daughter of the late Jack Gagne, one of the special guards to the Dionne quintuplets of Callander. Mr. Aube was born at Crysler, near Ottawa.

Mayor, Bankers Feuding Over Bank Loot Division

TORONTO, March 17 (CP). — Mayor Allan Lampo, today found himself at loggerheads with the Canadian Bankers' Association over his suggestion that the city should confiscate part of any money recovered from recent bank robberies.

The mayor said the banks had been careless in handling the money, and some of it should be used to reimburse citizens and policemen injured in pursuit of the robbers.

L. G. Gillett of Toronto, president of the C.B.A., released a statement Sunday night which termed the Saturday suggestion as "hastily-conceived and ill-considered."

The statement said the banks have intensified their precautionary measures but were not prepared to hire a private police force "which for the Toronto branches alone would cost around $1,000,000 per year."

The mayor countered Sunday night by saying the banks are "putting dollars over human lives." He added: "Apparently they want a showdown. Well, I'm stronger than ever in my view."

Saturday the mayor hinted that authorities may soon recover much of the $163,000 stolen in district bank robberies in the past 15 months. He said the banks had failed to guard their funds properly.

Mr. Gillett's statement said "continual emphasis is placed on the need for keeping counter holdings of cash to the minimum which proper service requires."

It noted that the banks paid the city almost $1,800,000 a year in business and property taxes and said "they share the pride of the public generally in the excellent police work of the past 10 days, and, as has been their policy, their approbation will be manifested in a tangible manner."

The mayor's suggestion, it said, "can only be regarded as a hastily-conceived and ill-considered statement, quite out of keeping with the character expected of the holder of an important public office and one that for all concerned should best be forgotten."

Boxing Clubs Facing Charges

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP).—The International Boxing Clubs of New York and Illinois were charged today with conspiring to monopolize the professional championship boxing business in the United States. The Department-of-Justice complaint was made in a civil action in Federal Court.

Owners of the clubs, James D. Norris of New York and Arthur M. Wirtz of Chicago, and the Madison Square Boxing Corporation of New York, also were named defendants.

The defendants are accused of conspiring to restrain and monopolize championship boxing bouts.

The clubs, of which Norris is president, are the chief promoters of professional championship boxing matches in the United States.

The complaint says the defendants obtained contracts from the champions and leading contenders in all major weight divisions requiring, as a condition of participating in title bouts, to box exclusively for the I.B.C.

Dog Saves 7 People As Fire Razes Houses

TORONTO, March 17— (CP) — Betty, a 14-year-old dog that "always makes a fuss when something is wrong" was credited today with saving seven persons when fire destroyed two frame houses at suburban Alderwood. Damage was estimated at $17,000.

"We would all have burned to death in our beds if it had not been for Betty," said Mrs. Jack Morden. "She was scratching on the kitchen door and barking . . ."

Mrs. Morden, her husband and son fled from the house. Flames spread to the adjacent home of Mr. and Mrs. Wally Hayes who escaped with their two young children.

UN Commission Starts German Investigation

BONN, March 17 (AP) — A four-man United Nations commission began work here today to determine whether conditions are such that free and democratic elections could be held in Germany to create a united government.

But its work will not be completed unless it is permitted to thrust its investigations into East Germany, and so far it has received the cold shoulder from the Communists.

The commission chairman is Kristjan Albertson of Iceland. The other members are Antonio Mendes-Vianna of Brazil, Max Kohnstamm of The Netherlands and Dromar Hayat Malik of Pakistan. Poland refused to designate a representative.

Dublin Celebrates St. Pat's Day Sedately

By MICH ROONEY

DUBLIN, March 17 (AP)—St. Patrick was a dacent man, the ballad says, and came from the dacent people. And even he couldn't have had a word to say against the way his memory was kept green in Dublin this blessed day.

There was a big parade and enough shamrock on hats and lapels to make a carpet the long length of O'Connel Street. But everybody was well-behaved as a young gosoon courting his first colleen. There was not a shillelagh in sight.

It was small credit to them, of course, since there was not a public-house in the town open.

It looked as if every man in the country and his mother were in town for the day. Everyone wanted to see the parade and a brave sight it was too. There were bands galore, but none of them to beat the girl pipers. They were as fine a sight as you would see in a month of Sundays, their saffron cloaks floating from their shoulders and their green kilts swinging to the skirl of a jig or

Show Irish Work

For two full Irish miles, wagons and floats stretched along the streets and all were got up to show some product of Irish work, whether it was the hard brown turf cut from the boglands of Kerry or the electric light itself that was trapped like the salmon from the River Shannon at Limerick.

The parade, stretching from Trinity College down over the Liffey and circling around sculptured Parnell, took over two hours to pass. And by the time it finished the onlookers were every bit as tired as the craytures marching, what with the clapping and the cheering and the young fellows with the come-hither eyes giving an odd whistle at the girls.

It was the devil's own thirsty work. Little wonder, then, that there was a record crowd at Ballsbridge later in the day to see the annual dog show. For this was one of the only two places where a man could buy a bottle of stout or a ball of malt—that's Dublin for a glass of whisky.

Many a man who normally would not be seen dead with anything smaller than a gun dog wanted to bring home a Pekinese before the day was out.

He had his pick of Gaelic football or hurling, soccer or rugby.

And the night was before him in the mansion house where he could dance 16-hand reels with the finest romping colleens in all Ireland.

But in Londonderry, Northern Ireland, a crowd of about 1,000 waving the flag of the Republic of Ireland clashed with police at a St. Patrick's Day political meeting.

Stones and bricks were thrown at police headquarters and the police charged the crowd three times with raised clubs. An undetermined number of combatants on both sides came out of the melee with cuts and sore heads. Two men were arrested.

Accuse Allies Of Bombing P.O.W. Camps

MUNSAN, Korea, March 17 — (AP)—Communist truce negotiators today accused the United Nations command of carrying out another "criminal" aerial attack on a prisoner-of-war camp in North Korea.

The Reds said a British soldier was wounded when an Allied plane strafed a camp near Changsong Sunday.

Negotiators working on truce supervision began picking five ports of entry for troops and material on each side of the battle line following Communist acceptance of a U.N. "package deal" Sunday.

Chinese Col. Tsai Cheng-wen said the Allied plane opened fire on the Changsong prison camp despite "conspicuous markings" on the tents. He admitted under questioning, however, that the camp was not lighted.

"It must be fiercely pointed out," Tsai said, "that while your side has massacred continually and at will the captured personnel of our side . . . your side has carried out successive bombing and straffing against the captured personnel of our side . . . your side bears grave responsibility toward our side and the people of the whole world . . ."

Refers To Riots

Tsai's statement referred to two bloody riots at the U.N. Koje island prison camp. Thursday 12 North Korean prisoners of war were killed and 26 wounded. Feb. 18, 75 Korean civilian internees were killed and 129 were wounded.

Jan. 14 the Reds declared that Allied planes bombed a prisoner of war camp at Kangdong, killing 10 Allied soldiers and wounding more than 60.

In the truce-supervision meeting Allied staff officers proposed that neutral inspection teams check Sinuiju, Chonhjin, Hamhung, Manpojin and the North Korean capital of Pyongyang as the Reds' five ports of entry. They listed the South Korean capital of Seoul, Kangnung, Kunsan, Taegu and Pusan as the U.N. ports.

U.N. negotiators also emphasized that airfields and seaports in the vicinity of each port must be inspected.

Western Oils Hold Firm On Exchange

TORONTO, March 17 — (CP)—Western oils held firm in afternoon stock market dealings after strong support pushed the Exchange's index to consecutive record highs. Base Metals dipped and industrials and golds showed little trend.

Speculation in oils again dominated exchange dealings as a broad list of issues showed large turnovers. A few golds and metals also attracted moderate interest. Volume for the first three hours was 2,418,000 shares.

Gains among western oils ranged from pennies to about 50 cents. Anglo-Canadian, Canadian Collieries, Home Oil, Leduc Consolidated, Federated Petroleum, Okalta and Sapphire traded higher.

Refining oils and miscellaneous issues posted a scattered list of fractional advances to form industrials' strongest sections. Papers, agricultures, banks and retail stores also drew firm support but foods, liquors and manufacturing companies slipped.

Base Metal leaders dipped sharply as Falconbridge, Hudson Bay, New Calumet, Noranda, Steep Rock, United Keno Hill and Waite Amulet showed declines ranging to more than 50 cents.

Senior golds were mixed. Secondary issues — particularly junior producers — showed a large majority of penny losses.

U.S. Intervention Rouses Greeks

ATHENS, March 17 (AP). — The rift in Greece's coalition government widened Sunday as the Athens press took up the cry —pro and con—regarding United States intervention in the dispute over this country's electoral system.

Supporters of Deputy Premier Sophocles Venezelos voiced bitter resentment over U.S. Ambassador John E. Peurifoy's intervention two days ago in the feud over whether future Greek governments will be elected by a simple proportional system or by a direct majority system.

Peurifoy issued a statement opposing Venizelos' efforts to push through a proportional system. Venizelos has headed the government since Premier Nicholas Plastiras suffered a paralytic stroke last Monday.

The U.S. envoy gave his support to Plastiras and those of his party followers who favor the majority system. He said the proportional system would only continue the instability of the Greek government and would have drastic effects on the use of American aid to Greece.

This brought a declaration from the cabinet that the government understands the U.S. interest in how its aid to this country is to be used, but that it is up to the Greek people to decide on how the government should be elected

Boyd Will

Boyd's capture wrote an almost anti-climactic finish to a story of blood, loot, and violence in Canada's two largest cities. Involved were bank robberies, the shooting of two Toronto detectives and the apprehension of Boyd's two alleged acomplices in a blaze of gunfire in Montreal.

Though Boyd said he had no connection with Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson, police here said his fingerprints were found in Suchan's apartment in Montreal.

It was there nine days ago that Montreal police wounded Suchan in a fierce burst of gunplay. Later in the week they downed a savagely-fighting Jackson in another gun battle. Both were wanted for wounding Sgt. of Detectives Edmund Tong and detective Sergeant Roy Perry of Toronto, the former seriously.

Gangland Escort

Police said a bizarre twist to the capture of Boyd was the fact that he was escorted into the police trap by three carloads of thugs.

Police traced Boyd to the address by trailing his wife. They found her by tracing a "car for sale" two-line advertisement which offered an English-type car. The advertisement for the car, similar to one owned by Mrs. Boyd, turned out to have been placed by Norman Boyd. Quickly police located his residence and that of his sister-in-law.

Police found a briefcase containing $25,037 in cash and a loaded pistol and letters addressed to newspapers and signed by Boyd but never mailed. The letters said in part: "start guarding your families, for I am no longer a respecter of persons . . . keep out of my way and avoid bloodshed."

Charges against Boyd include escaping custody, two recent bank robberies, having offensive weapons and the theft of a car. Still against him are the seven bank robbery charges on which he was awaiting trial at the time he escaped Toronto's Don jail with Jackson and another man.

Remanded

About three-quarters of an hour later, Sidney Goff left the breakfast table to go to the barn and help Deneau with the chores. Between 11 and noon, Mr. Goff, Sr., went to the barn and saw only Deneau there.

Sometime after noon, he returned to the barn and could find neither his son nor Deneau. At the time, he said, he thought nothing of it, believing that the two had gone to help a neighbor with some job or other.

Later in the afternoon, he and his son-in-law, Arthur Patterson, went to the nearest neighbor, Eldon Fee, to ask if Sidney and Deneau had been there. Fee said he hadn't seen them and the elder Goff and Patterson returned to the Goff barn.

Chores Not Finished

There, they saw the chores hadn't been finished. The horse stalls were not all cleaned out and two calves were playing in an enclosure just inside the door. Patterson pointed to a pile of straw at the end of the narrow alleyway and suggested that the calves might have kicked it there.

"I said no, they hadn't," Mr. Goff related. "I got the fork and started to clear the straw away when I saw Sidney's body lying there.

"I felt his body to see if there were any signs of life.

"There was a burlap sack over his head and when I felt underneath it, my hand came away plastered with blood."

No Guesses

Mr. Goff said he couldn't imagine what happened. He thought his son might have chastised Deneau for not doing a proper job, and Deneau might have become angered. "I don't know, I don't know," he said.

In the loft of the barn, Mr. Goff showed reporters and photographers three burlap sacks and a length of light rope lying on the straw-covered floor. "I found those this afternoon. They weren't there this morning. I wonder if Harold planned to do away with himself."

To a friend of the family, township clerk Henry Thompson, Mr. Goff expressed his deep sorrow. Tears welled up in his eyes and his voice rose as he said:

"I'd a thousand times rather [illegible] were me than my boy. I've lost my right arm, Henry; I've lost my right arm."

Good Son

In the warm kitchen of the Goff home, Mr. Goff spoke of his son. "Sidney was a good boy. He didn't drink and he didn't smoke, and for three or four years he was superintendent of the Sunday school at Cadmus United Church."

The Goffs lived at Cadmus, a few miles north, before moving to their present farm. Neighbors such as Russell Larmer, who came to help out when the Goff family needed them, said "They were just getting the farm in shape these last few years. It's a hard thing."

Of Sidney, neighbors said he was a hard worker, a quiet man, who liked to stay at home. He was a small man, like his father, but a busy man around their farm.

Once in a while, he would go to neighborhood dances and euchre parties, but he displayed no particular interest in girls.

Mrs. Goff was stricken by her son's death. She said very little, but sat for a long time by the kitchen table, her head on one hand.

Wasn't Smart

Deneau, Mr. Goff said, wasn't a smart boy. He couldn't read or write, although he was fairly clever at sketching. He wasn't a hard worker, either. "When he was alone, he'd take three hours to do a job that could be done in one," said Mr. Goff. "He was all right if somebody was working with him, but he was slow."

Harking back to when Deneau first came to the farm, Mr. Goff recalled a warning his son-in-law, Arthur Patterson, had given him.

"Arthur told me he didn't like Harold's looks. He said he'd get rid of him if he were me. But I said no; I'd make a good boy of him.

"We treated him just like one of the family. Mrs. Goff did as much for him as for any of us. We tried to make our home a home for him, too."

Deneau was the seventh training school ward who had come to the Goff farm in the nine years they have been settled near Blackstock. He worked for $20 a month, his room and board, and when work was slack at the Goff farm, he was able to pick up $5 a day working for other farmers in the district.

Mr. Goff said he had only one small bit of trouble with Deneau. [illegible] brief argument over Dene[illegible] smoking in the farm buildings. Deneau promised to stop it, started up again, was warned, and finally stopped three weeks ago.

Otherwise, he had been no trouble, although he warned them at one time he had a bad temper when aroused.

Sidney's death came at a time when the Goffs seemed to be making a go of things. Mr. Goff came to Toronto from England in 1911. In the depression of the '30's he lost his job, then sold shoelaces and mowed lawns to make a living.

In the 1933, the Goffs moved to the country, settling first near Nestleton, another small village in the Lake Scugog district. For several years they lived there, later moving to Cadmus, and then to the farm southeast of Blackstock.

For nine years they lived on the farm they bought from Mrs. Jack McKee, who now lives in Blackstock. Hard work made the farm a moderately successful one, and in the past few years, neighbors said, the Goffs were moving along nicely.

General farmers, they have a herd of 22 cattle, including a bull and 11 calves, two dozen pigs, some chickens, and three horses.

"I've had seven boys from the training school now," said Mr. Goff. "But I wouldn't have another one, not for anything."

Patrick J. Ryan Starts Jail Term On March 17

A Douro Irishman, Patrick Joseph Ryan, will be marking St. Patrick's Day in the county jail as he begins serving seven days for drunk driving.

When the case was called in police court today, crown attorney John A. Bradshaw rose to register a "preliminary objection."

Mr. Bradshaw told Magistrate W. R. Philp he was objecting to the "unfair advantages the defence has on March 17, with Your Worship and court clerk (James Fleming) wearing a green tie."

However, the trial went ahead, and Mr. Bradshaw opened the crown's case by calling constable Dennis Traynor.

Testify Was Drunk

Ryan was involved in an accident at George and Lansdowne Sts., February 24, and both constables Traynor and Reg. McMillan testified that Ryan was drunk when they arrived at the scene. Constable McMillan said he had to get Ryan out of the way of traffic, because he was "staggering" on the highway.

Ryan said he had only had one pint of beer, and two draughts several hours before the accident.

Robert Carley defended Ryan and argued that the police have "a series of symptoms they tick off every time they give evidence in drunk driving charges."

"If he staggered on the highway, it is one of the clearest indications that he should not be driving a car," said Magistrate Philp. "Seven days in jail, and your car will be impounded for Finger Woman?

Investigating officers hinted Mrs. Michaud was the finger woman.

F.B.I. agents reconstructed the crime like this:

Several weeks before the burglar, John Trilliegi, 37-year-old Milwaukee hoodlum, met Louis (Firpo) Gazzigli, 44, a 230-pound former prizefighter, here. Late in February they drove to Milwaukee and picked up Andreis Robert Young, 46, former convict, and Frank Sorrenti, 36, a petty criminal.

They were back in Reno two days before the burglary. The F.B.I. charges the quartette carted away the 400-pound safe in midday in view of six neighboring homes.

The case began to crack after Mrs. Leona Mae Giordano, 38, Reno cocktail waitress, was arrested trying to pass a $1,000 bill She has not been charged with participating in the burglary.

Reno bartenders say a man resembling Young toured the hot spots the day after the burglary complaining a pretty brunette companion had robbed him of more than $6,000.

One of the arrested men presumably talked and told where the safe had been hidden.

The four men are charged with transporting or conspiring to transport stolen goods across state lines.

ON OPPOSITE SIDES—Soviet delegate to the UN Jacob A. Malnik makes an iron curtain of his eyes as he talks with Bernard M. Baruch, American elder statesman, at a meeting of the new UN Disarmament Committee in New York. Baruch designed the majority-backed atom control plan on which the commission has been instructed to base its work and the plan has drawn vehement Russian opposition.

Airline Stewardess Shoots Official; Boss Accused Her Of Dating Other Men

ST. LOUIS, March 17 (AP).— An attractive, 20-year-old airline stewardess told police she fatally shot a company official during a quarrel Sunday after he accused her of dating other men.

Lawrence E. Keil, 43, married and father of two children, was found in a parked automobile, wounded six times. He died a short time later.

Police Chief Browne Hairgrove said the Ozark Air Lines stewardess, Betty Lou Tracy, signed a statement admitting she shot Keil with his own gun.

"I fired the gun until it would not fire any more," the chief quoted the petite, green-eyed girl as saying.

Miss Tracy was booked for the St. Louis county coroner, and held without bond and without charge.

Request To Drop Oleo Ban Gets Cold Shoulder

TORONTO, March 17 (CP)—A request from the Provincial Council of Women that Ontario drop the coloring ban on margarine was given a cold reception today by the agriculture committee of the Ontario legislature.

Thomas Pryde (PC-Huron) said that if margarine sales increase "we'll have no dairy farmers left."

Mrs. Gordon Kerr of Windsor, acting president of the council, said the majority of its 28,000 members felt the coloring ban was a "nuisance act."

Her claim that coloring of margarine wouldn't increase its sale was generally opposed.

"This will increase the sale of margarine, whether we say so or not," said John Root (PC-Wellington North). It would further remove the dairy farmer's initiative to produce milk.

Deceives People

Roscoe Robson (PC-Hastings East) said coloring of margarine would "deceive" people into thinking it was butter.

Art Child (PC-Wentworth) said the Council of Women was trying to balance the nuisance value of uncolored margarine against the possible harmful effects on the agriculture industry.

"The big packing houses stand to make more money than anybody else in this," he said. "Once the demand for margarine goes up, the price will be raised."

Norris Whitney (PC-Prince Edward-Lennox) said there was no need to remove the coloring ban to encourage the growers of soy beans, one of margarine's principal ingredients, since Ontario growers still filled only one third of the demand for soy beans.

"We should not help the soybean growers while dairy farmers are having trouble selling their produce," he said.

their headquarters. President Carl Stellato had said there would be no opposition by force, but the action would be appealed to the next U.A.W. convention.

The administrative board named a four-member administrative committee Sunday to take over actual operation of the local and said it would move into the local's headquarters today.

In firing the five from unit offices, the board warned it is checking "into the status of people holding other elective and appointive offices in local 600 and in other cases where it appears beyond a reasonable doubt that other persons are ineligible to serve under article 10, section 8 (of the U.A.W. constitution) similar action will be taken."

The section of the constitution to which the board referred reads:

"No member of any local union shall be eligible to hold any elective or appointive position . . . if he is a member of or subservient to any political organization, such as the Communist, Fascist or Nazi organization, which owes its allegiance to any government other than the United States or Canada, directly or indirectly."

Atom-Busting Obscures NRC Research

OTTAWA, March 17—(CP)—National Research Council' atom-busting sometimes obscures its other work so the Council issued a reminder today.

In a statement, the council reviewed its work since 1917 when in was founded, and added that today's million-dollar business makes a dollar do double duty by encouraging research and at the same time training young scientists.

"The N.R.C. is mainly known for operating its own laboratories, largely for the benefit of Canadian industry," the council said. "But it also is the most important scientific foundation in Canada, now disbursing over $1,000,000 a year."

Work began 5 years before the main laboratories were opened in Ottawa.

A system of scholarships was set up to encourage scientfic training in Canada. Grants were made to professors to do fundamental research in addition to teaching. To co-ordinate research on major problems of national scope, associate committees were set up.

Big Investment

All this meant an investment of $12,000,000. Some of the money went to 2,937 scholarships to graduates of 23 Canadian universities. Three-quarters of these scholarship winners still are at work in Canada, and many of them "have helped to place Canada among the foremost scientific nations of the world," said the council.

On aid to research, the council spent $8,500,000 to provide investigators at all Canadian universities and at many other Canadian institutions with the means to do important research.

The 24 associate committees bring together the practical experiance of industrialists and the special technical knowledge of scientific workers. That means hundreds of experts, all working without salary.

These committees plan and coordinate research projects such as that being done by a number of Canadian scientists in various universities or hardening of the arteries. The committee recommends where money should be spent to help these projects.

Atom Attack Danger Grows

LONDON, March 17 (Reuters)—Dr. James B. Conant, Harvard University president and a leading U.S. nuclear scientist, said today the danger of atomic attack is growing daily for people in the industrialized centres of Britain, Canada and the United States.

"Month by month the stockpile of atomic bombs in Russia mounts," he said. "There is no priority of nations in this matter. We walk together, all of us, in the valley of the shadow."

Delivering the Stevenson lecture at the London School of Economics, Conant said the only way to prevent atom bombs from falling is obviously to prevent a third world war.

Conant regretted the "barriers to full Anglo-American co-operation in all aspects of allied nuclear physics." Bad feeling over exchange of atomic information among Britain and Canada and the U.S. "might have been avoided by greater frankness at the outset."

Provision for sharing knowledge among friendly countries and keeping the public informed "requires a careful weighing of the balance between the demands of security and the demands of liberty."

Four Badly Hurt In Train Collision

ST. THOMAS, March 17 (CP)—Condition of Terry Constance Jones, 16, of London, Ont., one of four persons injured Sunday night in a level-crossing collision, was described today as "very serious."

Less severely injured were Barbara Henry, 16, also of London, and Robert Cooreman, 19, and Lale R. Hurk, 18, both of Aylmer.

Police said the car in which the four were riding crashed into the side of a freight train during a heavy snowstorm. They said Cooreman told them he did not see the train until he was about a car-length from the crossing.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Robert Ruddy of Pickering.

Taxpayers Cut

TOKYO, March 17 (Reuters)—Japanese paying income tax this year will be nearly 1,000,000 less than last year. This is because of new tax laws freeing low-income groups from income tax. Of Japan's 84,000,000 population, approximately one person in seven will pay tax—roughly 12,000,000.

COLOMBO, Ceylon, March 17 (Reuters) — The lawyer for a milk-vendor, charged with watering milk, pleaded that the milk was being taken for an offering to a temple. The judge, saying that the accused had the "audacity to dupe the gods," fined him $15.

Wins 2 Bets

GIJON, Spain, March 17 (Reuters)—Julian Garcia won two bets on consecutive days. The first day he ate 11 loaves of bread and cheese and five pounds of grass. On the second day he ate the same quantity of bread and cheese but helped it down with two pounds of sawdust and a cardboard box.

Man Killed Trying To Rescue Cat

By The Canadian Press

A man who died trying to rescue a cat from an electrical transformer was one of three killed at their work during the weekend. A total of 13 persons were killed in Eastern Canada during the period.

Besides the industrial accidents, two men were beaten to death, three were killed in traffic accidents and two children were drowned. One man died of a fall in his home, another was burned to death and a child was killed on a toboggan slide.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed nine persons killed in Ontario, one in New Brunswick and two in Nova Scotia.

In New Brunswick, Lindsey Grant Calder, 62, tried to pull a cat out of a transformer in a pump house near Campbellton. He died when he fell on a line carrying 600 volts.

Dumped Into Hold

At Hantsport, Nova Scotia, Roy W. Crowell, 44, was killed when a conveyor belt loading a ship with gypsum carried him along and dumped him 50 feet into the hold. Andrew Cammani, 52, was killed at Halifax when some machinery fell on him as he was working in a dairy.

At Montreal, Gisele Beaudry, 12, of St .Calixte de Kilkenny, was killed when the toboggan she was riding struck a tree.

Fifteen miles southwest of Owen Sound, five-year-old Karen Teschke was drowned in a futile attempt to save her brother, Douglas, 4, when he plunged through the ice of the Sauble river near their home. The children were playing on the ice when Douglas broke through a thin section. Karen raced to help him and followed him into the icy water.

Freedom Of Utterance Not Possible–Allen

TORONTO, March 17 (CP). — Freedom of utterance is not a possibility at the present time, Ralph Allen, editor of Maclean's Magazine, said Saturday night.

Speaking to the Business and Professional Women's Club in a panel discussion on the declaration of human rights, Mr. Allen said that even in Canada, considered comparatively free, the C.B.C. is not free to present varied opinions, movies are censored by provincial boards and the Department of Customs sets itself up as an arbiter of cultural standards regarding the importation of books.

Continued Menace

PORT ELIZABETH, S.A.—(CP)—Mustard gas manufactured many years ago and dumped in containers in the ocean six years ago is still keeping trawlers away from one of South Africa's richest fishing areas. The ban on trawling continues until the sea pierces the canisters and renders the gas harmless.

Education Needed

MONTREAL —(CP)—Early recognition of cancer through wider education on the disease would have saved perhaps 5,000 of the 17,000 persons who died of cancer in Canada last year. This estimate was made by F. G. Butterfield of Regina, president of the Canadian Cancer Society, visiting here on a tour of society branches.

Family Amazed To Know They Harbored Nazi Spy In War

OTTAWA, March 17 (CP). — The astounded French-speaking family which unwittingly harbored a German spy for 15 wartime months would like nothing better now than to get in touch with him because "he was such a swell guy."

They've gone to the one source that might be able to help them —the R.C.M.P., but the Mounties haven't the address of the spy who didn't spy, the man who assumed the false name of Alfred Haskins and spent half the war within sight of the Parliament Buildings without sending the Nazis a single piece of information, living on his $7,000 in funds.

He was sent home to Germany after the wor and that so far as the R.C.M.P. is concerned, was the end of him. He was originally landed in New Brunswick by submarine in May, 1942.

So the wistful, reminiscing family which never once suspected their roomer with the "nice Dutch accent" was what he really was can only hope he'll read in some German paper that they'd like to hear from him.

The entire family—they asked that their name not be published —was astonished Friday when the R.C.M.P. finally disclosed who and what he was but declined to give his German name. It cleared up a seven-year mystery for them —what happened to Fred Haskins when he allegedly went on a fishing trip in November, 1944, and never came back. That was the day he gave himself up to the Mounties because his money was gone.

He came to their house in August, 1943, from the since-demolished Grant Hotel whose former proprietor, Alonzo Delorme, recalled him Saturday as a "nice, pleasant sort of fellow who looked and acted like anything but a German spy."

A mutual friendship sprang up at once between the family, the parents and several young daughters, and the 39-year-old new roomer who said he'd been pensioned from a Canadian government job because of illness.

Never Suspected

Never once did they suspect he was a German or a spy. When people would blaspheme the Germans he would laugh. He professed a great love for Canada and apparently it was quite sincere since he had worked here from 1928 to 1932.

He knew all the girls' birthdays and he never let one go by without a present. He became virtually a member of the family and chatted with the aged father of the wife on the verandah—the old man came to have a deep affection for him—took them to night clubs and movies and on picnics and fishing trips.

He liked a good time, liked cards and chess, liked to gamble, but he was no playboy, they say.

The family was amazed to learn he was a spy, happy to learn "he did nothing wrong," that he didn't spy. They'd like to be able to write him now and tell him they still think good things of him.

For, said the husband, "he was like a brother to me."

Brazil Fascinating Country Reporter Reluctant To Leave

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

When one first comes to Rio de Janeiro it is a spectacle to be seen.

After a fortnight, it is a way of life which one is loath to leave.

So it was with our party which visited Brazil recently. From the air, as we left, our eyes lingered on the lovely panorama; while the majestic 100-foot statue of Christ the Redeemer (Cristo Redentor), rising with outstretched arms from the top of 2,000-foot Corcovado, seemed to give a farewell benediction.

There was first a 55-minute flight to Sao Paulo, over now familiar terrain, for we had motored over it, flown over it, and travelled it by train, in the last two weeks. Then we got away on the nine-hour flight from Atlantic to Pacific and over the Andes.

Beneath us were the rich coffee plantations and farm lands of southern Brazil, until we passed into the State of Matto Grosso, meaning big forest, or big jungle —about the size of the province of Quebec.

Savage Fish

Not far away, schools of the incredibly savage fish, the Piranha, less than a foot long but swift death to man or beast, scoured the Parana River for flesh to tear and devour.

It is raw jungle which one day may be rich farmland.

In their heart, La Paz, Bolivia, gave a pattern of red and pink roofs, housing its more than 300,000 people. This city, once called "Heritage of Gold" by the Indians, is situated at more than 12,000 feet altitude, the highest capital in the world. From its mines come much of the world's tin. Its airport, at 13,400 feet, has one of the world's longest runways and, for the thin air, has a sloped surface so that incoming planes may land uphill, and outgoing craft may take off downhill.

Near La Paz we passed the peak of Illimani, 21,200 feet, some 9,000 feet higher than the highest of the Canadian Rockies.

We saw nearby, too, Lake Titicaca, 130 miles long and half the size of Lake Ontario, which provides a waterway for commerce 12,000 feet above sea level.

We were amazed at the number of roads which wound up the mountains—most of them narrow, and some mere donkey paths, but carved out slowly through hundreds of years by sturdy Indian who make their homes there.

We passed from Bolivia to Peru, birthplace of both the potato and corn, and ultimately came to the Pacific, lying in a vast calm, but showing a solid line of white surf as it struck the continent.

In Peru, we were puzzled by oval-shaped enclosures until told they were traps for llamas, the South American member of the camel family, which serves as beast of burden, yields wool, and ends up on the dinner table.

No Practical Experience

We were told that when the llama gets over-weary, it turns its head and discharges an evil-smelling saliva in the rider's face. We had no opportunity to confirm this, but who would blame the llama?

On the Peruvian coast the Andes turn into giant sand dunes, the height of low mountains, but, here and there, narrow green valleys run down to the Pacific.

A more fertile country heralded the approach of the capital, Lima, and acres of new suburbs showed that, like most western hemis-

Bel Exemple de Peterborough

In a recent issue, the Quebec newspaper Le Soleil had some flattering things to say about the way Peterborough manages its tourist opportunities. It called attention to a brochure on travel and publicity published by the Canadian Tourist Association after its annual meeting last September at Murray Bay. The speech given by Mr. James Fraser of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce is printed in the booklet, and has stirred the appreciation of Le Soleil for the way the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce arranges to publicize the Kawarthas and to promote the tourist business.

* * *

Le Soleil says that in this district business men have seized on the importance of the vacation areas, formerly frequented by scattered groups of people from Toronto, Buffalo and Rochester. Until then, no particular effort had been made to create in this area a big tourist centre by exalting the advantages of the site, the climate and the accommodation. These business men "formed a special regional tourist section which acquaints the whole province and the entire country with the incomparable beauties of the Kawartha Lakes district; by means of ingenious publicity, they have prepared and maintained a constant stream of visitors and foreigners who spend five or ten days or a fortnight travelling over the enchanting spots which had won their hearts from the first day."

* * *

"The whole secret of the Peterborough organization is to keep people returning to the area whom it has attracted, by surrounding them with watchful and discreet attention, and by providing them with all the charm of a happy holiday in an atmosphere of cordial hospitality. These are the ways to go about it, which others have likewise adopted with success; but none seems to put into it the same ardour, the same technique, the same persuasion as the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. A fine example to our public bodies formed by groups of perceptive and enlightened businessmen!"

* * *

Mr. Fraser seems to have done a convincing job of publicity for the Chamber and the Kawarthas at the Murray Bay convention last fall. The warm praise of Le Soleil is especially flattering, coming as it does from a world-renowned tourist centre which certainly knows a great deal about catering to tourists.

Indiscretions Of Generals

An exacerbating and embarrassing disadvantage under which the United States and its allies labour is the tendency of a few high-ranking United States officers to make or write statements of opinion completely at variance with U.S. and other national policies. This practice sometimes confuses allies of the U.S., sometimes plays right into the hands of Communist propagandists, and sometimes does both. And those who feel its effect most keenly undoubtedly are officials of the U.S. Department of State and of "The Voice of America."

The most recently reported indiscretion of this nature is the diary-keeping of General Robert W. Grow. As head of a U.S. division in World War II, one of his tasks was to enforce the rule forbidding front-line soldiers and officers keeping diaries, and he knew why he was enforcing it. Captured Japanese diaries had supplied invaluable information to U.S. strategists, and the high command was determined that the enemy should not profit similarly.

Yet when General Grow went to Moscow as U.S. military attache he kept a diary—which, considering what he wrote in it, was incredible folly. Communist propagandists managed to get either the diary or a copy of it, and it could hardly have been better designed to help bear out their contention that the United States is planning a third world war. The general noted that a large power station would make a good target, and then went on: "We must start by hitting below the belt . . . We must employ every subversive device to undermine the confidence and loyalty of Soviet subjects for their regime . . . Anything, truth or falsehood, to poison the thoughts of the population . . . War! As soon as possible! Now!"

The accuracy of these excerpts has been officially admitted. Now all the State Department and "The Voice of America" have to do is to convince the peoples of other nations, including Russia, that these opinions, and similar opinions expressed by other high-ranking officers, have no relation to official American foreign policy. There will be considerable outside sympathy, we think, with the angry American legislators who are now demanding that General Grow be court-martialed.

The Sword Is Mightier Than The Strip Tease

The strip-tease is a popular form of entertainment in the Western World. For those of our readers who are unfamiliar with the nature of the strip-tease, we may explain that it is primarily a musical entertainment; a number of male music-lovers gather to hear slow and langorous music played, the relaxing effect of the music being augmented by a woman, sometimes young and of pleasing figure who slowly removes most of her clothing while the music is played. So devoted is Peterborough to music that we understand that no less than seven of these special musical parties were given in this city during the month of December last. The ecdysiasts (this is the scientific term for the women who take off their clothes) were artists from Toronto and Montreal, we have been told.

The Allied Powers, always eager to bring the fruits of democracy to countries which lack them, have been trying ever since the end of the war to introduce the strip-tease into Japan. Some Japanese girls were found who studied to become ecdysiasts, and gained some skill in that work. But the Japanese, who bathe together naked in public baths, do not find that a young woman removing her clothes helps their appreciation of music; if we may venture upon a very mild joke, a woman without her clothes on is an old song to them. Consequently the strip-tease has fallen flat in Japan.

The Japanese have devised a new sort of entertainment which they like much better. It is a play, in which the principal character is a beautiful girl, who signifies Japan itself. This girl is very badly treated by a lot of ruffians, and her wishes are in every way ignored and frustrated. But in the last act she gains possession of a large Samurai sword, with which she chops up her enemies in an exciting denoument.

If there is a moral in this, we leave it to our readers to search it out.

O Woman, Lovely Woman

We have a great admiration for women, and we have frequently observed that a woman, even when she is not what the world calls good, will wear her evil with a delicacy and grace which would be impossible to a man. We are thinking at present of a young woman of twenty-three, who was recently discovered by the police of Montreal to be running a thieves' kitchen strikingly like the one which was operated by the abominable Fagin in Oliver Twist. She has a number of child thieves working for her, and last summer they stole $15,000 worth of goods from 35 cars. She trains the children herself, and their methods are reported by the police to be ingenious and efficient. When the police asked this young female Fagin why she did so, she replied with touching simplicity that she has a weak heart, and cannot work herself.

It is this last confession which leaves us gasping, but not so breathless that we cannot whisper Otway's beautiful apostrophe to the sex—

O woman! lovely woman! Nature made thee
To temper man: we had been brutes without you.

For what man, we ask, would have thought of such an excuse for corrupting children and living in guilty splendour in a $125-a-month apartment? A male crook would have said that he did it because he wanted money, or didn't like work. But the female Fagin introduced a softer, more sympathetic note: she had a weak heart, and anything but brain work and a minor venture in education would have injured her health.

We admire women. Even when crooked they manage to be subtle, mysterious and provocative of sympathy.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A scientist says that a man weighs less at the equator than at the polls. Why, then, does man tend to put on weight at the equator?

We read of a man who fell out of a two-storey window while his wife was giving birth to a baby. Something ought to be done to make childbirth easier for fathers.

The R.C.M.P. are going to revive their Musical Ride, we hear. And for people who enjoy seeing horses prancing out of time to band music this will be big news indeed.

A group of New York chemists have prepared a "library" of 30,000 identified and classified odours. Including, we hope, Essence of School Gymnasium, and Corduroy Trousers.

As the Vancouver Province sagely remarks, "those who worry about the new Governor-General having Liberal associations seem to overlook the fact that the retiring one immediately became a Conservative cabinet member."

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

SOME years ago I attended one of those annual performances of Handel's Messiah in a small English market town. The local choral society had rehearsed their work well, and the visiting soloists were adequate. But the orchestra, if one can dignify such a haphazard collection of instruments, was, as is usual in such affairs, appalling. Fortunately their enormities were partially obscured by the use of the organ, the performance taking place in a church. But even the liberal use of the organ could not cover up the horror of what happened in "The Trumpet Shall Sound". Apparently the one and only full rehearsal had taken place that same afternoon in another hall and nobody had taken the precaution of checking on the pitch of the organ in the church. The result was that the trumpet was approximately half a tone higher in pitch than the organ throughout, and though the result might have seemed an interesting essay in polytonality to some ears it was a dismal travesty of Handel. This brings me to the subject of pitch in music.

◇ ◇ ◇

IF MUSIC had remained in the Garden of Eden of man's first unsophistication there would be no trouble about pitch. But as soon as music tasted the fruit of the Tree of Knowledge it was obvious that some standard had to be adopted. As early as the Middle Ages the approximate pitch of A was settled, though it varied considerably in various localities and periods. An exact pitch is a necessity for wind instruments playing together, whereas voices and strings permit a greater latitude: we know, from the evidence of old organs and other wind instruments, what the pitch was at certain times. In the Elizabethan age there appeared to be at least three pitches in general use. The pitch used for madrigals was about a minor third lower than the new Philharmonic pitch, and modern editors usually transpose madrigals and church music of this period upward, otherwise the parts, especially the alto, lie uncomfortably low.

◇ ◇ ◇

DURING the eighteenth century the pitch had become more or less standardized (within a semitone) remained pretty well constant, a remarkable achievement in those days of poor communications and lack of modern scientific apparatus. This was a great advantage to the art of music. During the nineteenth century, however, a sharpening tendency arose in the interests of brilliancy. This was initiated by the makers of the wind instruments, who set the pitch for the rest of the orchestra. This tendency was at its height in the 1880's, when the pitch was almost a whole tone above that current in Beethoven's day. The French, being a logical race, were the first to take active steps to combat the rise (their progeny have been less successful in keeping the franc down!), and established a standard pitch which they called diapason normal. The phenomenon of pitch is caused by the frequency of vibration, and scientists had found a way of measuring these vibrations. The higher the pitch the greater the frequency. The diapason normal established the A that one hears every time that an orchestra tunes up as A=435 vibrations at 15 degrees centigrade (59 degrees Fahrenheit). This is the pitch used by all the leading orchestras today, except that it is usually expressed as 439 vibrations at 69 degree Fahrenheit, the rise in temperature causing a slight sharpening.

INCIDENTALLY many pianos in private homes are abnormally low-pitched. This does not mean that the tuner has been remiss, for they may be in perfect tune, but over a considerable period of time the tendency is for the strings to lose something of their elasticity and the pitch will drop. It is technically easier for the tuner to adjust the strings as near as possible to their present level, and in most cases this is quite adequate. If, however, the piano is needed to accompany a wind instrument difficulties are bound to arise. It is possible to bring the piano up again to standard pitch, but it must be done gradually over a period of time for the best results. If a piano is brought up again suddenly their is a distinct possibility of it going out of tune rapidly; moreover strings may be broken in the process of tuning. As for wind instruments built to the old "high pitch" they are useless for concerted work, though I must add here that the Salvation Army Bands still use high pitch, partly on account of the greater brilliance and partly presumably on account of the great expense of changing over. In the United states even the Salvation Army has gone over to low pitch. If you with to be quite sure that your instrument is tuned to the correct pitch you have only to buy a tuning fork A=435 or 439.

ONE of the minor mysteries of the American Scene is the high reputation of Gershwin as a composer of serious music. This is not to minimize his achievement as a fertile writer of catchy tunes with an unexpected twist that makes them stick in the mind. What I cannot accept is the claim, doubtless made by his publicity agents and repeated so often parrot-wise that every decent American accepts it as a fundamental article of faith, that George invented "symphonic jazz." Now Gershwin thought in terms of four-bar phrases, and the tyranny of the four-bar phrase holds sway throughout his longer works, which as a result do not hold together. He attempts to develop his themes in a mechancial manner reminiscent of Liszt in his less inspired moments, but all the time he cannot escape from the four-bar phrase. He was primarily a miniaturist, incapable of grappling whether the problems of symphonic construction. The brusque and perfunctory ending of the Rhapsody in Blue gives one the impression that he has got himself into a hole and has decided to make a big noise and shut up quickly, hoping that nobody will notice it. It reminds me of a comedy in which the intrigues have got so out of hand that the only thing for the author to do is to bring Apollo himself down from heaven to straighten everything out. Gershwin apparently failed to recognize that the jazz idiom "in the raw" is unsuitable to symphonic treatment, which thrives on short pithy phrases. He would have had to take jazz to pieces and remodel it to his own desire, but, it is doubtful whether he was capable of this. Moreover there is a certain triviality in his themes, coupled with a bombastic style of utterance, which offends the sensitive listener. He is the comedian who actually got a chance to play Hamlet. I feel that his reputation, like that of Sullivan, will rest on his popular music rather than on his excursions into "symphonic jazz".

THIS PIPER LAD, playing to himself as he tends the cows, is from an illustration in "Irish Folk Music and Song", done by Muriel Brandt, one of the most gifted wood engravers in modern Ireland. The richness and beauty of Irish folk music is discussed in the article below, and it is in this way that The Examiner pays its compliments to the original Irish settlers of Peterborough on the day of Ireland's patron saint.

Irish Folk Song and Dance

(EIRE DEPARTMENT OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS)

SIR ARNOLD BAX, distinguished British musician, wrote "Of all the countries in the world, Ireland possesses the most varied and beautiful folk music". Donal O' Sullivan, in his "Irish Folk Music and Song", refers to the consensus of informed opinion on the beauty of Irish folk music and adds that in sheer abundance it is probably not surpassed by that of any nation of comparable area and population.

Irish folk music is a subject of widespread misapprehension. "I have heard," says Mr. O'Sullivan, "such pieces as 'Father O'Flynn', 'Phil the Fluter's Ball' and 'Galway Bay' described as Irish folk songs; but, whatever their merits, they are nothing of the kind . . . The people who created the great body of Irish traditional music and song were the men and women of Irish-speaking Ireland: of the whole of Ireland, from Antrim to Kerry and from Galway to the Irish Sea; for one cannot say, in surveying these riches, that any single province had the precedence over another. It is a heritage held in common."

Mr. O'Sullivan gives an account of the work of the great collectors of Ireland's folk music; Bunting, Hudson, Petrie, Forde, Pigot, Goodman and Joyce. He draws attention to the part played by Bunting, a Belfast Presbyterian, in the awakening of the national consciousness at the end of the eighteenth century and the beginning of the nineteenth. It was Bunting, who took down the melodies at the harpers' festival in Belfast in 1792, one of the promoters of which was Henry Joy, an uncle of the patriot of 1798, Henry Joy McCracken of the United Irishmen who was executed for his part in the insurrection of that year.

Though the harp is by no means peculiar to Ireland, it has been regarded from early mediaeval times as supremely the musical instrument of the Irish. The composers to whom identifiable tunes are attributed, however, are few in number and of comparatively late date. "But," says Mr. O'Sullivan, "when we come to Carolan, the last of the Irish harper-composers, the picture miraculously changes . . . Upwards of two hundred of his melodies have survived, together with the verses which he composed for many of them."

The Folk Songs

"The thousands of Irish song airs with Irish Gaelic titles are matched by an equally large body of folk poetry in that language", writes the author. "While Irish remained the spoken tongue of the majority of the people, they created for themselves a remarkable variety of popular poetry and music. Love songs naturally predominated, as they do in every country; but in addition there were lullabies, humorous songs, religious songs, laments, drinking songs, songs of occupation for most kinds of rural activity, such as ploughing, milking, spinning."

With the decline of Irish as a spoken tongue, folk songs were increasingly made in English, being for the most part sung to the native airs formerly associated with Irish words. "In general, these songs provide an astonishing contrast to their Irish counterparts", Mr. O'Sullivan observes. "The poetic fancy, choice diction and variety of theme which are such marked features of the songs in Irish—all these have disappeared, and the words are too often an ill match for the airs in terms of beauty . . . Patriotic themes appeared in these songs towards the end of the eighteenth century but in the main the topics of Anglo-Irish songs are largely ephemeral: local disasters, elopements, the departure of emigrants, purported confessions of men awaiting execution for murder, prize fights, in short, anything and everything that by reason of its humour, pathos or general interest would be likely to appeal to the popular fancy."

The oldest reference to dancing in Ireland seems to be a little song in the dialect of Southern England which dates from the period 1300-1350. This is the song which inspired 'I am of Ireland' by the Irish poet, W. B. Yeats:

Icham of irlaunde
ant of the holy londe of irlaunde.
gode sir pray ich ye for of saynte charite come ant daunce wyt me
in irlaunde.

The author distinguishes the various types of Irish dance measures and describes a village dance, with the costumes of the wearers, in the period before the great famine of the 1840's.

In his conclusion of the pamphlet, published for the Cultural Relations Committee of Ireland, Mr. O'Sullivan points to the present state of research into Ireland's musical heritage. "The amount of work to be done is immense."

Letter To The Editor

THINKS LINDSAY TO BLAME

Sir, I am wondering how much longer our police force are going to have to take slurs and insults on the Brant case. Everyone is sorry for any young man in his condition. But has the City of Peterborough to look after Lindsay citizens that cannot look after themselves? They knew this boy was not too bright, so they put him in on old people's home of all things, a young man of 24, so naturally he could not take it so he leaves. And after being housed in our jail and fed, he was let go. Surely the Salvation Officer in Lindsay visits old people's home? Why did they not do something there to not allow a man like that without clothes or shoes to get away? So our city and our Police Force are blasted all over Canada, even in the Halifax Herald. I think we have a very intelligent force and council. And I also think that the Policemen were ordered by the Magistrate where and when to take folks out of town. All my sympathy for the poor young man. But I think it is up to Lindsay to take him to their hospital and I am quite sure it is not to Peterborough he pays his poll tax. We have very little crime here and I think it a shame the way people are turning on our own men that won't know when they have a gun battle on their hands as other large cities. So let us think this over and see that the town that produced this man be blamed just a little. Sincerely one who appreciates our Cops and our Firemen.

Sincerely,
MRS. D.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon. Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment

Behold the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they? . . .

Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithall shall we be clothed? (For after all these things do the Gentiles seek:) for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things.

But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. Matt. 6, 24-26, 31-33.)

Drought Era Coming?

(Lethbridge Herald)

Western Canada is particularly favoured in having so many millions of acres of fertile soil. Properly tilled and conserved, it will produce a living for more people than any other resource. The fact that irrigation dams like the St. Mary and the proposed South Saskatchewan near Outlook hold the imagination of Canadians is evidence that our soil and food production stand high in the industrial scale. And if, as is suggested, a drought cycle is in the offing in North America, the value of our rivers for irrigation and hydro power will come more than ever to be considered high on the priority list of our natural resources.

Iran, World Bank Break Off Oil Row Talks

TEHRAN, March 17—(AP)—The World Bank's attempt to get oil flowing again to the West broke down Sunday night in a deadlock with Iran.

A mission headed by Hector Prudhomme, loan officer, will pay a farewell call on Premier Mossadegh this morning and return later this week to the United States.

Broadcasting on Tehran radio tonight, Ali Shayegan, a member of Iran's oil board, said: "Negotiations are now ended."

Can't Agree On Technicians

Shayegan said the government and the bank had failed to agree on the use of British technicians, the bank's position in operating the industry, and the price for the oil.

Mossadegh as refused to permit the return of any of the ousted British technicians of Anglo-Iranian Oil Co., whose properties in Iran were nationalized last year.

On the other hand, the bank has insisted it could not discriminate against technicians from any of its 50 member-countries.

Other reliable sources listed the deadlock points as: The price for which the bank would sell crude oil and refined products, the use of British technicians, and the amount and price of oil Iran would be permitted to sell.

Shayegan said "it is the duty of Iran to ignore the loss of oil income" and set its governmental finances in order.

Nizam Receives Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt

NEW DEHLI, March 17—(AP)—The fabulous Nizam of Hyderabad threw a tea party Sunday. Guests included Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Communist China's ambassador, Gen. Yuan Chung-hsieh.

Four hundred persons trooped through the elegant lawns of the Nizam's 100-room palace at Delhi. The shy potentate was making his first visit outside Hyderabad in 16 years. He came for meetings of India's princes.

Missing from the party were the 15 of his 70 wives who had accompanied him on the journey. They watched the festivities through a cloth screen at the far end of the garden.

As an orchestra played classical music the Nizam sat smoking cigarettes. He was surrounded by six of his daughters and four of his sons. The youngest present was a four-year-old son. The 65-year-old Nizam has a year-old son back home.

Talked About Reforms Pushed Through

By SIMON ALLAWERDI

DAMASCUS, March 17—(AP)—Syria's military dictatorship is quietly slashing red tape and pushing through reforms previous civil governments only talked about.

Since a sudden Army coup late last year, Syria has been ruled without a parliament, cabinet or president. An Army Colonel, Fawzi Selo, outwardly runs the country as "Chief of State."

He was named by Lt.-Col. Adib Shishekly, Chief of Staff of the Syrian Army. The self-effacing Shishekley is the Army strong man. He ran the coup last December.

In little more than two months of military government, Selo's one-man rule issued more than 110 executive decrees, covering everything from distribution of land to landless peasants to setting up free medicine for the poor.

Executive decrees restricted the wearing of Moslem and other religious habits—which may be a step toward separating the state from Islam—and revised the system of income and inheritance taxes.

Other decrees abolished titles, set up a new office for price controls, reformed a paralyzed state agricultural bank and lengthened by a year the term of public education.

Talk To Action

Past parliaments and cabinets have talked about some of these reforms, but never did anything. The parliaments always were dominated by the big landowners.

Shishekly dissolved the parliament and dismissed the cabinet. The Syrian president, Hashem El-Atassi, resigned.

To all indications, many of the reforms instituted under the army dictatorship have been well received. But reports have leaked out through tight censorship of dissatisfaction among some groups, particularly the Moslem brotherhood and student groups. There have been unconfirmed reports of violent demonstrations against the military regime.

Most important decree is one providing for distribution of State-owned land and public domain. The State owns about 2,300,000 of the total of 8,800,000 hectares of arable land in the country. (A rectare is 2.5 acres).

Informants say the new decree will permit the government to distribute about 3,000,000 hectares to about 50,000 peasant families.

Feudal landlords and tribal sheikhs oppose this land scheme. Selo charges them with unlawfully holding the major share of state-owned lands and in taking these lands away from them.

SURRENDERS SMILING — Edwin Alonzo Boyd, 38, alleged mastermind of a gang of bank robbers, was arrested in bed in Toronto Saturday after an all-night vigil by police. Boyd, smiling wryly as he is escorted by sergeant of detectives Adolphus Payne, left, and detective Jack Kenneth, right, gave up without a struggle. Two others believed in his gang, Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson, were captured by Montreal police. Suchan was wounded when he reached for a gun and Jackson was wounded in a furious gun battle with police. Jackson and Suchan are alleged to have shot sergeant of detectives Edmund Tong and detective Roy Perry before fleeing to Montreal.

Irish Plan Social Graces With Mrs. Shaw's Money

DUBLIN, March 17 — (AP — 'Twas a great day for the Irish when Mrs. George Bernard Shaw left $263,000 to teach them the social graces. They are flooding the executors with suggestions on how to do it.

So far, requests are docketed from the Irish Republic's two universities, public libraries, vocational education committees, a number of cultural bodies, singers, musicians, budding architects, painters, and a wide assortment of folk in the "crackpot" folder kept by the executors, the National City Bank of Dublin.

The actual money, incidentally, won't be in the hands of the bank for at least a year. But that isn't discouraging Irishmen with ideas.

The fund was set aside by Mrs. Shaw, who died in 1943, to teach her bearded husband's compatriots "self-control, elocution, deportment, the arts of personal contact and social intercourse."

According to a bank official, the letters flow in like the Shannon and the words are smooth as a flight of larks. The writers are all convinced they can set Irish feet back on the road marked out for them by the saints.

Three Ontario Scientists Win Scholarships

NEW YORK, March 17 (CP).—Four Canadians are among the 21 scientists named Scholars in Medical Science by the John and Mary R. Markle Foundation.

The four, who will carry on their work at Canadian universities, are:

John B. Armstrong, assistant professor in experimental medicine, University of Manitoba Faculty of Medicine and a graduate of University of Toronto. Grant to University of Manitoba.

Roger Guillemin, assistant professor in experimental medicine, University of Montreal Faculty of Medicine. Grant to University of Montreal.

James Donald Hatcher, instructor in medicine, Boston University School of Medicine and a graduate of University of Western Ontario. Grant to Queen's University.

Dr. A. Cameron Wallace, instructor in pathology, School of Medicine, Yale University, and graduate of University of Western Ontario. Grant to University of Western Ontario.

To Be Lecturer

Dr. Wallace of Woodstock will join the staff of the medical school on July 1 as a lecturer in medical research.

He graduated from Western in 1947 with his B.A. and in 1948 received his M.D. Dr. Wallace interned at Victoria Hospital from 1948 to 1949 and then went to the New Haven Hospital, New Haven, Conn. In 1951 he was appointed to Yale University.

Educated in Orillia and Woodstock, Dr. Wallace entered Western in 1939 and in 1941 left to join the R.C.A.F. He served overseas and was awarded the D.F.C.

Purpose of the Markle Foundation is to relieve "the shortage of medical teachers and investigators by providing academic security and financial assistance for faculty members early in their careers. Grants are made to the medical schools at the rate of $6,000 annually for five years, and are earmarked for support of a specific scholar."

Shelley's Ghost At Bedside Haunts Pair During Storms

SAN TERENZO, Italy, March 16—(AP)—This little fishing town where Percy Bysshe Shelley wrote his last poems is agog with stories that his ghost has come back to haunt the house where he lived.

Two elderly residents of the big, square seaside house where the poet lived with his wife, Mary Goodwin (the author of Frankenstein) say they have been awakened on stormy nights by his spectre at their bedside.

Shelley, the romanticist, drowned when his small boat was caught in a squall off the Ligurian coast here in 1822. His friend, Lord Bryon, had his body cremated. Byron always said Shelley's heart would not burn, and he saved it from the flames and placed it in an urn buried in the protestant cemetery at Rome.

The two who say they saw Shelley's ghost are Antonio Ratti, father-in-law of the French vice-consul at La Spezia, and Ida, his wife.

P.C.V.S. Cagers Defeated In the C.O.S.S.A. Finals By Tall Niagara Squads

By DON GRANT

WANTED—One senior collegiate basketball team, composed of at least six six-foot players fully experienced in passing, dribbling, shooting and especially scoring, a scholarship standing in school subjects desired, apply to any collegiate in the Bay of Quinte, Georgian Bay or Lake Ontario areas of C.O.S.S.A. before September. Yes, all collegiates in the three areas looked towards their junior and bantam teams Saturday to see what prospects they have for a senior team strong enough to beat Niagara Falls Collegiate. What they saw they didn't like.

Niagara Falls continued its domination in senior and junior C.O.S.S.A. basketball Saturday in such a way it was discouraging for the competition. They walloped P.C.V.S. Garnet and Grey seniors 97-36 in the final game and trimmed the Garnet and Grey juniors 72-34 in the junior finals.

Even before the tournament began the championships were practically handed to Niagara Falls. They lived up to the pre-game expectations, trouncing Orillia 67-39 without any effort in the senior semi-final and Barrie Collegiate 59-39 in the junior.

Best Of Others

Despite the dismal losses suffered by the Garnet and Grey, they were the best the other three areas of the C.O.S.S.A. could offer. If the other teams had played in the finals the scores would likely have exceeded the 100-mark.

Niagara Falls overwhelmed both Orillia and P.C.V.S. with superior height, better ball handling, and the hottest shooting pace seen in recent C.O.S.S.A. finals. Their checking was superb; often P.C.V.S. held the ball only for five and ten seconds, the ball then snatched out of their hands for quick breaks.

Niagara's height helped control the backboards and therefore the game. After P.C.V.S. missed a shot, the Falls players, usually Dick McKenzie and Howie Triano, picked the ball easily out of the air and started rushes.

Their persistent checking, rebounding and accurate shooting gave the Falls a 30-9 score at the quarter, 54-20 at the half and 78-25 at the three-quarter.

McKenzie, well-known to all senior collegiate teams, dropped in 31 points, mostly on layup shots after rebounds, while Triano, Ontario's best collegiate cager, dropped in 27 points from all angles.

Niagara's junior team was similar to their senior, experts in shooting, passing and rebounding. Although they didn't have too much height, they did have speed, with excellent ball-handling that paid off.

Jack Cullis' juniors fell behind at the start 17-7 when Niagara worked fast breaks from rebounds. From there the Falls quintet added for a 31-14 half-time score, ran it up to 51-21 at the three-quarter, finishing with a wide, open display for 21 points.

10 Good Boys

An important factor in the Falls' win was that they had 10 well - trained players while P.C.V.S. had only five to hold back the tide. Of these five only Griffin and Boorman were effective, Boorman rebounding well and also scoring 13 points. Griffin worked only fair for 12 points.

At the same time Niagara's sharpshooters inculded five players with more than 10 points each, Fisher with 13, Burleigh with 12, Triano and Clark 10 each. Burleigh and Badovinac, two guards, controlled the Falls' quintet.

A tall but inexperienced Belleville Collegiate senior quintet easily fell into P.C.V.S. hands in the senior semi-final. The Garnet and Grey were better shots, better rebounders and better playmakers in their easily-fashioned 49-26 victory. P.C.V.S. went up 13-10 at the quarter, further ahead 22-15 at the half and further again 36-23 at three-quarter.

Don Ash, with an effective 10-foot shot from the side and sometimes working on a fast break totalled 18 points to easily lead the scoring. Brian Young, driving in from the guard for layup shots, scored 10 points. Belleville's best was Page with 13.

The Belleville P.C.V.S. junior game was by far the best of either tourney for excitement. Both teams employed quick break tactics after snaring rebounds, and the score passed back and forth.

P.C.V.S., thanks to Dan Griffin, worked an 8-6 score at quarter. Then, in the eight-minute second quarter the lead changed hands four times, Belleville finally up 17-16 at half. The closeness continued for two minutes in the third, then the Bay of Quinte quintet took an eight-point lead and stayed ahead 33-28 at three-quarter. But the Garnet and Grey made short work of Belleville in the fourth and romped ahead for the win.

Griffin led the scoring with 15 points while Terry Roberts had 10. Belleville's Matthews, until fouled out, had totalled 17 points for the game's best.

Fourth Liners Hand Loss To Bailieboro

MILLBROOK, March 17 (ENS) —In a thrill-a-minute contest that 500 noisy fans tagged the best game of the season Fourth Line won a finalist's berth in the Millbrook - Cavan Rural League. Bailieboro made it a real contest all the way before going down by a 7-6 score. They took a first period two-goal lead and matched the Liners goal for goal in the second. Early in the third the Fourths tied it up only to have Bailieboro again go into a two-goal lead. The blue-sweatered crew then got three in a row to tuck away the odd game in the two-out-of-three series.

Referee Pete Nigh defused what might have developed into an explosive situation later by handing out a couple of early penalties to serve notice that he intended keeping things under control. Sidey got the first one for Bailieboro at the eight-minute mark to be followed three minutes later by Rowden. McDowell cut the lead early in the second but Rowden built the margin up to two at the 19:20 mark. Both teams had several scoring chances but Wilson and Hubbeard were performing like seasoned veterans in opposite nets. Early in the third McDowell, who had just scored against Virus X with an assist from penicilin, slapped in two goals from linemates Walling and Allan Hutchison. Lewis and Halligan got these back and it began to look like Bailieboro's evening. Walling then came into the scoring picture with a counter only to have Rowden restore the two goal margin. Walling then cuffed in two more with Allan Hutchison in on the second one, to make a new game of it.

Excitement rode high as both teams went all out after the winning marker. This came with about three minutes left when Allan Hutchison, who had worked like a Trojan all night, drilled one past Wilson from a face-off. Bailieboro threw all they had into a desperate last-minute effort to get an equalizer but an equally desparte band of Fourth Liners hung on to the slim margin until time ran out. Although it was a heartbreaker to lose the Bailieboro players demonstrated their sportsmanship by dropping into the Liners' dressing room to offer their congratulatinos. Four Line now tackle Mt. Pleasant in the finals wtih the first game tonight.

Togs Take Win By 31 to 22 In Cage Game

Peterborough's Towne Togs indicated with a 31-22 exhibition victory over the Toronto Lakeshores Saturday night that they will be a close match for Toronto Tops in the Southern Ontario semi-final intermediate "B" series this week.

The Tops recently ousted Lakeshores in Toronto's women's intermediate "B" play in a three-game series, winning the last 47-38. This was by the same margin as in the Togs' game Saturday.

Phil Macks' lasses move into the semi-final series on Wednesday night in Toronto against the Tops in a two-game points-to-count series. The return game will be Saturday at the Y.W.C.A.

The victor in the semi-finals will meet the winner of the St. Catharines-Stratford series for the Southern Ontario title. The final winner will travel to the Northern Ontario champions' site for the first all-Ontario championship series.

Good Opponents

The Lakeshores were the best opponents this season for the Towne Togs and showed them some improvements they can make before meeting the Tops.

The Lakeshores, a fast-breaking quintette, first showed the Togs that they will have to move back faster to set up their zone defence. Several times Saturday the Toronto girls were down the floor before the defence was up.

The Lakeshores also gave the Togs some difficulty with their defence. Toronto started off with a man-to-man defence which for a time bottled Togs under the basket, then later switched to a zone. From there they changed often back and forth.

Meanwhile Togs were not clicking the way they should. But even then they were better than Toronto. With their short passes they worked in close through the Toronto defence for baskets or scored on a quick break.

Joan Dunk breaking from the corner was fed passes to help her total 11 points, the team's top. Mabel Gillen, usually on fast breaks for layup shots, scored nine points.

Other outstanding Togs were Susan DeWarga and Pauline Stewart. DeWarga stood out defensively with her rebounding at both backboards while Stewart went well passing, checking and rebounding.

Lineups — Towne Togs (31): McIlhagga, Batley 4, Owen, Dunk 11, Raper, Stewart 5, Rumble, Gillen 9, Jackson, DeWarga 2.

Toronto (22): O. Shewchuk 3, Lee 2, Edwards 2, D. Shewchuk, George 6, Ilcie 4, Shewchuk 2, Feeley 2, Marchbank 1.

Canada's Olympic hockey champions, Edmonton Mercurys, arrived in London Saturday for a final exhibition series in Britain before returning home.

Lugging bags packed with trophies and souvenirs and clad in white Stetson hats, tartan scarves and fawn jackets, Mercurys attracted much attention as they stepped from the chartered plane that brought them from Zurich, Switzerland.

First game for the Canadians is tonight against the United States Olympic team for the Churchill Cup.

Ralph Kiner, slugging Pittsburgh outfielder, has signed a new one-year contract for an estimated $75,000, the Pirates announced Sunday in Oakland, Calif. The salary makes Kiner the highest paid player in the National League and third in baseball.

In Edinburgh, England trounced a Scottish team 19-3 Saturday in an International Rugby Union game on the Murrayfield ground before 65,000 fans. Scotland now has lost all four games in the international championship which includes England, Wales, Ireland and France and rests at the foot of the standings.

A record opening day crowd of 27,000 bet more than $1,000,000 in near-freezing weather Saturday as Lincoln (R.I.) Downs began a 30-day spring meeting.

Gordon Cowan, Vancouver, and Anita Gathe, who recently moved to Vancouver from Zurich, Switzerland, captured the Canadian ski championships on Vancouver's Grouse Mountain Saturday.

Catcher Yogi Berra of New York Yankees sprained a ligament and ruptured a blood vessel in his left foot Saturday in an exhibition baseball game against Brooklyn Dodgers in Miami, Fla. Doctors said he should return to duty in a week or 10 days.

The Damon Runyan Cancer Fund will get about $15,000 out of the Sugar Ray Robinson-Bob Olson middleweight championship fight, which grossed more than $63,000 Thursday night in San Francisco. Expenses and taxes took three-quarters of the gate receipts.

In Manchester, England, steeplechase jockey A. P. Kelly earned his pay the hard way on Saturday. Kelly's first horse crashed at the last hurdle. Kelly came back in an ambulance. The doctor said "nothing serious." In the feature race, Kelly's horse fell two fences from home. Kelly came back in an ambulance. Doctor: "Minor abrasions." The fee for losing a ride is seven guineas. Kelly had no other mounts.

Lucien Laferte, Canadian ski jumping champion from Three Rivers, Que., who distinguished himself as a member of the Canadian Olympic ski team this year in Oslo when he bowed to the crowd after a bad spill, broke his left arm Saturday while practising on Vancouver's Grouse Mountain. He will be unable to defend his title, which he also won in 1949.

September Air, a 12-year-old steeplechaser, won a 2½ mile race at London's Sandown Park race track Saturday and dropped dead a few yards beyond the winning post.

Kingston-Petes Series To Start Wednesday

Due to Kingston failing to adhere to the group ruling of starting the final series two days after the semi-finals ended, this series will not start until Wednesday. Tonight's scheduled game at the Civic Arena has been called off, Kingston having arranged an exhibition tilt with Cornwall.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Comes the 17th again but a sad day for the McGillis Irishers—who have been dealt with harshly by the heathen O.H.A. However, the McEllis Irishmen are still very much in the hockey picture in the County Peterborough, and the welcome mat is out at Civic Arena for their followers, be they Irish, Scots, English or what have you. They're inviting you to drop around and see 'em en route to a provincial title. There's Dugan and Garvey and Collins—though Horton is sidelined with a bum knee—the O'Leonards, McWest and all the rest. Faith and they deserve support from here in, and all local puck fans— be they Eagles' followers or Petes' supporters during the regular schedule—should rally 'round now and root the Peterborough pucksters home.

* * * * * *

In Toronto Saturday aft, the O.H.A. sub-committee checked into Belleville Hawks' protest on the Petes using several junior players recently. Jim Ellis and Baz Phelan represented the local club at the session. The O.H.A. tossed out the protest, saying that the Petes had sponsored a junior hockey team here for a great many years and finally had given their junior franchise in 1945 to the Oddfellows. With the Oddfellows out of contention now, they felt that the Petes were entitled to bring some of them up to senior "B" ranks. It was admitted that Hawks had a point, but the Petes had acted in good faith by getting the okay on the juniors' use from Frank Buckland of the O.H.A. As we see it, Belleville didn't have a snowball's chance of beating the Petes, anyway, after losing that semi-final series in four straight with the Petes using some juniors.

K's Pull The Old Stall

At a recent group meeting on playoffs, it was decided to start finals two days after the semi-finals were over. But Kingston has thrown a monkey-wrench into things now by arranging an exhibition game tonight with Cornwall. Said they had the okay of Prexy Jack Roxburgh of the O.H.A., sort of to make up for the game they didn't play at home last Wednesday with Eagles. A fine business, eh. It throws Civic Arena out of a playoff game this week. Anyway, the setup now calls for the best-of-seven group finals to open here this Wednesday eve with the Petes back at Kingston on Saturday. Games next week are Monday, Wednesday and Friday. O.H.A. is taking a cut of these group playoffs now, and referees get five bucks more for each tilt. The group winner hits into provincial semi-finals, and the losers hang 'em up for this semester.

'Twas glare ice on the lakes to the north of us o'er the weekend, and a lot of folks enjoyed an oldtime skating party on the inviting wide expanses. Yeah, we jolted the jalopy over the rough stretch above Burleigh and slithered about on 18 inches of frozen water atop Mink Lake. It's a nice little body of water in the summer, though we've never seen a mink around it yet. Mudcats, though, and the odd noisy loon which flies over from nearby Loon Lake—or Chandos Lake as strangers in the district call it. Some five miles east of Apsley it is.

* * * * * *

Some Tin-Can Hockey

Anyway, with some good friends we had a dandy outing. Bright, sun glittered on the large surface—certainly large and open after being holed up all winter in covered arenas. Away the girls would go skating half a mile or so up past empty summer cottages and swing around and let the wind whisk 'em back. With improvised hockey sticks from a nearby woodpile some of us played tin-can hockey and laughed off many a fanny fall. (Didn't laugh so much next day, though, as aching muscles protested.) Outdoor skating in daylight or by moonlight is great stuff but one doesn't often get the right combination of cold, clear weather and glare ice on the lakes. When it comes up right, don't ever pass up the opportunity, folks.

After reaching C.O.S.S.A. cage finals in Toronto on Saturday, P.C.V.S. senior and junior boys' teams came a cropper before the tall and classy Niagara Falls crews. The Cataract hoopsters swept the finals handily, an old habit they have. The Falls junior girls also won out over Trenton. Collingwood took the senior "B" title 'gainst Belleville, as Ridgeway-Crystal Beach won in junior "B". Beamsville beat Port Perry for the girls' senior crown. Tourney had 250 players from a wide area in the 18-game tourney, held in three gyms. A lasses' exhibition here saw Towne Togs trim Toronto Lakeshores 31-22, preparatory to going into L.O.B.A. intermediate "B" semi-finals this week.

Mercurys Score Convincing Win Subdue Stratford By 6-3

By The Canadian Press.

Owen Sound Mercurys scored a convincing 6-3 victory over Stratford Indians at home Saturday night to even their best-of-seven games in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A final series at 1-1.

The Indians took the Friday opener 4-1.

Saturday afternoon in Maple Leaf Gardens, St. Catharines Teepees made no mistake about their opening O.H.A. Junior A semi-final with Toronto St. Michael's as they humbled the Collegians 6-2.

St. Mike's and Teepees meet tonight at St. Catharines in the second game of the playoffs for the right to move into a final against survivors of the best-of-seven Toronto Marlboros-Guelph Biltmores series. It is deadlocked at two games each on the strength of Marlies' 7-3 Sunday victory before 13 702 Maple Leaf Gardens fans.

Lead Attack

Centre Wally Maxwell and winger Earl Balfour led the Marlboro attack with two goals each while Ron Ingram, Don Peart and Gus Kamys scored the rest. Guelph snipers were Chuck Henderson, Ron Murphy and Aldo Guidolin.

Buddy Boone paced the St. Catharines attack with a pair of markers, Willy Haas, Bill Young, Gord Myles and Chuck Marshall banging in the others. Bruce Wallace garnered both St. Michael's goals.

Buck Forslund and Bill McComb notched two goals apiece in Owen Sound's victory, Andy Grant and Tommy Burlington clicking for the others. Mickey Roth got two for the Indians while Denny Flanagan grabbed the remaining counter.

Eastern Stars Take Five Open Titles

By AL VICKERY.

WINNIPEG, March 17 (CP)— Eastern Canada shuttle stars, led by Don Smythe of Toronto, captured all five open titles at the Canadian badminton championships which wound up here Saturday.

Smythe defeated defending champion Darryl Thompson of Vancouver for the men's singles crown and shared the men's doubles with Bud Porter of Toronto. Porter combined with Edith Marshall of Toronto to take the mixed doubles.

Two other Toronto players, Barbara Ince and Joan Warren, won the women's doubles title. Marje Mapp of Montreal stopped the tournament from being an all-Toronto rout by winning the women's singles.

The four-day meet produced a series of upsets and two players were sidelined by leg injuries.

Gained Revenge

Smythe, runner-up in last year's meet at Quebec City, gained revenge as he bombarded Thompson with every shot in the book. He took the first game 15-4, dropped the second 12-15, then fought back from a 4-10 deficit to win the final game 15-14.

Thompson elected to set one point to decide the game. The count was tied 14-14 and he could have set three. Afterwards he said he stook just as good a chance with setting the single point.

Smythe served. When Thompson returned, the diminutive Torontonian smashed a cross-court drive into the clear for the winning point.

Miss Mapp won her second Dominion singles title by defeating top-seeded Marge Shedd of Toronto. She came from behind an 11-0 drubbing, winning the next two games 11-6, 11-7.

Miss Shedd took the first game on three serves, running six points on the first, three on the second and two on the third. She looked like a runaway winner but clearly was outplayed in the two last games of the match.

Pair To Beat

Smythe and Porter were named the pair to beat in the men's doubles after defending champions Gordon Simpson of Montreal and Dick Birch of Toronto were forced to withdraw. Both Simpson and Birch suffered leg injuries in other events.

But the Smythe-Porter combination had to fight all the way against Ken Forsythe of Winnipeg and Al Williams of Calgary. Forsythe and Williams won the first game 18-17. Smythe and Porter had no difficulty winning the second 15-5 but went to extra points in taking the third 18-16.

Ince and Warren were red-hot in winning the women's doubles from defending champions Jean Bardsley and Lois Reid of Vancouver.

The eastern duo scored four straight points to even the count 14-14 in the third game of the match after the defending champions blew an early 11-5 lead and needed only one point to win when in front 14-10 with two serves. Ince and Warren won the match 17-16 after winning 18-16 in the second but dropped the first 15-12 to the western team.

Henry Defeated

Porter and Miss Marshall hammered back everything in sight in defeating Noreen Cossar and Grant Henry for the mixed doubles crown. The new champions won the first game 15-11, dropped the second 15-9, and sewed up the title with a strong 15-7 win in the third.

Ontario won the interprovincial championship and the Manitoba trophy with a total of 23 points. British Columbia, winner last year, was second and Quebec third.

The junior singles title also went east. Jean Dunkeld of Montreal won the women's event and Jim Carnwath of Toronto captured the men's.

Peewee Hawks Win

Hawks beat the shorthanded Canadiens 11-1 Friday to move into the peewee hockey finals. Haig, Brown, Hendry, Patterson and Wood stood out for the winners, with Bell, Beavis and Garvey best of the losers. The latter got their only goal as Wood and Hendry were robbed on fine efforts. Hawks' marksmen were Haig with four, Brown, Casey and Kinlin two each and Patterson one. Hendry and Haig had two assists each as Casey, Wood and Kimball each helped once.

Hawks: Smillie, Patterson, Hendry, Haig, Brown, Kimball, Nicholls, Copping, Moffat, Woods, Olmstead, Casey, Kinlin, Burns, Morton, Tedford.

Canediens: Bell, Innes, Beavis, Fitzgerald, McCarthy, Garvey, Guerin, Fowler.

Referees—D. Clapper and J. Kimball.

An Athlete's Prayer

Help me to play the game, dear Lord,
With all my might and main;
Grant me the courage born of right,
A heart to stand the strain....
Send me a sense of humor, Lord,
To laugh when victory's mine,
To laugh, if I should meet defeat,
Without a fret or whine....
Give me the grace to follow rules,
To 'fess up when I'm wrong,
When silence or the other thing
Wins plaudits from the throng....
When foes are tough and fighting fierce,
And I am getting weak,
Dear God, don't ever let me show
A broad, bright, yellow streak....
And teach me, Lord, life's game to paly,
Just one day at a time;
With Thee as coach and trainer, Lord,
Real victory must be mine.

Hermann Signs For Bout With Watson

What should be one the outstanding wrestling matches of the season goes Tuesday night at the Brock. The British Empire champion Whipper Billy Watson meets up with the strutting, arrogant German, Hans Hermann.

The haughty Hans is well-known for his illegal tactics and his anything-goes style of grappling, plus his famous Prussian Squeeze hold. Watson will have to be at his best to take Hermann's measure, but he is the one grappler than can do it.

It shapes up a rugged contest and a record-breaking crowd is predicted when this pair enter the ring for the main event.

Fred Atkins, noted for his boring-in style, takes on big Bill Stack in the semi-final. There is never an idle moment when Atkins is in action and the big Australian has been in several of the best bouts turned in at the Brock.

Irish Tom Collins and Bob Wagner are in the opening match.

Buller Ranks High For Rookie Honors

NEW YORK, March 17—(AP)— The scramble for rookie-of-the-year honors in the National Hockey League continues into the final week of the season with Hy Buller, New York Rangers' defenceman, stacked against a glittering array of freshmen who have pushed the Montreal Canadiens into second place.

At least three Montrealers—Boom Boom Geoffrion, digging Dickie Moore and Paul Meger—have been rated well above the rookie field in various quarters, but Chicago coach Ebbie Goodfellow said today the Calder Trophy should go to Buller, a Montreal boy, if the Rangers achieve a play-off spot.

"If they get in," said Goodfellow, "it's Buller who got them there."

Goodfellow's top choice among the Candiens is scrappy, two-way Meger, who has 23 goals, six fewer than his colleague on the right wing, Geoffrion.

"I have a lot of respect for Geoffrion's shotmaking," said Goodfellow, "but sometimes he strikes me as being a little lazy. He does not push himself too hard."

Critics of Buller's candidacy point out that no defenceman has ever won the trophy and the $1,000 which the N.H.L. awards as a bonus. But Frank Boucher, Ranger manager, ridicules this argument.

"If Buller wins," sys Boucher, "it will cost the Rangers as well as the N.H.L. a $1,000 bonus. But I think he rates it. He is as good a defenceman as there is in the League.

"You have to judge a player by his merits, no matter where he plays. And I don't have to tell you how much Buller has meant to us."

Only three Ranger forwards have outscored Buller, whose 35 points have already tied the Club record for a defenceman, set originally by Ott Heller in 1943-44. And his 12 goals are one short of another Club record for a backliner.

Buller, a mature rookie who reached his 26th birthday today was buried for eight seasons in the American Hockey League, a mystery Boucher will never understand.

"On power plays," Boucher says "he's the best defenceman the Rangers have ever had."

Feuding Ended Robinson Says

By JACK HAND.

MIAMI, Fla., March 17 (AP)— Jackie Robinson is going to mind his own business this year. No more feuding with Leo Durocher —maybe.

"I'm going to mind my own 25 cents worth, except when I'm concerned," he said. Then he added with a grin, "at least I'm going to try to stay out."

Although there never was any love lost between the pair, Robinson was one of the first Brooklyn players to hustle into the New York Giants' clubhouse with congratulations to Leo on his pennant win last fall.

Robinson may have trouble deciding where his own business ends and other people's troubles start. Personalities have a way of wedding into any Giant-Dodger battle. It usually winds up with a sulphuric exchange between Jackie and Leo.

"I don't think the Giants can get that same kind of pitching again" said Robinson. "Especially from Sal Maglie. You hear a lot about how old the Dodgers are getting. How about the Giants?

"A lot of people said we'd come down here meek and beaten after what happened last summer. I think we have more incentive to win than ever before. We have a big responsibility to a lot of fans who suffered when we lost."

Bruins Score Weekend Wins Near Playoff Spot, Leafs Turn Back Rangers

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs are noted around the National Hockey League for their ability to come through with a victory when the chips are down. During the weekend, Boston Bruins climbed aboard their bandwagon. While third-place Leafs tudned back New York Rangers 5-2 Saturday and 4-2 Sunday, the Bruins stayed in line with 2-0 and 2-1 triumphs over Montreal Canadiens. The combination of victories all but eliminated the fifth-place New Yorkers from the four-team Stanley Cup playoffs and at the same time moved Toronto within one point of the second-place Canadiens.

In the week-end's two other clashes, Detroit Red Wings—who have already clinched their fourth consecutive N.H.L. title—drubbed the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks 6-1 at Detroit Saturday and 4-0 Sunday afternoon, which gave the fourth-place Bruins a five-point lead over the Rangers. With only three games remaining in the 70-game schedule, the Bruins could clinch a playoff berth by winning Tuesday at home against Chicago.

In picking up those four important points the Leafs considerably brightened their prospects of moving into second place. They meet the Canadiens Wednesday in Toronto in a game that could well be the key to the whole playoff picture.

A win would give them a one-point lead on the Habs.

Leads Attack

Ieft-winger Sid Smith led the Leaf attack Saturday with three goals while Tod Sloan and Howie Meeker added the others. Ed Slowinski and Don Raleigh notched the New York markers.

Sunday at New York, the Rangers took a 2-0 first period lead on a pair of goals by Wally Hergesheimer, only to have the Leafs roar back with two each in both final stanzas. Danny Lewicki, Sid Smith, Ted Kennedy and Cal Ed Sandford and veteran Milt Gardner were the Toronto scorers. Schmidt supplied the Bruins with their 2-0 edge Saturday at Montreal. Sugar Jim Henry turned aside 32 shots in chalking up his shutout.

Paul Meger gave the Habs a temporary 1-0 Sunday lead at Boston, but second period goals by Dave Creighton and Real Chevrefils scored 16 seconds apart provided the Bruins with their necessary edge.

Red Kelly, Marty Pavelich and Ted Lindsay each scored a pair of goals Saturday while George Gee garnered Chicago's lone tally.

12th Shutout

Terry Sawchuk came up with his 12th shutout of the season on Sunday with Ted Lindsay clicking again for two goals. Alex Delvecchio and Metro Prystai countered the others.

Probably the brightest touch of the weekend was provided Saturday night at Toronto when referee George Gravel and linesmen Frank Udvari and Jack Mehlenbacher appeared to officiate the Ranger-Leaf game in bright orange sweaters. The color eliminated any confusion between the officials and Toronto's white home uniforms.

Hornets, Bears Head Divisions At Schedule End

By The Canadian Press.

The American Hockey League wound up its 1951-52 schedule during the weekend with Pittsburgh Hornets heading the western division and Hershey Bears the eastern section.

Hershey dropped a 4-3 decision to Providence Reds Sunday and Pittsburgh went down 2-1 before Cincinnati Mohawks. But both leaders had amassed enough points to stand last-minute losser.

In other Sunday games, Indianapolis Capitals shaded Cleveland Barons 5-4 and Buffalo Bisons outscored St. Louis Flyers 8-7.

At Cincinnati, the victory enabled the Mohawks to finish in third place in the western division and they will meet Buffalo in the first round of the playoffs starting Tuesday.

Pittsburgh meets Hershey, in another playoff series.

Veteran goalie Paul Bibeault had a shutout for Cincinnati until less than three minutes remained. Bob Solinger's goal on a rebound shot then gave the Hornets their only tally.

Last-minute Save

At Providence, a pair of goals by Barry Sullivan in the final 53 seconds gave Providence their victory over Hershey.

Pete Kapusta and Kenny Smith scored the other Providence goals. Adam Brown, Jerry Brown and Frank Mario scored for Hershey.

At Indianapolis, Lou Jankowski scored three goals to pace the Caps to their first win over the Barons in eight games this season. The loss was only the second for the Barons in their last 25 games.

Cleveland finished second in the western division behind Pittsburgh and will meet Providence, runner-up in the eastern division, in the playoffs starting at Cleveland Thursday.

At Buffalo, Vern Kaiser and Lorne Davis each scored three goals as Buffalo edged St. Louis 8-7.

In Saturday's games, St. Louis defeated Syracuse 7-5, Pittsburgh downed Hershey 6-4 and Cleveland bested Indianapolis 7-3.

Television Eye Joins Fight Against Cancer

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., March 17—(AP)—Television's eye has joined the search to win control over leukemia, cancer of the blood.

A TV microscope is being used to study blood cells, living and dead, in leukemia research at the Bureau of Biological Research at Rutgers University.

The magnifying microscope is trained upon the cells. The TV camera looks into the microscope and throws the magnified image upon a seven-inch TV screen. The microscope can magnify cells 12,000 times. It is usually used practically at 1,000 times.

A main advantage is that only a minimum of light has to be used to illuminate the cells. That means less heat, which frequently may kill living cells while they're being examined.

In leukemia, there are too many white cells in the blood. The disease comes in twom ain forms, acute or rapid, and chronic or longer lasting. As yet, there's no cure for either form, though x-rays and some drugs can slow the disease or bring temporary improvement.

Dr. Charles F. Church research specialist at the Bureau, began the leukemia studies several years ago.

The TV-microscope has become one of the useful new tools in looking for clues to the cause or control of the disease. It is being used in industry as an eye to watch industrial processes, and now is spreading into some lines of medical research.

Part of the study here is of tiny bodies, called mito-chrondria, found inside cells.

Cells can be studied alive or dead, with or without use of dyes that stain parts of the cells and make them more easily visible.

TV Camera Shows Hospital Operation

PHILADELPHIA, March 17 — (AP)—The television camera entered the privacy of a hospital operating room Sunday and TV viewers saw and heard how the surgeon works.

The telecast by station WPTZ viewed by an estimated 100,000 in the Philadelphia area, is believed to be the first hospital operation ever seen by the general public over TV.

The scene was the University of Pennsylvania hospital. The operation started two hours before the TV program began.

Actually only 10 minutes of the operation was televised. It showed the operating room staff completing the surgery on the unidentified patient who had an ulcer.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead, every night for one week take two Carter's Little Liver Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then nothing! Every day drink eight glasses of water; set a definite time for regularity. This plan was proven in scientifically controlled tests.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's unblock the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers. Further, Carter's contain no habit forming drugs. Break the laxative habit with Carter's . . . be regular naturally.

When worry, overwork, overeating make you irregular temporarily—take Carter's temporarily. Never get the laxative habit.

Get mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drug store. Only 35c. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

Seeking To Tap Steam In Underground

By R. A. KENNER

AUCKLAND, N.Z., March 17—(Reuters)—Power-short New Zealand is turning to underground sources for more power to drive her expanding industry.

In the heart of New Zealand's north island, 220 miles southeast of Auckland, attempts are being made to harness the power beneath the nightmarish landscape of mud pools, geysers and volcanoes.

Using steam from the subterranean depths, scientists have scored a small-scale success which is thought to point the way to future large-scale power development.

The scientists have put into operation a small generating plant, developing enough electric power to supply the needs of the Spa Hotel at Taupo, near the Devil's Trumpet Blowhole in the heart of the Hot Lake district.

One of the principal consultants on the pilot project was Prof. Olaf B. Bergelin of the University of Delaware. An expert in the use of steam for industrial purposes, designed an apparatus to "dry" the natural steam by removing water from it.

By using Bergelin's device, scientists were able to obtain 94 per cent dry steam at a pressure of 60 pounds, from a four-inch bore hole 230 feet deep.

This steam drives a small engine which operates a generator giving 2½ kilowatts of electric power.

New Pilot Plant

After seeing this small installation in operation, Works Minister W. Stanley Goosman announced plans for construction of a larger pilot plant. It will use bore holes sunk as deep as 3,000 feet.

Goosman said Bergelin's success in drying the natural steam had removed the chief obstacle to large-scale development. "Tests so far have been very successful," Goosman said, "and this phase of the work will be pushed ahead."

Goosman said test borings would be made at various points in the Hot Lake district, to detect variations in steam pressure and content. One of the most important tests, he said, would be made at Kerapiti, largest of the natural blowholes. The Kerapiti blowhole is believed to emit dry steam ideal for direct use in turbines.

Request Commission Investigate Pollution

TORONTO, March 17—(CP)—The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters decided Saturday to ask the Ontario government for a Royal Commission to investigate pollution of lakes and streams in the province. Earlier in the federation's annual meeting president Kenneth Clark, of Kingston, termed "weak laws and politics" the main allies of pollution.

The federation resolved to ask also for vigorous action to preserve more wilderness area. Delegates were not in favor of an open season on moose except in the area north of the Northern Canadian National Railways line.

Scientists Produce Plasma Substitute

NEW YORK, March 17—(CP)—After 10 years of research, medical scientists have produced from the red cells of human blood what it considered a subsitute for blood plasma, The New York Times says today.

The product, known as modified human globin, is expected to provide twice as much material from each pint of blood as now is obtained in the form of plasma.

The Times says more than 5,000 cases in which humans were fed the globin intravenously for nutritional purposes have been studied.

KINGSTON, March 17 (CP) — Charles Green was burned to death in his wood-and-tarpaper shack in "Happy Hollow" Sunday. His wife, Violet, who lived in a shack a few feet away, was unable to rescue the 57-year-old man.

SEES FLAMING CURTAINS

A neighbor saw some flaming curtains at the home of William J. Brooke Saturday night and he turned in the fire alarm. Firemen used a booster line and handpump to put out the blaze. A chesterfield chair was badly damaged and part of the floor. The walls and interior were smoked up. Total damage is estimated at $100.

GIVEN COUNTY POST

Fire Chief George Smith has been made District Deputy Fire Marshal for Peterborough County. The badge of office was given him at the last meeting of the fire, water and light committee by Martin Hurst, assistant deputy fire marshal. It is the first step toward an inter-county hookup that would provide covering fire protection to all municipalities in case of enemy action in war or a disastrous fire. Chief Smith's job is to be a co-ordinator. At present the only mutual aid agreements are with Smith township and Lakefield village.

BROTHER OF SGT. PAYNE

Stanley G. Payne, purchasing agent of the Western Clock Co., confirmed today reports of some of his friends identifying as his brother Sergeant of Detectives Adolphus Payne of the Toronto Police department. Sgt. Payne and Detective Kenneth Craven have been given full credit for the capture of Edwin A. Boyd in the final chapter of the exciting story of the round up of Boyd, Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson for the shooting of Sergeants Edmund Tong and Roy Perry.

RECOVERED LOOT is examined by Plainclothes Constable Douglas Farthing as he checks a pile of tires which Fred Lustic, 37, 313 Louis St., confessed to stealing from Duffus Motors, between January 1 and March 15. Today, Lustic pleaded guilty to stealing the tires and also to taking a truck from the company's property Saturday. He was sentenced to two months in jail.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Pleads Guilty Man Jailed For Tire Theft

After Fred Lustic, 37, 313 Louis St., pleaded guilty to two theft charges in police court today, Major Harry Everitt of the Salvation Army urged Magistrate W. R. Philp to be lenient in passing sentence.

"He is a sick man and has a heart condition," said Major Everitt. He has been drinking, but has stayed out of trouble for 17 years. He has a wife and three children and I ask you to be as lenient as you can."

Magistrate W. R. Philp then sentenced Lustic to two concurrent sentences of two months in jail on each charge.

Lustic pleaded guilty to taking a truck belonging to Duffus Motors on Saturday, without the consent of the owner. He also pleaded guilty to stealing a dozen tires between January 1 and March 15 from the same company, when he was arrested.

Detective Sergeant William A. Clarke testified that Lustic had been drinking when he was picked up Saturday night but on Sunday morning, he admitted taking the truck and several tires. Detective Clarke said Lustic also told him where the tires could be recovered, and eight had been recovered so far.

Crown attorney John A. Bradshaw said that Lustic had no record for 17 years, and that he was a pensioner unable to work at most jobs. He has been under a doctor's care and it has been arranged for him to go to Kingston hospital, Mr. Bradshaw said.

Magistrate Philp said that the jail sentence would not interfere with Lustic receiving medical assistance, as it could be arranged for him to go to Kingston through the jail physician.

St. Patrick A Greek

Patrons of the Churchill Restaurant, 394 George St., were left in no doubt that this is St. Patrick's Day. An eye-catching paddy green was the motif. Customers were served green porridge, green water, green pudding and—for those who might be a bit bilious after intemperate weekend celebrating —green bromo-seltzer.

Cotton Trophy Returns To City

C.G.E. works bowlers brought the R. S. Cotton trophy back to Peterborough Saturday after an absence of one year. In the annual tournament between the Toronto Davenport-Royce Works teams and Peterborough, the local C.G.E. teams won by 999 pins.

Last year the Toronto Works teams took the trophy to Toronto for the first time in four years.

On Saturday via a special train the Peterborough teams invaded Toronto. The locals were defeated by 444 pins but on the strength of their 1,443-pin margin in the tournament a week ago at the Duffus alleys, Peterborough won by 999 pins.

The annual tournament, operated for the past 25 years, ended on Saturday night with the banquet. There the Peterborough teams were congratulated by works manager, J. E. Girven, president of the Davenport Works bowlers, James Roberton and president of the Peterborough Works bowling, James Wilson.

Rigid Investigation Made On Immigrants

OTTAWA, March 17 (CP). — A rigid investigation is being made on European immigrants to ensure that the virus of foot-and-mouth disease is not brought into Canada, the agriculture department said today.

Canadian visas are not being issued in Europe to emigrant farmers or laborers who have been in infected or quarantined areas during the previous 72 days. An exception is the Netherlands, where the government has agreed to undertake disinfection procedures satisfactory to Canadian authorities.

Since the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan, the effects of all immigrants from infected or quarantined areas of Europe have been disinfected. This procedure will continue "until adequate assurance can be given that all immigrants come from disease-free areas or have been disinfected before leaving Europe."

Winnie Leuszler Plans Channel Swim

TORONTO, March 17 (CP). — Mrs. Winnie Roach Leuszler, who last year became the first Canadian to swim the English Channel, hopes to try again this year.

The 25-year-old mother of three already has begun training for the test. Last year she finished the 21-mile race in 13 hours 25 minutes, to gain seventh place in a field of 20 of the world's foremost long-distance swimmers.

She was the first Canadian to swim the Channel, and accomplished it on her first attempt.

Ten People Injured In Accident

Six From City In Crash At Gananoque Limits

Four Peterborough residents are in Kingston General Hospital after a head-on car crash Friday night in Gananoque. Altogether 10 people were injured, six of them from Peterborough.

Hospitalized are:

James Hopcroft, 24, of 129 Dublin St., three broken ribs and severe body bruises. Hopcroft was driving the car containing the six Peterborough people.

Mrs. Ethel Hopcroft, 23, wife of the driver, a broken rib, a 30-stitch cut on the forehead, cuts on the arms and legs, body bruises and two black eyes.

Mrs. Hilda Moffatt, 35, of 319 Simcoe St., a leg broken in two places, cuts and bruises.

And her 19-year-old son, Bob, a slight fracture of the skull, body bruises and black eyes.

Two other passengers in the Hopcroft car received cuts and bruises but did not require hospital treatment. They were Nathan Stabler, 71, of 319 Simcoe St., and Pearl Carter, 25, of Antrim St.

Going To Brockville

They were on their way to visit Mrs. Bob Carter of Brockville when the accident occurred. The crash was at 10:30 p.m. Friday and left the two cars a mass of twisted wreckage.

"I wouldn't give five dollars for what's left of those cars," was the comment of Chief Constable E. L. Lancaster of Gananoque. He added that it was the worst accident he had seen in years.

A charge of dangerous driving has been laid against James McMahon of Odessa. He, too, is in hospital with serious head injuries. His wife, Helen, has cuts and bruises and so has their daughter Marie.

A third passenger in the McMahon car was Kay Heasley of Kingston. She too has head injuries.

McMahon and Miss Heasley are the two most seriously hurt.

Near Boundary

McMahon was driving west and and Hopchoft east when the two vehicles collided with terrific force. The crash was on King St., Gananoque, 400 feet east of the west boundary of the city.

The injured were given first aid by Dr. J. C. Jenkins of Gananoque and then taken to hospital in two ambulances and two taxis. They were admitted to hospital early Saturday morning.

Metal Explosion Burns Worker

MARMORA, March 17—(ENS) —A charge of molten silver in a reduction furnace of the Deloro Mining and Smelting Company exploded on Saturday morning and burned the face and shoulders of operator Fred Izzard.

Suffering facial injuries and shock, he was immediately taken to the surgery of Dr. H. G. Parkin of Marmora for treatment and later removed to Belleville General Hospital. Shortly after admission Mr. Izzard's condition was said to be "most serious," but by Sunday he was said to have shown slight improvement.

On Thursday at the same plant Alphonse Clemens received slight injury to his left knee after falling down the office stairs. He is reported to be making good progress and he is expected to return to his regular duties within a few days.

Small Baby Suffers Fractured Skull

BRIDGENORTH, (ENS) March 17—Five-month-old Donna Barnard who rolled off a table, before her mother could catch her, is recovering from a slight skull fracture in Civic Hospital.

"She was lying on the table on her stomach," Donna's mother, Mrs. Charles Bernard said today. "She had never turned over before, and it happened so quickly, I couldn't grab her, although I was standing right beside the table."

Although the baby cried lustily, she did not show any signs of being injured, Mrs. Bernard said, but she immediately called a doctor. Mrs. Bernard said the doctor examined Donna and told her what symptoms to watch for, in case the fall had injured her head.

Saturday, a bump appeared on the baby's head, and on advice of Dr. Donald Clark, the baby was taken to hospital.

Dr. Clark said today the baby's condition is satisfactory and that the skull fracture is only slight.

Home Is Best

FREDERICTON —(CP)—Necessity of making every effort to keep homes intact was stressed at a meeting of the Child Welfare Institute here. Dr. F. F. McGrand, Provincial Health Minister, said it was better socially and economically to keep children in their own homes wherever possible.

LARGEST DONATION to the Fred Brant Fund so far was the $100 presented today by Donald A. McGillis to Major Harry Everitt of the Salvation Army. Major Everitt is shown Above, receiving the money. The donation brought the fund total to $155. The Fred Brant Fund was established last Thursday by The Examiner. Major Everitt will administer it.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Oldest Resident Of Smith Thomas Milburn, 96, Dies

The oldest resident of Smith township, Thomas T. Milburn, 96, died today at his residence, lot 9, concession 6. Born in Smith township, son of the late Thomas T. Milburn and Eunice Hutchinson, Mr. Milburn has been a farmer there all his life. He was a member of Lakefield United Church and following service as an active elder of that church for many years, he was made an honorary elder.

Mr. Milburn was a descendant in the third generation of one of the pioneer families of Peterborough county. His great grandfather, Thomas W. Milburn, was one of the company of settlers from England who made their way into Smith township in 1818, shortly after its survey was completed in that year.

Scott Year Later

In the following year Adam Scott arrived at the present site of the city of Peterborough with a party of men from Port Hope who were looking for a prospective mill site. Poole's history of the county says that Scott was the only inhabitant of Peterborough in 1825 when the first of the Peter-Robinson immigrants reached the townsite which became their temporary headquarters until they received land grants and other help enabling them to set up homes.

Thomas T. Milburn was third successive head of this branch of the Milburn family to be christened Thomas. That distinguishing name began with the grandfather and was continued in his son and grandson. The original home of the Milburns was in Yorkshire, England.

Progressive Farmer

The late Mr. Milburn was throughout his long lifetime a progressive farmer. He had witnessed and adopted all the changes in agricultural practice, particularly in mechanics, that have become so accelerated in the last 30 years. He remained essentially a farmer, attached to his homestead on the middle line of Smith. Only a week ago he was able to walk from the house to the barn, his last little journey, and not an easy one for his faltering footsteps, on the land he loved.

Mr. Milburn had many friends throughout the county and city, but those of the present day had outlived his contemporaries. He had always taken an interest not only in his home township, but generally in the county and city and their progress. His memory retained images of many landmarks that have disappeared, and he knew the progress of the city more graphically than nearly all its present residents.

President of Cemetery

His active interests were comparatively few. He had long been president of the board in charge of Lakefield cemetery, and its maintenance in neatness and good care was probably his chief concern apart from his home. He had contributed a great deal of time to its gradual development.

Thomas Milburn had been an exemplary citizen in all his years that came so close to full century. His line of the Milburns is represented by his son Elmer and grandson Donald, both of whom extend in their separate activities the ideals of rural citizenship that has been a tradition of the family in Smith township for 134 years.

He leaves three daughters, Miss Margaret Milburn, at home; Mrs. Ross Harrison (Abbie), Smith township; Mrs. Henry Stubbs (Stella), Sarnia; one son Elmer of Smith township. One son, Noble, was killed in 1917 at Vimy Ridge while serving in France in the First World War. His wife predeceased him 12 years ago.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the Comstock funeral home. The Rev. W. H. Tonge of Lakefield United church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Lakefield cemetery.

Girl, 6, Hit By School Bus

Sylvia Crowley, 6, Downer's Corners, was slightly injured at 8.30 today, when she ran in front of a school bus at Lock and Lansdowne Sts.

A bus brings children attending St. John the Baptist School into the city every morning and lets them off at Lock and Lansdowne. The children have to cross to the south side of the street, and today, school guard Frederick McQuade, 751 St. Mary St., was sick in bed and there was no guard on duty.

Ran Second Time

A witness told police that the little girl first dashed out into the street. Then her eight-year-old brother Jerry, who was across the street, shouted something to her. Sylvia then returned to the north curb for a second but quickly ran across the street again, into the path of the oncoming bus.

Two men who arrived at the scene just after the accident took her to the Medical Centre, and then on to St. Joseph's Hospital. After an examination there, it was found that the girl had no apparent injuries, other than a few scratches and bruises, and she was allowed to return home.

Constable William G. Scott investigated.

$100 Donation To Fund Boosts Total To $155 To Give Help To Fred Brant

23 People Send In Gifts Of Money To Help Man With Feet Amputated; One Letter Arrives With $5 From Florida

Two $50 bills from Donald A. McGillis was received by The Examiner today to bring contributions to the Fred Brant Fund to a total of $155. The fund was established last Thursday after The Examiner received several donations and pledges by telephone. Since then there have been 23 individual donations, ranging from $1 to $100 and coming from as far away as St. Petersburg, Florida.

The donation from Florida came from C. R. Banks, who said he was sending $5 to help "that unfortunate man."

All of Brant's toes on both feet and about an inch of each foot beyond the toes have been amputated. Dr. Leslie Calvert, who performed the operation, believes Brant will not need expensive equipment to walk properly.

"He is lucky he did not lose both feet," the doctor said, adding that some kind of solid padding in the toes of ordinary shoes would probably be all that is required.

Treated For Frostbite.

Brant's difficulties started when he was arrested January 13 and charged with vagrancy. He was sentenced to 10 days in jail and released Jan. 23 While he was in jail, Dr. Ralph Clark, treated Brant for frostbite on the small toe of his left foot.

The following morning, after questioning, he was taken five miles out of the city in a police car, and released. That night he spent in Lindsay jail.

Between Jan. 25 and Jan. 30 Brant's movements are indefinite. On Jan. 30, he was charged with vagrancy after he applied for a night's lodging.

Whether he froze his feet again the day he was let out of the city police cruiser or on one of the days between Jan. 25 and 30 is not known. In county jail, after being sentenced to five days, Brant complained that his feet hurt. He was taken to hospital where he has been since.

Tourists Set '51 Record Entering Canada

OTTAWA, March 17 (CP) — More tourists came to Canada in 1951 than in any year except 1948, the Resources Department announced Saturday.

Visitors last year spent a total of $271,000,000 in Canada. Of this, U.S. visitors spent $225,000,000.

The volume of tourists entering with automobiles was the highest on record. Highway traffic crossing the border between Canada and the U.S. totalled 11,448,000 vehicles, an increase of 1,423,000 over 1950.

The number of visitors from the United States in 1951 was at least 5 per cent higher than the year before, although the total expenditures were 2 per cent lower. This was attributed in part to a slight drop in the length of the average visit.

The increased number of visitors reversed the trend of 1950, when a 3 per cent reduction in the number of U.S. visitors was noted as compared to 1949.

On the other hand, Canadian travel to other countries increased in 1951 and was accompanied by heavier spending. Total expenditures in 1951 were $280,000,000 of which $246,000,000 was in the U.S.

Radio Station Bans Program

SUDBURY, March 17—(CP)—A radio program sponsored by Local 598, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, was banned from the air Sunday night by Radio Station CKSO. Station owner W. J. Woodill said it was for "indulging in personalities which might be slanderous."

The program was banned from this city's other radio station, CHNO, on the grounds that it was helping to disseminate Communist propaganda.

The grogram started on CKSO two Sundays ago.

Mr. Woodill said: "When the union refused to post a bond of $25,000 to cover any slander action which might arise out of their program, we decided to ban it. We cannot afford lawyers' fees every week to censor the material before broadcast.

"Anything of a Communist nature has always been barred on this station."

He said the program scheduled for Sunday night contained statements about Mayor Dan Jessup and two controllers which might be considered slanderous.

The owner of station CHNO said he received a visit from the R.C.-M.P. after the refrain "Russia Goes Marching On" was played on the program.

The mine-mill union was expelled from the Canadian Congress of Labor for alleged Communist domination.

Say 11 Czechs Found Guilty

VIENNA, March 17 (AP) — Prague radio announced that 11 Czechs and a Yugoslav were convicted Saturday night as spies and collaborators of William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent serving 10 years in a Czech prison for espionage.

One was sentenced to death and the others to long prison terms.

The broadcast said Oatis testified at the three-day trial, which echoed events of his own hearing in Pankrac Prison last July. By this account, Oatis told the court the accused had worked with him in espionage against Czechoslovakia.

The 12 sentenced Saturday were reported by Prague radio to have confessed. The death sentence went to Josef Pavelka, accused of murdering a Czech Army officer. He was described as having close connections with "U.S. agent" Vladimir Komarek, who, the Prague radio said, entered Czechoslovakia from Germany and later fled back there.

Much of the Communist prosecutor's efforts at Oatis' own trial were directed toward proving an association between Oatis, his three co-defendants and a terrorist group called "the Komarek ring." Oatis denied having met Komarek.

Saturday's broadcast said Karel Hajek, the son of a cafe owner, was sentenced to life imprisonment. Others received terms ranging to 25 years.

"I don't believe the American nation has the experience, sagacity, or the self-restraint necessary for world leadership at this time."

German Sailor Loses Fortune

LINGEN, Germany, March 17 (Reuters)—Max Kasimir, former German sailor who inherited $430,000 from an American woman he met only once, has been told that the U.S. government has confiscated his money as enemy property.

Kasimir met the woman, Mrs. Emmy Rivers, when he visited New York in the early 20's as a sailor on a Swedish ship. He never saw her again.

Eight months ago, Kasimir, a refugee from Silesia, now Communist territory, heard that Mrs. Rivers had left him her entire fortune.

He got a letter from the United States a few days ago saying he could pick up the money. But then another letter came, this time from the Archive for U.S. Inheritances in Munich, telling him the bad news.

The Munich letter said Mrs. Rivers had died while the United States and Germany were still officially at war and, therefore, the bequest was confiscated. The letter also advised Kasimir he could not enter the United States.

There remains one ray of hope for the ex-sailor—the German Peace Treaty is expected to contain a clause regulating claims by German individuals against the United States.

Larocque Must Stand Trial

Armand Larocque, 39, was committed for trial on a rape charge, by Magistrate W. R. Philp Saturday morning.

Larocque, who is charged with criminally attacking a young mother of two children March 9, will be tried at the general assizes which begin here Monday.

The preliminary hearing which began Thursday afternoon was adjourned until Saturday, after the crown completed its cast Friday.

Robert Carley who is defending Larocque did not call the accused or any defence witnesses. However, Mr. Carley strongly criticized crown attorney John A. Bradshaw for not calling any crown witnesses except the complainant and her husband.

Where crown witnesses are available whose testimony would provide another explanation, which would affect the question as to whether the crown had established a case, "the crown should be called upon as a matter of inherent justice to produce such witnesses," declared Mr. Carley.

Scottish St. Patrick's Dance A Well-Organized Affair

The Scottish "St. Patrick's Dance" on Saturday evening was a very well-organized event and one of the most enjoyable yet held by the Canadian Scottish Club of Peterborough since its organization. The party was in the Empress Hotel Kawartha room, with about 75 couples attending.

Unfortunately the orchestra could not play the real Irish dance tunes, but the evening ended with an Irish song. The Scottish enjoyed their familiar "eightsome reel" and square dances and a novelty number was called the "Monte Carlo" carried out with dancers holding "hearts" and "diamonds" cards. Winner of the birthday dance was Mrs. Tom Hammell, who was dancing with Mr. R. Croll at the time. Mr. and Mrs. Vic Tinney were winners of one of the spot dances.

The door prize was won by Mrs. J. H. Robinson, and during the evening a gift was presented to Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser, who with Mr. Fraser was a special guest for the evening.

It is planned by this club to hold St. Patrick's dances annually for the reason that Scotland claims to be the birthplace of the man who became Ireland's patron saint. More immediate plans are for a bigger party this spring.

Those at the dance included:

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Corp, Mr. and Mrs. T. Nimmo, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gilchrist, Mr. W. Hammell, Mr. and Mrs. T. Hammell, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Rodger, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Little Women Amaze Ladies By Success With Their Tea

Both amazed and delighted with their entertainment were the ladies who attended the Little Women's Club Shamrock Tea Saturday afternoon at the YWCA. The young daughters who accompanied them in many cases were only anxious to know when they may be able to join this enthusiastic group, as they sipped orange drink with their sandwiches and cookies.

The members are mostly nine to 12 years old, though a few may be younger. They meet each Saturday afternoon at the Y for interesting sessions and in the past few weeks have spent some time making the aprons and painted table covers for the annual tea.

Tea arrangements were carried out entirely by the girls themselves with the help of their program directors of the Y staff. The board president Mrs. H. T. Rehill and Miss Leta Brownscombe assisted with the receiving and Mrs. C. G. Collins, Mrs. D. R. McGregor, Mrs. Ross Matthews and Mrs. W. G. Ovens presided at the tea table.

The girls also entertained their guests with piano selections, songs and recitations. Mary Jane Tedford played a tune called "St. Patrick's Day" and she and Rosemary and Alfreda Pooley formed a trio to sing 'Beguiling the Irish". Arleigh Rishor and Ellen Matthews contributed piano numbers and Mary Hucks played the "Peasant Dance." Alfreda Pooley's recitation was called "Sweet Little Shamrock of Ireland."

Hair bows to match their green and white aprons were made by Mrs. J. Nestor and so Mrs. Nestor was given the honor of drawing for the chocolate cake on which raffle tickets were sold by Patsy Thirnbeck. The winner was Mrs. H. Hughes, 298 Margaret Ave., and her prize was delivered by her granddaughter.

Attendants at the home cooking booth were Dorothy Rowan, Elaine Gilders, Lynda Stanbury, Claudette Nestor, Susan Low, Catherine Tetlock, Joan Rowe and Eleanor Tolton.

A very wide variety of articles was on the "white elephant" table and these were sold by Leslie Payne, Alfreda Pooley, Josephine Bleakley, Ann Foster, Rosemary Brook, Mary Jane Tedford and Mary Hucks. Greeting cards for numerous occasions were for sale by Sylvia Young, Patsy Rollins, Kathleen Tight and Ann Chenoweth.

The serving at the quartette tables was done by Carol Foster, Arleigh Rishor, Ellen Matthews, Nancy Knox, Jane Comstock, Phyllis Tolton, Merrill Sheehy, Beverley Busby, Dorothy Quinlan, Nancy Herr, Gayl Jones, Jacqueline Fulton, Rosemary Pooley, Christine Smith, Penny McFarlane and Mary Hardill. Replenishing of the plates and table was looked after by Patsy Bell, Ellen Henry, Mary Buckland, Ann Thorburn and Betty Wicks.

President Margot McCombe and vice-president Bonnie McGregor were receiving and the tickets were taken by Nancy Knox and Carol Foster.

A part of the proceeds from this very successful event will make up the club's allocation for the World Service Fund.

Rev. W. Tonge Knox Speaker

Knox Married Couples Group met Friday and had as guest speaker the Rev. Walton Tonge, of Lakefield, whose topic, "Communism In China," was given in three parts: Religious, Economic and Political. In each part he described in detail the present situation of the Chinese people and the historical background, giving an outline of their religion as far back as 5000 B.C. Mr. Tonge advised that the Chinese seen here are not typical of the Chinese race. He found them a resourceful and clever people whose integrity and resistance, he believes, will finally come out victorious over the fear and rule of Communism. He said "Our Christian churches have failed the Chinese inasmuch as we should have sent thousands of mission families instead of tens. Our only hope to stamp out Communism is to prove our faith in Christianity by self-sacrifice." Mr. Tonge was introduced by the Rev. H. G. Douglas. The meeting was in charge of Mr. H. Charlton and a worship service was conducted by Mr. and Mrs. D. Richardson.

Red Cross Women-Team To Serve Forces In Japan

TORONTO, March 17—(CP)—Eight Canadian girls will set out for Japan next month to become the first Caandian Red Cross welfare team to serve with Canadian forces in Japan and perhaps in Korea.

The girls are between the ages of 25 and 35 and more than half of them bilingual. Gertrude Trottier, of Alexandria, one of the team, has also added Polish to her stock of languages and is looking forward to picking up the Japanese language.

Harold H. Leather, chairman of the Red Cross national executive, said the team was recurited at the request of the Department of National Defence. The girls will be attached to the Commonwealth Leave Centre in Tokyo and to the Commonwealth hospital at Kure.

"Their concern will be canteen work, welfare cases, hospital visits and all the thousand and one problems a soldier carries into battle with him," said Mr. Leather.

The girls have had previous experience in the armed forces or in overseas Red Cross hospitals. Their civilian jobs, from librarian to hospital visitor, had one thing in common — they dealt directly with the public.

The girls will take a two-week course under Professor Charles E. Hendry, of the University of Toronto School of Social Work to prepare them for their work in Japan.

Ruth Doern, of Winnipeg, a graduate of the School of Social Work here, heads the team. Other members are June Watson, Toronto; Eleanor Dundas, Ottawa; Sheila Douglas, Ottawa; Miss Trottier, Simone Douglas, Montreal; Annette LaBrie, Quebec City; and Virginia Cook, Calgary.

The girls will fly to Japan and are allowed only 64 pounds of luggage for the trip. A trunkful each will follow by ship but they have been warned not to expect them for about two months.

"We're thanking our lucky stars that nylon lingerie has been invented," commented Miss Dundas.

DOROTHY DIX

Man Claims Full Ownership Very Possessive Husband

DEAR MISS DIX: We have been married sixteen months, have a nice flat and furniture. My husband constantly reminds me that he owns the furniture and everything in the house; that nothing is mine.

I try to be good to him. I'm a good cook and housekeeper but I'm sick and tired of hearing this story over and over. A few times he told me to pack up and get out. I left him, but when he begged me to come back and promised to change, I believed him. However, the change lasted for just two weeks. The way we are living I don't feel like a wife at all, and I'm not happy. W.R.M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your husband evidently didn't pay much attention to the words of his marriage vow, "With all my worldly goods I thee endow!" Marriage is a partnership, and everything brought into it, or achieved in it, should belong to both husband and wife. A man who puts such store by his material possessions that he's afraid to let his wife claim a piece of furniture is branding himself as a miser. Apparently he married you just to add a good cook and housekeeper to his possessions. Since, to him, marriage is a business proposition, you are entitled to wages for the work you do around the house. Demand it, and see how businesslike he is then!

Check Legal Rights

Your husband actually may not even be legally correct in his assertions of possession. Several states provide that furniture, etc., are partnership property, owned equally by husband and wife. It's quite possible that if you divorced your husband you'd be entitled to half of everything he owns. Since you didn't give me your address, I can't advise more definitely on this point.

Judging from your husband's treatment, I'd say you were listed in his mind as a chattle along with the rest of the belongings. Modern women, who have learned to stand alongside their menfolk, sharing with them the full measure of prosperity and adversity, don't go for that position. You've been married only sixteen months, so presumably have many belittling years ahead! If the prospect fails to please, either insist on more equitable treatment or leave your misanthrope to his own devices.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My stepfather-to-be doesn't allow me to date boys. I like one boy in particular, and would be satisfied to see him two or three times a week, even if he only came to the house to visit. I'm allowed to go out with my girl friends. I'm 14, and the only child in the family. JANE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your mother is certainly losing an early grip on the reins of authority when she lets her fiance exercise so much authority over you. You should be allowed to go out with girl friends at least, provided you don't do so on school nights. One evening a week, either at home, at an early show or at a school dance, should be the extent of your boy dating for the time being.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think a boy can show his love too much? I'm 16 and he is 17. We go to the same school and he calls for me every morning. He waits for me after every class, calls me up when I get home in the afternoon, and on Saturday and Sunday calls me about four times. Sometimes he talks for an hour. W.M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: This surely is overdoing it! Your family must have infinite patience to let you monopolize the telephone so much. Few households would permit it. Tell your friend that you must leave the telephone free once in a while so the other members of the family can make or receive calls. Short of hurting the boy's feelings, however, you can't do much about his mooning around at school. What kind of marks does he get, anyway, with so much romancing?

UK Holiday Home Young Refugees

LONDON (CP).—A nine-roomed, 17th-century house near an Essex village is to become a holiday home for children of displaced European families.

The youngsters, who have never before had a holiday, will come from France, Germany, Greece, Austria and other countries. They will spend two or three months on the seven-acre estate.

The house was left in trust to be used for charitable, social or educational purposes. A gift of £2,500 enabled the organizers of the Save the Children Fund to meet the initial cost of administration.

Twelve children between the ages of seven and 11 and an adult guide can be accommodated. The children will learn handicrafts and in summer will camp in the grounds, make country trips and be encouraged to raise poultry. In winter activities will include crafts, painting, indoor games, folk-singing and dancing.

The matron, Miss Joan Millington, who recently came from the United States after 22 years social work there, says the children will not be asked to study.

SWING YOUR PARTNER, MEMSAHIB—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt aroused great interest when, during a recent visit to Lahore, Pakistan, she demonstrated Western folk-dancing. Above, the former First Lady of United States swings a diminutive partner in a fast set.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Lard Instead Of Shortening Advised For Fish And Chips

Some of Marianne's fellow-"probies" had been invited for tea on Sunday afternoon and I allotted three hours on Saturday morning—from 9 to 12—to prepare the sandwiches and cakes.

I was told by a gal who considers herself something of an authority on time-studies that what I did could not be done in three hours. And whether it is worth the effort I do not know. I do know this that I hope you folks have more sense, and do not rush like that when you are getting ready for a tea.

(1) I made mayonnaise—using the electric beater. (2) I washed the breakfast dishes. (3) I made two loaves up into pinwheel ribbon sandwiches which required the preparation of four differnt sandwich fillings (fortunately the bread was colored—green for St. Pat.—and sliced by the bakery. (4) Eighten tiny strawberry tarts were whipped up using home-made pastry and frozen berries—defrosted and sweetened and thickened. (5) An oversize angel cake batter—used for 18 cup cakes and 1 square cake. The latter was later pulled apart to make snow balls—you know what they are? pieces of cake rolled in thin butter icing and then in shredded raw cocoanut.

At 12:06 noon four beloved friends dropped in for lunch.

They were lucky—and so was I—that I had a big pitcher of homemade pea soup in the refrigerator. I put sandwich makings on the table and let them sample the strawberry tarts.

I'm weary thinking and writing about it. Next time they get tea biscuits and jam.

Dear Miss Moore: Would be very glad if you could give a word of advice. We soon plan to have a fish and chips supper at our church and it is our first try. Hints on best results and as economical as possible. Could we use lard as shortening costs so much...a dresing for cole slaw too.—Mrs. A. D.

ANSWER—The operator of a large fish and chip store tells me that they use the best quality of lard they can buy—for more than one reason: (1) price; (2) flavor; (3) lasting qualities. One shortening, which is expensive, has no odour and my informant says everybody would prefer to use it, if it were not so costly.

Coat the well-dried fish by any of the following methods: (1) Sift together 2 cups flour, 2 cups cornmeal, 5 tablespoons salt. Quickly dip fish in cold water then in this mixture and drop into fat at 375 degrees Fahr. Do not let temperature drop below 370 deg. Sufficient for 12 pounds. (2) Beat four eggs slightly and add ½ cup cold water. Mix four tablespoons salt with four cups sifted dry breadcrumbs or cracker crumbs. Sufficient for 12 pounds.

(3) Batter No. 1: Four cups flour, 2 teaspoons pepper, 3½ cups milk, eight eggs. Batter No. 2: Four cups bread flour, six teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, two cups milk, 3 eggs.

Drain fish on paper towels; keep hot in oven on the paper towels at 250 deg. Fahr.

I will give you a different slaw dressing that is very popular.

Dressing For Slaw

In top of double boiler put 1 can condensed (not evaporated) milk, and let it cook 10 minutes. Cool. Turn into mixing bowl and add 1½ teaspons dry mustard, two teaspons salt, one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Beat with rotary beater two minutes. Gradually beat in ¾ cup cider vinegar. Beat hard for one minute after all vinegar is added. Three pounds cabbage makes cole slaw for 20, and requires 1½ pints dressing. Sliced Bermuda onion, shredded green peppers and shredded raw carrot are good additions to slaw.

What's Right?

The bridegroom has a brother of age to be best man but he also has a good friend that he would like to have serve in that capacity.

WRONG: He asks the friend to be best man and asks his brother to be an usher.

RIGHT: He asks his brother to be best man and asks the friend to be one of his ushers.

Dad Teaches Mum In This School

SASKATOON—(CP) — While most mothers get breakfast for their family and pack the youngsters off to school, Mrs. Grace Nickel grabs her school books and goes with her two children.

In fact, the whole Nickel family heads for school at the same time. Mr. Nickel is vice-principal of Waldheim High School.

Mrs. Nickel said her father was a country school teacher with a large family and she missed the opportunity of attending high school in her youth. When she married a teacher she saw the opportunity to catch up on the education she missed and enrolled in the high school where her husband teaches.

The busy housewife-scholar, taking her grade 12 this year, says she is keeping one step ahead of her children, aged six and nine.

She intends them to have at least a high school education and wants to keep on the same intellectual level as her youngsters. Hubby intends to take a year of university next year and Mrs. Nickel is toying with the idea of enrolling with him for the same course.

This month Mrs. Nickel competed against nine teen-agers in the zone Bryant public speaking contest, which has no age limit. She was one of those eliminated. A 17-year-old girl won.

MOVIE COLUMN

Grant Solely Interested In Film Work

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 17 (AP) —Cary Grant is unique among movie stars. His sole interest is acting in motion pictures.

That may not sound unusual, but it is when you consider the activities of other screen celebrities. Some, like Bob Hope and Bing Crosby, have many business enterprises. Some, like Red Skelton and Donald O'Connor, devote much of their time to television.

But what about Cary Grant's interest in such matters? I asked him if he yearned to direct movies.

"I'd be afraid to try," he replied. "I think one should be cognizant of one's own limitations."

What about a return to the stage?

"I don't think so. I haven't been on the stage for 20 years, and I see no reason to go back now."

Television?

"Nope." He firmly believes that television entertainment will eventually be supplied by the movie industry and thus he will continue doing the same thing he is now.

No Big Business

Grant added that he indulges in no big business enterprises. What does he do with his film salaries?

"I can tell you where the bulk of it goes," he laughed, indicating, I imagine, the U.S. Treasury. "Of course, I do have some surplus at the end of the year. But I am not one to worry about money. Actually, it doesn't matter much in these days whether you earn $500,000 or $150,000. The difference in your net return is only a matter of $3,000 or $4,000.

"And what is the difference how much money you make, anyway, as long as you have enough? You can only eat so many meals and wear so many clothes."

Grant added that he had no outside activities "because it took me long enough to learn this craft, and I'm not even certain I have finished learning it."

Other film actors would not share his modest opinion. And when they complain about the inequities of the Academy Awards they agree that it's a shame that Grant never has been given one.

Dairy Industry Victimized Turnbull Says

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., Mar. 17— (CP) —Canada's huge dairy industry, doing about $750,000,000 worth of business a year, has been made a "victim" of Canadian government policy, J. S. Turnbull, [illegible] National Dairy Council, said today.

In a 6,000-word, presidential speech prepared for delivery before the council's annual meeting, Mr. Turnbull charged that immediately after the Second World War the government "perpetuated artificial shortages" through its bulk-purchasing contracts.

These contracts, mainly with the United Kingdom government, may have been necessary during the war, he said, but they were continued after the war against the council's recommendation.

"These actions gave rise to the major problem we now are experiencing— consumer antagonism and resistance against rising prices. For milk and milk products and an irresitable clamor for substitutes.

If milk prices had kept pace with price climbs in other commodities, milk now would be selling for about 30 cents a quart, observed Mr. Turnbull, and not the 21-cent-a-quart price it now averages.

Aggravate Decline.

"Consumer resistance, substitutes manufactured from cheap imported oils and imports of dairy products from abroad have continued to aggravate the production decline to the point where last year we had the lowest per capita production of milk in Canada on record."

Because of the fact that prices have not increased at the same rate as other products, Mr. Turnbull felt that the industry was "entitled to expect a more sympathetic attitude and appreciative understanding of our situation by governments and consumers."

He said the industry will propose, as a means of protecting it against competition from butter substitutes, that the Canadian government impose an excise tax on all substitute products.

"In this demand we are asking for only the type of treatment which which has been and now is extended to other basic industries. I suggest that the time is long overdue for government action on the problem."

Have Responsibility.

But while the industry will seek this "protection," dairymen had a responsibility to Canadian consumers to provide high-quality products which they have demanded of them."

"We must be unremitting in our efforts to exercise maximum economies in processing and marketing, consistent with a maximum per capita consumption of our products.

"We must, with the aid of fundamental, practical marketing research, be constantly searching for ways and means of improving on our products and developing new outlets."

Lady Mountbatten Gets Taste Of War

WESTERN FRONT, Korea, March 17 (AP).—Lady Mountbatten got a taste of the Korean war today — helicopter, hospitals, bumpy jeep rides, generals, privates and finally a peek at the battle front.

On the second day of her whirlwind Korean tour for the Red Cross, the wife of Earl Mountbatten met Brig. J. M. Rockingham, commander of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade. She was accompanied by Maj.-Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, commander of the 1st Commonwealth Division.

With Cassels at the wheel, she jeeped along a bumpy road to the Indian advance dressing station and climbed a hill to look at Communist lines just to the north.

Nearby Commonwealth guns were harassing the Reds and in the distance a column of smoke could be seen rising from a position that was hit earlier by Allied air strike.

phere cities, its 500,000 people have a building boom.

Brazil, Bolivia, the Andes, Peru in one day. Imagination sagged and most of us went to bed as we headed for Panama and back to the Atlantic, and stayed there until we arrived at Miami.

Hamilton Police Reject City's Offer

HAMILTON, March 17 (CP)— Members of the Hamilton police department last night rejected the city's latest wage and hour offer.

The policemen had requested a $10 weekly increase for all ranks and a 40-hour week. The three-man police commission offered: a 40-hour week starting next year; no change in basic pay but an immediate increase of $3.70 a week based on the present cost of living; cost of living bonuses up to a 197-point index: a reduction in the time required to become a first class constable and payment of half the cost of hospitalization insurance.

The policemen in rejecting the offers instructed their Association executive headed by Sgt. Willilam Sanderson, to seek "a better deal."

Finnish Youth Jailed Month Assault Count

A 25-year-old Finnish immigrant who entered the second floor bedroom of Miss Kathleen McNally, 121 Stewart St., and hit her in the face, knocking two teeth out, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm Saturday.

Fjalar Lilliquist, R. R. 3 Peterborough said his only explanation for the attack was that he lost his temper. Magistrate W. R. Philp said it was difficult to understand the reason for hitting the woman, and sentenced Lilliquist to one month in jail.

Miss McNally testified with difficulty because, she had to have four other teeth pulled out after the attack, and her lip was also badly split.

She said she met Lilliquist about two weeks ago, through a girl friend. She explained that she was asleep when Lilliquist knocked on her door about midnight. When she answered the door, she said he started to take off his coat, and when she asked him what he was going to do, he closed his fist and hit her in the teeth.

"The accused has been here four months," crown attorney John A. Bradshaw said. "He has a good job, and came in to the city that night with neighbors. He started to drink and got into an ugly mood. He has made restitution and the woman was prepared to withdraw the charge.

"We have people from other lands coming here and they will have to learn that this sort of thing will not be tolerated," continued Mr. Bradshaw. "From the standpoint of the public interest, this matter cannot be allowed to slip."

In sentencing Lilliquit, Magistrate Philp reminded him he could have received a couple of years for the offence. "Scandinavians are the best type of people that come into the country," the Magistrate said, "one month for this offence is very light. It goes far beyond a case of common assault."

Cattle Sickness Prevalent In U.S.

OTTAWA, March 17 (CP) — There are no known cases in Canada of Lepospirosis, a new cattle sickness reported prevalent in the United States, and a continuous watch is being kept to prvent its spread to this country, an agriculture department spokesman said today.

The spokesman was commenting on a report from Ithaca, N.Y., Saturday that the disease, which kills about 10 per cent of the cattle and 25 per cent of the calves, is prevalent throughout the United States. U.S. authorities believe it can be stopped by new treatments recently developed.

The spokesman said "one or two cases" were reported in Canada in dogs in the last few years, but there are no known cases now.

All cattle and meat coming into Canada from the United States is inspected closely for traces of lepospirosis as well as other diseases.

Lepospirosis is believed to have originated in Russia and was first reported in the U.S. in 1944. It is believed to be caused by a worm.

Police Feel Strangling May Remain Mystery

HAMILTON, March 17 (CP)— Police investigating the slaying of 63-year-old Norman (Scotty) McLeod feel that the case may remain a mystery. The body of McLeod, missing since early last month, was found Saturday.

The murderers—and police feel sure there were more than one involved in the garrotting and beating of the newsie—have at least a seven-week headstart on the police.

Preliminary investigation showed death was due to a "cruel" beating and stangulation. A plaid scarf was doubled around his neck and tightly knotted.

Motive for the attack was robbery, police feel.

Child Still Missing

HAMILTON, March 17 (CP) — The search for the body of two-year-old David Green of nearby Carlisle was scheduled to continue today along Twelve Mile Creek.

The boy was drowned Friday. Yesterday more than 200 men serched the creek but turned up no trace of the body.

Baby Beef Prices Averages 40 Cents Lb.

CALGARY, March 17 (CP)— A record of 40.68 cents a pound was averaged Saturday at the Baby Beef and Fat Stock Show and Sale, despite the damper placed on the livestock industry by foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

Fifty head, 24 of them baby beef and 26 open fat stock, brought $17,742 for 43,622 pounds.

Top price of $1.25 a pound was paid by T. Eaton Co. for the grand champion, an Aberdeen-Angus steer owned by Highland Stock Farm and shown by D. C. Matthews. The 1,096-pound animal brought $1,369.80.

George Thomas Gall

The funeral of George Thomas Gall, who died suddenly at his home in Keene Tuesday was held Friday from the family residence. Mr. Gall was for many years a successful merchant in the village.

The Rev. H. B. Herrington of Keene United church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were Grant Gillespie, James Gillespie, Stewart Lang, William Godfrey, Donald Fowler. Burial was in Keene cemetery.

Places Second

NORTH CONWAY, N.H., March 17 (CP).—Art Tommy of Ottawa, recent winner of the Quebec Kandahar, placed second Sunday in the combined competition at the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association meet. The 18-year-old Tommy tied for sixth place in the downhill Saturday and was third in the slalom Sunday.

Grace United Presents 3-Act Comedy

Members of Grace United Church have successfully produced and played their first three-act comedy. Performances were given last Thursday and Friday.

Proceeds are for the fund of the Women's Auxiliary and some of the money is earmarked for the "building fund". A new church is being planned by the minister, the Rev. E. W. Rowland and the congregation.

The three-act comedy was "That Watkins Girl", all about a hill-billy girl "Tommy" who is raised in the Colorado mountain shack of an old prospector. There is a dispute over the ownership of a mine and also over the guardianship of the girl.

But all works out well in the end with romantic interest provided by the appearance of a young mining engineer, Jerry, played by Reg Moore.

Others In Cast

Other members of the cast—all of them members of the W.A. assisted by some men from the congregation—were Alex Scott as Sourdown Pat, a sidekick of the old prospector; Tommy by Mrs. Maurice Beasley; Cliff Gilbank as old Dan Watkins; Mrs. Harold McMahon as the socialite, Mrs. Bulwer Stratton Smythe; and her sophisticated daughter, played by Mrs. George Close. The two other members of the cast were Gary Corner and Mrs. Kenneth Bailey.

The play was directed by Mrs. R. W. Harrison and the stage managers were Harold McMahon and R. W. Harrison. Mr. Harrison also constructed the scenery.

Entertainment during intermissions was by Jack Bailey, Jr., who sang and accompanied himself with a guitar; also a ladies' trio — Mrs. James Waldie, Barbara Harrison and June Adam—accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Herb Doig.

Lunch was served to the cast by Mrs. Angus Tripp and her committee.

There is no dramatic club at the church and it was their first venture in producing and staging a play without outside assistance.

Will Review Drastic Cuts

CANBERRA, March 17 (Reuters)—Prime Minister Menzies today pledged to Britain that Australia will review her drastic import cuts as soon as possible.

Menzies was answering criticism made in Britain's House of Commons, where some members claimed the dominion should not have touched United Kingdom trade in view of Britain's economic position and her desperate need to keep up exports.

"We should have been delighted to leave United Kingdom exports to Australia untouched," said Menzies. "We know how important her exports are to Britain and how important they therefore are to the whole British Commonwealth. But we literally had no option."

Earlier this month, Australia announced a 50-per-cent across-the-board slash in imports, both from dollar and sterling countries.

The Prime Minister said Australia's action was "misunderstood" in Britain.

The cuts were essential to prevent the country from going bankrupt, since Australia was spending more than she earned, and were in keeping with agreements reached at the Commonwealth Finance Ministers' conference in London.

Stolen Car Trouble

WELLAND, March 17 (CP) — A car stolen in adjacent Crowland yesterday caused considerable grief. Crowland firemen made a three-mile run to extinguish fire in the upholstery, and later when the car was reported stolen a provincial police cruiser skidded into a ditch in going to the scene. Owner of the car was Bernard Levair, Stamford township.

Canada's Cheese Makers Hard Hit By Imports

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., March 17 — (CP) — Canada's cheese producers have been hit a double blow. Not only have they been rocked back on their heels by U.S. restrictions on dairy imports, but low priced cheddar from other countries is being shipped into Canada and beating the Canadian producer in his home market.

Canada traditionally is a big exporter of cheddar cheese, but a National Dairy Council spokesman disclosed Sunday that during the latter part of 1951 Canada imported about 6,500,000 pounds of cheddar, mostly from New Zealand. An additional 2,800,000 pounds came in during January, 1952, and still another 4,000,000 pounds are on their way to the Canadian market.

All this comes at a time when Canada's own larder holds about 30,000,000 pounds of cheddar, an increase of about 5,500,000 pounds from stocks held at the same time a year ago.

Dairy officials not only see a danger of over-imports of cheese, but of butter and skim milk powder from New Zealand and other low-cost producing countries enjoying preferred tariff duties. To cope with the problem it appeared likely that producers either will have to reduce prices or seek some means of governmentcontrol over imports.

The president of a large dairy import-export firm, one of the 300 dairy-industry delegates attending the council's three-day annual meeting opening here tomorrow, explained the marketing twist this way:

"Britain has not made her 1952 purchasing intentions clear. Now we are in the business of importing some cheese because we find there is a market for it in Canada. I guess the price of imports is a little lower than the Canadian product. In any case we know we are selling the imports."

SISTER M. FIDELIS, WALSH

Death came early Sunday morning to Sister M. Fidelis, Walsh, one of the pioneer members of the Sisters of St. Joseph, Mount St. Joseph, Peterborough, in her eighty-second year.

Sister Fidelis (Elizabeth Walsh) was the daughter of the late John Walsh and Mary Cleary of Hastings. Having obtained her early education in her home school, she attended St. Joseph's Academy, Lindsay, from which she graduated with a teacher's certificate. She taught one year in Sacred Heart School, Peterborough, and the rest of her teaching career was spent in the schools of Port Arthur, Fort William, North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie.

Fifty-nine years ago she entered the Congregation of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Peterborough Diocese, and most of her years spent in the classrooms were as a religious. Teaching facilities and equipment were far from adequate in her day, but her life of sacrifice was cheerfully borne, until, spent by the wear of more than 40 years of such strenuous labours, she was obliged to return to the Motherhouse at Peterborough where for the past 14 years or more she has been an invalid confined to her bed.

She is survived by two brothers, John of Otonabee and David of Hastings.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday, at 9:30 a.m. in the chapel at Mount St. Joseph. Burial will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

JOHN C. HOGAN.

John C. Hogan, manager for the Southam Press, Toronto, who died there suddenly Friday, began his newspaper career as a reporter for the Examiner. He was a son of John Hogan, superintendent of the Peterborough gas works, a private company prior to its expropriation by the Ontario government shortly before the first World War broke out.

John C. Hogan was born and educated in Toronto, and after his newsaper experience in Peterborough he went to the Cleveland Leader and Detroit Free Press. Returning from the United States when Canada found herself at war, Mr. Hogan enlisted with the Royal Regiment. He was captured at the Battle of Ypres, and was a a prisoner of war three years.

He became associated with Southam Press in 1924 and was appointed manager in 1930. He was a member of the Royal Military Institute, Royal Victoria Lodge A. F. and A. M., Montreal and several clubs in Toronto.

Mr. Hogan leaves his mother, his widow, one daughter, Mrs. W. W. Willson, Toronto; his sister, Mrs. Charles H. Weir and brother George W., of Toronto. The funeral took place this afternoon to Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto.

During their years in Peterborough, the family lived on McDonnel St., opposite Central Park.

MRS. DELIA BRAULT.

Mrs. Delia Brault of 430 Reid St., died today at her residence following a short illness.

She was born in St. Ligouri, P. Q., 77 years ago and before coming to Peterborough in 1950, lived most of her life in Montreal. Her husband, Alexander Brault, predeceased her.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Rudolphe Menard of this city and two sons in Montreal, Raoul and Rene. Mrs. Brault was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Funeral will be held on Wednesday from the Anglesey funeral home to St. Peter's Cathedral where requiem mass will be said at 9 a.m. Burial will be at St. Peter's cemetery.

GOLDEN RICHARD BUGG

Golden Richard Bugg, 81, 400 McDonnel St., died at his residence Sunday following a lingering illness.

Mr. Bugg, was born in Stonestead, England, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bugg and has lived in Peterborough for the past 40 years, coming here from England.

He leaves one daughter, Margaret, and two sons, Ronald and Norman, all of Peterborough and two sisters, Mrs. A. Collins and Mrs. M. Reid, both of England. His wife, the former Agnes Coy, predeceased him in 1948.

The funeral will be held Tuesday from the Nisbett funeral home at 2 p.m. Capt. J. D. Sharp of the Salvation Army will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

BANCROFT, March 17 (ENS)— Funeral for the late Joseph Lancaster Ray was held from his residence, with interment in the Anglican cemtery, on March 12. The officiating clergyman was Rev. W. F. Smith of St. John's Anglican Church, Bancroft.

Burt Criticizes Bargaining Laws

WINNIPEG, March 17 (CP). — Labor's progress in Canada is restricted by the laws dealing with collective bargaining, George Burt of Windsor, vice-president of the Canadian Congress of Labor said Sunday.

In an address to the fourth annual Manitoba Union Institute, Mr. Burt, also Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) said requirements of labor relations boards present definite obstacles to organized labor.

The delay between approach to the board and the handing down of a decision only served to foster resentment among the workers, he said.

Mr. Burt said statute requirements delaying collective bargaining should be abolished and authority for negotiations should be established by the "democratic ballot taken at the plant."

Failure of the board's methods of negotiation, he added, lies in the fact that nobody is forced to abide by the decision of a conciliation officer.

Irish Different From Many Other Races

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, March 17—(AP)— What is it to be Irish?

On 364 days of the year being Irish isn't visibily different from being Scottish, French, Italian, Jewish, Serbian, Dutch, or—heaven forigve the word—English.

The Irishman pays his bills, comlains about his taxes, does his work, and listens to his wife like the man of any other race.

But on this day of the year—holy St. Patrick's Day—the Irishman becomes an Irishman.

And on this day you have to be Irish to know what it is to be Irish.

The other signs, of course, can be seen by all. The Irishman overnight grows a foot taller and s alks the earth a giant. All traffic lights turn green before him, and if they don't he sees red.

Token Evidence

But this air of majesty is only token evidence of interior change. The men of other races who envy the Irishman his bearing on St. Patrick's Day would envy him far more if he coud look inside the Irishman's soul.

What is it to be Irish?

It is to have an angel in your mouth, turning your prose to poetry. It is to have the gift of tongues, to know the language of all living things. Does an Irishman pause and turn an ear to a tree? It is because on this day he wants to hear what one sleepy bud says to another as it opens its pale green hands to the warm sun of spring.

What is it to be Irish?

Oh, on this day it is music. Not just the cornet in the parading high school band, but the deep music of living, the low, sad rhythms of eternity. The Irishman hears the high song of the turning spheres, the dim lullaby of the worm in its cocoon. All the world is in tune, and he is in step with the tune, the tune that only he can hear.

What is it to be Irish?

It is to live the whole history of his race between a dawn and a dawn—the long wrongs, the bird-swift joys, the endless hurt of his ancestors since the morning of time in a forgotten forest, the knock-at-his-heart that is part of his religion.

Feels Like King

What is it to be Irish?

It isn't only the realization that he is descended from kings. It is the realization that he is a king himself, an empire on two feet striding in power, a strolling continent of awe.

What is it to be Irish?

Why, on St. Patrick's Day, to be Irish is to know more glory, adventure, magic, victory, exultation, gratitude and gladness than any other man can experience in a lifetime.

What is it to be Irish? It is to walk in complete mystic understanding with God for 24 wonderful hours.

Lakefield C. Of C. To Issue Maps

LAKEFIELD, March 17 (ENS) —A decision to issue comprehensive maps of the Kawartha Lakes district, instead of the regular booklet for tourists, was reached at a recent meeting of the Lakefield Chamber of Commerce. Walter A. Killoran is chairman of publicity for the organization.

This map will give detailed information as to the location of all the lakes and rivers and villages of this area, and will give information of local interest as to church services, dates of fishing seasons, licence fees and a short history of the village of Lakefield and surrounding area, from the angle of selling this locality to the tourists. There will also be a "Where To Shop" heading for members list their names under a classification that applies to their particular business. There will be a one-line listing, giving name, telephone number and address.

In the absence of president Harold Hamblin, the meeting was conducted by C. J. Davis.

A petition will also be presented to merchants asking that stores be open on Wednesday afternoons from June 15 to Sept. [illegible] the petition will be presented to the council for consideration. The bylaw now exists whereby all stores close at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday afternoon.

Midget "C" Title Captured By Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 17—(ENS)—Fifteen hundred cheering hockey fans, who filled every available nook and cranny of the Community Arena, saw Campbellford O.M.H.A. midget "C" team win the Matchett Trophy, an award symbolizing the Ontario championship in the midget "C" hockey series, on Saturday night.

A team comprising some of the finest sportsmen the local lads have played against this season, the Kincardine midgets, bowed to defeat by the score of 7 to 3 on Saturday night, after taking the first game in Kincardine by a 6 to 5 score.

It was the first time in the history of Compbellford that a midget O.M.H.A. team has emerged victorious in this contest. Twice they have been defeated in the final game. The lads defeated six teams in the playdowns to gain a chance at the Kincardine team. Norwood, Wellington, Stirling, Bobcaygeon, Richmond Hill and finally Kincardine, in that order, were ploughed under by the fast-skating lads coached by Howard Wilson.

The game had fans on the edge of their seats, and those who could find standing room only, on their toes, throughout the entire 60 minutes of hockey.

Goalie Eddie West and captain Glen (Buck) Wilson were outstanding for Campbellford, while McKay, in the Kincardine nets, kept the score as low as it was against his team. He outguessed the local lads time and again.

A few penalties were handed out by the referees, but all of these were for minor offences.

Carry Goalie Off

At the end of the game, fans swarmed onto the ice to congratulate the teams, who were already busy congratulating each other. Goal-keeper Eddie West, of Campbellford, was carried about the ice on the shoulders of his team-mates.

A presentation at centre ice took place, with Al Watkins, of the O.M.H.A., Peterborough, and Jack Christie, of Toronto, secretary of the O.M.H.A., doing the honours.

Messrs. Christie and Watkins presented the R. W. Matchett Trophy to captain Buck Wilson, of Campbellford, while Ken Bell, captain of the Kincardine team, looked on.

Dr. W. W. Baker, of the Campbellford Rotary Club, which sponsors the local team, thanked the fans for their support throughout the season, and thanked Coach Howard Wilson and Manager Lloyd Taylor for their help in making the team the champions they were.

Both teams play practically the same type of hockey. Coach Howard Wilson has been instilling the idea of team spirit and teamwork into the local lads for some time and this showed its worth when his son, Glen, was handed the cup on Saturday night.

Crystal-Gazer Gives Police Big Clue

PARIS, March 17 (Reuters).—A police search for a missing deaf-and-dumb Paris dressmaker drew blank until her employer took the problem to a clairvoyant today.

The crystal-gazer said: "I see a wall. It is night. Your friend is under the wall. She is dead, her body is mangled but her face is intact."

Police listened sceptically to the story—until one remembered that a wall had collapsed Thursday night in Montmartre. Just on the off-chance they went to the spot and began moving the rubble.

They found the body of Reine Metivet, 53, the dressmaker.

Her face was untouched.

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES —By Edgar Martin

Pensioner Aids Mexicans Crossing To U.S.

HARLINTON, Tex., March 17—(AP)—Manuel Gasca, his wife and their two young sons had walked all night along the Mexican side of the Rio Grande.

They knew one should not cross the border river except at a shallow spot, but now dawn was approaching. More than the treacherous waters, they feared the United States border patrol.

Hand in hand, Manuel and his wife stepped into the river. Solomon, 17, and Juan, 10, watched fearfully.

In the middle of the border river Mr. and Mrs. Gasca stepped into a whirlpool and disappeared.

This happens often on the Rio Grande, where the term "wetback" was born. It describes the Mexican national who enters the U.S. illegally to get at the comparatively rich wages paid by U.S. farmers.

Unusual Case

But the Gascas' case was unusual in two respects. Deported by the U.S. border patrol the day before, they were trying to get back to care for their younger children, including a nursing baby. And the seven orphans left when the Gascas disappeared were to be helped by a man who is becoming a living legend along the Rio Grande.

Solomon and Juan Gasca got across the Rio Grande that night of Nov. 14, 1950. They walked to the one-room shack near Primera, Tex., where their parents had left four small children. All were frightened and confused.

A tall, 57-year-old man named Frank Ferree stepped in. He obtained permission for the children to remain in the U.S. and moved them to a cottage erected alongside his own small home here.

Searching on the Mexican bank for the Garcas' grave, (the parents' bodies had been recovered by Mexican police) Ferree noticed many children suffering from an eye infection and a skin itch.

Ferree consulted a Mexican doctor and was told a penicillin salve could cure the infection. The doctor blamed the infection on gnats which plague the area.

Ferree asked the doctor to give him a written explanation of the disease and its treatment. He had 10,000 copies printed in Spanish and began distributing the handbills along with the salve among the sufferers.

Job Too Big

He remembers one three-mile stretch of little huts along the river bank in which nearly every family was infected. He had distributed about $200 worth of the medicine and handbills when he realized he had tackled something beyond his strength or income.

E. R. Squibbs and Son donated 400 tubes of the salve. Still more was needed.

Last January Ferree went to Mexico City and appealed to the Mexican government. He won official recognition of the need for help and now is getting it.

He is often called on to furnish the lumber and fashion rough boxes for coffins for children and adults who die without medical attention.

Ferree came to the lower Rio Grande valley in 1941 from northern Wisconsin, where he had sold his 800 acres of timberland and sawmill. He bought land near Harlingen which he planned to use as a farm.

It was a poor bargain. 23 acres were not good for farming. He sold the land to support his charities. He has one acre left and a $58-a-month pension.

Ferree is not concerned by his small material wealth.

"I found a great humanitarian work here among an intelligent and appreciative class of people," he says. "The most needful of help and the most deserving of any group I have ever known."

If Russia Has H-Bomb She Also Has Trouble

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Associated Press Science Editor

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 17 —(AP)—Russia is said to be readying a hydrogen bomb for testing this year.

If so, Russia may be in for a lot of difficulties in making an H-bomb stable enough to reach a target before it is ruined by evaporation.

The Russian H-bomb forecast comes from Kenneth De Courcy, the Briton who forecast Russia's A-bomb. He said Russia plans an H-bomb this July. He said it has been developed under direction of Prof. Bruno Pontecorvo, who worked at the Harwell, England, atom-splitting plant and disappeared in 1950. De Courcy's story is that Russia made a preliminary H-bomb test in 1950 and that Stalin then gave Pontecorvo an assignment to finish this bomb in 1952.

Russia's reported H-bomb work might be no different from the thermonuclear experiments which the United States has been reporting for several years.

Some of the troubles in keeping an H-bomb alive long enough to reach its target have been disclosed in engineering and scientific studies of liquid hydrogen.

The liquid form of hydrogen is apparently the one to be used in making bombs. To liquefy hydrogen requires not only pressure but a temperature around 420 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. This liquid boils at minus 426.

The standard method of keeping liquid hydrogen cold enough is to surround the hydrogen tank with an outer tank filled with liquid nitrogen. Such a tank would be an added weight handicap for an H-bomb.

The chilled liquid fuels of present guided missiles have to be loaded into the missile at the point of firing. It appears the same handicap will apply to H-bombs.

Engineers would like to pump liquid hydrogen in loading an H-bomb. There never has been a successful liquid hydrogen pump until recently.

Strange Weapons Developed By U.S.

WEST POINT, N.Y., March 17 —(CP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins said Sunday the United States is on the threshold of new developments in weapons that "astound even the most sanguine planner."

The Chief of Staff of the United States Army marked the 150th anniversary of West Point.

He said:

"We are on the threshold of new developments that completely astound even the most sanguine planner. Guided missiles, atomic weapons, jet aircraft, tremendously powerful ammunition and many other advances are all creating a new framework of defence.

"Their implications are so vast and their potential so promising that if we are not careful it is possible that our total national effort could be directed into one specific system to the detriment of other systems, which in time might prove even more effective."

Collins did not elaborate on his reference to new weapons.

Last December, however, Collins said the United States has developed atomic artillery and that it "has been tested as a weapon."

DETROIT, March 17 (CP) — William Morgan-Dean, 68, of Windsor, was arrested Sunday on a charge of selling more than $6,000 worth of stock in a non-existent Canadian gas company.

Mexico Removes Rivera's Mural From Art Palace

MEXICO CITY, March 17 (AP) —Diego Rivera's newest mural, which glorifies Stalin and jibes at the west, has been removed from Mexico's Fine Arts Palace on official order.

Carlos Chavez, director of the National Institute of Fine Arts, said: "The mural hurt various countries which are Mexico's friends . . . it's purpose and use are direct responsibilities of the government."

The new work, entitled "Nightmares of War and Dreams of Peace," shows an avaroicious John Bull of Britain, a cadaverous Uncle Same of the United States, and a blowsy Marianne of France. They are across the globe from a peace-offering and benign Stalin, a dove of peace perched on his outstretched hand. Red China's Mao Tse-tung is with Stalin, casting his eyes toward heaven with saintly compassion.

Below these figures are depicted the horrors of war.

Harriet Nemenoff Of Montreal Best Young Pianist

OTTAWA, March 17 — (CP) — Harriet Nemenoff of Montreal Saturday night defeated 17 young pianists to win the piano concerto finals of the Ottawa District Music Festival.

The young Montreal girl played Khachaturian's piano concerto to win the nod of adjudicator Ronald Biggs over Clare Ellement, 16-year-old high school student. Miss Ellement, played Prokofieff's Concerto No. 3. The entry was the largest in the Festival's history.

Mr. Biggs said both girls played so well that he "really didn't want to get up and talk about it."

Another Montreal girl, Cecile Vallee of Outremont, Que., shared the spotlight with Miss Nemenoff. In the vocal solo section, she won four preliminary classes but placed second to Dorothy Clark of Kingston in the finals.

In the class for the choral trophy the Elgar Memorial ladies choir of Sudbury placed second to McKay United Church choir of Ottawa.

Two Ex-Cabinet Ministers Arrested For Cairo Riots

CHARGED WITH MURDER — Suffering from cold and fright, Harold Deneau, 16, of Windsor, has been captured and charged with the bludgeon-killing of Sidney Goff, 37-year-old farmer near Blackstock, 12 miles north of Oshawa. Deneau, shown in custody of Provincial police constable Jack McKendry following his arrest, had been paroled to the care of Francis Sidney Goff, Sr., father of the victim, last Oct. 2 from the nearby Bowmanville Training School for Boys. The youth, arrested at gunpoint, was found asleep under a pile of sheets in a vacant house about a mile away from the scene of the crime.

Gravedigger Under Arrest For Letter To Schuster

NEW YORK, March 18. (AP)—A grey-haired gravedigger was jailed under heavy bail today on charges he wrote a letter threatening murdered Arnold Schuster "for being a squealer" on bank robber Willie Sutton. But the Federal Bureau of Investigation said he apparently wasn't involved in the killings. He was put under $15,000 bail.

Meanwhile, Sutton himself went on trial for a 1950 holdup. A heavy police guard stuck close to the slippery, three-times prison-breaker, and detectives screened spectators.

At the same time, Brooklyn District-Attorney Miles complained he had no chance to question the gravedigger satisfactorily, and that the F.B.I. left his office in the dark about the arrest.

Schuster, 24-year-old Brooklyn clothing salesman, was killed near his home March 8. Just a month ago on, Feb. 18, Schuster had spotted the bank robber and prison escape artist on a subway train.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation arrested the gravedigger, William Brickerhoff Brown, 61, of New York, Monday night and said he admitted writing Schuster on Feb. 22 that "Your days are numbered for being a squealer on Willie Sutton."

Schuster received about a dozen threats before he was shot.

F.B.I. agents refused to answer reporters' questions on certain aspects of the case—what Brown's motive in writing Schuster might have been, whether the gravedigger was questioned about the murder and how the F.B.I. traced him. However, he was reported to have denied killing Schuster.

Statute Violation

Brown was charged with violating the federal extortion statute.

Sutton and two of his alleged accomplices were up on charges of holding up a branch of the Manufacturers Trust Company for $64,000.

Special security measures included screening all who enter County Judge Peter T. Farrell's court. Guards will be provided for each juror selected.

Co-defendants with the 51-year-old Sutton are Thomas Kling, 45, and John De Venuta, 37. Their arrests followed Sutton's by a few days.

Sutton, known as "the actor" because of the disguises he used in a number of spectacular holdups, already faces life imprisonment for four felony convictions.

Will Halt Recruiting Of Italian Miners

LONDON, March 18 — (CP) —Britain has decided to stop recruiting Italian miners, it was disclosed today.

The National Coal Board, which runs the state-owned mines, made this known in a letter to the National Union of Mineworkers, which originally supported recruitment of Italian labor for work in British pits.

Italians now training here will remain, bringing the total employed when all are placed to slightly more than 2,000. Coal Board officials had hoped to bring in 5,000 by the end of 1952 and another 5,000 next year.

Failure of the experiment is regarded by many commentators here as a wry reflection on human nature. Coal is the key to the British economy, and the Italians so far drawn here from idleness in their home country have shown an eargerness to work that amounted almost to violence.

Allied Guns Rout Chinese

SEOUL, Korea, March 18—(AP) —Allied guns routed 1,000 Chinese Reds who tried to punch through U.N. lines on the western front before dawn today.

A U.S. Eighth Army staff-officer said the scattered attacks along a four-mile sector north west of Korangpo failed to dent the Allied line.

Allied planes prowled North Korean skies but heavy clouds sheltered many Communist ground targets. Fighter-bombers blasted 57 new holes in the wobbly Red rail system before noon. Other attacks were mounted against the Communist front lines.

The western front battle began at 7.50 p.m. Monday (5.30 a.m., EST) with a light Communist probe. At 1.25 a.m. Tuesday a series of company-sized attacks began.

All were kicked back, and the firing ended at 4.30 a.m.

Shoots Woman Down, Then Commits Suicide

MONTREAL, March 18 — (CP) — A man shot a woman to death and then committed suicide early today in suburban Verdun.

Police said the man, identified as Charles Lawton, 34, shot Mrs. Lucy Cotton, 32, and then turned a sawed-off .20 gauge shotgun on himself.

Police said both are separated from their mates, and divorce proceedings are in progress in the two cases.

Neighbours said Mrs. Cotton was starting down the stairs of her apartment to take her six-year-old son Stuart to school when Lawton entered the building. An eye-witness said she ran back into her apartment and closed the door but was unable to lock it before Lawton gained admittance.

20 Ordered Bail Out, Pilot Stays

Guides Plane Past Residential Area, Many Lives Saved

DALLAS, Texas, March 18. (AP)—A missing parachutist who bailed out with 20 others when a Marine pilot ordered them out of a flaming transport was found alive in a hospital today.

Two of the men were killed in parachute accidents. Seven were injured and the rest were unhurt.

The plane's pilot steered the plane over a southeast residential area in Dallas Monday and stuck with it until all aboard had bailed out.

Officials at a veterans hospital southeast of Dallas said the missing parachutist showed up about 7:10 p.m. e.s.t. Monday. They said they didn't know yet how he got there. They identified him as Joseph John Jasso. He had only minor injuries.

The blazing two-engine C-46 crashed and exploded in an open field about one quarter of a mile from a residential area.

Capt. R. C. Wesley, Pensacola, Fla., was the pilot. He parachuted to safety from about 500 feet while the plane was in a dive.

"I stayed with the plane because I wanted to make sure it missed those houses," Wesley said. "I sure hope that falling engine didn't hurt anyone."

Mrs. S. Sikorsky, who lives about one mile from the crash scene, said, "That pilot was wonderful. The plane might have killed a lot of people if it had struck the houses."

Mrs. Sikorsky said she was in the house when it suddenly started shaking. "I looked out the window," she said, "and there was just one big ball of fire with someone coming down in a parachute. It must have been the pilot."

Bound from El Toro, Calif., to Cherry Point, N. C., on a regular transport trip, the plane had landed to refuel at the Dallas Naval Air Station.

Sgt. Harold Cook, the crew chief, said "That left engine started popping right after we left the airport. I flipped the C.O.-2 (fire extinguisher) switch to put out the fire. But instead the flames spread to the wing."

Charge Youth With Murder

BOWMANVILLE, March 18 — (CP)— Harold Deneau, a lanky, 16-year-old farmhand from Windsor, today was formally charged with the bludgeon murder of Sidney Goff, 37, whoe body was found Sunday in the barn of his father's farm.

Deneau, whom police found asleep Monday in a vacant house about two miles from the barn, was remanded in custody without plea until March 25.

The farm of Sidney Goff, sr., is near Burketon, a community about 15 miles northwest of here and 12 miles north of Oshawa.

Sees Truce Talks In Korea Successful, Acheson Says

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP) —State Secretary Dean Acheson said today he believes the Korean truce negotiations will be successful but he cautioned against "either optimism or pessimism."

Acheson was before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to urge approval of the full $7,900,000,000 the Truman administration asks for foreign aid.

Under questions from Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep. Wis.) Acheson's testimony became in effect a quick review of foreign affairs:

1. The United States is "continually working" to get its allies to provide a larger portion of troops in Korea—without success so far.

2. The situation in Indo-China, where the French are locked in battle with Communist-led forces, is "very serious" and will remain so until the French can put a large, trained native force in the field.

3. He is confident that France, despite its recent government crisis, will carry out its commitments to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and that Germany will do the same.

4. All the N.A.T.O. countries are taking steps to check inflation which, by increasing costs, is a threat to their preparedness efforts.

5. The State Department hopes that negotiations to use some of Spain's facilities in the western defence effort will bear fruit after the new U.S. Ambassador to Spain, Lincoln McVeath, arrives in Madrid.

As for the bill before the Senators, Acheson said he feels that needed items were cut "to the limit of safety" when the $7,900,000,000 measure was framed.

Acheson said, too, that economic as well as military aid must be provided to other free countries or else "you are not going to get what you are seeking here"—that is, a western European defence force strong enough to resist any Soviet aggression.

U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Makes Rendezvous With Disabled UK Freighter Bobbing On Sea

SEATTLE, March 18 (AP)—The U. S. coast guard cutter Winona made a rendezvous in the north Pacific at 1:30 a.m. E.S.T. with the disabled British freighter Darton, bobbing helplessly in the storm-tossed sea.

The Winona radioed coast guard headquarters here the Darton was riding out a 55-mile-an-hour gale and appeared to be in no danger.

The cutter said she was standing by until the Canadian tug Salvage King reached the scene Monday night from Victoria, B. C.

The coast guard said the inbound freighter had drifted 73 miles south-easterly since she lost a propeller Sunday and now was about 390 miles off the northern Washington coast.

The Darton was en route to Portland, Ore., from the Far East when her propeller came off. An estimated 50 men are aboard.

Ottawa Names Directors For New Company Handling Atomic Program

OTTAWA, March 18, (CP)—The government today named nine directors for the new Crown company that will direct Canada's atomic program and significantly included four representatives of firms interested in the production of power. This was seen as a sign that outside interests are to be kept in contact with and to have a say about the drive to harness the atom for power purposes in Canada. The four directors from power firms represent the Ontario and Quebec Hydro Commissions, Calgary Power Limited and the Shawinigan Water and Power Co.

The new company, Atomic Energy of Canada, Limited, will be headed by Dr. C. J. MacKenzie, president of the Atomic Energy Control Board, the advisory board which maps atomic policy for the government.

Dr. Mackenzie relinquishes the Presidency of the National Research Council to take over the presidency of the new company. The company will take over Canada's big atomic energy plant at Chalk River, at present operated by N. R. C.

Other Members.

W. J. Bennett, member of the Atomic Energy Control Board and President of Eldorado Mining and Refining (1944) Limited, Ottawa. Eldorado is the crown company which produced uranium.

E. R. Birchard, vice-president (Administration) National Research Council, Ottawa.

Rene Dupuis, commissioner of the Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission, Montreal.

G. A. Gaherty, president of Calgary Power Limited, Calgary.

Dr. A. R. Gordon head of the department of Chemistry, University of Toronto.

R. L. Hearn, general manager and chief engineer of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Toronto.

Huet Massue, engineer economist with the Shawinigan Water and Power Company, Montreal.

V. W. Scully, member of the Atomic Energy Control Board and comptroller of the Steel Company of Canada, Ltd., Hamilton.

Deny Sick Bull Has F-M Disease

OTTAWA, March 18 (CP) — The government's chief veterinarian said today there is no indication of foot-and-mouth disease in a farm animal under observation near Shelburne, Ont.

Dr. T. Childs, veterinary director-general in the agriculture department, said the animal, a bull, has been under observation five days after coming down with an undiagnosed disease, with some symptoms similar to those of foot-and-mouth.

"But so far as we can tell, it is not foot-and-mouth," he said. "If it were, other animals in the herd (of 25) would have been infected by now."

Dr. Childs said the farm has been quarantined, adding that "we always do that as a precautionary measure when we cannot make a definite diagnosis."

He said no foot-and-mouth cases have been diagnosed in Ontario, and, so far as is known, the disease is still contained within the original quarantine area around Regina.

Gold Miners Authorize Strike

TIMMINS, March 18 — (CP)— For the second time in a year employees of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines have given their union executive the power to call a strike.

The men—members of Local 4305, United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.)—decided Sunday to stop work if necessary to force the company to carry out terms of an agreement which settled a 52-day strike last year.

The 1951 strike was settled Aug. 30 by a memorandum which granted pay increases of 16 cents an hour. The present dispute hinges on whether or not the memorandum is a collective agreement inforceable under the Ontario Labor Relations Act.

The Ontario Labor Relations Board heard the question Feb. 13 but has not yet given a decision.

C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) said that the situation at the mine is "explosive."

Under the agreement union and company negotiators were to work out a job evaluation plan. When the talks failed, the company put its own plan into effect.

Gun Crews Load Up Find Enemy—Geese

SEOUL, Korea, March 18 — (Reuters) — Radar technicians sounded a general air raid alert early this morning when they located a slow-moving formation approaching Allied lines from the Yellow Sea at low altitude.

Gun crews loaded up. Jet fighter pilots sprang from beds. Ground searchlights swept the skies.

The formation, travelling at 85 M.P.H., headed towards the south Korean capital of Seoul over Inchon Port, 20 miles to the west.

Then the searchlights picked up the "enemy"—a gleaming white formation of snow geese. The all-clear sounded and everybody went back to bed.

Steel Strike Likely Delayed

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP) —Most of the steel industry appeared today to be betting that a steel strike in the United States threatened for midnight Sunday will be postponed.

U.S. Steel Corp., the largest producer, had expressed intention of starting to shut down its ferro-manganese operations today. But the corporation apparently reversed that stand and held off a formal shutdown announcement.

Of all the large steel companies only Jones & Laughlin has any definite close down plans. It will start closing Wednesday.

The Wage Stabilization Board is expected to make public its recommendations Thursday for settling the dispute.

It is also the day fixed by the United Steel Workers (C.I.O.) for replying to a government request for a strike postponement at least until April 8.

Kitchener Tax Rate Now Set At 68 Mills

KITCHENER, March 18 — (CP) Kitchener and neighboring Waterloo Monday night set their tax rates at 68 mills, highest in the history of both cities.

The new rate is a 8½-mill increase for Kitchener and an increase of nine mills for Waterloo.

The tax rate increase was caused in part by the construction of the new $3,000,000 Kitchener-Waterloo hospital and new schools. In Kitchener a new $1,200,000 Memorial Auditorium was built.

Pair Taken To Villages, No Charges

First Major Blow Believed Aimed At Wafdist Party

CAIRO, March 18. (AP) — The arrest of two key members of the ousted Wafdist party cabinet—party strong man Fuad Serag El Din Pasha and former Social Affairs Minister Abdel Fattah Hassan Pasha—was reported early today.

A high-ranking police source said police took them under escort to two villages in northern Egypt.

No charges so far had been announced, but Egypt's prosecutor general recently accused Serag El Din of "administrative responsibility" in the destructive fire riots here Jan. 26.

The key Wafdist was interior minister in the anti-British cabinet of Mustapha El Nahas Pasha which King Farouk ousted after the fire riots.

Abdel Fattah Hassan had been accused by anti-Wafdist circles of making a speech Jan. 26 which "excited the population."

Cordon Off Homes

Strong police detachments cordoned off the homes of the two men shortly after midnight. An escort took Serag El Din to his estate at Bilbeis village and Hassan to Bassioun, where they are being detained.

Political circles term the arrests the "first major blow" aimed by the independent government of Ahmed Naguib Hilaly Pasha against the Wafdist party.

Hilaly has pledged his cabinet to clean up corruption in Egypt.

Only last Saturday Hilaly in a broadcast accused the Wafd of "planning to instigate in Egypt a sedition which will expose the country again to anarchy and destruction."

Serag El Din, secretary-general of the powerful anti-British Wafd party, is considered one of its policy makers.

Statements Aggravated Trouble

The prosecutor general's report, made public earlier this month, said Wafdist government statements on the bloody clash between Egyptian police and British troops at Ismailia on Jan. 25 stirred up popular anger and contributed to the fire riots the next day.

The prosecutor added that the interior minister, Serag El Din, and responsible members of his staff failed to take action to prevent or halt the riots.

The Wafdist, riding a crest of popular unrest and nationalist hatred of the British, won a landslide victory in the elections two years ago.

The party's executive committee has issued a declaration of non-co-operation with Hilaly's government.

Queen Juliana To Visit Canada

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, March 18 (AP). — Queen Juliana will visit Canada following her state visit to the United States next month, the court announced today.

On her Canadian tour she will not be accompanied by her husband, Prince Bernhard, who has a lecture engagement in New York.

Verify Northern Lights Just Celestial Hailstorms

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 18 — The northern lights, or aurora borealis, are celestrial hailstorms. The hail is a rain of charged hydrogen atoms coming from the sun.

The verification of this storm was reported today at Cornell University's Department of Physics. It was done with instruments which break light into rainbow colors.

Dr. Carl W. Gratlein, Cornell physicist, calculated that if this hail causes the northern lights, the instruments would show it when sighted both from directly underneath and from far off to one side.

Underneath the motion would be directly down. From the side the downward movement would appear to be sweeping across, but with scattered motions toward and away from the southern observer.

These measurements were made and showed the two motions. The sighting directly underneath an aurora was done in Arnprior Ont., by H. S. Stevinson, a Canadian government scientist. The lights were sighted from the side at Cornell.

They gave speed of about 1,600 miles a second to the downrushing hydrogen. Our sun shoots these atoms out from its face by some unknown process.

The Cornell work is sponsored by the Evans Signal Laboratory of the U. S. Signal Corps, and the National Georgraphic Society.

Kawartha Anglers Ask Law Changes To Improve Fishing

By NICK NICKELS

TORONTO, March 18.—Several district representatives of the Kawarthas and the immediate vicinity tabled resolutions today at the first meeting of the legislative committee representing fish and game problems. The morning session was devoted to problems of fish and fishing. Representing 90 members of the Rice Lake Tourist Association, A. J. Soper, Trent Valley Lodge, presented a petition for the third time about drifting and casting for pickerel from boats during the month of June.

The tourist operators' season, he said, was all too short and it was thought that the tourist season could be greatly extended if drifting and casting from boats were adopted. Mr. Soper also requested that the 'lunge season be started this year on June 28.

His association wants more protection by game wardens, i.e. more wardens receiving a higher wage than is being paid at the present time.

Pay Wardens More

The matter of more wardens at a better scale of wages seemed to be the appeal from several representatives throughout the province. President of Northern Ontario Outfitters Association, Len Hughes of North Bay, offered the practical solution to this problem by asking that all Ontario anglers over the age of 16 be taxed a $1 rod license each year. He was roundly applauded by the general assembly.

A. E. Hicks, chairman of Victoria county council committee, Lindsay, requested fishing hours be restricted from sunrise to sunset in season. His committee felt that the extremely heavy fishing done by night pickerel fishermen, chiefly at the dams of the Trent system at Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls and Rosedale, was sadly depleting the stock of pickerel.

Honorary president of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, Blake Uren, who represented the Orillia Fish and Game Club, said that there was too much ice-fishing pressure in Lake Simcoe. Whitefish and lake trout were being depleted in over-fishing of the reported 3,000 ice fishing shanties that spread over Lake Simcoe from Keswick to Beaverton. Mr. Uren's unique association solution to the lack of game wardens was that his club was prepared to hire their own warden, either full or part time, with the approval of the department.

Diplomatic Shuffle Believed Imminent

OTTAWA, March 18 (CP)—A shuffle in the highest levels of Canada's diplomatic officials is understood to be imminent. It is expected to affect Canadian representation both in Washington and London.

The key to the move is the need to appoint a senior official to represent Canada on the new full-time North Atlantic Council.

The shuffle is expected to affect most—and possibly all—of these officials:

A. D. P. Heeney, undersecretary of state for external affairs; Hume Wrong, ambassador to Washington, and L. Dana Wilgress, high commissioner in London.

Hoffman Tells Eisenhower Leave Command

PARIS, March 18 (AP)—Paul G. Hoffman said today in effect that he has told Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower he ought to make plans to give up his command and go home to help campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

From now on Eisenhower's political life is going to interfere with his command of the army of the Atlantic alliance, Hoffman said, explaining:

"He's just going to be subjected to political pressures from morning to night. That means that he will not be in a position to meet his operational responsibilities in S.H.A.P.E. (Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe)."

No Comment

Hoffman, former Marshall-plan chief, repeated to reporters the views he had presented to Eisenhower in conferences that began at dinner Saturday night and went into long hours Monday.

"The general, as usual, looked pleasant but made no comment," Hoffman added.

There was no indication Hoffman had asked Eisenhower to leave his European command at once. It developed from other quarters that he told the general that a better time will be after most of the primaries were finished. Then, if the voters went for him as they did in New Hampshire, he would have the "clear-cut call" he agreed to heed Jan. 7.

Decide Driver To Stand Trial

BOWMANVILLE, March 18 — (CP)—James Holtby, 41, today was committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the Jan. 26 highway death of George S. Oulds, 47, of Hamilton township, 20 miles northeast of here.

Oulds was a passenger in an automobile driven by George James Smith, 20, of Cooksville, which was involved in a collision with a truck operated by Holtby near Newtonville.

Oulds was a resident of Hamilton township for about four years. He came originally from Chatham.

Left are Mr. Oulds' wife and four young children—Burnie 7, Darlene 5, Danny 4, and Wayne 18 months.

He was killed when a car in which he was hitch-hiking a ride, crashed into a milk truck, driven by Holtby; Smith, the driver of the car, was taken to Bowmanville hospital with a broken arm, broken leg and slight concussion.

The five-ton milk truck apparently swung over onto the wrong side of the road. Both vehicles met headon in the right lane of traffic.

When fatally injured, Oulds, a trucker for 23 years, was hitch-hiking home, just south of Bewdley.

New Mexico Suffers One Of Worst Storms

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., March 18—(AP)—High winds from the west lashed parched range and farm lands in eastern New Mexico and west Texas Monday, churning up the worst dust storm in years.

A small tornado damaged roofs, uprooted trees and disrupted electrical power in Wichita Falls, Tex.

In the west Texas-New Mexico area, the wind whipped around a mixture of rain, snow, hail and sand.

Precious top soil, dried to dust by what has been called one of the worst droughts in the southwest, whirled high into the air. The wind reached a top velocity of 110 miles an hour at Wink, Tex.

Snow left by the storm blocked three New Mexico highways.

Farmers Angry No Bans Imposed On Dairy Imports

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., March 18. (CP) — Canadian dairy men are up in arms against the apparent reluctance of the Canadian government to impose sweeping bans on dairy imports. Gilbert McMillan, president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, told the National Dairy Council Monday that the government is leaving itself open to "severe criticism" for declining to take such action. With milk production in Canada climbing and with imported products such as cheese under-selling the Canadian producers, it was possible that dairy prices may break in the spring and that some cheese factories may remain closed, he said.

Mr. McMillan made these other points:

1. The dairy industry should get together with consumers to work out a "sound" formula on milk prices.

2. Internal jealousies among various segments of the dairy industry should be eliminated and the industry should concentrate on winning the good will of the public.

Regrettable Lapse

He said it was "very regrettable" that the government has made no move to ban imports, even when other countries with no emergency conditions to worry about have restricted imports of Canadian products.

With weather and growth conditions the same as 1951, the dairy industry might produce more milk than it anticipated, thus upsetting the whole industry, Mr. McMillan said.

A break in dairy prices might be of some temporary advantage to Canadian consumers, but it would be "fatal" to dairy farmers and "eventually for our whole economy."

Mr. McMillan, a Huntingdon, Que., farmer, suggested import controls would not have to be permament. The government could impose them and rescind them at any time.

But to sit back and take no action "until we are in a mess, does not make sense to me," he said.

Don't Expect Cet Ship Money

OTTAWA, March 18 (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott said Monday the government's hopes of collecting the $12,000,000 owing on the seven controversial Ming Sung ships are "somewhat remote."

But, he told George Drew, leader of the opposition, that the government has not cancelled the order-in-council under which the Ming Sung firm was given permission to fly the Canadian ensign from the craft.

The issue was revived in the Commons by Mr. Drew over news of the death of Lu Tso-fu, the wealthy Chinese whose firm bought the seven ships in Canada after the war.

The ships are at Canton, in Communist China, and outside Canada's reach. The Ming Sung firm owes Canadian banks $12,000,000 for them and the government stands to lose the money because it guaranteed the loans.

The ships provoked a Commons controversy last year over charges that they carried contraband from Hong Kong to Red China. When the first installment on the loans came due, the ships were taken to Red China and kept there.

The loans to Ming Sung were still in default. The government had paid the banks the first installment and there was remote hope that Ming Sung could be made to pay up.

Expect Royal Commission Begin Inquiry Soon At Windsor Hospital

TORONTO, March 18. (CP)—A Royal Commission inquiry into alleged irregularities at the East Windsor Hospital for Incurables is expected to begin soon following Monday's order-in-council appointment of Gordon Fraser, prominent Windsor lawyer, as Royal Commissioner. Attorney-General Porter announced the appointment in the Ontario legislature minutes after Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt gave royal assent to a bill permitting the inquiry. The bill, which passed through the legislature in only four days, provides for investigations of hospitals or any organization receiving provincial grants.

Mr. Porter gave no indication Monday of the reason for the investigation, beyond his statement of last Wednesday that certain irregularities had been reported by Frank Brobst, chairman of the hospital's board of governors.

The legislature today continues the throne speech debate, which concludes Wednesday with speeches by Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver and the attorney-general.

Ready For Budget

This will clear the way for the budget to be presented Thursday by Premier Frost.

The assembly adjourned debate Monday on second reading of a bill to extend the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act.

Three news members — Ellis Morningstar (PC-Welland), Robert Herbert (PC-Timiskaming) and J. P. Johnstone (PC-Bruce) —spoke in Monday's debate.

Labor Minister Daley reviewed the development of workmen's compensation. He said that single compensation was begun in Ontario in 1915, more than $329,000,000 had been paid on more than 3,000,000 accident claims.

He said three Toronto policemen, Edward Tong, Roy Perry, and Ronald Deadman, wounded by bandits, would benefit from compensation and receive treatment as long as they needed it.

Amendments in the present bill extend coverage to citizens who are commandeered to assist policemen in making arrests or maintaining order, to members of volunteer fire brigades, and to apprentices and learners.

Accept Recommendations

The changes, Mr. Daley said, complete all but one of the recommendations made in the 1950 Royal Commission report on workmen's compensation by Mr. Justice W. D. Roach.

The government was still considering the final recommendation, that employees be given representation on accident prevention boards, which now are organized by employer groups.

Mr. Morningstar suggested formation of an appeal board to rule on borderline cases where employees were found ineligible for compensation.

Mr. Herbert said prices in Northern Ontario towns were higher than elsewhere because of freight charges by the provincially-owned Ontario Northland Railway.

A reduction in freight rates would lower prices and encourage the establishment of new industries.

Stock Price Drift On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 18 (CP) — Stock market prices drifted irregularly lower today in early afternoon dealings.

Western oils checked yesterday's profit-taking with an opening show of strength. The rally was short-lived, however, as support weakened again within the first hour.

Industrial dealings spread slowly from leading issues and a few golds and metals attracted interest. Volume for the first three hours was 2,013,000 shares.

Losses among oils ranged from pennies to about 50 cents. Calgary and Edmonton, Canadian Atlantic, Home Oil, National Petroleum and Pacific Petroleum were among issues lower. Federated Petroleum, Punch and United Oil pushed upward.

Steels and refining oils led industrials lower with a scattered list of fractional losses. Papers, utilities, liquors and manufacturing companies also weakened but banks and retail stores edged upward.

Base metal leaders eased as East Sullivan, Golden Manitou, Hudson Bay and Steep Rock slipped. Chromium, Mindamar, Noranda and Sherritt-Gordon climbed moderately.

Senior golds sagged as Dome, Lake Shore and McIntyre turned lower. Juniors also dipped while prospects held gains and losses in balance.

U.K. Not Worried About Germ Charges

London, March 18 (AP). — A foreign office spokesman said today British authorities are convinced there is no foundation for Communist claims that United Nations forces are waging germ warfare in Korea.

He was commenting on press reports from Moscow which said a British lawyer, who visited North Korea, backed the charges.

The spokesman recalled that similar "unfounded reports" came from North Korea "when they had plague there last year."

Moscow press reports identified the British lawyer merely as "Gaster."

Leroy Reddick, 30, a Negro, was arrested in connection with the attempted holdup on a technical charge of idleness. He is at liberty under $5,000 bond pending arraignment in police court March 21.

Reds Propose 4 Port Changes

MUNSAN, Korea, March 18 (CP)—Communist negotiators today proposed four changes in the port which will bring men and supplies into Korea during an armistice. They also declared they could not answer seven Allied questions about exchange of prisoners.

The United Nations command rejected the proposed port changes and said it would wait for the Reds to figure out the prisoner answers.

Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, U.N. command spokesman said he did not believe the port problem would take long to solve. He seemed optimistic over the prisoner situation and said the Reds appeared to be really "studying the questions."

Communist staff officers tried to change two of the five entry ports the Allies had proposed for each side.

facilities were not sufficient to keep lakes stocked for the unprecedented tourist and domestic fishing pressure.

A royal commission to study water pollution was asked by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters in a brief to the legislature's fish and game committee.

Legislation dealing with pollution "is not only inadequate but is entirely outmoded," the Federation said in a brief read by Ken Clarke of Kingston, its president.

The government should also set up a control board to take continuing responsibility for pollution, the federation sid.

Lands Minister Scott said a report made on pollution of the Spanish river at Espanola will be tabled in the legislature. The minister was replying to a statement by Mr. Clarke that there was a growing public feeling that Spanish river investigation was made only as a "stay" for public opinion.

Other federation requests included a plea that conservation be speeded in southern Ontario by permitting river valley authorities to widen their activities. The brief asked for some control over operation of dams which affected water levels, particularly during spawning seasons.

Lake trout fishing should be banned on all inland waters during the spawning season, the federation said.

Since 1949 Lord Lndsay has been principal of the university college of North Staffordshire.

Truman Feared War On Two Occasions

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER.

WASHINGTON, March 18 —(AP) — President Truman secretly feared on two occasions in recent years that a Third World War was about to break out.

He saw that explosive threat first in the Berlin crisis in September, 1948, and again in the United Nations reverses in Korea in December, 1950, after Red China intervened.

Truman recorded his anxieties over war —along with his privately-noted thoughts on Stalin, Russia, preventive war and various other foreign matters —in personal papers published today in the book "Mr. President."

The book, published by Farrar, Straus and Young, Inc., was written by William Hillman, former newspaperman who now is a radio commentator for the Mutual Broadcasting System.

Didn't Fool.

The papers also disclose that Truman once sent a message to the Kremlin that Stalin was not a man of his word, and the President once read State Secretary James F. Byrnes a stiff lecture on who was boss of U. S. Foreign policy and on the need for a tough attitude toward Russia.

In the Byrnes memorandum, possibly the most sensational item in the book, Truman said sharply that he, not Byrnes, would make final foreign-policy decisions and he added bluntly: "I'm tired babying the Russians.

That was in January, 1946, and Byrnes, then one of the President's closest advisers, had just been to Moscow where he made agreements which critics characterized as appeasment of the Russians.

Truman's account gives no hint as to Byrnes' response.

Byrnes resigned a year later. He denied that Truman had given him a "stiff lecture."

Saw Danger Growing.

Here are some of the chief points the book makes about Truman and foreign-policy matters:

1. When Russia's blockade of Berlin was six months old, the President was briefed by his military chiefs on Sept. 13, 1948. On "bases, bombs, Moscow, Leningrad, and the like,"

Truman wrote afterwards: "I have a terrible feeling that we are very close to war."

2. On Dec. 9, 1950, a month after massive Chinese armies struck in Korea, Truman wrote that the nation faced a jittery world and confided:

"I have worked for peace for five years and six months, and it looks like World War III is near."

3. In the Byrnes memorandum of January, 1946, Truman called for an end to compromise with Russia and said: "Unless Russia is faced with an iron fist and strong language another war is in the making. Only one language do they understand —how many divisons have you?"

4. A message to Stalin in March 1946, sent through Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith at Moscow said Truman was dissappointed that Stalin had not kept his word to get Russian troops out of Iran by March 2. He also told Smith to "urge Stalin" to visit America.

Constable Foils Safe Crackers

COBOURG, Mar. 18 (ENS) — Safe crackers broke into the A & P store, here, early Sunday morning—but were frightened away by a constable on his night rounds before they could get to work.

Using a brace and bit they bored several holes in the shape of a square in the roof, at a point hidden from the street and then kicked the square in. They went in via the hole and then opened the back door, apparently to bring in the equipment. At 1:30 a.m. Constable E. Butler arrived on his rounds and four the door open. Apparently the robbers saw him coming and departed hastily.

In the store police found a short crow bar, a brace and bit, hack-saw and a long bar such as is used for laying rails on a railroad. Later Chief of Police H. Pearse found near the store a cloth in which was wrapped a number of explosive brass shells about 25 calibre, equipped with electric detonators, and 100 feet of electric wire, also a breast drill and the gun case of a 30 cal. Mauser automatic pistol, such as would be owned by a gun collector.

Allow State To Buy Bonds

TRENTON, N.J., March 18 (AP) —The New Jersey asembly has passed a bill which would permit the state to invest in bonds backed by the Canadian government.

The bill, which now goes to the senate, was passed Monday by a vote of 38 to 16 after argument over whether state investment standards were being lowered.

Assemblyman C. William Haines (Rep. Burlington) attacked the bill, saying that it was "letting down bars" put up two years ago by legislation which created a special state investment council, and which set forth bonds that could be invested in.

The legislation was passed after a lengthy investigation disclosed that certain brokers were making large profits by dealing with the state.

Haines also attacked the proposed bill on the ground that "it is not up to the state of New Jersey to put money into other countries—the federal government is doing enough of that."

Warns Builders To Keep Costs Down

TORONTO, March 18 (CP) — Canadians are clamoring for more new homes and builders can sell more if only they can keep costs down, Dr. O. J. Firestone said today.

The economic adviser to the Trade Department and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation said he realized that it isn't easy to keep costs down, especially when labor is asking for higher wages and prices of materials keep rising.

But the building industry had to understand the "basic facts," he said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Ontario Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

"Even with plentiful materials and more liberal financing, the building industry must be able to produce a house at a price that the majority of Canadians can afford to pay if the industry wants to keep busy and lumber dealers want to sell large quantities of lumber in the domestic market."

Much Competition

"It is pretty important to remember that there is not only competition among business men in one industry but also competition between different kinds of commodities for the consumer dollar. And if we have faith in competition, then we should do our utmost to make it work for our benefit."

With Canadians earning more and saving more than they did before the Second World War, the Canadian standard of living is rising and with it has come a big demand for Canadian lumber.

In fact, Canadians, said Dr. Firestone, could enjoy a still higher standard of living and more income, if they chose to work the same hours they did before the war. Instead the trend is towards less work and more leisure and the "non-material pursuits of life".

Even so, the average income of a working person in 1951 amounted to $2,980, almost three times the average $1,058 earned in 1939.

On the business side, corporation profits quadrupled to $2,500,000,000 in 1951 from $658,000,000 in 1939. Capital expenditures by business skyrocketed to $2,900,000,000 from $400,000,000.

Wave Of Prosperity

All this has meant a great wave of prosperity for Canadians. But business men had to face up to the fact "that periods of great buoyancy are usually followed by some slackening."

On the strength of the current wave of prosperity, the market for lumber in Canada was growing. A half-century ago Canada absorbed about one-quarter of her lumber production, exporting the other three-quarters. By 1951, she was absorbing almost one-half her production.

But the lumber industry, as any other business, had to remain competitive. Otherwise Canada may see greater use of substitute materials such as cement and light metals in home and furniture production.

Rotary Turns Green Monday

CAMPBELLFORD, March 18 — (ENS) —The "wearin' 'o' the green" was quite in evidence at the Monday noon luncheon of the Campbellford Rotary Club, when special Irish songs were sung in honor of those who claimed direct or indirect connection with the Emerald Isle.

Rotarians the Rev. J. McKibbin and Leo Doherty arrived a trifle late at the meeting, but made up for their lateness by dancing an Irish Jig and brandishing a real old shillelagh, brought over from Eire more than 200 years ago.

The club voted to purchase windbreakers and crests of the championship OMHA Midget C hockey team they sponsored this year. Club members were unanimous in their willingness to present the boys with something worthwhile as a token of their victory. Coach Howard Wilson and Manager Lloyd Taylor were guests at the meeting, and were both moved a hearty vote of thanks for their efforts on behalf of the boys.

Murray Stephens gave his classification speech at the meeting, and told of the growth of the chain of retail food stores, one of which he manages in Campbellford. At the close of his talk, Mr. Stephens presented each member and guest with a pound of coffee, a product of his company.

Say Libel Law Being Crippled

LEEDS, England, March 18 — (CP)—W. P. Andrews, editor of The Yorkshire Post, said today certain Labor members of parliament are trying to "cripple" a libel law now before the House of Commons.

Andrews was referring to a bill to revise and clarify the British law of libel and slander. The Bill, introduced by a Labor backbencher, was given second reading—approval in principle—Feb. 1 and now is in committee stage.

Andrews wrote in his Conservative newspaper it had been generally agreed, not just by Conservatives, that the libel law was grotesque and iniquitous. But now that a reform bill was before the House some Socialist members were "hostile because it will help the press."

Lever's bill, in general, would enlarge the latitude for fair comment and honest error. After receiving third reading in the Commons, it must go through the House of Lords before receiving Royal assent.

The Grand Jury Is A Safeguard

Last week a grand jury in Toronto made a recommendation that grand juries be abolished. Such recommendations are made from time to time and are wisely disregarded. People who want to get rid of grand juries are no doubt moved by a desire to save public money, and to put an end to a procedure which seems to them to be useless. But we think that their attitude is a shallow and short-term one; grand juries were needed in the past, and they may be needed in the future. If they are not especially necessary at present, that is a matter for congratulation, but not for rash action.

* * *

The grand jury is a safeguard against corrupt magistrates and legal officials. The magistracy in Ontario at present is not corrupt, and legal officials do their duty ably, for the most part. Therefore a grand jury has little to do when it hears Crown evidence but to bring in a true bill and let the trial proceed in due form. But grand juries were brought into being because judges and lawyers were not always honest, and we have no guarantee that a time may not come again when the grand jury will have its task of thwarting what might be abuses of justice. It does not take long for a country to become corrupt, and it is unwise to throw away any safeguard against corruption which our forefathers have won for us. Let us be glad indeed that we have honest magistrates and conscientious prosecutors, but let us not deceive ourselves that the situation could not change.

* * *

The grand jury has another duty, which is to inspect certain public buildings and report on them. Now it is true that the grand jury has no power to enforce any recommendations it makes, but it has a considerable moral power for this reason: a grand jury is made up of ordinary citizens who have no axes to grind, and its word therefore carries weight with other citizens. The censure of a grand jury does not set any wheels turning, but it arouses public opinion, and that is worth doing.

* * *

The grand jury does a very valuable thing in bringing the average sensible, conscientious layman into courts of justice and giving him some part in the administration of justice. We must take care that justice never becomes the special preserve of a priesthood of lawyers and judges and officials; justice belongs to Everyman, and Everyman exerts his power when he sits on the grand jury. If he has no need to exert his power, let him congratulate himself, but let him keep his seat and all his privileges.

Not A Pioneer At 96

Yesterday the oldest resident of Smith township died at the age of 96. It was a fine great age to have achieved, but it is not for this reason that we mention the death of Thomas Milburn. The fact which attracts attention is that this lifelong resident of the suburban township of Peterborough was, even after ninety-six years of farming life there, not a pioneer settler. Nor was his father, Thomas, before him. The pioneer Milburn, the first into this district, was Thomas W., who came to Smith township in 1818, a year before Adam Scott settled to build his mill on the townsite which was to become Peterborough.

Peterborough and its district are aging. There are still in central and northern parts of the county—in Harvey and north of it—first generation settlers—but in Smith, Otonabee and other central townships, families now go back to the fifth and sixth generations under honoured pioneer names like Edmison, Birdsall and Milburn.

The link that the late Thomas Milburn was with the past—a third generation bearer of the name—may not be astonishing even in the Canadian West. But this good and worthy citizen was 96; for 96 years he had lived on the Centre Line of Smith, a grandson of the pioneer Thomas Milburn of Smith.

A Strong Germany

Immediately after the war the peacemakers were concerned to keep Germany forever weak—weak enough that she would never again be able to arm. The principle—if principle it was, and not armistice hysteria—has now been deserted. Russia is arming East Germany; the western allies are arming West Germany. Both sides realize that Germans are militarily skilful; both sides are prepared to use German men and German genius to defend themselves.

In addition to her armed strength, Germany is regaining her economic power. The need for an economically sound Germany with flourishing heavy as well as light industries was realized—even before the West and the East went at each other's throats. The post-war desolation of Europe could not be repaired without the revival of an economically strong Germany, for Germany is central to Europe's trade and commerce.

The total change in attitude towards Germany was shown by Mr. Lester Pearson's radio address a few days ago. Mr. Pearson can speak not only as Canada's Minister of External Affairs but as one of the principal figures behind the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He said: "The question, as I see it, is not whether Germany will remain weak and disarmed, or become strong again. Whatever we do or do not do, Germany will, in time, become strong." Thus he sums up the political realism of the German case; Germany's case-history in the last hundred years has given the world much trouble, but there it is, according to Mr. Pearson.

He went on to say that the important point is to make sure that this strength does not once again become a menace to peace:

"That could happen by Germany moving into the Communist camp when it would be armed, as Poland is now armed, as a satellite state of Moscow and under the orders of the Kremlin. It could happen also by Germany falling under the control of a Nazi nationalist and militarist movement which would isolate Germany from the West. It might also happen by Germany becoming a power vacuum—when those Communist forces who know so well how to fill such a vacuum would move in. The real significance of our Lisbon decision is that a free and democratic Germany, which is going to grow stronger, can do so now as a member of the European Defence Community and in close association with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Germany will be one member of a group of states which will include France, the United States and the United Kingdom—and, of course, Canada."

The argument is ingenious and realistic. It is a continuation of the old argument after the Great War; only now a definite stand on the side of a strong Germany has been taken. After Versailles, some critics say, too much help was given the Germans; governments of other countries looked the other way when they saw Germany re-arming after 1933. Thus Germany was able to wage the heavy Second World War. Historians in the opposite camp says that too little help was given the Weimar Republic after 1920 and that the Versailles peace terms were oppressive. Thus Germany went into economic and social chaos, out of which Nazism was bred. They say that if democracy had been adequately supported by outside democratic countries there would have been no Hitler and no war. NATO is in this camp now. It is an argument on which history can never make a decision. France was in economic and social chaos after the Great War, too; but France never reared a Hitler therefrom.

Who Is Being Taught The Lesson?

Seventeen Boards of Education in Ontario have grouped themselves "to sponsor resolutions asking trustee associations to take action to resist pressure brought to bear by the powerful Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation." The Peterborough Board is not one of the seventeen, but we think that it might join the group with advantage, for we are told by a Toronto informant that Peterborough is one of the communities which is to be "taught a lesson" by the Federation; we presume that this means that if the local Board does not meet the demands of the Federation in the matter of salaries, it will have trouble in staffing the new Collegiate.

We base this assumption on what has happened in Hamilton. The Board there recently refused to accept a salary schedule presented by the Federation, and the following notice to Federation members was sent out by the general secretary, Mr. S. G. B. Robinson:

"Therefore, until further notice, any member of this federation who accepts a position in the Hamilton secondary schools after this date will be doing so contrary to OSSTF policy and will not receive any support from this federation in salary negotiations or any aid in any professional difficulty in which the member may find himself or herself while teaching in the Hamilton secondary schools."

In other words, Hamilton is blackballed by the Federation.

Now a Board of Education is an elected body, and it cannot take dictation about salaries from the Federation without giving thought to the people it represents. We sometimes receive the impression that the Federation does not look beyond the Board to the people whose stewards the Board are. Therefore it is not a Board of Education which is "taught a lesson" by the Federation, but the community which the Board serves. If the Federation chooses to put its negotiations on such a plane, we think that Boards of Education do wisely to federate themselves, and to hire clever negotiators to work for them. It would be disagreeable to deal with a respected professional group on this level, but it is the Federation which has set the tone of the dispute.

Hindus mystics say Hitler lost the war because his swastika emblem faced left—a horrible insult to Vishnu. It seems a pity Vishnu didn't notice the insult before Adolf started a war.

Saving Franc And Figure

By NORA BELOFF (in Paris)

MANY French gentlemen on the wrong side of forty, with a connoisseur's appreciation of good food, spend quite large sums at watering places to preserve their figures. A drastic and cheaper method is to stay in Paris and become Prime Minister.

Plump and buoyant Edgar Faure, aged forty three and last French Premier (i.e. M. Pinay's predecessor) stayed in office six weeks and reported on the day of his fall that he had lost seven kilograms—about one stone (14 pounds).

◇ ◇ ◇

THE slimming cure is the result of nonstop hard work night and day; nights to keep the parliamentary majority from falling apart, as it ultimately did; days to keep all the Ministers of the coalition pulling in the same direction. It was revealed afterwards that M. Faure's Minister for Posts and Telegraphs had been conducting private talks for a change of government with General de Gaulle. Not to mention, of course, the job of governing the country which Prime Ministers everywhere have to do.

◇ ◇ ◇

M. FAURE'S SUCCESSOR, Antoine Pinay, started political life as Mayor of a small provincial town and does not approve of mixing up night and day. He proclaimed his dogma "early to bed, early to rise" by summoning Parliament to hear his inaugural speech at 9:30 in the morning. The Press Gallery, which normally never fills up before tea-time, was only half awake; "anyone can see he is a mere provincial", someone muttered.

Yet even Mr. Pinay's principles had to yield to political realities; two days later he was meeting party leaders at two a.m. in the morning, calling at the Elysees Palace to consult the President at three-thirty, and announcing his intention of going straight to bed just after he had formed his ministry at eleven-fifteen a.m.

IT must be something in the Paris air that seems to make people here so lively when London and Rome are already fast asleep. Catering for the Paris noctambulist, there has been a mushroom growth of a new kind of entertainment, the informal "cafe-cabaret". This has nothing to do with the smart nightclub where an American couple told me last week they had spent forty dollars on a few bottles of champagne and a little string music.

The cafe-cabaret—there are now over fifty of them in Paris—is simple and inexpensive; it consists of the ordinary assembly of cafe tables where you can order whisky, champagne or brandy, and so arranged as to leave a little space in the middle to accommodate a pianist and two or three performers chosen for sophistication rather than glamour. They sing, recite, mimic, and crack jokes mostly about politics or sex, until around three or four in the morning; then their clients can take themselves off to the Halles (market place for fruits, vegetables and flowers) where business is just beginning and where they can breakfast on the traditional onion soup.

◇ ◇ ◇

DESPITE this night life Parisians resent foreign charges that the French are frivolous. Nevertheless, their own playwrights seem to be letting the side down by displaying nothing but contempt for contemporaries and doggedly putting all serious drama into period clothes and foreign sets.

The naughty, farce is, of course, given in most up-to-date negligee, at the Palais Royal (a very ancient Paris theatre now exclusively devoted to naughty farces.) The funpoking at matrimonial mixed bliss by Pierre Dux at the miniature Lune Rousse theatre up at Montmartre is keenly contemporary.

◇ ◇ ◇

YET once French dramatists get on to more serious topics—the eternal struggle between good and bad, love and hate, loyalty and treason, they seem to feel embarressed at the idea of putting their heroines in the latest Christian Dior creations or their hero in the now fashionable American-style necktie. (French programmes for modern plays normally tell you who dresses whom, for both sexes, with the addendum "both on the stage and in town").

◇ ◇ ◇

IN the solemn series the last play I saw was "Le Profanateur" by Thierry Maulnier. The story is set in a twelfth-century Italian town, where the municipality wants to revolt against the representative of the Holy Roman Emperor, Wilfred De Montferrat, whose boss has been excommunicated by the Pope for making friends with infidels.

◇ ◇ ◇

WILFRED is wicked but irresistible, and is able to put under house arrest all the municipal ringleaders, betrayed in the mayor's own palace by the mayor's amorous younger daughter. Though he scoffs at her, he hangs arouund the palace, despite frayed relations with its inmates, because he wants to trip up her virtuous elder sister Benvenuta. She falls in love with him while trying to save his soul. Nevertheless, partly for religious reasons and partly because she catches her younger sister in his arms, Benvenuta betrays him. She invites him to come unattended to a midnight rendezvous and the municipal leaders—still under house arrest at the mayor's palace—agree that the first kiss shall be the signal for murder.

Again the younger sister tips him off, but too late. In a long soliloquy Wilfred tells God that he is not at all afraid. The elder sister then appears, in a flimsy yellow nighty, and her menfolk stick knives into him as agreed.

He dies telling Benvenuta "No, I do not love you . . . (long pause) . . . my beloved".

You probably need a grinding in philosophy to seize the inner message. The uninitiated are left guessing whether God or the Devil is supposed to have had the last laugh.

Bleeding A Remedy

(Montreal Gazette)

Anyone who wants to read some of the old case histories will find many illuminating parallels to our modern theories of tax-draining. There is, for instance, the case of H.R.H. the Duke of Kent, the father of Queen Victoria, who died under his doctor's care in 1820. Before his demise, he was relieved by his doctors of 120 ounces of blood.

A great physician of the day, Dr. Maton, was summoned for consultation from London, but arrived too late. And what was Dr. Maton's comment on the case, He said: "I think I should have bled him more freely. His stamina was so great, his constitution so unimpaired, that he would have borne more depletion. At all events, I would have risked it. The result may have been the same; but I should have hazarded extreme depletion."

Letters To The Editor

SPEAKS HIGHLY OF POLICE

Sir: There have recently been a number of letters published severely criticizing our police force. Many of them I feel to be unfair. In the regular course of my business I am accustomed to meeting many members of the force and have found them fair, patient and sincere. I have yet to hear even a rumour of them roughing up anyone. I doubt if there is one of them that would pass by anyone suffering or in need of help. In the present case they did everything they could under the framework society has set up. They had seen the man was committed to jail, their only place of hospitality, and fed him. To a man who walks a beat eight hours a day in every kind of weather it does seem a terrific hardship to release a young man apparently healthy, well fed, and reasonably clothed, to find his own way about. I doubt if any of the letter writers would have the slightest qualm about dropping of a hitch hiker in the same circumstances. I know I would not even give it a second thought.

Yours truly,
CLARE DONNELLY

CALLS FOR TRUER RECOGNITION OF GOSPEL

Sir, I have just finished reading the story of the capture of Leonard Jackson in several Ontario papers to which our family subscribes, and of which yours is one. I rejoice in the efforts and bravery of the police force, and that there was no loss of life as a result of the battle; but am somewhat distressed that some of us should grow up with personalities so twisted as to express such anti-social behaviour. What is wrong?

Most of us, I am sure, ask this question from time to time, even if only to ourselves. Why do we have criminals? It is quite easily to conclude that some of us are born with criminal tendencies; but I do not think that we are satisfied with such a simple answer. Surely there is a deeper one. Even if there is some truth in it, is there not some way that these tendencies can be beneficially redirected? I suspect that environment and training or lack of it play a much more important role in shaping personality than we are prepared to admit.

As a Christian clergyman, and therefore something of an educator, I find that many of the values that I have been trained to teach, the truth of which I am convinced (otherwise I should not be in the Church), are in sharp contradiction to the general outlook of the world and the practice of the world where we spend most of our waking hours. I speak of love and mutuality and the sharing fellowship, but the world is not so organized. When boys and girls go out into the world they must forget the noble values that they have been taught in the common life of the church, and adopt the principle of each man for himself.

I hardly think that a man can be motivated by both 'Each for all and all for each' and individual self-interest, without becoming a split-personality. When individual self-interest is coupled with the belief that a man's life consists in the number of gadgets he can manipulate, or in the steady rise to more and more influential places in the social ladder, not only do we achieve a philosophy that when its implications are logically drawn out is in sharp contradiction to Christianity, but we achieve a society of lost souls floundering around for more and more satisfactions because they know not the richness of human solidarity.

My plea, Mr. Editor, is for greater appreciation of the Christian Gospel, God's love for mankind so wonderfully demonstrated in the life and Cross of His Blessed Son, a greater vision of the Church as the community of love, fully equipped to train both us and our children in the shared experience of Christian living, and a greater understanding of the nature of a Christian social order.

I cannot help but be inspired with the thought that out of the turmoil and conflict that is today's world God is shaping a new world wherein men live not for themselves so much as they find themselves in the richness of Christian fellowship and in its day by day counterpart in a more co-operative social order.

It may be that in this world we shall never have all the requisites for a full abundant life; but the loneliness in most of us and the criminal tendencies in some of us will not be overcome without greater expression of Christian love, wider opportunities for Christian cultural and economic order. If what I have written seems idealistic, then let us be realistic. Let us begin with real problems, let us develop a greater concern for one another and let us create more effective channels to mediate that concern.

Yours sincerely,
REV. A. M. BUTLER

Storm Cycle

(Sydney Post-Record)

This weather has been an orchestration of furious extent and proportions. The elements have combined in playing a symphony of storm and stress and then in the manner of the lesser symphonies played by men in concert halls, it has held a final movement of a serene nature following storm.

It has been suggestive of Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony in that respect. Following the stampede of the elements came the glorious burst of sunlight from unclouded sky and the light breezes which if chill were yet refreshing. Again the landscape roundabout cleared and stood forth—the great forested and snow-clad hills emphatic with horizons that we hadn't seen of late.

Winter is still with us but the murky shroud of the elements has lifted and our spirits are uplifted because this is so.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed; and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy: Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee. And, behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

And Jesus knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts? For whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and walk? But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy), Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house. And he arose, and departed to his house.

But when the multitudes saw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given such power unto men. (Matt. 9:2-8.)

Agriculture And Culture

(Brantford Expositor)

Mr. Pearson, Canada's amiable and capable Minister for External Affairs, says that the best way to halt the spread of Communism in economically backward countries is to provide the means whereby such countries can move forward, in terms of their economic standing. Accordingly he endorses the proposal that Canada provide $25,000,000 annually to help such states as India and Pakistan in the matter of technical assistance. The idea is that Canadian engineers, scientists and technicians should teach the Hindu and Pakistani populations more about modern methods, particularly with regard to agriculture.

The Colombo Plan, through which such assistance (only slightly tinged with self-interest) has been and is being given, is a good thing in its way. Unfortunately, as a correspondent observes, it is limited to economic help. It says nothing whatever about aid and dollars for countries which are culturally backward. If, our correspondent suggests (with tongue in sardonic cheek, unless we are mistaken!) there were a counter-scheme for cultural aid, Canadians would undoubtedly be receiving even more than they were giving to the Colombo Plan. For Canada, if the great Massey Report is to be believed, is so backward culturally that "alien" forces from south of the border threaten our national wellbeing no less than Moscow threatens India and Pakistan.

If that is the case, surely it would be only fair and reasonable to ask that India, which possesses a vast reservoir of cultural resources, come to the aid of culturally backward Canada, thus reciprocating the gesture Canada is making in going to the aid of agriculturally backward India. Even if this helping hand were extended, for the time being, only to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the National Film Board and the authors of soap operas and "singing" and other commercials on private radio stations, benefits would come soon and be substantial.

Christopher Fry Starting New Age Of Literature

"If Peterborough is a colorless town, Toronto is still draped in Victorian black."

John Londerville, Normal school teacher and well-known in Peterborough as an actor, drew enthusiastic applause and table thumping from his audience, when he made this statement at the Rotary luncheon meeting, Monday.

The speaker took a few minutes from his address on the English playwright, Christopher Fry, to, as he expressed it, throw a punch at a well-known Canadian national magazine for tagging Peterborough as a colorless city, in an article in its last edition.

In his argument that this title was unwarranted, Mr. Londerville mentioned that Toronto was not represented in the recent national curling bonspiel with Peterborough's Dr. Ralph Clark and his team. He also drew attention to Peterborough's team winning the national lacrosse championship last year.

"I also believe that Toronto is not more diversified in its industry than this city," he said.

Lively Drama

However, it was in reference to drama that the speaker gave his strongest argument that the city had been unjustly described.

"The Boy With a Cart, a play which might be considered difficult to understand, was well-received by Peterborough. They understood the humor of the play and seemed to understand the philosophy of it. This and the fact that more than 2,000 people attended its performances is a tribute to the people of Peterborough. Could Toronto have done as well?"

Following this short detour, Mr. Londerville turned to the main topic of his address, Christopher Fry.

"This writer is fast becoming a bright star in the English litery world. He has a humor and lyrical quality all of his own. His subject matter ranges through all the ages. He is bringing new life to English literature by his verse."

These were just a few of the accolades paid to the English playwright by Mr. Londerville.

Many Occupations

Briefly outlining Fry's life, the speaker explained that he had been raised according to Quaker principles and during his 43 years has taught school, worked with a theatre company, held the post of secretary to a novelist and dabbled in popular song writing. It was not until after his marriage in 1938 that a small legacy enabled him to start writing seriously.

Illustrating his remarks by excerpts from Fry's plays, the speaker explained that the author weaves apparently simple plots around his verse language of methaphors, word pictures and word magic.

"His characters never speak in a flat way. Their dialogue is gay and humorous. He uses a language of freshness. His poetry is full of humor, spirit and hope and audiences love it."

Despair, Hope, Conflict

Fry's philosophy was described as the theme of perpetual conflict between despair and hope; of something being broken but not finished; breaking and building in progression of this world go hand in hand.

Answering the charge that Fry is not realistic, Mr. Londerville argued that what has been portrayed as realism on the stage in the past 50 years is merely a portrayal of a slice of existence.

"To Fry reality is humanity which has been going on for millions of years. His characters are not copies but summaries and metaphors of humanity."

The speaker attributed Fry with a real sense of humor because he does not laugh at a man but with him. To him comedy means escape from despair to faith. In Fry, life is real, the most miraculous thing of all. We must appreciate our existence as if we just turned a corner and ran into it for the first time.

"I predict that Christopher Fry will shortly be appointed England's next poet laureate by Queen Elizabeth," Mr. Londerville said in his concluding remarks. "He is bringing the same kind of inspiration of golden lyricism into our literature that Shakespeare and Marlow brought to the Elizabethan age. In fact, I believe we are on the brink of another Elizabethan age of literature."

The speaker was introduced by Bert Smitheran and thanked by K. S. Wightman.

The following guests were introduced by the Rev. Ian C. Morgan of Murray St. Baptist church: Jim Sutton of New Liskeard and Don McLeod of Orillia.

Suspect Bungles Jail Suicide

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., March 18 (CP)—Police said Monday that Canadian-born Mrs. Marie Jeanne d' Arc Michaud, 36-year-old songwriter held as the possible fingerwoman in the $1,500,000 Redfield burglary at Reno, tried to commit suicide in her jail cell here.

Sheriff J. P. Francis said Mrs. Michaud, a native of Ste. Agathe, Que., had taken "a very heavy dose of sleeping pills." Her condition is not serious.

"Why didn't you let me go ahead," Mrs. G. F. Newman, jail matron, quoted Mrs. Michaud as saying. "It would have been the easiest way out."

Mrs. Newman said sleeping pills, a yellow capsule and a razor blade were found in Mrs. Michaud's cot although she had been searched when taken off an eastbound train by F.B.I. agents Sunday.

Lower Tariff Asked On Cars

OTTAWA, March 18 — (CP).—Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary East) Monday night renewed his Commons campaign for a lower protective tariff on motor cars.

He suggested during the Throne-Speech debate that there is no valid reason why cars should cost so much more in Canada than they do in the United States.

He proposed that the tariff be reduced to the point where it would still protect the Canadian automotive industry and yet bring about a reduction in prices. At the same time, the government should reduce taxes on cars.

J. J. Smith (L-Moose Mountain) suggested that the automobile industry had been "nursed" and "coddled" long enough. It should be able to stand on its own feet with other industries without protection.

He did not believe that the existing ban on importation of motor cars from the United States should continue.

Says Monkeys Made Trip Into Space

TORONTO, March 18 (CP). — Cornelius Ryan, an editor of Collier's Magazine, says he has "reliable information" that four monkeys were placed in a V-W rocket, shot 250 miles into space, and brought back unharmed to testing grounds at White Sands, N.M.

He told the Canadian Club on Monday that within the next 10 years human beings will be able to make the trip to the moon and back.

The monkeys were said to have been installed in a pressurized, air-conditioned cabin in the rocket and were the first earth creatures to enter space.

National Forests Said Despoiled

MIAMI, Fla., March 18 (AP) — Warnings that national forests and parks are being invaded and despoiled by private interests were sounded Monday by speakers at the opening session of the 17th North American Wildlife Conference.

"There is a very aggressive action to chisel in on the national forests by taking advantage of mining laws," said Ira N. Gabrielson, president of the Wildlife Management Institute.

W. J. K. Harkness of Toronto, chief of the Division of Fish and Wildlife, Department of Lands and Forests of Ontario, advocated wilderness research to determine zoning means.

"It is not possible," he said, "to segregate conditions and progressive changes within a wilderness from conditions and changes in the area adjacent or outside the wilderness."

Proposed West German Rearmament Makes East Germans Very Happy

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

BERLIN, March 18 (AP)—While West Germans fret about rearmament for western defence, many East Germans pray for it as the only hope of deliverance from the Soviet yoke.

It is amply clear in Berlin that the Germans in the Soviet occupation zone welcome any addition to western strength.

It seems clear, too, that West Berlin also favors the arming of Germans in a European community of defence against the Russians. West Berliners are isolated deep inside the Soviet zone and see the Russians in operation every day.

This is part of a strange situation in which Communists are winning cold war battles in western Germany—and losing them in their own Soviet-occupied east zone.

The heaviest Communist propaganda fire is directed against the remilitarization of Germany and is coupled with the bait of German unity. Both appeals have a powerful effect in Western Germany.

If a vote could be taken tomorrow in the Soviet zone and West Berlin, they feel, the result would be an overwhelming "yes" to German remilitarization and a German contribution to western defence.

Deaf Ears

The Soviet propaganda campaign for German unity and against remilitarization falls on deaf ears here.

"We know the sound by now," a West Berlin official said.

West Berliners, almost to a man feel that the Soviet promises of German unity are bunk. As they see it the only possibility of unity lies in free election of an all-German parliament, followed by a peace treaty with the wartime allies.

East Germans still are in dire circumstances, in sharp contrast to West Berlin and West Germany.

Rationing continues to be hard, although not as hard as one or two years ago. Clothing and shoes are scarce and of bad quality.

Russia still is siphoning off East German production, though apparently to a lesser degree than before.

The East German population shows in a number of ways—chiefly in smuggled letters— that it knows the extent of these "reparations." They also express indignation that an agricultural land should have shortages of vegetables, meat and even milk. The reason is poor distribution.

Eagles' Prexy D. A. McGillis Ready To Battle O.H.A. Over the Club's Suspension

A team noted for its habit of fighting back from behind, the Peterborough Eagles haven't submitted yet to the suspension clamped on them last week by the Ontario Hockey Association. They were banned for the balance of the season by President Jack Roxburgh of the O.H.A. for refusing to play in Kingston last Wednesday, the Eagles declining to do so if Kingston used Goalie Sonny MacDonald. They claimed he was not eligible to play for the K's in group semi-finals.

"We haven't given up by any means, yet," D. A. McGillis, sponsor and president of Eagles' senior "B" squad, said yesterday. "In fact, on evidence I have obtained I think we'll break this thing wide-open shortly and prove that the O.H.A. was entirely in the wrong."

Has The Papers

Mr. McGillis showed his evidence—three Maritimes' newspapers reporting senior "A" Allan Cup playdowns early this month, games in which the same Sonny MacDonald played goal for St. John Beavers when that team lost out to St. Francis Xavier. The papers, The Telegraph Journal of Saint John, were published on March 1-3-5, and one of them had a picture in of the silver-thatched MacDonald making a stop in goal. His name was mentioned a number of times as "Sonny MacDonald" in the writeups.

These newspapers will be taken to Toronto this week by Mr. McGillis, who will demand that the O.H.A. re-open the case of the Eagles' suspension. President J. M. Roxburgh had stated emphatically that Kingston were granted a senior "B" goalie as a replacement for their injured netminder, Don Dougall, when the latter produced a doctor's certificate that he was unable to play. In such cases, a replacement may be allowed, provided the player coming in has not been playing the current season in a higher classification. Kingston is, of course, in the senior "B" category, whereas teams in Allan Cup playdowns are in the senior "A" class.

Hanley's Reply

O.H.A. secretary-manager Bill Hanley, of Toronto, was contacted by phone by The Examiner yesterday and asked for a ruling on this point. He said that Charles Campbell, registrar for the Maritimes Hockey Association, had wired him to the effect that the O.H.A. always followed the practice of allowing replacements of the same category — that is, a senior "B" replacement for an injured senior "B" goalie.

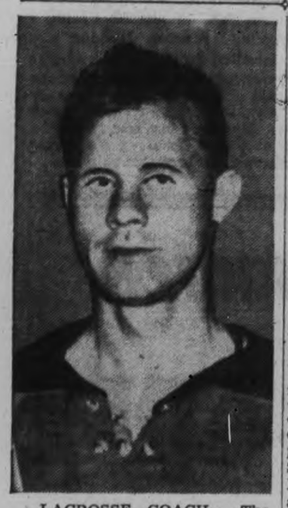
Asked point-blank if a senior "A" replacement could be granted to a senior "B" club, Hanley hedged and said: "I don't think there is a rule which says we can't allow such a replacement, but we make it a practice never to do so. And I was assured that Sonny MacDonald was a senior 'B' player in the Maritimes."

Forcing Action

Coach Ned Vitarelli of the Eagles said: "We weren't trying to run out on the series—we just wanted to force some proper action from the O.H.A. Kingston climbed from fourth place to second with Goalie Anderson, after Dougall was hurt, but they weren't satisfied. They tried to pull a fast one by bringing in a senior 'A' goalie for their playoff series with us. And the O.H.A. doesn't even check into it but takes Kingston's word that MacDonald was a senior 'B' player. We'll play them and beat them, but they're not packing their team any further."

Club president D. A. McGillis stated: "I intend to fight this thing right through. The O.H.A. doesn't go by its own written rules, and we're not taking this supension sitting down. I want a fair deal for our Peterborough boys and not have them ousted just because the O.H.A. is sorry it barred those Kingston players last fall and is now giving the Kingston club every break. I've spent $6,300 so far this season on the Eagles and I'm not quitting yet."

With the Eagles suspended—if temporarily—Petes and Kingston are proceeding with their group playoffs.



LACROSSE COACH — The Petes Timbermen will be coached by Bob Thorpe this coming O.L.A. senior season. The popular Bobby will also play in his usual starry role on the forward line. All of last year's Mann Cup champions presently are available to perform here again.

Sawyer Getting Phillies Into Good Shape

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 18 (AP).—Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Philadelphia Phillies is making Simon Lagree look like a sissy, but it's bringing results.

Take the case of rookie pitcher Steve Ridzik, the most promising recruit in camp. He was 15 minutes late for bed one night. When young Steve arrived at the ball park the next day, a summons to appear before the skipper awaited him.

"You came in at 12:15 last night, didn't you?" Sawyer asked the pitcher.

"I was only a few minutes late, skipper," the kid explained.

"When I say 12 o'clock, I don't mean 12:01," Sawyer snapped. "Now pitch batting practice until I tell you to stop."

Ridzik walked out to the mound and cut loose with a vicious fast ball. He had good hitters moving away from the plate. Sawyer watched with amusement.

"He wasn't angry at the batters" Eddie said. "He was angry at me, but he showed me the kind of pitching the scouts and the minor league managers said he was capable of."

Sawyer is determined that his 1952 spring training austerity program will be carried through to the limit. He feels that no wives, no automobiles, no dog races and all baseball will make the dull 1951 fifth place Phillies pennant winners or at least a first division entry in 1952.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Should have mentioned it last week but, what with being up to our little pink ears in puck protests and whatnot, we neglected to do so. Meaning Bob Thorpe's appointment as playing coach of the Petes' Timbermen for this season. He succeeds Don Crowe in the job. Bob quit pro hockey to work here last winter, after playing three summer seasons for the local lacrossers. Born in Port Dalhousie, he worked his way up into senior "A" ranks with St. Catharines, Quebec and Brampton. Helped St. Kitts win the Mann Cup in 1944 and did likewise with the Petes last fall. Played some hockey the past season for Norwood in the T.V.L. and will likely be with the senior "B" puckists here next winter. Had to sit out a year after being a pro.

* * * * * *

Thorpe is a fine athlete and a likeable fellow. Quite popular with his teammates, as well as with fans and even opposing players. He hustles all the way, is a high scorer, yet a clean lacrosse player. Though the clean type in the gutted-stick game—a really rugged sport—Bob is as game as they come. Also brainy, he should make an ideal playing coach for the starry Timbermen, and it's not always a soft touch to handle a bunch of stars. Chaps good enough to capture the Mann Cup as Canadian senior champs. Our congrats to Bob and to the club appointing him. He'll live up to expectations fully.

They'll Be Strong Again

The team has all of last year's players available again as well as several ex-juniors. And a number of outside applications, but it looks like the Petes will pretty much stand pat with crew that took it all last year. Maybe a few changes, and they will be made known in due course, as it's a bit early to settle the 1952 squad. Prexy Bob Peirson saw Ike Hildebrand score four goals for Cleveland Barons last weekend to give him 32 goals and 50 points after missing 22 A.H.L. games this season. Ike, who will play lacrosse again, is right in line for the rookie award this year in the American Loop.

O.H.A. senior "B" group finals open in Civic tomorrow night with Kingston playing Petes. First of their best-of-seven sawoffs, the next one being in the Limestone City on Saturday eve. Group winner goes into provincial semi-finals. It might be a bitter series as K's refused to open Monday—arranging an exhibition that night—so that Petes don't get a Friday night home game this week. After the Eagles' deal at the hands of the O.H.A., the Petes probably won't protest Kingston's use of Goalie Sonny MacDonald, though he could be a potent factor in this series. It should be a swell scramble all the way, one that will fill the Kingston and Peterborough rinks every game.

* * * * * *

Are The Eagles In Or Out?

Puck fans will see an interesting story in tonight, one we dug up yesterday from D. A. McGillis, who is president and sponsor of the Eagles. Figuring his club got a rough deal in being suspended by the O.H.A., he got busy and now has evidence that Goalie Sonny MacDonald, brought in recently by Kingston for group semi-finals, was with the St. John Beavers when they lost out early in March to St. Francis Xavier in Allan Cup playdowns in the Maritimes. In other words, he played senior "A" hockey and has now dropped back in the same season to senior "B"—which is highly irregular. Even the O.H.A. admit that they thought he was a senior "B" goalie in the Maritimes. We checked with 'em yesterday and Bill Hanley said so.

* * * * * *

What will come of it we don't know yet. Mr. McGillis plans to demand that the O.H.A. re-open the case on Eagles' suspension. If they follow precedent, they will have to toss out MacDonald and let Eagles back in. After all, it's definitely not fair to allow a senior "B" club a senior "A" replacement in playoffs. Not even to help Kingston out. Maritimes' registrar Charles Campbell wired Hanley that Sonny MacDonald was registered there as a senior "B" player. But, if so, how come he could play in an Allan Cup series, which is senior "A" exclusively? We will be very interested to see how the O.H.A. wiggle out of this one, if possible. Naturally, the Petes will be right interested, too.

Sunday Matinee Tilts Gives Chicago Lift

CHICAGO, March 18 (AP).—Sunday matinee hockey has given Chicago Black Hawks a lift at the box office this season.

Owner Bill Tobin said Monday night that 297,316 fans—an average of 8,494 a game—turned out in Chicago Stadium for 35 home contests despite the team's miserable showing.

The figure includes the six experimental Sunday afternoon games which drew an average of 11,000.

Tobin left Monday night for western Canada to confer with scouts Tiny Thompson and Baldy Northcott. He said at least five potential rookie stars have been combed from amateur leagues in the search for talent.

Commission Approves Bout With Graziano

CHICAGO, March 18 (AP). — The Illinois Athletic Commission Monday approved a middleweight title bout between champion Ray Robinson and Rocky Graziano in Chicago April 16.

The commission sanctioned the match after a public hearing was called to air Graziano's alleged tie-up with an "undercover" manager, Eddie Coco, who is appealing a murder conviction in Florida.

Graziano testified that he had an agreement with Coco ever since he started boxing professionally in 1943 and paid him 11 per cent of his purses until they broke off by mutual agreement last January.

Coco, convicted of murder in the gun slaying of a parking lot attendant early last year, is free on bond awaiting appeal.

The commission also approved a two-year contract between Graziano and his manager, Irving Cohen.

Apsley Wins Series In Four

YOUNG'S POINT, March 18—(ENS) — The Kawartha League finals wound up with the fourth game played at Lakefield Monday night, with Apsley the winners, 6-5. Apsley took the series three games to one.

It was an even hard-fought game right to the final whistle. B. Howden got the first goal in the early minutes of the game and at 7.55 got his first penalty for elbowing. While he was off J. Church (Russelle) tied it up for the Point. Shortly after L. Smith went off for interference and at about the half-way mark in the period D. Jacobs (McIsaac) put Young's Point one goal up. B. Howden netted. Apsley's second goal to complete the scoring for the first period. V. Tucker was penalized for slashing, and in the closing minute of the period, J. Murray was sent to the sin bin for elbowing and for a 10 minute misconduct penalty.

A Tight Frame

A quick goal by V. Tucker (J. Post) started the scoring in the second frame. D. Jacobs went off for slashing. A few minutes later Howden (Watson, Houle) put Apsley two goals up. The Point boys fought back gamely and a minute later Church scored from Heard. Howden was banished for high sticking and K. Delahaye followed for boarding. At 13.20 D. Heard tied it up on passes from Russelle and Church. McNaughton was given two minutes for interference and while he was off B. Howden scored from Delahaye.

The play tightened up in the final frame, with each team waiting for the breaks. D. Heard got a tripping penalty but Apsley was unable to capitalize. D. Heard (Church) tied it up and it remained tied until 18.25 when G. Watson (Delahaye, Houle) netted the winning goal. The only other penalty of the period was to K. Delahaye for tripping.

Battle For Second Place Holds Attention In NHL

MONTREAL, March 18. (CP)—Main interest in the National Hockey League these days centres on the battle for second place between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs. At present, Canadiens have a slim, one-point edge over the Leafs. The two teams meet in Toronto Wednesday night and this game could well decide the matter. Each has three gam s left to play. Canadiens have a home-and-home series with the leading Detroit Red Wings this coming weekend and the Leafs entertain Chicago Black Hawks at home Saturday and round out the schedule Sunday at Boston.

Here's how the race stands:

Detroit is home free in first spot with 95 points from 42 victories, 14 losses and 11 ties in the 67 games they have played.

Canadiens have 75 points, one more than Leafs. Canadiens have won 33, lost 25 and tied 9 while Leafs have been victorious 29 times, have lost 22 and have tied 16.

Boston Bruins appear to have the last playoff spot tied up as they have 62 points, five more than the Rangers. Chicago brings up in the cellar with 39 points.

Individual Honors

In the individual-honors department, Detroit's Gordie Howe has 78 points, from a pace setting 42 goals and 36 assists.

Howe, by winning the league scoring championship two years in a row, becomes the fourth player in history to perform this feat. Others were Max Bentley, Chicago, 1945-46 and 1946-47; Sweeney Schriner, New York Americans, 1935-36 and 1936-37; and Charlie Conacher, Toronto, 1933-34 and 1934-35.

Tied for second place, with 61 points apiece, are Ted Lindsay of Detroit and Elmer Lach of Montreal. Lindsay has 25 goals and 36 assists and Lach 13 goals and a record 48 assists.

Tied for fourth place with 56 points are Sid Smith of Toronto and Don Raleigh of New York.

Terry Sawchuk of the Wings is far ahead in the matter of shutouts, having chalked up an even dozen so far, compared with six for his nearest competitor, Jim Henry of Boston.

Sawchuk's goals-against average is 1.85, compared with 2.19 for second place Al Rollins of the Leafs.

Rangers are the least penalized club with 524 minutes and Toronto the most penalized with 818 minutes. Individual bad man is Gus Kyle of Boston who has spent 125 minutes in the penalty box.

Sask. Team Makes Offer For Karras

CHICAGO, March 18 (CP). — A substantial offer has been made to Johnny Karras, star Illinois halfback last season, to sign with Saskatchewan Rough Riders of the Western Canada Interprovincial Football Union.

Dr. Beattie Martin, vice-president of the Rough Riders, made the disclosure here Monday night. He's in Chicago with Bert Neil, chairman of the team's Booster Club.

Martin indicated that the offer to Karras does not approach the $12,000 contract signed by Johnny Bright, Drake halfback, with Calgary Stampeders.

Martin said he is not too hopeful Karras will sign. Johnny, who has relatives in Regina, was drafted by the Chicago Cardinals and Walter Wolfner, Cards' managing director, said he had made a "very attractive" offer to the Illinois flash.

Want Too Much

"The kids in the States are beginning to want too much," Martin said. "We don't want to start bidding against the National Football League teams. But why shouldn't we sign American boys? This country takes most of our star hockey players."

Martin and Neil plan to leave Wednesday for Waco, Tex., to talk with Jack Russell, an end, and Martin Ruby, a tackle. The pair left the New York Yanks for Canada last season and Martin said they have signed their 1952 contracts with the Regina club.

It has been reported that the Dallas Texans, new National League club, were hopeful of signing Russell and Ruby this season.

Humans Escape F-M Disease

OTTAWA, March 18 (CP)—The Health Department said Monday that fears that foot-and-mouth disease can spread to persons eating meat or dairy products is "groundless."

It issued the statement after receiving reports that meat sales had fallen off because of a belief the disease could be passed to humans.

Cases of foot-and-mouth disease in humans are "medical curiosities," according to the department. No human cases were reported from Mexico in 1947's outbreak of the disease.

Meat for interprovincial sale is graded and inspected by department inspectors before being sold, it added, and proper cooking destroys harmful bacteria. Pasteurization of milk and the ingredients of other dairy products ensures their purity.

The statement said the outbreak had been confined to a small area, and the great bulk of meat and dairy production not affected.

Meanwhile, in Toronto, an official of the provincial health department agreed that cases of the disease in humans were medical curiosities. In fact, he said, none had been recorded in Ontario.

Suggest Federal Action To Check New Prices War

OTTAWA, March 18 (CP)—Federal-government action to prevent a spread of price wars in electrical appliance and other fields was suggested Monday in the Commons.

Ross Thatcher, a retail hardware merchant from Moose Jaw, Sask., said that "fictitious" trade-in allowances offered on electrical appliances and predatory price wars in some centres are driving hundreds of small retail merchants into bankruptcy.

Mr. Thatcher, C.C.F. member for Moose Jaw, said the trade-in allowances offered by some stores are making a farce of the government's consumer-credit restrictions. The government should insist on a down payment of at least 20 per cent in cash.

Under existing regulations, the trade-in allowance is counted as part of the one-third down payment required under the credit restrictions. In some cases, the trade-in allowance offered means that the customer does not make any down payment.

He quoted various advertisements showing the types of allowances being offered in some centres. In Vancouver, for instance, one merchant offered $150 trade-in allowance for a cup and saucer on a new refrigerator.

No Better Off

"This practice," said Mr. Thatcher, "does not necessarily mean that the consumer is getting a better price, because some companies have simply added something to the price in the article, and then given it back to the customer in the form of an increased payment for his trade-in. The customer is not, perhaps, worse off, but in many instances he is no bet[illegible] off."

The abol[illegible] of the [illegible]tion would mean that in the long run the consumer would not benefit.

"The small appliance dealers are apparently the first victims in the retail trade to be sacrificed on the altar of political expediency by a government seeking a scapegoat for its own failure to deal with rising prices," said Mr. Thatcher.

He called for government action to reduce taxes on electrical appliances. They were largely responsible for unemployment in the industry.

Mr. Thatcher was one of several to participate in resumed debate on the Throne-Speech.

In the opening minutes, Resources Minister Winter announced that a Commons committee will be established during the current session to review activities of the Crown-owned National Film Board.

The debate was marked by a renewal of the controversy which developed last week after External Affairs Minister Pearson said the C.C.F., through criticism of Atlantic Pact military plans, was playing into the hands of Communist propagandists.

Irvin Studer (L—Maple Creek) said the C.C.F. party was made up of " conditional Canadians" committed to a creed of world revolution.

Socialism, he said, is not a Canadian policy.

"Socialism is an ism that was created beyond the confines of Canada. It is world-wide in scope. That is why they do not owe allegiance to any country; that is why they owe allegiance to world socialism. That is why they cannot adopt the attitude that we would like to see people adopt who are loyal in their feelings."

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) described Mr. Studer's statement as a "slander" on the hundreds of thousands of Canadians who supported the C.C.F. It was a charge that C.C.F. loyalties were "limited."

The C.C.F. group in the House had the highest percentage — 38.46—of veterans of any party in the Chamber. Its members had done their best to show loyalty to this country.

The charge that the C.C.F. was wedded to world revolution, Mr. Herridge said was "completely non-sensical." It indicated that Mr. Studer, a native of the United States, had spoken without knowledge of Canadian political history.

Joseph Noseworthy (CCF — York South) said the House surely had not reached a "state of dictatorship . . whereby one dare not differ with government policy, even on a matter as serious as our conflict with Communism without being charged with aiding the enemy."

Farm Problems Investigated MPP's Decide

By The Canadian Press

The Saskatchewan Legislature unanimously passed a government motion setting up a Royal Commission to inquire into the province's farm problems.

Premier J. Walter Jones hinted that Prince Edward Island would get three defence contracts. The Manitoba House gave second reading to a bill to repeal the power of that province's municipalities to licence delivery vehicles from outside areas.

Municipal commissioner Edmond Prefontaine said the repeal of the power of Manitoba municipalities to licence delivery vehicles from other areas would prevent municipal corporations from controlling fees, "some of which are nothing but tariff walls," on outside trucks delivering bread, coal, ice and wood.

He told the Legislature that 25 municipalities charged "more than nominal" fees for such vehicles. Municipalities could still control door-to-door selling through "transient trader" fees.

Doesn't Elaborate

Premier Jones did not elaborate in the Prince Edward Island house on the possibility of three defence contracts for the province. He did say, however, that one contract would be for Summerside and two for Charlottetown.

The action of the Saskatchewan Legislature in voting to set up a royal commission to inquire into the province's farm problems came after seven speakers expressed their views.

Premier T. C. Douglas and B. L. Korchinski (L.-Redberry) differed on whether rural Saskatchewan was becoming a "desert."

"What we need is more farmers on the land," Mr. Korchinski said. "Saskatchewan has become like a desert."

He said an educational program should be undertaken by the government to encourage young people to settle on the land.

Mr. Douglas said the province's big loss of population was before 1946. From 1946 to 1951 some 83,000 persons left rural areas, but all but 960 were absorbed into urban centres.

$50 Maximum Set For Teachers' Policy

BANCROFT, March 18 (ENS)—Pupils and staff of the North Hastings High School will be covered by accident insurance to a maximum of $50 per case, according to a motion passed by the board at its March meeting. This policy will be carried in addition to the general liability one that has been in effect since the present school has been in operation.

During the meeting the resignation of Albert E. Wright was accepted. Mr. Wright will be moving to Napanee in the fall, to be a shop teacher in the new 20-teacher collegiate that is now under construction. Before coming to Bancroft in 1947 he was a manual training instructor for St. Catharines public schools.

Bonarlaw W.A. Meets

BONARLAW, March 18 (ENS)—March meeting of St. Mark's W.A. was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ronald Brown and Mrs. Charles Philips. The vice president, Mrs. Ward McInroy presided.

Mrs. Harry Haslett read the scripture lesson. Several members handed in their quilt blocks for the quilt being made for the bale. Canon J. M. Brownlie gave a talk on the study book.

Large Audience Enjoys Irish Comedy

The three-act Irish comedy, Cinderella O'Reilly, was presented to a packed collegiate auditorium Monday night, by the Catholic Youth Organization of St. Peter's Cathedral.

The plot is a modernized Irish version of the children's fairy tale with an Irish colleen as Cinderella and a popular American author as the prince.

The setting is an estate in the Sierra Nevada Mountains in California.

With a few variations necessitated by the present day setting, the play follows closely the main ideas of the old tale. Maggie O'Reilly as the Irish Cinderella is persecuted (although not to the extent of the original version) by her guardian, Judith Chesterton.

Modern Prince Charming

She is made to feel her humble station and is not allowed to enjoy the luxurious living and gay parties of her mistress guardian. But lady luck and perhaps the Irish fairies take pity on Maggie and bring her hope in the form of a rich and famous prince; not in a carriage, but in an airplane.

The prince, a well-known author, Forrest Arnold and his mechanic companion, Jimsey Brayden, are the answer to all Maggie's dreams and she ends up going to the ball and marrying her prince in true fairy-tale fashion.

The case of intended mistaken identity between the author and the mechanic adds interest and humor to the play. And humor is also added to the story by the innocent conniving of Granny Bohne and the Chinese cook, Chang Fu, for Maggie's happiness.

Good Performances

Helen Cummings as the Irish colleen, Maggie O'Reilly, is the star of the show, whether in blue jeans and jersey or in her party gown and jewels. This young actress made her audience laugh at her witty Irish speech and mannerisms and pity her unfortunate plight. Her lines were always distinguishable and her timing good.

Walter Ryan as the author, Forrest Arnold and John MacDougall as his mechanic both played their parts well, although at times it was difficult to hear some of Ryan's speeches.

Rose Marie Creally played the hard-hearted and scheming guardian Judith Chesterton to the full and was quite adequately aided in her plans by John Curtin as Willard Wood, companion in arms.

Shirley Minicola as Granny Bohne and George Clark as Chang Fu are to be congratulated in ably adding to the fun of the play as is Jack Bacon who makes a noble attempt to master the accent and manner of an English fop as the character Lord Cyril.

The two damsels, Alice Hoight and Gene Trayne (played by Patricia Peel and Marie Sullivan) quite nicely trailed and adored the exciting author.

There were times that the play dragged when emphasis was needed and speeches became a little indistinguishable, but on the whole the presentation was enjoyable.

Special mention should be made of the stage setting which was realistic and planned for effective entrances.

The technical and advisory staff for this presentation is Romeo Mongram, John Mahoney, Joseph Wibbs, Joseph Vasey and Robert Macdougall.

Special music for the evening included vocal duets by Misses Olive and Margaret Chretien, novelty songs by Allen Plunkett and Neil Plumpton, the Irish Quartet, Bob Baldwin, Gerald Dyrun, Tony Seidel, Joseph Murphy and the orchestra under the direction of A. F. Seidel.

Members of this last group were: R. Johnson, piano; Mrs. E. Foster, B. Wardle, J. Murphy, A. F. Seidel, violins; T. Smith, cello; S. Rowe, clarinet; E. Johns, trumpet; K. Hodson, drums.

Master of ceremonies was Robert Macdougall.

This play will be presented on Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the Collegiate auditorium.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

FRACTURED ARM

While breaking an opening through a cement wall in the basement of his home Monday afternoon, Arthur G. Douglas, R.R. 1, Peterborough, fractured his right arm. He was admitted to Civic hospital for treatment and released today.

PAYMENTS TO THE BOARD

The monthly schedule of payments to the Board of Education amounting to $711,938 was approved by the council last night in a motion by Ald. T. D. Miller, seconded by Ald. S. J. Black. It is the Board's requisition for this year, and represents a considerable part of the taxes.

CATCHES HAND IN SAW

A power saw mangled the right hand of Wendall McCue, 18, of Curve Lake, Monday afternoon. He was taken to Civic Hospital in Peterborough, where his left thumb was amputated and several stitches were required to close a gash in the next finger on the same hand. McCue was treated by Dr. Lloyd Bailey of Lakefield.

WATER BILL REDUCED.

Mayor Waddell and Ald. T. D. Miller wangled $2,000 from the Utilities Commission Monday. They asked for assistance in helping to reduce the council's budget. Commission replied by agreeing to accept $40,000 instead of the $42,000, in the previous requisition for water supplied to the city for fire protection and other uses. The water bill last year was $36,500.

RINGS FOR CURLERS

Tributary rings bearing the City of Peterborough's crest will be presented to Dr. Ralph Clark and the three other members of his rink. They won the Ontario curling championship, and were well up in the national series at Winnipeg. Details of the presentation were left by the council Monday night to the reception committee of which Ald. H. N. Young is chairman.

THE MATCHETT TROPHY.

The Matchett Trophy, won by the Campbellford youngsters in the final game of the O.M.H.A. Midget C series was a gift to provincial organized hockey by Dr. Roger Matchett, Hamilton dentist, and nephew of Mr. Oscar Matchett of this city. Dr. Matchett is a son of the late M. W. Matchett at one time principal of the Ashburnham public school, and later of Hamilton. His son began his education in the same school.

FIVE FIRE ALARMS

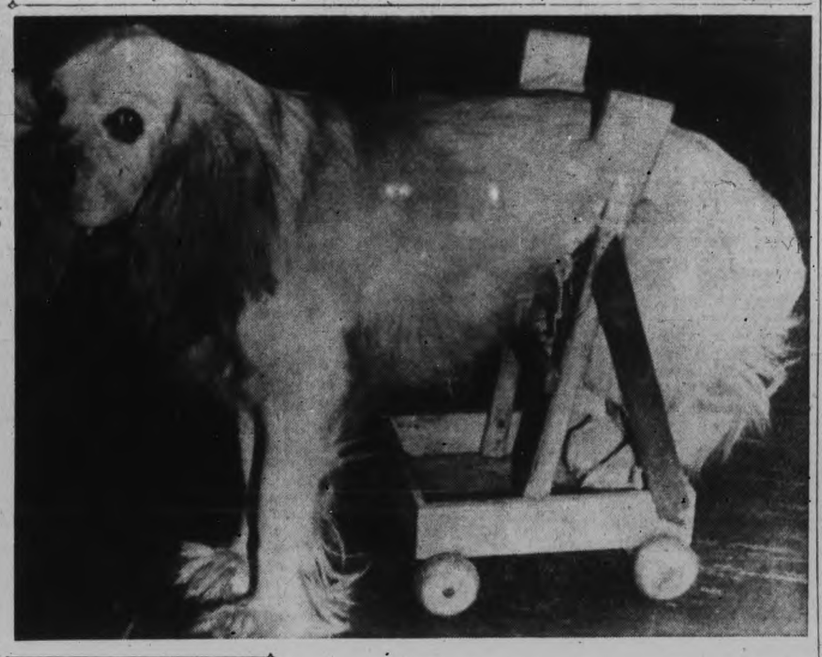
City firemen made five calls on Monday — all on minor fire alarms. A handpump was used when overheated pipes were reported at the home of Mrs. Annie McMasters, 197 Brock St. A flooded oil burner was reported at the home of D. Bishop, 485½ Chamberlain St. And firemen investigated a report that coal gas was leaking from somewhere in the home of Lorne Moore, 211½ Hunter St. A false alarm and a rubbish fire made five alarms in all.

ONE ACCIDENT MONDAY

Only one accident was reported to city police on St. Patrick's Day. Monday morning, Thomas L. Harvey, Harwood, was driving east on Lansdowne St. As he approached Sherbourne St., Hugh Rose, R.R. 11, Peterborough, pulled away from the north curb of Lansdowne St., to go east, and as he crossed the street, the two vehicles collided. An estimated $40 damage resulted to the side of the Harvey car. Rose had been delivering milk on the north side of Lansdowne St., and he told Constable William G. Scott who investigated, that he looked and saw nothing coming before he started across the street.

HERE FROM CHICAGO

Arthur R. Heard of Chicago, here for a few days attending the funeral of his mother, the late Mrs. Richard Heard, called at the Examiner today to renew a few old acquaintances. He began his work in the printing trade in the days when the late Harry Donnelly was head of the press room. Eventually Mr. Heard transferred to bookbinding with the Donnelly firm in Chicago, the largest publishing house in the world. Life and Time are two of their many products. There is no relationship between the two Donnelly names.



City Council To Ask Judge To Investigate Brant's Detention, Release

Legal Committee Asked To Recommend Course Of Action For Enquiry; No Date Set Until Report Received

Peterborough city council will look beyond local court jurisdiction in engaging a judge to conduct an investigation of the detention and release of Fred Brant of Lindsay, the indigent who suffered frozen feet late in January after passing from the authority of local police. Council turned the details of the enquiry over to its legal committee Monday night after approving the request of the Police Commission who are asking for a thorough investigation of the circumstances of Brant's misfortune.

The Commission proposes that Clause 258 of the Municipal Act be invoked, and the council is supporting them. Legal committee was asked to report on the assignment of the enquiry to a judge and assisting lawyer.

No Date Yet.

Date of the investigation cannot be set until the legal committee reports back to the council.

Ald. John A. Dewart moved the resolution, seconded by Ald. Norman Graham, authorizing the council to undertake the investigation. Subsequently in committee of the whole, the details of engaging a judge and lawyer to assist him in delving into the facts were left to the legal committee, chairman of which is Ald. Herbert Young.

George Gimblett Elected President Of Legion Branch

Former fire chief, George Gimblett Sr., was elected on Monday night to succeed F. P. Burke as president of Branch 52, Canadian Legion. Now retired, Mr. Gimblett, while he was fire chief, was Legion president for eight terms, preceding terms of Harold Yelland and three of Mr. Burke.

GEORGE GIMBLETT

Defeated candidates for the presidency were Albert Mason, Harold Yelland and Ned Heffernan.

In declining his nomination, by letter, Mr. Burke said: "It is with the interests of the branch and its members at heart that I do so, knowing full well with the hours of my present occupation I would not have the time available to fulfill the duties as required of a president for such a large branch as 52."

Mr. Burke continued "since we have several members, quite capable of filling the chair and time available to carry out the duties of the branch in an efficient manner, I feel I would only be blocking their path by contesting the election."

Other officers elected were: 1st vice-president, Louis Durkin; 2nd vice-president, C. H. Stuart; executive, Harry Kelsey, Leo Herr, Percy Marsden, A. (Jimmie) Dunslow and Bruce Rollins; sergeant-at-arms, Harry Gabbutt, (by acclamation). Secretary-manager of the branch remains Hurrell Dodds.

P. M. Hulse, president of the Canadian Legion Ontario command, will install the officers on April 21. The Rev. A. E. Larke of Springville, a major and veteran of Italian campaigns conducted the election.

To Check Stay Of Indigents In Hospital

"We are not stepping on anybody's toes. It is just a general recommendation," said Ald. Herbert Young Monday night in reference to the report of the welfare committee regarding hospital care of indigents.

The clause as read by Ald Harold Rehill, chairman, was: "That the City Clerk be authorized to draft a letter, to be approved by the Mayor, and sent to all doctors in the city, pointing out that owing to the high cost of hospitalization and the shortage of hospital bed accommodation, their co-operation is requested in placing indigent patients in hospitals only in cases of necessity, and that such patients be discharged from the hospital at as early a date as their progress will permit."

Ald. T. D. Miller said it might appear that the council was accusing doctors of recommending that patients be sent unnecessarily.

Ald. Young commented that there were probably some cases in which the patient could be taken care of at home. Illness might not be serious, but possibly there would be an advantage within the home by obtaining the convenience of hospital treatment. "And there may be some cases of the patient being kept in hospital a little longer than necessary."

Ald. P. J. Anglesey said he had opposed the clause in committee because he felt that it was a matter for hospital governors or medical board, "if it was thought that such conditions exist in regard to indigents . . . "If they are in the habit of placing them in the hospital and leaving there. . . "

"I didn't say they were in the habit of", Ald. Young remarked.

The Rehill report carried.

Wheeled Crutch For Spaniel Helps Dog Overcome Illness

Receiving the care that any mother would give her children when they're sick, Blondie, a 10-month-old sad-eyed spaniel puppy, is winning a battle to overcome paralysis of its hind legs. The last thing an owner of any cat, dog, horse or other animal wants to do, is to have his pet killed. Blondie's masters, Mr. and Mrs. Robertson Young, Sherbrooke St., are no exception.

Since they first noticed the dog was ailing three weeks ago, they have done everything in their power to help Blondie. Through the advice of veterinarians, friends and Blondie's own determination to live, the dog is gradually improving.

The companionship between the Youngs and Blondie started at the city market. There they met when a nine-year-old girl was selling blond spaniels and the Youngs bought Blondie. Since then Blondie has become one of the family.

Saw Little Difference

Three weeks ago Mr. Young noticed that Blondie's tail had stopped wagging and thought perhaps the dog was sick. But Blondie continued her usual practices, although, unknown to the Youngs, she was gradually being overcome. Finally Blondie flopped down on the floor, her back legs paralyzed.

"She was laying around sleeping most of the time and we didn't notice much difference," said Mrs. Young.

Upon the advice of a friend Mr. Young made a small wooden cart for Blondie. Similar to a child's small wagon with a crutch built in the centre, Mr. Young's little cart slips under Blondie's back legs.

The cart enables Blondie to move from one room to another, the front legs working as usual and the hind legs riding on the wagon. Without the cart Blondie could not move and would probably die gradually.

Blondie's active moments throughout the day consist of 15-20 minutes exercising with the cart, usually under the supervision of Mrs. Young. The dog walks, dragging the cart, and when Blondie becomes tired, tugs on the leash, a signal to Mrs. Young.

Source of Trouble

The source of Blondie's trouble is either kidney troubles affecting the nerves near the spine or most probably a displaced disc along the spine. The cart serves to give time with the hope that the disc will slip back into place.

The advice is beginning to pay. Three weeks ago Blondie couldn't lift her head off the floor or move her legs. But now she's quite active, even her back legs are showing improvement; she's able to bend them.

Gordon H. Munro Elected Head Of Lumbermen

Gordon H. Munro, vice-president of the Peterborough Lumber Company, was elected president of the Ontario Retail Lumber Dealers' Association at their 35th annual convention Monday in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto.

Advanced from the first vice-presidency, Mr. Munro has been a director of the association for the last four years.

Approximately 460 members of the association registered Monday for the proceedings of the opening day. The convention continues until Thursday.

GORDON H. MUNRO

Mr. Munro has been vice-president of Peterborough Lumber Company since 1934. He was born here, and was educated in Montreal. In 1924 he was graduated in mechanical engineering from McGill University.

A veteran of the First World War, Mr. Munro enlisted in the Canadian Field Artillery in 1915, went overseas in the following year, and finally transferred to the Royal Air Force. He returned from active service in 1919.

Speaker at the Monday luncheon of the convention was J. Gerald Godsoe, vice-president of the British American Oil Co. who introduced the Duke of Edinburgh at the only dinner His Excellency addressed in the course of Queen Elizabeth's autumn tour of Canada.

Building Prospects

Today's program included a panel discussion of the subject, of the prospects for home building in 1952. Participating were representatives of the Construction Association, a loan institution, realty and building operators, a representative of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development, and Dr. O. J. Firestone, economic adviser to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, who was also today's luncheon speaker.

City Borrows For Street Jobs

Authority to borrow more than one-quarter of a million dollars to pay for completed local improvements was the content of a bylaw passed by the council Monday night.

The public works comprised sidewalks, sewers and street pavement for which construction bylaws were passed by the council and approved by the Ontario Municipal Board.

These projects which were carried out last year were the paving of parts of Rogers, Perry, Townsend, and other streets, amounting to $163,772.39.

Sidewalks accounted for $45,459.09, and sewers on Monaghan Road, Orpington Road, King George St., Thompson St., Aberdeen Ave., Ludgate St., etc., cost $43,600.77.

Total expenditure was $272,832.17. The financing bylaw was moved by Ald. J. E. Gillespie, chairman of the board of works, and seconded by Ald. Herbert Young.

The paving job was done by Warren Bituminous Paving Co.

Storm Drains To Ease Floods

Storm drains to carry off the water from spring thaws and rains are being laid by Board of Works employees in the Brookdale subdivision and the Rogers-Maria St. area.

About 1,300 feet of 21, 18 and 12-inch drain will be put in the Brookdale job, and somewhat more than that in the Rogers St.-Maria St. district.

Storm drains are expected to carry off much of the water flooding down from the hill just north of the city.

Already 1,133 feet of drain have been laid in Brookdale, and about 200 feet more will be put in in the next few days.

Drains in the Ashburnham job will be laid along Maria St. from Rogers to Mark St.

Expert Explodes Robbers' 'Soup'

COBOURG, March 18. (ENS)—Professor Joselyn Rogers was in Cobourg Monday to examine the detonators found by police following the non-successful attempt to blow the A & P safe over the weekend. Safe crackers fled before they could get into action.

Professor Rogers said the detonators were of a particularly dangerous and sensitive type and while in themselves they could blow the safe he believed that the safe cracker had a bottle of explosive with them.

Professor Rogers placed the detonators carefully in a well-padded basket leaving the wires aftached less they be disturbed unnecessarily.

With police and Crown Attorney Deyman as spectators, Professor Rogers exploded the detonators at the Rifle Range east of town using a long range telescope equipped high power .22 rifle. Police have searched every inch of the ground in the vicinity of the A & P Store but no trace of the main explosive has been found and it is believed the thieves took it with them.

To Buy Clothes For Works Bd.

Purchase of rubber apparel for use by employees of the board of works in wet weather was approved by the council Monday night.

Forty-eight sets of hats, coats and boots cost $787.74 after the deduction of five per cent discount. Twelve neoprene jackets, pants and hats amounted to $147, for a total of $934.74.

Presenting the bill, Ald. J. E. Gillespie, chairman of the board of works, said tenders had been received from various dealers resulting in the following recommendation by City Engineer Chalmers.

Great West Saddlery Co., 48 rubber hats at $2.45 each, $117.60; 48 coats at $9.10, $436.80; and 60 pairs of boots, 15 inches at $4.58, $274.80; total $829.20, minus discount of $41.46, or $787.74.

Scythes & Co.: 12 neoprene jackets at $5.50 each; 12 neoprene pants at $5; 12 neoprene hats at $1.75 amounting per set to $12.25; total for the 12 sets $147.

Coats and hats were the first request of the workmen of the department, and they expected to have boots also, Ald. Gillespie explained.

Ald. Rehill enquired whether there was any element of urgency, or was it in order to refer the recommendation to the next meeting of the board.

"The agreement was signed with the men last November," said Ald. Gillespie, "but the articles haven't yet been purchased. By passing it tonight, we avoid a delay of another two weeks."

His motion, seconded by Ald. H. S. Longhurst, was adopted.

Bancroft Puckists Conclude Season

BANCROFT, March 18 (ENS)—All hockey leagues operating in North Hastings Community Centre completed their schedules when the final gong was sounded in the public school league on Saturday morning. Fourteen teams and 180 p[illegible] made the local arena their home ice. During the season there were no major accidents and only a couple of minors.

Bancroft Pontiacs were at the top of the Hastings-Addington League at the conclusion of the regular schedule but lost to Madoc in the semi-finals. Tamworth and Madoc went on to play for the Tweed News Cup, the trophy that S. R. Curry donated for the league champions. Bernie Shapiro and Don Tanner looked after the local entry.

The Mercurys, with Harold Watson, as manager-coach, won the McGhee Trophy, for the championship of North Hastings, in a challenge game with Mayhooth.

The Timbermen, run by Jack Stuckey, Whitney Martin and George McKelvey, were knocked out by Madoc in an OMHA juvenile playdown.

Bancroft Midgets, handled by Jack Hattin and Milton McGhee, lost to Stirling in a two-game goals-to-count OMHA playdown.

The Rovers and the Trappers, the two local teams in the North Hastings Bantam Hockey League, went down in the semi-finals. Harold Watson, Lawrence Leedy, Jack Mahaffy and John Bleecker were in charge of those teams. The Wiggins Garage trophy for the league champs was won by the Apsley Aces, with Bill Houle as Coach and Clarence McCormack manager.

Won The Title

Cyril Cutler's team, the Huskies, won the championship of the Bancroft-Faraday School League in a two out of three series with Bob Delyea's team. Four teams played in this series, commonly called the Saturday morning league. The Jack Hood Shield goes to the winners for a year. J. W. C. Hutton and Harold Watson looked after this league.

Two Peewee teams played a number of practice games and exhibitions with Coe Hill and Apsley. Watson and Hutton also handled these two.

North Hastings High School and Bancroft Public School had girls' teams that played a few exhibition games. Glenna Babcock was in charge of the public school team and Wayne Coe the high school team.

At present there is just one more question to settle who will hold the Lions Trophy for the midget championship of North Hastings. As there was no regular league this season the issue will have to be decided between Bancroft midgets and Coe Hill—Apsley Combines in one or more challenge games.

Last year Norman Brough of the Pontiacs won a trophy for the most valuable senior hockey player. Whether or not there will be a similar award this year is something in the rumor factory but who would or should get it is current gossip for the hot stove league.

Probably the busiest man, connected in any way with the 14 teams, was Harold Watson, manager-coach of the Mercurys, coach of the Rovers, manager-coach of the Peewees co-handler of the four elementary school teams and trainer of the Pontiacs. In his spare time, Harold, an employee of the Dept. of Lands and Forests, is a referee or linesman in all classes of hockey from senior to peewee. During the general skating periods he is often seen circling around the rink with some youngsters who is learning how to skate.

BRAZILIAN TRACTION DAM—The recently-completed Santa Cecilia dam backs up the waters of the Paraiba river in Brazil. From here the water travels 15 miles and is raised up 150 feet to fill reservoirs which supply water to plants which generate electric power for Rio de Janeiro. The project to date has cost $51,000,000, and, including the new plant, will ultimately cost $91,000,000. It is the property of Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Co., Ltd., a Canadian company which supplies 65 per cent of Brazil's electric power.

Rivers Diverted To Supply Electric Power In Brazil

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor

The job of suppling electric power to southern Brazil is one of gigantic engineering feats, including the turning of rivers from their courses.

Without such undertakings, Brazil's two great cities, Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, would have stopped in their tracks, instead of accomplishing their vast growth of recent years.

A party of visiting Canadians recently saw the inauguration of the latest of these schemes.

This one involved the damming of the Paraiba (pronounced parry-ee-ba) River, and pumping of its water over a height of land so that, along with the water of a tributary, the Pirai (pronounced peer-ah-ee), it goes into the power system which supplies Rio de Janeiro.

For the present, the new water supply should save Rio from the periodic power-rationing which has resulted from a water shortage. Ultimately it will also supply a new plant which will add 440,000 horsepower to present capacity.

Costs 51 Million

Cost of the project to date is the equivalent of $51,000,000, and ultimate cost will be $91,000,000.

All this is the work of a Canadian company, Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Co., Ltd., with the close co-operation of the Brazilian government, and state and municipal authorities.

Dr. Joao Cleophas de Oliveira, Brazil's Minister of Agriculture, expressed it as follows at the opening of the Paraiba-Pirai diversion (as translated from Portuguese):

"This is the crowning of loyal collaboration between foreign capital or private enterprise—which showed audacity of conception, capacity of realization and confidence in the country—and the government, which, by fully understanding its mission, did not fail, as it could have failed, to assist and stimulate those who undertook to work usefully towards national progress."

And Henry Borden, President of Brazilian Traction, also speaking in Portuguese, said:

"I am filled with pride that your country and mine have been able to co-operate in conceiving, constructing and completing this tremendous development."

Great Co-Operation

Mr. Borden recalled the decrees of the president of Brazil, Dr. Getullio Vargas, and the legislation of the Brazilian Congress, "without which this great development could not have been carried out." Among other things, these had enabled the International Bank for reconstruction and development to join in the project's financing.

Then, to the accompaniment of the music of a Brazilian military band, and with the flags of Brazil and Canada raised together, Dr. Alvaro de Souza Lima, Brazil's Minister of Transport and Public Works touched the button which set the project in motion.

In brief, the purpose of the Paraiba-Pirai project is to bring a sufficient supply of water to the Fontes power station, 60 miles northwest of Rio, present major station in the Rio system, and to a new underground station which is being built nearby.

The water has been made available by placing an 860-foot dam, the Santa Cecilia, across the Paraiba River, 15 miles from Fontes.

To illustrate the problems of power supply which have faced Brazilian Traction:

When it started operations in Brazil some 50 years ago, Rio de Janeiro had a population of about 700,000, compared with its present 2,500,000; and Sao Paulo had a population of about 300,000, compared with its present 2,250,000.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

The boxing world was full of activity Monday night. In Boston, featherweight champion Sandy Saddler of New York was knocked off his feet for the first time in his 143 fights, but he came back to floor Irish Tommy Collins of Boston four times before winning a technical knockout verdict in the fifth round of a St. Patrick's night Donnybrook.

In Philadelphia, young Harold Johnson, Philadelphia light heavyweight counted out of boxing two years ago because of a serious back injury, scored a startling upset by winning a split decision over Clarence Henry, third-rated heavyweight contender.

Veteran fighter Laurent Dauthuille, a leading French middleweight, hammered out a 10-round decision over Norman Hayes of Boston in a bloody fight in Paris.

In West Hartlepool, England, Teddy Gardner, a tavern owner and European flyweight champion, won the British and Empire 112-pound title by outpointing Terry Allen, former world flyweight king, in a 15-round bout. Gardner weighed 110¾ pounds to Allen's 111½.

And in New York, Chico Vejar, 20-year-old welterweight from Stamford, Conn., Monday was named February winner of the Hickok pro-athlete-of-the-year competition over basketballer Paul Arizin of Philadelphia Warriors and golfer Jack Burke, Jr., current leader of the winter golf caravan.

Edmonton Mercurys, Canada's world and Olympic hockey champions, Monday night whipped the United States Olympic hockey team 6-1 in a rugged game in London. The one-sided match was the first in the three-club series for the Churchill Cup. Period scores were 3-0, 2-0, 1-1.

In Whitehorse, Y.T., hockey interest is at a fever pitch, but not over the stretch drive in the National Hockey League. The fight for the Johnson Trophy—"Stanley Cup of the Yukon"—holds the spotlight there. R.C.A.F. and army teams stationed there start a best-of-seven series for the trophy this week on an ice sheet laid annually in an Air Force hangar.

Eight Alberta centres have formed the Alberta Harness Racing Association, headed by secretary-manager Charles E. Parry of Lethbridge and District Exhibition and Rodeo, and will operate a circuit this year.

Even umpires take spring training. Warren Giles, president of the National League, returned to Cincinnati from Florida Monday and among glowing reports on rookie players and attendance at exhibition baseball games interjected: "Our three new umpires, Tommy Gorman, Augie Guglielmo and Frank Secory, looked good in the games I saw them work."

Ship Owners Blast Conditions

LONDON, March 18 — (CP). — An association of British shipowners has joined the chorus of criticism against port conditions, claiming that delay in the turnround of ships is hampering the export drive and adding to the cost of living.

The annual report of the Liverpool Steamship Owners Association, published Monday, speaks of "lamentable" wastage caused by go-slow movements, restrictive practices, and unofficial strikes.

Rangers Lose 2 Defencemen For Remainder Of Season

By AL COLLETTI

NEW YORK, March 18 (CP)—The New York Rangers, who have only a straw-in-the-wind chance of making the Stanley Cup playoffs, have lost the services of defenceman Hy Buller and Steve Kraftcheck for their remaining three games.

Both were injured Sunday night in the Rangers' 4-2 loss at home to Toronto. Buller, one of the leading candidates for rookie-of-the-year honors, fractured a small bone in his left foot. Kraftcheck strained a ligament in his left ankle.

Buller's injury is a crippling blow to the Rangers who must win all three games to gain the fourth and final N.H.L. playoff berth, provided the red-hot Boston Bruins lose their three remaining games.

The Bruins are solidly entrenched in fourth place, five points ahead of New York. They play Chicago's Black Hawks at home tonight and the Rangers here Wednesday night and wind up their schedule also at home against Toronto Sunday night.

Do It Hard Way

Under the steady drive of Coach Lynn Patrick, the Bruins have won four and tied one of their last five games, doing it the hard way. Their victims included first-place Detroit once and second-place Montreal twice.

Patrick, who coached the Rangers within one goal of the Stanley Cup against Detroit in 1949-50, has done wonders with the Bruins for the second season in a row. In 1950-51, when he took over the Boston helm, he beat out the Rangers for a playoff spot. And his Bruins need only one more win to make it two in a row.

As for the Rangers, they have collapsed in the stretch for the third straight year. Their pair of defeats of Toronto during the weekend made it seven losses in their last 10 games. Besides their game with Boston, the Rangers play the Red Wings in Detroit Thursday night and finish out their schedule against Chicago here Sunday night.

The loss of Buller and Kraftcheck leaves New York with four defencemen. Allan Stanley and Frank Eddolls are t[illegible]y two who can be consider[illegible]re. The others are rookies Jim Ross and Jack Evans.

Buller was one of the few bright spots in the Ranger defence, second weakest in the league. He played in every game this season and scored 12 goals and had 23 assists for 35 points.

Only three Ranger forwards have outscored Buller, whose 35 points led the club record for a defenceman, set by Ott Heller in 1943-44.

Kraftcheck, 22-year-old native of Tintern, Ont., has been used more or less as a utility defenceman.

Eastern Capital Overcautious Manning Says

EDMONTON, March 18 (CP)—Premier E. C. Manning said Monday the reason more Canadian capital is not invited in Alberta's natural resources is that Eastern Canadian capital is over-cautious and ultra-conservative.

Winding up debate on the province's $116,000,000 budget for the 1952-53 fiscal year, the Premier replied to criticism by C.C.F. leader Elmer Roper that American capital is taking over control of vast quantities of natural resources.

Alberta's government would like to see the largest possible amount of Canadian capital invested in the province's resources, Mr. Manning said. The Social Credit government had "tried everything" to get Eastern Canadian capital.

But the investors "sat back" and U.S. capital with a different attitude had entered the market.

Adopt Budget

The legislature adopted the budget on a voice vote. With the thorne speech and budget debates both completed, the session, which opened February 21, now is sliding downhill toward prorogation.

Business still to come before the session, expected to be the last before a provincial general election, includes the item-by-item approval of the $116,000,000 in estimated expenditures and 92 bills.

Of the 92 bills, 47 have received second reading, approved in principle, and are awaiting the clause-by-clause approval in committee. Forty-five others have been introduced and are awaiting second reading.

U.S. To Double Advisers To Chiang's Army

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEH, Formosa, March 18 (Tuesday) (AP)—The U.S. plans to double its military advisory group here—to speed the training of 500,000 troops for the defence of this Nationalist Chinese stronghold.

Now at 360 officers and men, the military assistance advisory group needs more specialists to get field teams out with combat troops. Maj.-Gen. William C. Chase, chief of MAAG, has returned to the U.S. to select more men.

That step and more military equipment are the major requirements in whipping Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's army into shape for a sustained defense of Formosa against Communist forces on the mainland.

The Reds repeatedly have asserted their determination to cross the 100-mile Formosa strait and wrest the island from the Nationalists. However, this has been discouraged by the U.S. Seventh Fleet which has patrolled the strait since early in the Korean War.

President Truman ordered the fleet on June 27, 1950, to "neutralize" the strait and requested the Nationalists to refrain from attacks on the Chinese mainland. Chiang agreed.

Much Stronger

Military experts express belief that, with the help of the Seventh Fleet, the Nationalists now have enough strength to beat off at least one major Communist assault.

But much more military equipment would be needed if the Reds were to launch a powerful and sustained offensive against this island. Priorities elsewhere have slowed the flow of U.S. militar, supplies to Formosa.

Chase and a handful of officers arrived here last April 22 to create MAAG. Personnel was selected then largely with an eye to getting men with previous China experience. Specialists in different types of warfare now are needed.

MAAG's work in Formosa is much more closely integrated with the Nationalist organization—and wider in scope—than was the case of the U.S. military advisory group on the mainland before the Reds took over.

U.S. officers assess the morale of Chiang's troops as particularly high.

A MAN OF PEACE — Philadelphia longshoremen listen while the Rev. Dennis J. Comey, arbitrator of waterfront disputes, tells them to return to their jobs. Some 125 dock workers had stopped work in a pay dispute, but resumed when Father Comey bluntly told them they were in the wrong, averting a crippling tieup.

Shamrocks, Green Bowlers On Paddy St. Laurent's Desk

OTTAWA, March 18 (CP) — Shamrocks, green bowlers and green ties sprouted in the Commons Monday as the chamber indulged in a bit of St. Patrick's Day shenanigans.

Four papier mache bowlers, donated by Dan Riley (L-St. John-Albert) were on the desks of Prime Minister St. Laurent, Robert Fair (SC-Battle River), Jim Rooney (L-Toronto St. Paul's) and the Rev. Dan. McIvor (L-Fort William).

Pots of shamrocks sat on the desks of Mr. St. Laurent and Revenue Minister McCann.

Mr. McIvor, who hails from Ireland's County Tyrone, wished Mr. St. Laurent, whose mother was an Irish-Canadian, "the best possible day" and expressed hope he and his family would be "as sober as Irishmen would when the day is over."

Then he proposed that four blank slabs on the stone upper walls of the chamber be carved to commemorate St. Patrick, St. George, St. Andrew and Ste. Joan of Arc. It would be, he suggested, an "inspiration."

Later, I. R. Studer (L-Maple Creek) said he wanted to congratulate Canada's 1,267,702 Irishmen "on being just lucky enough to be born Irishmen." It would be a better world if there were more of the Irish.

The by-play ended with Irish-born Mr. Fair and Mr. Rooney, whose parents claimed a tie with old Erin, tipping their green bowlers all around.

OTTAWA, March 18 — (CP) — Resources Minister Winter announced Monday that a committee will be established during the current session to consider the annual report of the National Film Board. The committee will be the first established by the Commons to review activities of the Crown-owned board.

One after another four other brothers attempted a rescue. The sixth and last brother of the family arrived on the scene just in time to haul back to safety the son of the eldest.

Armchair Experts Said Too Critical

OTTAWA, March 18 — (CP).— Dr. E. A. McCusker, Regina physician, said Monday night there has been too much criticism in the Commons from "armchair veterinarians" about the way the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan is being handled.

Frenchman Says Toronto Civilized

TORONTO, March 18 (CP). — Jean Francois Pouliot, ebullient French-speaking member of the Commons for Temiscouata, assured Torontonians Monday night that their city really is civilized.

"Why should anyone pay attention to dyspeptic quibblers who contend that Toronto is civilized in a superficial way?" he asked a St. Patrick's Day dinner gathering.

Scholes, 62, who lives in a wooden shack on the banks of the Humber River about 15 miles north of Toronto, said he lives by trapping and producing skunk oil, which he terms "a remedy for anything."

Motions were made to donate $10 to the local Red Cross drive and also to hold a cooking sale and afternoon tea on March 29. Mrs. Newman named a nomination committee of three, consisting of Mrs. D. Meyers, Mrs. J. West and Mrs. O. Rannie.

The second company of the Girl Guides under the direction of Mrs. Ken Pryke then sang a number of camp songs, gave the Girl Guide Promise and the Guide Law. Patrol Leader Gaele Meyers sang "Bluebird of Happiness."

The attendance prize for this month was won by Mrs. Bailey's class.

Sid Hopping presented the Board of Education cup to Standra McDonald, who won second prize in the oratorical contest at Brighton recently.

The association again decided to send a delegate to the Home and School convention at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto during Easter week.

Miss Betty Redner introduced Mr. McKinney, who spoke on the use of Audio-Visual aides in the classroom. Three of the types of these aides are projectors, stereographs and lantern slides. Mr. McKinney stressed the fact that there must be trained people to teach the pupils by this method, or it would of no advantage. He also said that the record player is the greatest audio-aide now used in the classroom. The use of these aides helps the students to learn more, to learn faster, and to remember longer. It also tends to give more interest to a given subject. Mr. McKinney then showed a picture on Switzerland, to demonstrate how visual aides are used in a classroom.

Mrs. H. S. Staples voiced the thanks of the group to Mr. McKinney.

Bosoms To Blame Says Designer Of Italian, French

ROME, March 18 (AP).—Italian and French women can blame their bosoms for their inability to dress as elegantly as their American sisters, says Schuberth, a Rome fashion designer.

"The bosoms of Italian women are too big," he asserted. "And French women are—well, too flat-chested to give their clothes a proper fit."

Schuberth, a slim, fragile-looking man, with a passion for wearing exaggerated rings and gold-linked bracelets on his hands said the American girl is "taller, more slender, has longer legs and her busts are perfect — sartorially speaking."

The American girl got that way "because she leads a more active life, exercising through sport or work."

The designer who has dressed many daughters of European nobility and whose outfits are sold in several exclusive American shops, has a theory about women's upper contours.

"The French women are indolent and therefore, inactive," he said. "Italian women, on the other hand, insist on eating starchy foods and almost always nurse their children. That isn't going to help them keep a well-formed bosom."

"A top-heavy woman never looks well dressed."

What should a woman do who has been amply endowed by nature?

Schuberth screwed his face into a puzzled expression, reflected a moment and replied by shrugging his shoulders.

Cream Comes To The Top In Easter Fashion Picture

All the shades of cream — from golden Jersey to rich Devonshire —give a pale and lovely light to spring's fashion picture. Call them "beiges" but don't say you can't wear them. After all the most beloved shades of face powder are all tones of beige—champagne beige, rose beige and everyone thanks her stars for the flattery of powder. So learn to make-up —literally and figuratively—to the sweet creams you'll be wearing in suits, coats, dresses and hats this Easter and after that.

Your lipstick is the liason — the magic stick that makes your beige outfit becoming to you. For the deeper creams, use a clear red—one that's radiant—and rich as rich. For the paler creams, go pink and you'll be perfect. All the fashion authorities are talking up pink for your lips and finger-tips—it's the newest trend in cosmetics. Not candy-box pink, but a softly, glowing kissable pink like rose geranium or flower petal pink. (Incidentally, let your kissable pink be in an indelible lipstick that makes your lips look luscious and moist, but won't kiss off or eat off.)

With the high-fashion whites which are back so strong not only for country clothes, but for city suits, in the new slubbed materials—these pinks are also excellent.

This fragile look in clothes means you have to be more feminine than ever—and being feminine means being fragrant and lovely. Perfumes, colognes, toilet waters are luxurious—but try, for an extra dash of delicious scent, a talc sachet. Here you have the joy of a dusting powder after your bath, and the pleasure of knowing its scent is more concentrated than ordinarily, and therefore will be a pleasant reminder of your femininity for several hours. Packaged in a "squeeze-type" plastic bottle, talc sachet puffs over your skin in a fragrant cloud. It's the newest way to use fragrance—and you'll love it.

DOROTHY DIX

Serviceman Grows Mature While Girl Remains Home

DEAR MISS DIX: My boy friend is in the service. I love him very much and before he left he was also very much in love with me. He has returned from overseas and seems completely changed. He does date me occasionally, but also goes out with several other girls. Should I give him up entirely or hope he'll come back to steady dating, with me? I am 17.

FLORA

ANSWER: A girl who dates a boy in service is confronted with many problems unique to her position. Her older sister had the same troubles in the last war; her mother had them in World War 1. They will probably continue to the end of time, unless the united prayers of an overburdened people finally become sincere enough to reach the throne of God.

At 17 a girl is slightly overwhelmed with the glamour of having a soldier (or sailor) sweetheart, yet she is far too young to carry the responsibility incurred by the association. The relationship no longer is a question of boy-and-girl dating.

He Becomes Mature

The boy who kisses his girl goodbye before taking off for foreign lands will become a man almost before he would have achieved the status had he stayed at home. The girl, on the other hand, remains home, insulated against the rigors of the outside world, and changes little. When her beau returns, she is shocked if he has changed—as he is bound to do. In your case, Flora, your sweetheart just outgrew you. He is home to find you still a child while he pictures himself as a sophisticated man of the world. What normally happens next is that you will grow up and he will grow down a little as the home atmosphere brings him back to normalcy. When you meet on common ground again, all will be well.

It is also possible that he went away believing himself in love with you, but found out that absence instead of making hearts grow fonder, causes them to wander. If he has lost his affection for you, there's nothing you can do but philosophically accept the situation and find new boy friends. At 17, this is easy, though it may not seem so to you at the time.

All girls whose sweethearts or boy friends are leaving home for Uncle Sam should be prepared to do a little temporizing until the period of service is over. Don't make rash promises about not going out with other boys, unless a formal engagement exists between you. Maintain a good social life, as much for your boy friend's sake as your own. For one thing, you'll have more interesting news if you don't isolate yourself during his absence, and you'll also help to keep up his contracts at home while seeing mutual friends. Above all, you'll be prepared tot continue life on a normal basis if he should return with a changed heart.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My trouble is that I'm not as free with my affections as other girls in our crowd, and consequently don't have many dates. I am 15, and underweight, and my mother thinks that's the cause of my difficulty. I don't like to tell her the truth.

DIANE B. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your mother wants to help you, Diane, and you should take advantage of her understanding. Explain your difficulty to her; in her dating days she probably went through the same experience and be assured, her advice can be relied upon. If gaining weight is also a problem, have your mother take you to the family doctor for a thorough check-up and advice.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My boy friend recently broke off with me, giving no reason. I am heartsick over the affair, as I thought a lot of him. We hadn't been going together very long. I am a nervous person and wonder if that might have had anything to do with his decision. Also, we didn't have too many interests in common.

WINNIE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You give three excellent reasons for a break-up; a short acquaintance, during which you probably led your friend to suspect that you were serious about him; your nervousness, which may have made you demanding even though you didn't realize it, and a lack of common interests, which is the deadly enemy of a boy-girl friendship. Perhaps you won't get this boy back, but why not try to stabilize yourself in readiness for the next romance that enters your life?

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"The people up the street have ordered dog food by mail!"

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Smoked Ham Should Soak 12 Hours Before Cooking

The request for cooking hams and other smoked pork products and for stuffed pork chops will interest many of you:

"Dear Mary Moore—Thanks so much for your propmt reply with reference to scallops, making steak gravy, etc. Have been enjoying eating scallops on Friday nights now and have passed your advice on to friends. Have been asked several times though why you do not dip them in flour?

"I clipped out your recipe for home-made soup, too . . . I am really eager to learn about cooking hams . . . there are so many kinds—rolled, picnic hams, peameal bacon, etc. Mother used to simmer hams (rolled) but I don't remember how long. I will watch your column . . . also, how do you bake thick pork chops? Some people tell me they add milk. Do you always buy loin chops? One time I tasted "stuffed pork chops." Everyone raved about them—so hot and tasty with just a simple dressing. What's the secret?"—B. D.

Answer To B. D.

If scallops are wiped dry they do not need the flour first but flouring them first does give you a thicker crunchier crust. Roll the scallops in flour which has been seasoned with salt and pepper. Then dip in egg diluted with 1 or 2 tablespoons water, then in fine sifted crumbs.

Boiled Ham (Rind On)

Scrub ham thoroughly and soak 12 hours in cold water. Skim off surface scum. Bring to boil in soaking water and simmer until tender allowing 20 minutes per pound—longer if it is not tender at the bone.

To serve cold keep in stock in cool place for 12 hours, then peel off rind. To serve hot let cool slightly in stock before removing, then skin off the rind. If to be finished by baking to serve hot, spread scored fat surface with a paste made of 1 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard and 2 or 3 tablespoons vinegar or honey or fruit juice. Place in oven of 325 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes. It may be basted with cider or peach or pineapple juice during this period. Sections where it is scored may be dotted symetrically with whole cloves after it is spread with sugar paste.

Baked Ham

For hams bought in transparent casings follow directions printed thereon.

For smoked hams with rind on bake a 10 or 12-lb. ham 10 minutes to the pound at 325 deg. Fahr. Do not cover, do not add water.

If sugar-paste finish is desired use same method as finish under boiled ham.

For Picnic Shoulder allow 30 minutes per lb. For Boned Shoulder weighing 4 lbs. 35 minutes per lb.

Stuffed Pork Chops

Ordinary bread stuffing as for chicken may be used but a special one is: Brown in 2 tablespoons butter or fat, ½ cup washed and chopped mushrooms, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, and ½ cup boiled rice for 5 minutes slowly. Add 1 cup breadcrumbs, 1 can canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Simmer 10 minutes. Let cool. Have ready thick pork chops (1½-inch) loin or shoulder in which you have made a deep pocket; slitting along the fat edge. Stuff them with this mixture and fasten with skewers. Brown chops on both sides in frying pan until meat is nearly heated through, then add ½ cup water, cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. This amount of stuffing will fill 6 chops. If you prefer 1-inch chops reduce cooking time.

Actress Finds British Men Tops In Romance

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 18—(AP)—Sultry Lizabeth Scott has returned from a European jaunt and blimey if she doesn't think British men are top-notch, romantically speaking.

The actress was subject to some international wooing while touring Europe. She was escorted by English, French, Italian and Swiss men, and she decided that the English are the most adept in the matters of the heart.

"Englishmen are so youthful in their manner," she enthused. "It's not true that Englishmen are sober and unemotional all the time. They have delightful sense of humor.

"And they can become quite poetic, too."

I asked if she implied that American men don't get poetic.

"Not as readily," she admitted. "But American men are able to get poetic over a girl if they really get serious about her. I have letters to prove it."

Miss Scott was in London several weeks making a picture with Paul Henreid.

Tours Continent

She also did some touring on the continent, but her romantic findings were not quite so satisfactory.

"The Frenchmen is wonderful in his suavity and charm," she remarked, "and is very quick with the compliments. But sometimes you wonder if perhaps this isn't a veneer. It wasn't encouraging to see how the French treat their wives. The women are held in very low regard; the man is King.

"The Italian is also full of charm . . . but seems cynical and pessimistic.

"As for the Swiss, he is very impressive. He is strong and silent and can say more with a few words than most nationalities can with sentences."

Use Nursing Assistants To Ease Nurse Shortage

TORONTO—(CP)—A career in nursing may become more glamorous as a result of the current shortage of trained nurses.

Nursing "assistants" now are being instructed to the point where they may relieve trained nurses of many of the less important duties, in a program which it is hoped will result in releasing graduate nurses for more exacting duties in the operating rooms, clinics and elsewhere.

Medical and hospital authorities, concerned over the shortage of student nurses, inaugurated a nursing training course open to applicants with lower educational qualifications than required for nurses themselves. The new course, taking less than a year, leads to a certificate as Nursing Assistant.

Later the Canadian Commission on Nursing was created to study the best methods of finding a permanent answer to the nurse shortage. Chairman of the Commission is Dr. Gilbert Turner, executive director of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal.

Other members of this Commission, which is studying the entire nursing problem, are Dr. Arthur Kelly of the Medical Journal; Dr. L. O. Bradley of the Canadian Hospital Council; Rev. Hector Bertrand of the Canadian Catholic Hospital Council; Gertrude Hall of the Canadian Nurses' Association and Nettie Fidler, Director of the University of Toronto School for Nursing.

Applicants for Nursing Assistant certificates may be from 18 to 40 years old and are assured of steady employment at regular hospital hours. Courses are already being conducted in every province and plans call for their rapid extension. The new field is open to men as well as women.

Commission member Dr. Kelly says the new nursing set-up offers a "very favorable chance for men and women to get into a good salaried work, without the academic requirements that have kept many out of nursing until now.

"With less than a year's training, they can get positions without any problem, and the demand for them will last without doubt for a long time."

New Whirling Device Solves Plane Hazards

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—The United States Navy disclosed today it has developed a whirling device which can simulate the hazards to which humans and planes are subjected in high speed, high altitude flight.

Called a "human centrifuge," the machine operates like a cream separator, or the familiar carnival "whip."

Navy scientists said it offered the best possible solution to still unanswered questions about the physiological effects of operating—and escaping from—high altitude, high-speed airplanes.

Take Over Airfields

LONDON, March 18—(AP)—The Yugoslav newspaper Borba quotes two Romanian refugees as saying the Soviet air force has taken over several Romanian airfields including "the modern Constanta air field". The Romanians said jet propelled planes of the "Mig" and "Yak" types are arriving in increasing numbers.

Rescue 219 Patients

TOKYO, March 18—(AP)—U.S. airmen and Japanese civilians today rescued 219 patients from a burning Far East air force hospital. The fire swept through two wards of the hospital. Firemen brought it under control in 40 minutes.

Robert Wright Still Sharpens Skates At 86

Robert S. Wright, 469 Albert St. declines to make any easy concession to time and some acknowledged debility attributable to its effects.

Mr. Wright, now in his 87th year, sharpens a lot of skates for the young people who enjoy the winter recreation afforded at Civic Arena, only a block away from his home. In his records of production, business has fallen off slightly this winter, spring will be singing one of these days in the tune of the meadow lark, and parity with last year may not be attained.

Actually, Mr. Wright sharpened 311 pairs of skates a year ago, but the total for this winter is down to 304. He evidently is not disposed to writing off that present margin of seven pairs as chargeable to any slackening in his ability and thoroughness, or to the fact that he is one year older.

Besides it has been a long winter, and about the only explanation Mr. Wright can accept in his accounting is that probably in his 87th year (he has had 86 birthdays) his work has been better than ever, and lasting longer in keenness on the Arena ice.

Man Lost Arm Sues Driver

Gerald Hill, 33-year-old ex-mechanic from Brighton township, began a damage action today at the spring assizes over a car accident July 23, 1950, in which he lost his left forearm.

His car was in a sideswipe collision with a second car on Highway 7, two miles east of Havelock, driven by George R. Cameron, Belleville and owned by Edward S. James, the co-defendent.

Hill's elbow was protuding from the window of the driver's seat. In the collision his arm was so badly mangled that it had to be amputated at the elbow next day in Civic hospital.

Father Of Five

The father of five children—the oldest only 10 years—Hill has been unable to get stead employment since. He told the court he could no longer be employed as a mechanic; nor could he farm. The defendants are filing a counterclaim for damage to their car.

Both sides claim the other was on the wrong side of the highway.

Two Failed To File Income Tax, Fined

Two men charged with failing to file income tax returns entered written pleas of guilty in police court Monday.

Joseph Sullivan, Ennismore, pleaded guilty to failing to file a return covering his farming operations in 1947 and also to failing to file a general income tax form in 1948. He was fined $50 and $9 costs.

John Joseph Kelly, R.R. 1, Norwood, was fined $25 and $8 costs for failing to file a return in 1950.

Ancient Weapons

NORWICH, England, March 18—(Reuters)—A hoard of ancient weapons dating back to Britain's bronze age—around 1,000 B.C.—has been found during excavations on a new housing site near this eastern town. An official at Norwich Museum said the hoard included 10 bronze ax heads, a sword blade and a chisel head.

Grand Jury Hears Evidence In Charge Against Larocque

At noon today a Peterborough county grand jury were still hearing evidence to determine whether Armand Larocque, 39, must stand trial on a charge of raping a Peterborough mother of two children.

The charge to the grand jury was given Monday afternoon by Justice A. M. LeBel, presiding at the spring assizes of the Supreme Court.

Even if a "true bill" is returned against Larocque it is possible he will not face trial until all the civil cases are disposed of. Larocque was not committed for trial until last Saturday and Defence Counsel Robert Carley may need more time to prepare his case.

Before explaining the law on rape, Justice LeBel made a few remarks on the grand jury system and the administration of justice in Ontario.

Began In 11th Century

He said that the jury system dates back to the 11th century originating about the time of the Norman conquest of England. So, apart from any other consideration, it has stood the test of time.

"Nobody claims this system is free from error," said Justice LeBel, "for after all it is only a human institution. The right to trial by our fellow countrymen and not by any one man . . . is one of our most precious liberties. It is necessary to stress this in an age of change and impatience."

Today there are some complaints against the law as it exists in Ontario, said Justice LeBel. And he conceded that there were some grounds for this.

For example, people are often imprisoned for months before being brought to trial.

"But we must remember that the alternative to the rule of law is the rule of anarchy. If that's what society wants; just to gain time . . . then they can have it. That's the kind of system they would have under anarchy: no technicalities, no delays.

"Nothing is perfect that is of human origin. What we must do is strive, as our ancestors strove, to bring about an improvement in our system."

Changed Since 1939

Administration of justice in Ontario is very different now to what it was before the Second World War, Justice LeBel said. The province has grown; the flow of immigrants is continuing; business is increasing; and the housing shortage have all created problems not faced before.

"We should give considerable attention to what improvements can be made in the administration of law . . . The trend of crime should make clear the necessity for swift, retributive justice . . . to those who choose anarchy in preference to law and order."

If the grand jury system were abolished an important factor in citizenship would be sacrificed, said Justice LeBel.

"Serving on the grand jury gives a citizen a personal knowledge of what takes place in our courts.

"People must have confidence in their courts and the courts must always be open to the scrutiny of the people. Nobody can exclude you except in those cases where there might be a corruption of morals—particularly of the young.

Justice LeBel said he was personally reluctant to exclude anybody from a courtroom. And when such a case was being tried he made it a practice to exclude only those under a certain age.

Autopsy Shows Newsie Strangled

HAMILTON, March 18 — (CP) —Au autopsy of the murderd Norman (Scotty) McLeod Monday showed that the 65-year-old newsie died from strangulation.

Before the slayers garrotted their victim they badly beat him with their fists "and a blunt instrument." The findings bear out the preliminary medical report.

The newsie's belt and key chain were found hanging from a branch on the mountainside near Stoney Creek where the body was found Friday by two schoolboys.

Court Reduces Liquor Charge

After John Terrior, 21, R.R. 2, Marmora was tried today on a drunk driving charge, Magistrate W. R. Philp reduced the charge and convicted him of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

Terrion paid the fine of $50 and $5 costs.

O.P.P. constables Aimey Gaudry and Ralph Tremills said they were maintaining a road block on Highway 7 at the Keene Road when a car driven by Terrion went through without stopping, shortly after midnight, March 9.

Both Terrion and Charles Clements, the owner of the car, denied seeing constable Tremills wave a flashlight flagging them down. The officers were stopping all cars at the time, as they were looking for the Boyd, Jackson, Suchan trio, wanted for robbery and the attempted murder of two Toronto detectives.

Constables Gaudry and Tremills said they chased the car and caught up with it, in about three miles. When Terrion was asked to get out of the car, and also on the way to provincial police headquarters, constable Gaudry said he showed the usual signs of intoxication—thick speech, staggering, and his breath smelled of alcohol. Constable Gaudry also said that Terrion was extremely talkative.

W. J. Arthur Fair defended Terrion and urged Magistrate Philp either to acquit Terrion entirely, of to reduce the charge to driving while impaired.

Terrion said he had had two pints of beer in Marmora before leaving for Peterborough. Clements said he was tired, and allowed Terrion to take over just west of Norwood.

After hearing the arguments of both Mr. Fair and crown counsel, Magistrate Philp found Terrion guilty of the reduced charge of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

3 Admit Had Liquor In Illegal Place

Three written pleas of guilty were entered in police court today on charges of having liquor in a place other than a residence.

Edward N. Monaghan, 496 Brioux St., was fined $20 and $2.50 costs on the charge.

The other two men who pleaded guilty to the same charge: Arthur Anderson, R. R. 2, Havelock, and Elmer Bowes, 79 Queen St., Renfrew, were each fined $15 and $2.50 costs.

Expensive Business

LONDON, March 18—(Reuters)—It is expected to cost £410,000 to maintain Britain's royal palaces for the fiscal year 1952-53, it was shown in figures released Monday. The figure is just £100 more than last year. It includes £42,000 for fuel, gas, electricity, water and household articles.

CHECKING ALL BAGGAGE — A rigid check is being made of European immigrants to ensure that the virus of foot-and-mouth disease is not brought into Canada, the Agriculture Department has announced. In Halifax immigration officials are on the alert to check the baggage of immigrants who arrive almost daily. A workman opens a crate to enable H. W. Simpson of the Agriculture Department to check for straw and hay. The baggage of some settlers must be disinfected.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

By G. E. GROOMBRIDGE

This is the last call for the Scouters' Club to be held this Wednesday evening in St. Luke's parish hall, March 19th, at 8:30 p.m. Don't forget to bring your ladies along.

If you have not already made arrangements to attend the leaders' conference at Cobourg on Saturday next, March 22 and wish to do so, please phone commissioner G. R. Langley at once.

With Trinity Troop

Warren Kennedy was invested into the world brotherhood of Scouts and as a member of Trinity troop at a fitting ceremony Friday evening. Sonny Hutton has returned home from hospital and is progressing very well. Eight members of the troop, several who came up from the Cubs, are now studying "tenderfoot tests" with the aim of being invested in the near future and some six other members of the troop are taking special training in signalling under A. D. C. Graham Carruthers at the armouries and specializing on first and second class work. The Lion patrol, the newest unit, which is really in there pitching, brought in their patrol box to lead the way in color and utility. It is planned to have two movies on Scouting at a special meeting to help Scouting along in this troop.

Greetings To St. Paul's

Thirty-one Cubs were present at the last meeting at which Stanley McBride and David Wilson placed their feet firmly on the jungle trail when they were invested into Scouting as Wolf Cubs and had, as special guests for the ceremony, their parents. Many tests were passed during the evening including compass, cleaning boots and folding clothes by Jim Jones and Robert Law.

First stars were presented to Sonny Greig, Thomas Coldwell, David Giles, Robert Shiner, Basil Downer and first year service stars to Robert Shiner, David Giles, David Minty, three year service stars to Robert Law and Fred Spinks. Franklyn Montgomery earned his homecraft badge, Angus McFadgen the first aider badge, Baloo also doing yeoman worked in tenderpad tests. To complete the evening, senior sixer Roger Mallory presented our group committee chairman, Mr. J. Anderson with his group committee badge.

At All Saints'

Following the opening and inspection taken by A.S.M. Fred Jay two quick games were played, shoe scramble and obstacle relay. Patrol instruction followed with Gar White and Ken Johnson passing trees and shrubs, Ron Beard—compass, Doug Livingstone and Ken Johnson—signalling, Ken Butler completed his tenderfoot tests. The above results show that Gar White, Ken Johnson and Doug Livingstone have now completed second class work. Although the Bulldog patrol came through with the highest points for the evening (33) the Crow patrol won the monthly competition by passing the 200 mark. We are also glad to report that Jack Morton has been promoted to the rank of patrol leader. His troop like was also arranged.

Over Ashburnham

Work seems to be the theme of things at St. Luke's as both the pack and troop are getting down to the business of passing tests and getting those colored patches on their sleeves. Two new members were attached to the pack and received their white kerchifs as Jack Steen and Wayne Ash were accepted as new chums. Don Hepburn passed book-balancing and time, Jim Wyatt—time, Don Easterbrook, Neil Roberts, David Pilley, Kim Salonius—knots, Bill Bonnie, Ron Humphries, Michael Rafarrel—knots and book-balancing.

Badges passed—Don Morrison—observer, Terrance Mulcahy, Jack Darwin—first aider and observer, Ray Baptie—homecraft, Bob Simmons—first year service star, Jim McGown and Balre Greenley—book-balancing and Ken Starr—Cub law. While this was going on the troop were also coming through with their share of the honors, the general theme of the tests and instructions being on the new highway and traffic tests instituted into Scout tests. We are strengthened in the troop with the joining of Ron Davis, a first class Scout from Trenton. The course of honor are also studying new methods for the troop. Phil Harvey passed compass, Ron Land, laws, promise, signs, salute, woodcraft signs and first aid, Doug Leggett, Kim's game, Bob Leggett, first aid and signalling, Fred Nurse, first aid, highway rules and exercises, George Roberts, flag, ensign, first aid, camp bed, staff and gadget, Gordon Starr, trees and shrubs and compass, Peter Salonius, flags, ensign, signs, salutes and woodcraft, Don Storey, highway rules, exercises, first aid, Gary Barclay, health, exercises, first aid, Kim's game, lashings and whippings, Fred Barker, laws, promise, first aid, camp bed, Carl Butcher, first class swimming and swimmer's badge, Ralph Butcher, health, exercises and first aid, Robert Depallaro, knots and whipping, Ernest Harding, woodcraft, knots and whipping, Bob Harvey, first class highway rules, traffic laws, traffic reports, trees, shrubs and bed.

Second class badges were presented to Paul Loescher, Don Storey and Darrell Greenley.

St. John's Report

Two new chums were accepted into the pack Friday evening in the persons of William Collins and Kenneth Murduff and the present attendance at the pack meetings has resulted in a new six being formed under Blaine Calhoun, the senior sixer in charge and known as the white six.

A new game (Men and Mars) was carried out with the green Martians under Tommy Gunn defeated the red Martians under Bob Wagster. Tests passed during the evening were model and compass by Tommy Gunn, somesault by Bob Wagster and Garry Hamilton, first star knots, Ken Druce, David Gunn, Garry Hamilton, exercises — Jerry Sedgwick, leapfrog — John Mitchell, law and promise—Wayne Wannamaker, flags—Brian Dunford.

The troop also reported some progress with the court of honor getting down to real business and lifting some of the load from the Scouters shoulders. Lawrie Gedge passed his knots and whipping, Bob Kingston completed second class, Andy Sherk—first aid and camp bed, Glen Wannamaker—law and first aid and Wayne Collins knots. Clarence Manley, a former member of the Cub pack took another step ahead when he became a full fledged member of the troop at an investiture ceremony last week.

We regret to announce the loss of our report on a visit to Bridgenorth and attempts to contact the Rev. D. P. Morris failed up to time of sending in this news column. Full report will be given later.

IUE To Attempt To Destroy UE

The IUE-CIO locals in Canada finished up their weekend council meeting with a resolution that stated they would work together to destroy the rival UE, "this red-dominated union."

Delegates voted support and assistance to the local IUE which is trying to oust the UE as the bargaining agent for some 3,600 CGE production workers. This is the third campaign begun by the right-wing union since the split in the ranks of electrical workers 27 months ago.

Included on the list of speakers were Mayor Hugh Waddell and Ed. Humphrey, president of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL).

Friday night the IUE-CIO locals of Peterborough staged their first party and dance. And Joe Wirtz, international representative, said plans were being made for a spring formal ball.

The entertainment committee included IUE members from the office and production workers at CGE, and from the production workers at the Western Clock Co.

Unexpected Guest

CINCINNATI, March 18—(AP)—The Cincinnati zoo received an unexpected addition Monday—a two-foot long boa constrictor. The baby reptile apparently had been hauled here from New Orleans on a truck load of bananas. A dock foreman found the snake and managed to push the boa into a box and then turned it over to the zoo.

Submarine Volcano Rumbling In Pacific

MANILA, March 18 (AP)—A submarine volcano today was reported belching smoke and steam on the surface of the Pacific Ocean 315 miles north of Manila.

The eruption was reported by the steamer Brightstar, en route from Los Angeles to the Persian Gulf.

Government seismologists said the report, combined with renewed eruptions of Hibok Hibok volcano 650 miles south of Manila, indicate a period of intense volcanic activity is approaching.

New Outbreak Found In Britain

LONDON, March 18 (Reuters)—The agriculture ministry today reported several new outbreaks of foot-and-mouth disease during the weekend, giving rise to fears that Britain's worst epidemic in 10 years is still persisting.

Earlier this month, it was believed the worst of the epidemic was over, though it is still raging in some parts of Europe.

The new outbreaks are in the eastern counties of Essex and Suffolk. Several cattle markets have been closed.

The scourge has been concentrated along the east coast, supporting the theory of agriculture experts that the outbreaks are caused by the flight of migratory brids from Europe to Britain at the beginning of the cold weather.

Since the epidemic began last November, 6,049 cattle, 3,036 sheep, 2,822 pigs and six goats have been slaughtered in an effort to control the disease.

Waterloo Authorizes Police Investigation

WATERLOO, March 18 (CP) — Waterloo township council Monday night authorized a complete investigation of the township Police Department.

Council would make no comment other than that the action was a ratification of a motion passed by Police Committee. T. H. Isley, chairman of the committee, said the nature of the investigation would not be revealed until township solicitor William Boos returned from Florida.

Fined $10 and Costs

John Bickerstith, 113 Simcoe St., pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place, and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs, or ten days in jail, by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court today.

Flynn Denies McMartin Close Friend

NASSAU, Bahamas, March 18 (Reuters).—Visitors to this tropical playground crowded the Supreme Court today for the second day of Errol Flynn's lawsuit against Duncan McMartin, Canadian millionaire, which got under way Monday.

The Hollywood star is suing McMartin for £80,000 damages after the Canadian, Flynn claims, hit him in the neck last March in a hotel bar here.

Flynn limped across the courtroom at the opening of the case to take his place in the witness box.

W. E. A. Callender, lawyer for the actor, explained the limp was not connected with the lawsuit, but was caused by an injury in Flynn's latest movie. Film acting is strenuous work, he added.

McMartin told the court he was on terms of friendship and "easy familiarity" with the star. It was customary for them to greet each other in a "hearty manner," he declared. The blow Flynn complained of was a light and friendly one administered in sport, he said.

Felt Dislike

Flynn denied he was struck lightly and said he barely knew the Canadian. He probably met him first 10 years ago at a party given by Mrs. McMartin, the court was told. "And I've always felt McMartin didn't like me," he added.

"I feel that stronger now," said Flynn.

McMartin is the son of the late Duncan McMartin, Senior, one of the original owners of the Hollinger Gold Mines. When the younger McMartin was 25 he was said to have collected $10,000,000 from his father's estate.

Flynn said the Canadian visited him two days following the incident and expressed his regret.

"When I'm drunk I don't know who I hit," the millionaire is reported to have told Flynn.

The court was told the neck blow prevented Flynn from making "Lydia Bailey," a 20th Century Fox film for which he would have been paid $200,000. He said Warners Brothers, who employ him to make one picture a year at $160,000 per film, allows him to make one other yearly for any other major producer.

Seemed Pals

Later in the proceedings Flynn admitted when he arrived here last March he and McMartin lived at the Windsor Hotel and had drinks in each others rooms.

He said during cross-examination the Canadian's valet supplied him with dinner clothes for a party the night he arrived because his other clothes were still on the way.

But the star continued to deny he and McMartin were close friends.

Further cross-examination of the actor concerned his allegedly strenuous activity in Jamaica, Havana and other West Indian cities just after the incident with McMartin.

French Forces Take Vietminh Island

SAIGON, Indo-China, March 18—(AP)—French Headquarters today announced the capture of the island of Ly Nhan, about 45 miles south of Hanoi, from the Communist-led Vietminh.

The island was taken by four mobile groups, reinforced by armored cars, amphibious vehicles, and naval groups.

Three battalions of Vietminh regulars defending the island gave up after a bitter battle. The French claimed to have killed 200 Vietminh and to have taken about 300 prisoners.

2 U.S. Sailors Led St. Pat's Day Riots

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland, March 18 — (Reuters) — Two Untied States sailors, in civilian clothes were in the forefront of Monday's St. Patrick's day anti-British riots in which 27 persons were taken to hospital, it was revealed today.

The sailors, who carried the flags of the Republic of Ireland and the U. S. were arrested by shore police.

The riots started when baton-wielding police tried to disperse a rally held to protest the partition of Ireland into the British North and Republican South.

BELLEVILLE FIGHTS $500,000 FIRE

Diplomatic Changes Announced

St. Laurent's Aide Becomes Clerk Of Privy Council

OTTAWA, March 19. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent's right-hand man has been named clerk of the Privy Council and secretary of the Cabinet, one of the key jobs on Parliament Hill.

Appointment of J. W. Pickersgill, 46, a native of Winnipeg, to that $15,000-a-year post was announced today by the prime minister as part of a shuffle of top-level official figures.

Other changes:

1. A. D. P. Heeney, 50, Undersecretary of State for External Affairs, goes to the new full-time North Atlantic Council in Paris as ambassador and permanent representative.

2. L. Dana Wilgress, High Commissioner in London, comes home to take Mr. Heeney's job.

3. Norman Robertson, 48, Clerk of the Privy Council and Cabinet Secretary, goes back to London as High Commissioner, a job he held from 1946 to 1949.

4. Pierre Dupuy, ambassador to The Netherlands, becomes ambassador to Italy.

Mr. Heeney is a native of Montreal who went to school in Winnipeg. Mr. Wilgress was born in Vancouver in October, 1892, and Mr. Robertson also was born in Vancouver. Mr. Dupuy, a native of Montreal, is 55.

Appointments Effective

The Heeney appointment is effective April 15, the Dupuy appointment May 1, the others June 1.

It is expected that Mr. Pickersgill's job as special assistant to Mr. St. Laurent will end with him and that he will carry on in his new post a considerable portion of the work he has been doing.

He became special assistant in 1945 under the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King and stayed on when Mr. St. Laurent became prime minister in 1948.

It is likely that Pierre Asselin of Quebec City, Mr. St. Laurent's private secretary, will take up the old role of principal secretary and that the special assitant's post will lapse.

Mayor Prepares Expropriate Firm

TORONTO, March 19 (CP) — Preparation of a bylaw calling for expropriation of the Consumers' Gas Company was ordered Tuesday by Mayor Allan Lamport after the company announced a 25-per-cent increase in rates.

Replacement value of the company's assets is estimated at $100,000,000. But the expropriation move faces several major hurdles. The bylaw will have to be approved by the Board of Control; City Council; a vote, perhaps at the municipal elections next December; the Ontario Municipal Board and the Ontario Legislature.

The Company, chartered under a special act of Upper Canada in 1848, serves 17 suburban communities as well.

The Company said the rate increase will amount to about 12½ cents a week for the 102,000 residential consumers. Many industries also use gas and 4,500 homes are heated with it.

The mayor said the company would not have to pay federal and provincial taxes under civic ownership.

Truce Delegates Near Agreement About 10 Ports

MUNSAN, Korea, March 19 — (AP). — Allied spokesmen reported truce negotiators were near agreement today on the 10 ports of entry to be used during a Korean armistice.

United Nations negotiators proposed a compromise. The Communists promised to think it over. At the end of their 53-minute discussion, Col. Andrew J. Kinney said:

"It appears that we are in agreement on the better part of the ports question."

Hint Some New Step

Unverified rumors circulated around the truce village of Panmunjom that some new step was in the making to break the long deadlock over prisoners.

Communist newspapermen, who often reflect the view of Red delegates, talked of a truce agreement in three or four weeks.

Three major disagreements stand in the way of an armistice. The key disputes:

1. Voluntary repatriation of prisoners as demanded by the Allies versus forced repatriation demanded by the Reds.

2. The question of whether the Communists should be allowed to repair their damaged airfielrs during a truce.

3. Communist insistence on Soviet Russia as a neutral nation to supervise an armistice and U.N. refusal to consider it.

NEW AMBASSADOR—A. D. P. Heeney, Undersecretary of State for External Affairs has been appointed Ambassador and full-time representative to the North Atlantic Council.

Loses Stardom To Barbara Ann Skater In Tears

VANCOUVER, March 19 (CP) —Deprived of stardom for two nights, 17-year-old skater Andra McLaughlin of New York stayed in her hotel room Tuesday "sick with shock."

Barbara Ann Scott, Canada's blonde ice queen, has taken over top billing from Miss McLaughlin in the Vancouver Skating Club's "Stars on Ice Carnival." The show will be presented here tonight and Thursday.

Andra, red-eyed from weeping, stayed in her hotel room in Kamloops, B.C., where she skated in a show Monday.

Her mother said in a telephone interview:

"She hasn't slept for two nights and can't eat.

"We try to excuse Barbara but she is just a dool of whoever is profiting from her talent.

"It makes Andra so mad."

Miss McLaughlin skates in Miss Scott's "Hollywood Ice Revue," now touring U.S. cities.

Club officials said Barbara Ann had promised some time ago to appear in their show. Miss McLaughlin was to headline the Carnival if Miss Scott couldn't make it.

STEAM AND SMOKE COMBINE to partly hide this view TOP, of the $500,000 fire which swept through a Belleville business block this morning. The fire started about 11:30 Tuesday night, and was not held in control until about 6 a.m. Firemen from Trenton and the Trenton R.C.A.F. station helped the Belleville brigade fight the blaze. Titles Used By Queen Settled By Letters

OTTAWA, March 19 (CP). — An External Affairs spokesman said today any decision on titles to be used by Queen Elizabeth II. probably will be settled by correspondence among the heads of the Commonwealth countries rather than by a conference.

Commenting on a report from Capetown, South Africa, that a Commonwealth meeting likely would be called soon to discuss the matter, the spokesman said he knew of no such plan.

Meanwhile, the correct formal title of Queen Elizabeth is: "Elizabeth II., by the Grace of God, of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions Beyond the Seas, Queen, Defender of the Faith."

Truman Taking Command Of Political Strategy

KEY WEST, Fla., March 19. (AP)—Frank E. McKinney, Democratic national chairman, said today he thinks the possibility of President Truman's running for re-election will be "lessened" if there is a satisfactory settlement of the Korean war. McKinney, after two days of talks with Truman, told a press conference the Korean situation is a "paramount" factor in the president's consideration.

McKinney also said the president will not make any announcement of his intentions to the Jefferson-Jackson dinner of the Democratic party in Washington March 29, but will "in ample time before the July convention" to clear the way for other candidates.

As to prospects for a Korean truce, McKinney told reporters: "The wish may be father to the thought, but it is hoped that the Korean situation can be resolved by convention time or at least by election time."

Labor Party Issues Orders To Halt Internal Revolt

LONDON, March 19—(Reuters)—The Labor party today put back into effect its "standing orders" to prevent internal revolt against the official party line.

The orders ensure that Labor members of parliament obey majority party decisions.

Labor leaders revived the disciplinary rules, suspended in 1946, but shelved for further consideration a new code of rules. The decisions were taken by a large majority at a private meeting.

The meeting followed serious disagreement in the party. It stemmed from Rebel Socialist Aneurin Bevan and 56 other Labor members defying orders from Clement Attlee, official party leader, not to vote against the Conservative government's defence policy in the House of Commons.

Bevanites and some other members consider the disciplinary code proposed by the leadership too strict. They criticize particularly:

1. That a member can abstain from voting with his party only on such conscience subjects as liquor and religion.

2. The new code would give the leaders power to impose drastic discipline on a member after a first offence. The 1946 code authorized such action only after "persistent refusal" to obey orders.

3. The new regulations, according to some critics, would allow leadership to discipline members for speeches outside parliament and "indiscretions in newspaper articles."

Ike Receives 39% Vote In Primary

General's Total Surprises Stassen Supporters

MINNEAPOLIS, March 19.—(AP)—With nearly two-thirds of the vote in, write-in candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower today had won an amazing 39 per cent of the Republican total in Tuesday's Minnesota presidential primary election.

"Favorite-son" Harold E. Stassen, whose name was printed on the ballot, got about 42 per cent.

Senator Robert Taft (Rep. Ohio), whose name was not printed on the ballot, got 8.4 per cent of the Republican vote.

The drive for the write-in vote had been started only last Friday following the attorney-general's ruling that such votes would count.

Despite Eisenhower's showing against Stassen, a former Minnesota governor, the election will not automatically mean any national convention delegates for him. No delegate provision for write-in candidates is contained in the primary law.

Margin Over Truman

In the Democratic write-in voting, Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.) had a heavy margin over President Truman. However, observers felt that much of the Truman vote had gone to Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem. Minn.), whose name was the only one printed on the Democratic ballot. Humphrey had announced he would turn his delegation to Truman should the president decide to run again.

With 2,227 of Minnesota's 3,769 precincts reporting, Eisenhower had 92,883 votes compared with 100,520 for Stassen. Edward C. Slettedahl, a political unknown whose name was also printed on the Republican ballot, got 18,048. Other Republican write-in totals were 19,803 for Taft, 4,515 for Governor Earl Warren of California and 1,264 for Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Humphrey—the only Democratic ballot candidate—polled 82,642 votes. Kefauver had 16,271 write-ins and Truman 2,971 write-ins.

Eisenhower, learning of the vote at his Paris headquarters, made no comment.

Minnesota is one of 16 states in the U.S. which hold presidential primaries — popularity votes in which members of the two major political parties can indicate who they would prefer to see as president.

"Mr. X" Marries In South Africa

MERRICKVILLE, Ont., March 19 (CP).—Harry McLean, 67-year-old eccentric Merrickville millionaire who earned the title of "Mr. X." for his spontaneous handing out of money, was married during a recent trip to South Africa, a business associate said today.

The friend, who declined to allow the use of his name, said only that the millionaire construction executive had married Margaret C. Fitzpatrick in a ceremony performed by a Roman Catholic priest.

Mr. McLean was identified some years ago as the mysterious "Mr. X." who became a noted figure for his habit of handing out currency and giving hundred dollar tips to taxi drivers and others.

Merrickville is 40 miles south of Ottawa.

First Solar Cooker Being Used In India

NEW DELHI, March 19 (Reuters)—Indian scientists have installed a solar cooker, powered entirely by the sun's rays, in Prime Minister Nehru's house. They say they expect to mass-produce them for about $10.

Nehru Tuesday night ate his first sun-cooked meal from the cooker, equivalent to a 300-watt electric stove. It consists of a four-foot, curved and polished aluminum bowl suspended over the cooking pot. It concentrates the sun's rays on a glass below the pot.

New Delhi has 270 days of sunshine a year.

The solar stove can be of special value in India as a fuel-saver. Peasants use valuable manure for fuel instead of fertilizer in the fields.

7-Hr. Blaze Razes Main Street Block, Trenton Sends Aid

BELLEVILLE, March 19. (CP)—Damage estimated at more than $500,000 was caused early today by a roaring seven-hour fire which licked through a group of buildings at the main intersection of this eastern Ontario city. Fought by 75 firemen of three brigades, the blaze destroyed two old three-storey buildings occupied by business firms, roared through the top storey of another three-storey structure and engulfed the top floor of a four-storey building before it was brought under control.

Other premises were badly damaged by smoke and water as firemen fought the blaze which broke out around 11:30 p.m. at the back of Schryver's drug store at Front and Bridge St. East. It spread up the back wall and burst out at the front of the building, catching the Dominion Bank at the corner.

No one was reported seriously injured, some 20 members of five families escaping safely from apartments above the gutted stores. One fireman, Capt. Joe Adams, was treated at hospital for cuts on the right wrist. Fire Chief Gerald Vance collapsed from exertion after hours of fire-fighting and was taken home.

Trenton Sends Help

Firemen from the town of Trenton and the R.C.A.F. Trenton Station brought their equipment to the scene, bringing the flames under control around 6 a.m.

Five business premises were destroyed and offices were burned above others. One occupant of an apartment said the blaze started when an oil burner exploded.

Twice firemen thought they had the fire contained. The first time the fire spread through a fire wall to the third floor of the Dominion Bank on the corner of Bridge and Front Streets. It later was put out without damaging the lower part of the building extensively.

Then about two hours later the fire spread north of Front Street to the fourth floor of Little's hardware store.

Stores destroyed included the Quinte Paint and Wallpaper Company, Strouds' gift shop, Jack McNabb's sports centre, Wellers' florists and the Checker taxi office. Schryver's drug store and the bank both received smoke and water damage. The upper part of the bank building—a three-storey stone structure—was damage by the fire before it was put out.

The families evacuated were those of William Knott, Harold Dougherty, Fred Soule, Ron Outram and William Corrigan.

Powerful Etna Quake Kills 3, Injures Scores

CATANIA, Sicily, March 19 — (AP)—A powerful earthquake today shook the Mt. Etna area, killing three persons and injuring scores.

Widespread damage was caused in the vineyard areas around the volcanic mountain.

Two died at Santa Venerina, and a third person was crushed under a falling wall at Zafferana.

Villages on the eastern slopes have recorded several strong tremors in the last two weeks, but no damage was done until today.

New Zealand Doesn't Want Cut-Throat Trade

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., Mar. 19—(CP)—New Zealand's farmers want to trade with Canada, not in "cut-throat rivalry," but in a spirit of fair play and mutual helpfulness, Canadian dairymen were told today.

T. C. A. Hislop, New Zealand's High Commissioner to Canada, told the National Dairy Council that far from trying to "injure" or "under-sell" the Canadian farmer, New Zealand butter and cheese men want "to buttress the strong ties of tradition and spirit that unite us in the British Commonwealth."

Some dairymen have been critical of imports of New Zealand dairy products, which they said were selling here at prices lower than the Canadian product.

Unforeseen Difficulties

Mr. Hislop said he realized that the Canadian dairy industry is faced with "unforeseen difficulties," such as those developing from the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in south Saskatchewan "and from the balance-of-payments crisis which bedevils the sterling area."

"The policy you adopt in your endeavor to solve these problems is for you to decide," he said. "It would not presume to try to influence your deliberations."

The minute amounts of butter sent to Canada was to help Canada stave off a possible shortage during the winter months, if Canada wanted more butter, it was available.

Hold Servants In Big Robbery

DETROIT, March 19 — (AP).—Three former house servants of a wealthy lumber dealer who "did not trust banks" were questioned today in the disappearance of close to $1,000,000 in securities from his home.

A strong box containing non-negotiable stocks and bonds was taken from its hiding place under a closet shelf in the suburban home of Melvin Gutherie, 52.

Actual cash in the box was about $500, Gutherie told police. He said he had kept his securities in the box after his bank crashed in the depression.

Gutherie said the thief would find it almost impossible to convert the securities into cash.

Held without charge for questioning were Thomas Hill 40, a former handyman for the family, his wife Delia 38, and John W. Jackson, a truck driver.

All denied any knowledge of the robbery.

Rocket With Monkeys, Mice Soars 80 Miles Into Space

WASHINGTON, March 19 — (AP)—A United States Air Force scientis told today of a rocket catapulated 80 miles into space with live monkeys and mice aboard.

It was a preliminary test aimed at learning eventually whether man can fly in outer space.

The mice are still living and propagating freely, the scientist said.

The five monkeys survived the actual flights but four of them were killed when parachutes carrying them back to earth failed. The fifth monkey landed all right, but died of heat prostration in the New Mexico desert.

The account was told a meeting of the Aero-Medical Association by Dr. J. P. Henry of the Aero-Medical laboratory at Wright-Patterson base, Dayton, Ohio.

Tests were designed to determine physical and psychological effects of being made "weightless" under certain conditions of extreme altitude flight —a possible hazard that would face man in the regions of free space.

Dr. Henry said this "gravity-free" condition can be produced for several minutes as a rocket falls freely, with downward acceleration equalling the earth's gravity.

The monkeys and mice apparently got through all right.

Dr. Henry told how the flights were made:

V-2 rockets reaching altitudes up to 80 miles, and smaller aerobee rockets with altitudes up to 40 miles were used in the test at White Sands, N. M.

The monkeys "slept" through their 2,000-mile-on-hour ride, because they were anaesthetized with morphine. They were equipped with instruments for measuring pulse, breathing, heart action and blood pressure— and the information was radioed back to earth during the flight.

The mice were not given morphine. Their chamber was equipped with a device in which they were free to run and jump— and their antics were being automatically photographed.

During the "weightless" stage of three minutes, the mice literally floated in their "cabin" — but after descending nose reached a point where gravity again took over, the mice hopped around normally.

Delivery Cut Keeps Milk Price Down

Too Many Housewives Emotional About Milk Boosts

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., March 19. (CP)—Canadians can save money on milk by reducing home deliveries, a United States dairy executive told the National Dairy Council.

Richard J. Werner of Washington said the system of every-other-day deliveries has been tried out in many parts of the U.S. with marked success.

"The new streamlined method of delivering milk helps keep your milk bill down by cutting distribution costs, vehicle-mileage, gasoline consumption and man-hours," the assistant executive director of the U.S. Milk Industry Foundation told the council's annual meeting Tuesday.

"As a result of this new method of delivering milk a more efficient and improved service for consumers is maintained. But the consumer is not the only one who saves by every-other-day deliveries.

Improves Earnings

"It has given your route salesman better working conditions. It has reduced his hours and improved his earnings."

Mr. Werner quoted the U.S. agriculture department as saying: "The single most important adjustment in the direction of lower costs for milk that has taken place is the general shift from daily to alternate-day delivery."

Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., national president of the Canadian Association of Consumers agreed that reduced deliveries would make for a saving in milk costs.

But A. F. MacArthur of Toronto, international representative of the Brotherhood of Teamsters (T.L.C.-A.F.L.), wondered if reduced deliveries would not lead to a reduction in sales and even a cut in labor's earnings.

Mrs. Walton believed also that "too many housewives" in Canada are inclined to be a "little emotional" about any increase in milk prices.

She told the council that not many housewives realize that in the period that milk prices have doubled other food prices have trebled.

The housewife's "emotionalism" about milk prices, she said, has been "fanned by publicity headlining each price increase; publicity highlighting the bickering, opposition and conflict in negotiations between producers, and distributors including milk drivers."

It also was caused by "arbitrary decisions of some provincial milk boards without public hearings and in other cases reluctance even to conduct public hearings."

Milk boards in some provinces tried to prevent consumer representations from being heard, she said.

A GROUP OF NORTH KOREANS, captives of the Allies on Koje Island, wave South Korean flags and cheer after a fight between rival groups in the camp. These men renounced Communism. Other prisoners did not. A rock fight broke out between the two groups and South Korean soldiers on guard duty opened fire, killing 12 and wounding 26 Reds.

Free 26 People In Bookie Racket

VANCOUVER, March 18—(CP)—All 26 persons accused of conspiring to operate a $6,000,000-a-year bookmaking racket in Vancouver were acquitted Tuesday night.

The 25 men and one woman—three of them publishers or distributors of racing information—were acquitted by an Assize Court jury.

The jury returned their "not guilty" verdict after 3½ hours deliberation. The verdict came after 22 days of testimony.

Prosecutor Gordon Scott said the Crown will not appeal, adding: "The Crown cannot appeal an acquittal based on facts."

E. Massie White, alleged to have been the "kingpin" of what the Crown called a gigantic conspiracy operating here between 1947 and 1951, told reporters he didn't plan to attempt to restore his racing wire service from the U.S.

Originally 33 persons were rounded up in a police sweep last October. Charges against seven were dismissed at a 14-day preliminary hearing.

Three Shops Saved

A laundry, shoe repair and a radio repair shop on Bridge St.—separated from the razed building by a narrow alley—were saved. Some of the stock from the radio store was removed as a precautionary measure.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said it was an "all-alarm fire." All 36 city firemen were fighting the blaze aided by many volunteers. Shortly after 2 a.m. two crews from the big Trenton R.C.A.F. station nine miles to the west arrived along with the Trenton town brigade.

Alfred Loo, night dispatcher for the burned-out Checker Cab Company, turned in the alarm. He saw the reflections of the flames in a service station window across the street. When he picked up his telephone it was dead. Apparently the fires were burned out by the fire. He then radioed a driver on the road who notified the fire department.

Enjoying Party

At the time the alarm was turned in the firemen had just finished playing the police a benefit hockey game for crippled children. They were just settling down to a social hour at the Schriners' Club when notified of the blaze.

Soon all were fighting the fire with every available piece of firefighting apparatus in the city. At one point some 32 hoses were being played on the inferno.

The smoke and blaze could be seen for several miles and soon after the fire broke out a crowd of more than 2,000 persons turned out to watch. They were held back by police who blocked off the area and set up cordons to control the throng.

Spreads Rapidly

The fire spread through the paint shop into Wellers' Flower Shop and the taxi office on Bridge Street. It then spread to the sporting goods store and gift shop on Front Street missing for a time the very corner of the old building where the bank and drug store are located.

Before the heat and smoke became too intense, the firemen donned smoke masks and oxygen masks and worked in the building. Then after a short time they were forced to fight in from the street.

The walls of the building facing Bridge Street collapsed and although no one was injured several firemen had to scramble to avoid being hit by falling brick and debris.

Those living in apartments above the laundry, show and radio stores which were saved were evacuated because of the heat and smoke. Many of their belongings were removed to safety.

The bank also had taken out most of its records as a precautionary measure.

800 Waiting Get Phones In August

Telephone service for the 800-odd waiting for service in Peterborough will be available by mid-August, E. G. Baker, Bell Telephone Co. manager, said today.

Extensive cable work, and installation of 2,000 additional urban terminals have made this possible. Mr. Baker estimated this would provide for about two more years.

At any rate, no additional expansion of service was planned for this city until 1954.

Must Wait Year

Rural applicants, numbering about 160, will be disappointed, as terminal equipment necessary for their telephones will not be available for about a year.

Installation of telephones will begin April 21, Mr. Baker said, and will proceed as equipment becomes available.

Addition of new cables and rearrangement of existing ones, as well as the installation of the urban terminals, should be completed by August 14, he said.

Truman Taking

Dispatches from Munsan, Korea, today said Communist reporters with the Communist truce delegation were talking of a truce agreement in three or four weeks.

Takes Personal Charge.

There are some indications here that Truman has now taken personal charge of future political strategy for himself and the Democratic party.

McKinney, acting on Truman's orders, directed party officials in California to withdraw the president's name from that state's primary election June 3.

Regardless of whether Truman plans to seek re-election or not, he appears determined to take personal command of the situation and carry out his original intention—to stay out of all primaries. He has called presidential preferential primaries "eyewash".

This determination could not have been lessened any by the spectacular showing made in last week's New Hampshire primary by Tennessee's Senator Estes Kefauver, who grabbed all of the state's convention delegates away from the president.

Fifteen states, in addition to New Hampshire, have primaries in election years, enabling voters to name their own popular choices for president. In most cases the primaries are mere popularity contests and delegates to the national nominating conventions are not bound by the vote.

One thing appears certain in the minds of the men near Truman—he is ready to make some dramatic moves in the months before the Democratic national convention to regain prestige lost by his New Hampshire defeat.

Prices Drop Steadily On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 19 — (CP) — Prices declined steadily in early afternoon stock market dealings.

Trading was active as oils continued to attract speculative interest. Industrial dealings spread slightly from leading issues and a few golds and metals drew interest. Volume for the first three hours was 2,210,000 shares.

Utilities, agricultures, foods and manufacturing companies led industrials lower with a scattered list of fractional declines. Papers, constructions, textiles and retail stores also weakened.

Base Metal losses ranged from pennies to about 50 cents. Lake Dufault dropped about 40 cents in a turnover of more than 111,000 shares after yesterday's rapid climb. Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, International Nickel, Quemont and Waite Amulet slipped fractions.

Western Oil losses outnumbered gains by more than three to one. Anglo-Canadian, Canadian Collieries, Dome Explorations, General Petroleum A, North Canadian, Britalta and United Oil dipped sharply.

Senior golds were weak as Dome, Kerr Addison and Lake Shore slipped fractions. Junior producers held gains and losses in balance but prospects and holding companies eased.

Drew Demands Commonwealth Trade Parley

OTTAWA, March 19—(CP)—A new demand for a Commonwealth trade conference was made Tuesday as the Commons concluded a wide-ranging throne-speech debate by defeating the last of four opposition motions of non-confidence in the government.

The demand was made by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, who said that a "serious" situation faces this country unless markets can be found for Canadian production, including livestock and dairy products.

He spoke shortly before members voted 139 to 57 against a Social Credit motion criticizing the government for "failure" to provide "adequate" inducements for the expansion of food production and economic and orderly distribution of food surpluses.

Members adopted "on division"—without a recorded vote—the traditional main motion. It called for adoption of an address thanking the Governor-General for reading the speech from the throne at the opening of the new session February 28 last.

Reject Motion

During the 10-day debate, members rejected a Progressive Conservative motion criticizing the government for continuing to impose "excessive" taxes, for refusing to eliminate "waste and extravagance" and for "failing" to deal effectively with inflation and with the high cost of living.

Also defeated was a C.C.F. motion criticizing the government for "failing" to introduce a national health insurance program at this session.

A second C.C.F. motion, also defeated, called for establishment of a federal authority to control the prices and marketing of meat and dairy products during the emergency caused by the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

End of the debate cleared the way for tabling of the 1952-53 estimates of expenditures and for the consideration of legislation sponsored by the government and private members.

Finance Minister Abbott is expected to table the estimates today before debate is launched on bills and resolutions sponsored by private members.

No Major Troubles?

In his speech, Mr. Drew said that to hear some members of the cabinet talk one would believe there are no major troubles facing Canada. They should come out of their "ministerial dreamland," he said, and drop their "attitude of unreality."

A serious situation existed with respect to trade. Grain was piling up in Western Canada; livestock markets in the United States were closed because of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease; the dairy industry was hit hard by Britain's dollar restrictions.

Canada should take the initiative and call a Commonwealth conference on trade. He agreed with Agriculture Minister Gardiner, who once had said that something should be done to make the Canadian dollar and the British pound interchangeable.

Criticizes Overtaxation.

Mr. Drew criticized the government's policies of "overtaxation" and suggested relaxation of credit restrictions, causing a shutdown of production and unemployment. He asked that steps be taken to protect the Canadian textile industry.

John Blackmore (S.C.-Lethbridge) said Canada should advance credit to Britain at the rate of $1,000,000,000 a year to help her recover economic stability. A strong Britain and a strong Commonwealth were needed as a second line of defence behind the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North Centre) called for a clear-cut government statement of Canada's commitments in the new Atlantic Pact military program. He said External Affairs Minister Pearson should take the house and the country into confidence and indicate Canada's undertakings in North Atlantic defence.

Only then, Mr. Knowles suggested, will parliament be able to determine how much Canada should spend for military preparedness and how much for economic aid to Europe.

H. O. White (P.C.-Middlesex East) suggested that too much emphasis has been put on the military aspects of N.A.T.O. More should be done to increase trade among the member nations.

Conference Possible

PARIS, France, March 19 — (Reuters).—The French foreign office stated tonight it "appeared very probable" there might be a meeting between the western powers and Russia to discuss the Russian note calling for a German peace treaty.

HOLLYWOOD, March 19. (AP)—Suzanne Cloutier of Ottawa, daughter of the Queen's Printer, has been signed to a movie contract at Paramount Studio. She is a well known actress in Europe, having starred in such French films as "The Sinners" and "Juliet", and in the English "Derby Day" opposite Michael Wilding.

Shift Of Dollar To Have No Effect

The increased value of the Canadian dollar will have little if any effect on the American tourist trade in Ontario this year, Ontario Travel and Publicity Minister, Louis Cecile told a group of Peterborough men Tuesday.

Mr. Cecile was guest speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., held in Toronto.

The minister said that the American tourist dollar will not purchase as much in Canda as it did a year ago. However, there is every reason to believe that the influx of Americans will be just as great as in past record breaking years.

Proposed Rail Subsidy May Cut Rates 5%

OTTAWA, March 19—(CP)—A proposed new subsidy on rail traffic running across Northern Ontario could mean reductions up to five per cent in freight rates on goods moving between eastern and western Canada.

This move largely would eliminate the latest general rate increase of 4½ per cent granted by the Board of Transport commissioners this winter. Western recipients of goods from the east would be the biggest beneficiaries.

Analysis of exhibits submitted at a subsidy hearing before the board this week indicates that either Manitoba or British Columbia would stand to gain most, from one or another of two systems proposed for applying the federal subsidy. However, the board has said it will try to work out a compromise, which may spread the contribution around evenly.

Man To Stand Trial On Charge Of Rape

A true bill was returned Tuesday on the rape charge facing Armand Larocque, 39, of Peterborough. Larocque was committed for trial Saturday and his case went to the grand jury Monday.

He is charged with raping a young mother of two children on March 9. The spring assizes are going on before Mr. Justice Lebel.

Not Yet

City Workmen started swinging their picks with enthusiasm as they attacked the ice along the curbs of downtown streets Tuesday. The city's scraper also had a go. But March was not ready to shake loose of winter yet. Tuesday was spring. Today is winter. You'll have to wait a little yet even though the official first day of spring comes Friday.

American Jets Have Active Day In Korea

SEOUL, Korea, March 19 (AP)—American Sabre pilots damaged two Red Mig 15s today in a jet battle fought above the clouds of northwest Korea.

Eighteen Sabres fought 36 Migs in a 15-minute afternoon battle that ranged from seven to 2½ miles above the ground.

Shooting Star jet pilots reported they started landslides with their 1,000 pound bombs, burying large sections of Red railway tracks under tons of dirt.

Rain grounded the planes during the morning and soaked the quiet battlefront.

The battleship Wisconsin and two American destroyers stood off the eastern end of the 155-mile battle line Tuesday and hammered Red troops around the clock.

The Communists increased their own artillery and mortar fire, shooting more than 2,000 rounds Tuesday. Most of it hit the western front.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said a delayed report indicated 50 Chinese were killed in a western front fight that began Monday night and extended into Tuesday morning. The Reds took over four outposts northwest of Yonchon as allies pulled out. The Chinese loss was estimated by U.N. troops who reoccupied the position Tuesday.

The 8th Army reported 39 dead Chinese were counted after a 1,000-man Red attack Tuesday northeast of Panmunjon, truce talk site.

Soccer Results

SWANSEA, Wales, March 19 — (Reuters). — The Welsh soccer squad today whipped Ireland 3-0.

Wales thus is sure of at least sharing the championship in the British Isles international tournament. The only rival is England, which would share top spot with Wales if it can beat Scotland in the only remaining match.

Residents Ask Council Control Cobourg Creek

COBOURG, March 19 (ENS).—Annoyed over the recent flood which overran lawns and filled cellars along the route of the creek which runs through the centre of the town, residents of that area petitioned the council Tuesday night to close the creek as soon as possible.

By closing the creek, petitioners meant to cover it over as is the case in the business section where a cement top has been laid across the creek to form a large square conduit.

Mayor Jack Burnet commented that the council felt sorry for those who are flooded in the spring but the problem was how to find a remedy. Councillor Cedric Smith said that most of the trouble was caused by the drains backing up from where they emptied into the creek.

Bottleneck

Claire Saunders, town engineer, pointed out that the worst bottleneck was the James Street culvert, which was not large enough to handle the extra water in the spring. The council, noting that the petition was not properly drawn up in accordance with the Property Improvement Act, filed the petition and requested one which was drawn up correctly at which time further consideration will be given to the matter.

Due to the fact that the high school board has not yet submitted its 1952 estimates, council has not been able to tackle the question of this year's tax rate. It was pointed out that the town had to borrow money from the bank to pay municipal expenses until the taxes started coming in and it was decided to set the deadline at Feb. 15 in the future for high school estimates.

Ask For Change

Trustees of the unused Hatfield Hall school building, the institution being closed some months ago, wrote council asking that the bylaw be repealed which made that area strictly a residential section. Such a revision would have to be made before the school building could be used for offices by a large advertising firm which was anxious to secure it.

A deputation headed by Mrs. Lillian Richards remarked about the deplorable state into which the opera house in the town hall had fallen. A committee known as the Victoria Opera House Guild had been formed with the idea of renovating and restoring the opera house and a grant of $5,000 from the town would handle the immediate needs of the committee. Mayor Jack Burnet said that it was a worthy idea and that council would look into the matter.

Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

Britain Stands As Europe's Bulwark—Frost

CAMPBELLFORD, March 19—(ENS)— Rex Frost, well known broadcaster, was the guest speaker at the forty-third anniversary of the Ionic Chapter R .A. M. here on Monday evening.

The chapter celebrated their anniversary with a banquet in the Masonic Temple, with a large crowd in attendance.

Mr. Frost spoke on "An International Broadcaster looks at His World," and told mainly of conditions in England.

He said that just before the general election last year he visited England and the continent. Opinion in the Old Country at that time was to the effect that Churchill would be returned to Downing Street but it was felt that he would not retain the position of prime minister for more than a year. Eden was not generally considered seriously as his successor, but the majority of the people felt R. A. Butler, now Chancellor of the Exchequer, would be the next leader of the government.

Mr. Frost gave opinions on British life from hundreds of interviews with all classes of people.

Contrary to much we read about the austerity program in Britain, the worker there today is in the best position he has enjoyed in a long time. He is guarded from worry over disease by the health act. He has enough to keep him well and healthy, but practically no luxury foods. He works steadily, if not at high wages, at wages sufficient for a fair living. His morale is higher than in many decades and he still has his pride. England is by no means 'over the hill.' She is still the bulwark of Western Europe, and if war occurred today, she would take her place as fully as she did in 1914 or 1939. The British look to a glorious reign for their new Queen, looking back to the glory of Victoria and Elizabeth.

In an interview with Mr. Churchill, Mr. Frost said he asked the Prime Minister when Canadian farmers could expect more purchases of bacon and cheese by the old country. Mr. Churchill replied: "Just as soon as you buy more of our goods."

Mr. Frost appeared to be greatly disturbed about Canadian immigration. He said that for two years, only one immigrant in seven coming to Canada is English speaking. Australia outbids us by bringing most of the war veterans over free and others for as little as $30, with two years work guaranteed. The fare to Canada is $160. However, there are tens of thousands on waiting lists to come to this country.

Looking to the rest of Europe, he classified the Finns as the most conscientious nation, the Czechs and Poles the most unhappy, the Italians as the most deceitful, the French as the most complex. Switzerland, he said, is the freest country in the world. French, Germans and Italians live peacefully together in that country. He was of the opinion that Germany be restored to make her strong.

V. Ex. Comp. Wilmink introduced Mr. Frost, and Ex. Comp. Joseph Thain presided over the banquet, welcomed the guests and thanked the speaker. Comp. David Morgan proposed the toast to the grand first principal, which was responded to by Rt. Ex. Comp. H. O. Taylor of Cobourg, grand superintendant.

Ex. Comp. W. A. Kingston proposed the toast to the visitors, and Rt. Ex. Comp. Carleton of Stirling, Rt. Ex. Comp. Cooper of Cobourg and Rt. Comp. Cotton of Peterborough replied.

Glad Bulbs, Oats Door Prizes

Door prizes for Thursday night of the Central Ontario spring show (March 27) will be gladioli bulbs and registered oats, supplied by two executive members of the Bowmanville area, Ed. A. Summers, agricultural representative, and Garnet Rickard, R.R. 4.

They both grow quality seed, if the "glad" corms may be mentioned in juxtaposition with top class oats.

Frank Paterson was presiding at a recent executive meeting when the come-on detail of door prizes was mentioned. Overlooking the fact that he himself was vulnerable, Mr. Rickard suggested that Mr. Summers grew a lot of beautiful gladioli, and could easily spare a bushel or two.

In sympathy with his fellow ag-rep, Mr. Paterson remarked that bushel lots of "glads" seemed rather liberal and full-handed. However, Mr. Summers fell in with the idea, although hardly in bushel quantities.

Some one suggested that registered seed would be more than acceptable to any farmer whose name was drawn. And to that proposal, Mr. Summers in the spirit of the moment said no one had any better seed oats than Garnet Rickard. All the executive agreed with that recommendation, and between the two Durham members they are supplying the door prizes.

Of course, if any others would like to get in belatedly on the act, all they have to do is call Frank Paterson. Door prizes are highly acceptable.

The Courts, The Press, And Justice

Some interesting and liberal opinions have recently been expressed by Chief Justice McRuer of the High Court of Justice for Ontario, on the subject of contempt of court as it relates to the press. This matter has recently been much in debate, and the opinion has been expressed by many newspapers, including this one, that it is unjust that in cases of contempt of court a judge is under no restraint and his decision is not subject to appeal. The Chief Justice shares this opinion and favours a revision of the law relating to contempt of court which occurs outside the court; it is plain that a judge must have wide powers to maintain discipline in his court, and to punish refractory or impertinent persons; but contempt occurring outside the court is a different matter, usually visited with severe punishment, and in most cases involving the press.

* * *

It must be said at once that the majority of newspapers are quite as anxious as the courts that persons on trial should have every protection. There are newspapers, however, which for purposes of creating sensational news give full and often lurid reports of preliminary hearings of criminal cases, but neglect to give comparable reports of the subsequent trial at which, it may be, the accused person is acquitted. This is indefensible, and we do not think that there would be any protest from the Canadian press as a whole if such preliminary hearings were put on the same basis as Grand Jury hearings; that is to say, it would be permissible to report that a preliminary hearing was held, that a charge was laid, and a trial ordered. Such a procedure would give fuller protection to accused persons than is now the case, although many newspapers already follow such a course. Newspapers do not seek revision of the laws relating to contempt in order that they may have greater freedom to print matter which might endanger the fairness of a trial; they seek only the right to protect themselves against contempt proceedings which may be unjust, or that they may have fuller opportunities to show that contempt was unintentional—and therefore not contempt.

* * *

The Chief Justice makes the point that judges do not use their powers relating to contempt of court loosely; they are aware that it is a tyrannous power, and they do not wish to play the tyrant. We fully agree with this. But it is perfectly possible that a judge, under stress, may see contempt where another judge, under different circumstances, would see none, and we think that newspapers should have the benefit of that second opinion. The laws relating to contempt were formed in the days when newspapers were not only less responsible than they are today, but when contempt for the press was widespread, if not socially obligatory, among persons of the class from which the judiciary was drawn. Judges have become less austere, and newspapers have become more responsible, since those days.

* * *

There is only one point on which we question the wisdom of what the Chief Justice has said on this subject. He would forbid all news or editorial comment on a civil or criminal case until after the time for appeal has passed, or until the appeal has been heard and judgement pronounced. We cannot agree with this, because it might well be several months, a year or even two years before it was permissible to comment on a case under such circumstances. Furthermore, appeal cases are not heard by juries, but by judges, and judges are not likely to have their opinions influenced by newspaper comment. Appeals are usually called for because there is some dispute about a difficult point of law; now a difficulty in law may be perfectly valid and of the keenest interest to the legal profession, and yet it may bring about an obvious injustice to a private citizen. Is the press, which so often speaks for the private citizen, to be mute until such a matter has been carried even to the Supreme Court of Canada?

The Fastness of Ottawa

Canadian diplomats posted to embassies within the Iron Curtain draw hardship pay; a ten per cent: bonus, we believe. How large is the bonus which foreign diplomats draw when they are put inside the winter curtain of Ottawa? Our capital is still in the grip of winter, from the snow which completely covers even southern slopes down to Carleton Place, to the blue-grey horizon of the Gatineau hills. With its mounds of dirty ice and snow on streets and lawns; its Canadian-Gothic grey mass of the Parliament Buildings set on a formidable precipice, its sweep of frozen river, its coldly lowering March sky, its snow-drifted highway approaches buffeted by the north wind, Ottawa is truly a northern capital.

Norse sagas and Saxon folk epics tell of forbidding fortresses in which the tribes cowered for protection from the elements and their enemies; such a fastness is Ottawa. A native-born Canadian yearning for sun and warmth in March may be anguished in Ottawa, but he must feel with fortitude that Ottawa, buildings, climate and even streets are suited to this country.

The streets of Ottawa are a rather too insistent manifestation of this spirit; perhaps due to Mayor Charlotte Whitton's too liberal sense of the fitness of things. Or she may want the foreign diplomats to earn their hardship pay. On main streets four blocks from Parliament hill they must choose their rut and lie in it. In the same area, pedestrians must become monkeys or mushers. On Elgin Street they have the choice of mounting a retaining wall (agile people have defined a path along its top), wading above the ankles through water in daytime (when the sun goes down, one skates); or taking to the road. Along the Driveway just beyond the station the sidewalks are surrendered entirely to winter; they are underneath three feet of frozen muck. Signs on tall sticks indicate that here a fire hydrant may be found ier the mound of snow and ice. The majority of the sidewalks and streets of Ottawa now would discredit a back lane in Buckhorn.

A moment ago we accused Mayor Whitton of assumed liberalism. But perhaps she is Conservatively trying to conserve winter and the tax rate (at the sacrifice of adequate snow-clearing), for the greater testing of the Ottawa soul. But he, the Ottawat, poor frozen fish, slips and flops from mound to rut with civic irresponsibility, without protest. He sparks the nation, don't you know; his mind is on higher things so what does it matter where he puts his feet?

New Steel Monster Against Joseph Stalin III

The Royal Canadian Dragoons (part of Canada's 27th Brigade Group in Europe) have now been equipped with the new British tank called "Centurion". This is a 52-ton monster which is considered by many Western experts to be the best tank in the world. It was proved in Korea to be superior to anything the Chinese had, but they had no opportunity to give battle to the Joseph Stalin III's. We believe that we are not betraying military secrets by commenting on the excellencies of this tank as a war machine.

The Centurion carries a 20-pounder gun so accurately sighted that, according to one senior commander in Korea "it could deliberately send a shell right through the window frame of a house at a range of more than two miles." Among its other qualities is that its engine can be changed in a few hours and that it is unusually easy to maintain. The same officer says that "twenty-six of our tanks were blown up by enemy mines, but they were never seriously damaged, and after a few hours of repair work each was able to drive home under its own power." Despite its weight the Centurion is a good hill-climber and in Korea has taken an 800-foot climb. It was of course difficult to manoeuvre in paddle fields which were too soft to bear its weight, and on roads too narrow for its bulk. The tank is so big that one regiment of Centurions will carry an infantry brigade.

A 52-ton vehicle, so heavy that an ordinary bridge will collapse under its weight, points to a new direction in tank-design. The builders cannot indefinitely go on adding weight. It is likely that the future of tank design will depend on the use of plastics, to lighten the machine.

All You Need To Know About Northern Lights

Astro-physicists at Cornell University have confirmed that Northern Lights are "celestial hailstorms." If you do not understand what celestial hailstorms are there is the amplification: "The hail is a rain of charged hydrogen atoms coming from the sun" which have a speed of 1,600 miles a second. We admit to being dull-minded about these things, but perhaps there are other readers who might openly admit that they did not really grasp what a speed of 1,600 miles a second is, what a hail of charged hydrogen atoms might be; or even the comparatively simple notion of "celestial hailstorms". On the other hand, we do know (since they are plain for even a child to see in wonderful autumn skies) what Northern Lights are. They are beautiful, magic lights that spangle and spatter the northern sky in gorgeous canopy. We shall keep the mystery and magic of Northern Lights; let Cornell corner the hail of charged hydrogen atoms as it will.

Malaya is so humid, we read, that occasionally branches sprout from the legs of tables. Pooh, in Canada we build houses of wood so green that we don't put foundations under them—in a couple of months they have taken root.

Writing Written Off

By IVOR BROWN

A SURVEY by questionnaire of reading and writing carried out at Oxford this term by two of the editors of the "Isis", Simon Broadbent and John Bower, has produced an interesting report and evoked from the former the following sad conclusion:—

The lack of reading shows itself in the absence of both parody and experiment in undergraduate writing. While poetry is as hopeful in its qualities as it has always been, the standard of prose writing is deplorable. This the undergrauate knows: there is at least realism in the high proportion (48 per cent.) which thinks Oxford writing is at present bad.

The lamentable prose thus referred to is, presumably discovered in fiction and articles submitted to the "Isis". But the belief that the power of self-expression dwindles is now held by a number of schoolmasters and university tutors. They say that the answers to examination papers, both at school and university level, are awkwardly and inefficiently made. This is not to allege increasing dullness of mind or ignorance in those examined, but only that the sorting of facts and ideas in the mind, and the subsequent phrasing of those ideas, is badly done and perhaps getting worse.

◇ ◇ ◇

VARIOUS reasons can be given for this. There is much more employment now of Visual Aids; instruction which comes by percept instead of by concept must tend to diminish conceptual thinking in the use of it. All I can remember of Visual Aids in my own schooldays are some dreary German oleographs of the Greek Theatre and of its masked and buskined actors. These certainly did not make my immersion in Euripides (at the age of eleven) any easier; but a first-rate master enlivened the Greek, and that without pictures, broadcasting, or television. He could appeal to the mind's eye.

IN my time the perceptual side of education was almost nothing. Drawing lessons were a farce, nature study almost non-existent. There was no handicraft. We read and wrote and read. We were exam.-trained to the highest degree: we were equipped to recount, comment, estimate, interpret. For a dozen years, between ten and twenty-two, my life was a continuous race over these exam.-barriers, a sort of Grand National, with Greats at Oxford and the Civil Service exam. to follow it two months later as the final fences. Some horses broke down in training and others ran off the course.

The curriculum was wretchedly narrow, except for the exceptionally quick and gifted ones who could absorb all the classics so easily that they had time and energy to mop up modern languages and read widely according to taste. But it did at least force the pupil to put order on his acquired information and to express his opinions clearly and quickly. Those are valuable habits and they are, it seems, inevitably lost now that other and wider forms of educafion are in vogue. But what is sacrificed in one way is surely gained in another.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE modern arrival at a university, whether or no he has done his National Service, is a much handier, more experienced, and more widely informed person than I and my coevals of the Classical School ever were. Since boyhood he has been sprayed with all sorts of miscellaneous learning through the air. He has at least a smattering of science. His school curriculum has been more liberal and less specialized than was my own fantastic concentration on the life of two Mediterranean peoples between 1000 B.C. and A.D. 100. He has probably acted (or seen acted) the plays of the famous dramatists, instead of just plugging at the texts and writing notes on the difficult passages.

◇ ◇ ◇

HE has has Visual Aids in and out of school: whether his Roman history will be greatly improved by a visit to "Quo Vadis" is questionable, but the assiduous compilers of "documentaries" will certainly have affected and quickened his knack of seeing things, as well as of reading and writing about them. I should guess that appreciation of the arts in all their forms of sense-appeal is more general and more acute than it used to be in the days of the Grand Old Fortifying Curriculum, with its devotion to reading, reading, reading, and regurgitation of the thing read.

Dread of competition in class and of examinations as creators of unnecessary strain has probably gone too far. So, on the other hand, has the whole business of Intelligence Tests, with which, to my great good fortune, I was never pestered. "Factual" and "straight-answer" tests, marked mechanically on rights and wrongs, must tend to destroy considered writing. The age of the essay is probably passing: stylish, reflective, and reasonably copious prose becomes less and less wanted as newspapers are clipped to smaller sizes: criticism is confined to bare, unargued judgements, not because the critic cannot argue his case but because he has not room in which to do it.

IF the prose of the undergraduate is as lamentable as the "Isis" editors believe, at least the young are not failing to develop something easily saleable. Those who can speak well on the wireless or write snip-snap dialogue for films are better equipped for the workaday life of our century's second half than are the owners of a good prose style.

Ours, whether we like it or not, is the age of talk and telephones, and of television. A species of cinema will soon be constantly flickering and chatting in at least half the homes of Britain. Unless the price of the printed word, especially in book form, is stabilised first and reduced later, the old methods of communication may be radically altered. I am sufficiently old and old-fashioned to think this is a pity, but then I happened to be the right type of absorptive and reproductive examinee to snub the system into which I was projected.

IT was no fun for the others, and these others are now having a much better time at school, where they are no longer assessed on their aptitude for certain intellectual tricks. "De-litterating" education—if I may invent a word, since "illiterating" would be an exaggeration—has to be paid for. It is paid for in the decline of prose to which our Oxonian scrutineers have called attention.

The gains to set against this loss I have tried to describe. Bacon's view that reading makes a full man, and writing an exact man, is abundantly true. But he added that conference makes a ready man. What we lack in exactness we may gain in breadth and practical abilities. Bacon understood, too, that life is the more enriched by "wonderments" and such things as take the senses. We may have learned, in my curriculum, how to comment and to estimate: but we wondered and enjoyed too little.

Religious Intolerance In Spain

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

The reported pastoral letter published by Pedro Cardinal Segura Saenz, Archbishop of Seville and senior prelate of Spain, sounds like something for a far darker and more narrow religious age than we had hoped was generally prevalent in the world today. According to the report, the letter warns against the tolerance of Protestantism, and clearly intimates that the Spanish Government should not grant full religious freedom in Spain. It condemns what it terms a campaign of friendliness toward Protestants, which it contends began with "manifestations of grief and universal condolence" following the death of King George VI.

We think Cardinal Segura Saenz's action merits the condemnation of all tolerant and thoughtful people everywhere; and we would think the same if the appeal for intolerance came from an Anglican, a Presbyterian, a Baptist, a Jew or a priest of any religion or any other person. Such an appeal is a violent denial of a freedom certainly not the least of those long fought for by free men and which intolerant persons, under a cloak of religion or politics, have attempted to suppress. What success will follow the Spanish Cardinal's effort remains to be seen, but it would not be surprising to learn that it actually strengthened the faith of the Protestant minority in Spain.

The letter is almost a reminder of such religious regimes as those of the Inquisition and of John Calvin, when men were ordered to confess belief or die—sometimes to confess belief and die less painfully than would otherwise be the case. Certainly it is an anachronism in a world in which most civilized nations, if one religion is predominant—even if it is the state religion—are tolerant of minority religions within their borders. And it should be noted, we think, that the religion in quite a few of these countries is predominantly Roman Catholic, yet the missions of Protestant churches are tolerated. Tolerance, in religion remains, we believe, a mark of civilization, and attempts to suppress freedom of religion are symptoms of savagery and fear.

Greenland May Be Group Of Islands

(The War Cry)

There still are unknown regions of the earth and men are still eager to explore them. The London Times reports that next July an expedition, about 24 strong, will set out from England to spend the winter high on the great icecap of Greenland where the temperature may drop to 90 below zero.

Generations of school children have been taught that Greenland is the world's largest island. Now a reasonable doubt has been cast on that apparent fact. Following up the work of the German scientist Wegener, a French Central Greenland Expedition has been located south of the 74th parallel during the past three years.

This group of scientists, by means of seismic recordings, has found that over large areas the ice measures 10,000 feet in thickness. In these same areas, however, the ice surface is not 10,000 feet above sea level. This could well mean that Greenland is not one island but rather a group of islands, an archipelago locked in the embrace of the gigantic ice-cap.

The British expedition will set up its base at Queen Louise Land, a range of mountains far north of the 74th parallel. Working out from this base the scientists and explorers will conduct their tests and experiments. Geologists and surveyors will study and map the mountains and rock formations.

Glaciologists will measure the movement of the inland ice field—previous tests reveal an outward movement at the rate of up to five feet per hour. Deep borings will be made to examine the conditions beneath the surface, and other researches will be carried upward into the ionosphere.

But it will probably be the work of the geophysicists which will be followed with most interest by the world at large. These men, using tracked vehicles, will travel far out over the ice, measuring its depth with their seismic apparatus and trying to solve the mystery of what lies beneath.

This is no one-man venture. It is only made possible by the full co-operation of the Royal Navy, the Army, the Royal Air Force, the Merchant Navy and certain private enterprises. But in the final outcome its success will depend upon the stamina and courage of a small group of men who are prepared to risk their lives in man's endless struggle to wrest nature's secrets from her grasp.

Three Times And Out

(Toronto Financial Post)

A man we know has been having a tough time lately. His business takes him out a great deal. Toward the end of the day he puts in an hour or so at his office. But he never can find any place to park his car off the home-going rush route whereon parking is prohibited at that time of day and a violation costs $5.

The other evening, in desperation, he left his car on the no-parking street. On the windshield he stuck a scribbled note reading "Out of Gas". It worked. The police didn't shove a ticket under the windshield wiper. He did the same thing the next evening. It worked again.

But the third time he tried it he returned to his car to find the usual police ticket under the wiper. And next to his "Out of Gas" note nas another piece of paper. Pencilled on it by the traffic cop was "Out of Patience".

Councils Not Private

(Brantford Expositor)

In Calgary the other day, an alderman (who should have known better) took the condescending view that newspaper reporters were permitted to attend city council meetings only "by courtesy of the aldermen."

Without knowing what by-laws, if any, the City of Calgary has governing this situation, we can still assert that the alderman was singularly ill-advised to adopt such an attitude.

In Brantford and most other places in this and similarly democratic countries, meetings of municipal councils are open to the public. That is the same thing as saying they are open to the press. To convert councils into secret societies, conducting in private what is properly public business—and the business of the public — is a retrograde move, and should never be tolerated by alert electors.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

O Lord, thou art my God; I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name; for thou hast done wonderful things; thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth . . . And in this mountain shall the Lord of hosts make unto all people a feast of fat things, a feast of wines on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined. And he will destroy in this mountain the face of the covering cast over all people, and the vail that is spread over all nations. He will swallow up death in victory. (Isa. 25: 1, 6-8.)

And when they were come to the place which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left. Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do . . . And it was about the sixth hour, and there was darkness over all the earth until the ninth hour. And the sun was darkened, and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst. (Luke 23: 33, 34, 44, 45.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, to an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven for you, who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last time. Sticky Problem

(Christian Science Monitor)

A brief news item from Germany gives us something to chew on. It concerns a young tinsmith who was arrested for chewing gum in the Soviet sector of Berlin. The policeman who arrested him (and whom he later gave the slip) said he wanted to save the young man "from American habits."

Here's a sticky problem. It is true that in Europe today American democracy is frequently equated with chewing gum, Coca-Cola, and nylon stockings. It is true that freedom to chew is by clear inference one of the freedoms guaranteed by the Bill of Rights and the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights. It is true that the aforementioned incident may cause millions of democratic chewers to blench with horror at the extent to which police-state tyranny can go.

But what of the democratic non-chewer who feels that American society is gummed up with all too many trivial tastes and habits? May he not be tempted to feel a sneaking sympathy with the Spartan ideal of the gumless state? If so, let him beware. The choice may be between tolerating the idly revolving jaw of popular taste and accepting the grimly set jaw of state authority.

A PREVIEWED APRIL SHOWER

SWARMS OF LOCUSTS fill the air over the central area of the Arabian-American quarters in Dhahran in one of the worst plagues in Saudi Arabia's modern history. Arab employes of the oil company beat noise makers in an effort to drive away the insects, pest of the Middle East since biblical times.

Unemployment Easing Dept. Reports

OTTAWA, March 19 (CP)—The Labor Department reported Tuesday the months-long increase in seasonal winter unemployment has come almost to a stop.

For the fortnight up to Feb. 28, the department's figures showed, the winter increase in the roll of cold-weather jobless was only 2,000. It was a sharp slowdown from the figures for several weeks.

Those looking for work at Feb. 28 numbered 370,600. This compared with 368,700 two weeks earlier and with 296,700 a year earlier.

Regionally, the unemployment was heaviest in Quebec, where 112,000, almost unchanged from a fortnight earlier. The department reported that, while many loggers were looking for jobs, there was improvement in heavy unemployment that had existed all winter in industrial areas such as Windsor, Brantford, Welland and Hamilton.

Increased Activity

Generally, the department said, there was increased activity in such industries as automobile, clothing, iron and steel, electrical apparatus and footwear.

Ontario's unemployment figures, with figures for Feb. 14 following:

Hamilton 9,203 9,153; Kingston 1,065 1,146; Kitchener 2,298 2,425; London 3,803 3,832; Ottawa 3,905 3,860; Owen Sound 1,547 1,679; St. Catharines 3,595 2,588; St. Thomas 753 793; Sarnia 1,361 1,376; Stratford 733 798; Sudbury 2,027 1,995; Toronto 34,196 34,453; Windsor 6,604 7,447; Woodstock 486 531; Fort William-Port Arthur 3,051 2,678.

To Make Saint John Big Medical Centre

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — A proposed provincial bureau of laboratories will make Saint John with its present hospital facilities, a major medical centre.

The bureau will concentrate in Saint John an expanded laboratory service for the whole province. Cost of the building, near the Saint John general hospital, is estimated at $500,000. Tenders for the construction work may be called this spring, with completion hoped for by June, 1953.

Under present plans the municipality would finance the work. Amounts guaranteed by the provincial government for rentals and service would pay for the project over a period of years.

The combined laboratory will do clinical work for hospitals and other clients throughout the province, as well as considerable public health work.

The three-storey building will be connected to the second floor of the general hospital by an overhead passageway.

Want Ban On Diaries

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—The United States army's intelligence division has recommended a ban against keeping diaries by army personnel in any overseas areas. Want U.S. Accept Canadian Offer

WASHINGTON, March 19 (CP)—Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer said Tuesday he believes the United States should accept Canada's offer of 300,000 tons of aluminum annually for the next seven years despite the condition attached—that the government undertake to buy up to 60 per cent of the tonnage if private purchasers do not come forward.

This proposal was made by the Aluminum Company of Canada. Sawyer said he believed acceptance of the Canadian offer would further the U.S. policy of distributing the mobilization build-up among its allies; in addition, the Canadian aluminum would be cheap.

Plans Wood Carvings Of Canadian History

LANGFORD, B.C. (CP) — A Langford cabinet maker intends to devote his spare time in the next 12 years to carving on wood the history of a Canadian era.

Copenhagen-born Kaj Neilsen came to Canada 25 years ago and brought with him the desire to study the history of his new home. He finally decided that the Hudson's Bay Company and its explorers provided "the most colorful history in Canada."

Several years later he chose to put these stories on wood.

He completed the first of 36 carvings after three months of work. It shows a scene of a battle in Hudson Bay in 1697 between three British ships and a French vessel.

Neilsen said that it would take him about 12 years to complete all 36 carvings.

Find New Clinic Good Example Of Joint Effort

EDMONTON—(CP)—An outstanding example of co-operation led to the official opening of the $90,000 cerebral palsy clinic in Edmonton recently.

The movement started two years ago as the dream of an Edmonton mother, Mrs. A. McRae, whose son Jimmy was crippled by the disease.

She dreamed of a clinic where afflicted children could be taken each morning, given thereapy training along with school work according to their capabilities, and be returned to their homes at night.

In April, 1950, Mrs. McRae and a handful of other interested persons formed the Edmonton Cerebral Palsy Association and contributed their own funds for their first temporary clinic.

The Alberta Health Department supplied the staff and much of the equipment. An Edmonton lumber firm constructed and donated special chairs, an Edmonton club provided a bus to transport the youngsters to and from their homes and city firemen volunteered as drivers.

Research has shown that 72 per cent of children suffering from cerebral palsy, with proper care and treatment can be brought to a point where they can walk, talk, and use their muscles sufficiently to lead reasonably normal lives. Contrary to popular belief, these children are not mentally deficient.

Their ailment is caused either before, during or after birth by an injury to the brain which results in lack of muscular co-ordination. The best years for treatment are between three and eight. In most cases, it takes a tiring five years of exercises and treatment before they can take their place in society and be ready to earn their own livelihood.

Ghost Issue of Paper

TORONTO, March 19 (CP)—A "ghost" issue of the University of Toronto newspaper Varsity appeared on the campus Tuesday, two weeks after publication of the daily paper was suspended because of a gag issue. This latest issue, without bylines or names of editors, was devoted mostly to comment on actions which followed publication of the controversial March 5 issue.

Ice Conditions Bad

TORONTO, March 19—(CP)—Ice conditions are bad in lower Lake Huron and the area is not navigable, the Imperial Oil Company said Tuesday after its annual ice-checking flight over the lower Great Lakes. Shipping conditions are reported good in most of Lake Ontario, the Welland Canal and Lake Erie.

Frank Patterson will again sponsor the Peterborough Filter Queens, the O.L.A. junior "A" entry. Officers are: President, Dr. J. R. Epping; vice-prexies, Mac Powell and Stan Davie; secretary-treasurer, Al Lockington; manager, Oral Browne; and coach, Lou Vitarelli. The club, which lost out last year in Eastern Canada junior finals, will get four new players to replace four lost via the over-age route, and some real husky young lacrossers will be in the lineup this year. Nothing definite on a grouping yet, but entries are possible from Brampton, Fergus, St. Catharines, Mimico, Toronto, Owen Sound and Peterborough. The junior eastern winner this year goes west in playoffs.

Kingston and Petes open their best-of-seven O.H.A. senior "B" group playoffs at 8:30 tonight in Civic Arena. Second one back in the Limestone City on Saturday, and then next week alternating on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Unless Eagles should be re-instated, this is the big series for the group crown and the right to proceed into provincial semi-finals. Every game is of utmost importance, and the K's are bound to give the classy Petes a hard battle, especially since they have obtained a senior "A" goalie, Sonny MacDonald of St. John Beavers in the Maritime circuit. Every game promises to be a thriller before sellout crowds.

* * * * * *

Odd Hockey Association

Whether or not the O.H.A. can wriggle out of the Eagles' protest on Sonny MacDonald remains to be seen. After suspending the Eagles for refusing to play Kingston in the third game of their series if MacDonald was used, that august Ontario board will do its darndest to keep Eagles out. But according to all reason—something these officials don't always go by—they should toss MacDonald out and possibly the Kingston club, too, for claiming the player was a senior "B" one. It has now been proven that he played senior "A" as late as March 4 in Allan Cup playdowns on the East Coast. Yet the O.H.A. maintains that it never permits a club a replacement from a higher category.

* * * * * *

It would be interesting to see what correspondence, if any, the O.H.A. had with the Maritimes on this case. The C.A.H.A. rules demand on a branch-to-branch transfer that a player desiring such a transfer apply in writing, after he gets a club release, to his new branch club within 14 days before he can play in the new setup. Within three days of receipt of such application, the secretary of the new club must apply (in this case) to the Maritime body for approval and the latter then must answer within seven days to the O.H.A. (in this case again) either approving or rejecting the player's move. Yet MacDonald played there on March 4 and was up playing in Kingston in less than a week! What goes on, please?

Eddie's Feelings Hurt?

We're told that Nit O'Hearn has been offered his release from Syracuse of the A.H.L. by Eddie Shore, provided Nit apologizes in the local press for making some rather harsh remarks about Shore. Seems some pro club is stuck at the moment for a goalie to finish out the season and Shore thought of O'Hearn, who walked out on Eddie late in the winter—saying he had taken all he intended to from the Syracuse skipper, noted as a hard taskmaster. Like others who had performed under the one-time N.H.L. star of Boston Bruins, Nit O'Hearn—back here to play lacrosse again—certainly didn't have any praise for Eddie, and the latter must have heard about it. Anyway, he inststs on an apology ere giving Nit his release before next fall. O'Hearn figures the release should come first and the apologies later.

There was no Kawartha district hospitality extended to Joe Gollob of Montreal here last night. In fact he had to run for his life after giving Hermann the main wrestling bout over Whip Watson at the Brock. The ref was highly unpopular and even a police escort couldn't stop 'em all from getting in for a clout at him. Some chairs tossed his way, too, ere he escaped upstairs to his dressing room. A hot bout and the customers didn't like to see the strutting German get the win on a technicality. Whip tossed the ref and latter took offence, and that's how Hans got the verdict. Atkins defeated Stack in the semi-final of a lively card, while Collins and Wagner went to a draw in the prelim.

NAUGHTY KNOTTY—P.C.V.S. Ontario juvenile representatives and Adam Beck checked so closely in Tuesday's game they practically tied each other in knots. Top scorer Dan Griffin (top photo, centre) is hemmed in by Toronto's Humphrey and Findlay while Terry Roberts and Toronto's Thompson look on from the back. Ref Gollob Nearly Mobbed By Angry Mat Fans As Hermann Awarded Bout Referee Joe Gollob of Montreal got a rough passage en route to his dressing room after the main mat bout at the Brock Arena last night. Indignant fans—burned up at Joe for awarding Hans Hermann the final fall over Whipper Watson—pushed his police escort partly aside and made him run for it, throwing chairs and threatening to tear him apart. The white-faced Gollob said in the safety of his room: "I don't care how popular they are, they're still got to obey the rules. And his arguing with me in the ring after the bout made the crowd go wild—I have a good mind to have him suspended by the Athletic Commission." The infuriated Whip had argued hotly with Gollob for several minutes after the gong and pushed him several times.

Awarded Fall

The final fall came in nine minutes when the referee awarded Hans, who was down, the win. Whipper had twice hurdled Gollob to get at Herman in the corner and pound him—being warned the first time—and in his second hurdle he sent the referee sprawling. That did it. When Gollob staggered to his feet, he ignored the pinned Hermann, and waved Whipper away, awarding Hans the fall. It had been a furious round in and out of the ring, with the big German roughing the champ, till the latter tore after him several times to pin him in the corner and ponud away with fists and elbow smashes, ignoring warnings from Gollob.

Watson won the second fall in slightly more than seven minutes with two whip holds and a hard slam. It was a redhot session with Whiper throwing his rough rival twice out of the ring and keeping him there. Hermann had been getting away with plenty of roughing along the ropes, despite warnings, till Whip burned up and started using fists and feet in wide-open action. Once Hans had Bill down, but the latter tricked him with pats on the back, as if from the referee, to get him off. The fans were happy about the win and booed the strutting German hard, as well as throwing the vocal book at a rather inefficient official.

Used Weight

Huge Hans, taller than the 237-pound champ, scaled 275 pounds, and used his weight illegally at every opportunity. He raised two big bumps on the back of Bill's head by pounding his head repeatedly into the ring, turnbuckles. He also choked, used fists and pulled hair, waving aside the protesting referee. He proudly demonstrated his strength by breaking full nelsons and shedding tackles off the ropes, though Whipper was faster and tricky to nearly hold his own this round. Each in turn was out of the ring before Hans dazed Watson in the corner with his head smacked into the turnbuckle, and then polished him off with his "Prussian Squeeze," a hammerlock and neck choke-hold.

Rugged and wily Fred Atkins, going 240, beat the 246-pound Bill Stock in 18 minutes of the semi-final when he stepped back to make Stack miss a drop kick off the ropes. Fred moved in on the stunned Stack and slammed him several times for the fall. The first half was all Atkins as he used a punishing armlock and got away with a lot of rough stuff along the ropes. Tall Bill bounced back later to make it interesting with elbow smashes and tackles off the ropes. The ref was too slow in breaking illegal grips and also in counting, and this suited rough-house Fred all the way. But he didn't win any friends with his tactics.

Tom Collins, scaling 226, and Strangler Bob Wagner, who went 243 pounds, battled to a prelim draw in 30 minutes. It was slow the first half with a lot of mat stuff, Wagner using the ropes and talking it up, and Collins getting in some good grips at times. But, after Wagner refused to break up a series of chokes, Irish Tom went wild and the last part of the bout was sizzling to keep the fans roaring. Collins roughed up Wagner plenty toward the end to make up for slow action earlier, and then they mixed it hard for several minutes after the gong.

Hornets Edge Bears 2-1 In 3rd Overtime

By The Canadian Press.

American Hockey League fans got their money's worth Tuesday night as the two league playoff games played went into protracted overtime—Hershey at Pittsburgh went into three extra periods and Buffalo Cincinnati into two.

A goal by Bobby Hassard at 6:06 of the third overtime period gave the Pittsburgh Hornets, leaders in the western division a 2-1 victory over Hershey Bears, leaders in the eastern division. It was the opening of their best-of-seven semi-final.

Mohawks' victory came at 13:47 of the second overtime period when Chick Webster drilled a shot home.

At Pittsburgh, Hassard accounted for both Hornet goals. Hershey's lone goal came at 1:30 of the first period when Andy Branigan shot the puck from 40 feet outside past goalie Gil Mayer.

At Cincinnati, just prior to the overtime, the Mohawks had come from behind to tie the count.

Buffalo was leading 1-0 with 1:45 to go when coach Clint Smith pulled goalie Paul Bibeault from the net and sent in six forwards. It paid off in just 14 seconds as Nick Mickoski rifled home a 15-foot shot from a face-off.

COACHES JUNIORS — Lou Vitarelli again has been named coach of the Peterborough junior lacrossers. A former senior "A" star, Lou has proven a smart pilot of the young Petes for several seasons, his team going to Eastern Canada junior "A" finals last year.

Guelph Tramples Marlies 5-1 To Lead Series

By The Canadian Press

There was no holding Guelph Biltmores Tuesday night as the New York Ranger farm club ran over Toronto Marlboros 5-1 right in Maple Leaf Gardens and took a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-finals.

The Biltmores took a 1-0 lead in the closing minutes of the first period, held it through the middle session and then exploded with four straight goals after Marlies knotted the count early in the final stanza. Sixth game of the series is scheduled back in Guelph Friday night.

Two games were scheduled in Northern Ontario Hockey Association realms. In one, Noranda Copper Kings evened their best-of-seven senior A finals at Sault Ste. Marie with a 4-2 victory over the Greyhounds. In the other, South Porcupine Combines deadlocked their best-of-seven junior A finals by edging Sudbury Wolves 4-3 in Sudbury.

P.C.V.S. Cagers Lose Out To Adam Beck

Another P.C.V.S. basketball quintette dropped by the wayside Tuesday night when Jack Cullis' juveniles were edged 43-40 by Adam Beck playground of Toronto.

This loss gave the playground team the Ontario juvenile series over the Garnet and Grey, 131-86 in the two-game series. A week ago Toronto won the first game 88-46.

The three-point margin in Tuesday's game was about the difference between the two teams. During and after the game, the P.C.V.S. fans wondered just how Adam Beck trounced their favorites so badly in Toronto.

The fans were most bewildered in the first and second quarters when the Garnet and Grey slowed Adam Beck's fast break to a standstill. In fact, they checked so closely, Toronto had scored only three baskets with three minutes to go in the half.

Sparked by Dan Griffin, Corbett, Allen, Boorman, Roberts employed a man-to-man defence which Toronto didn't break until the half. The Garnet and Grey stab-checked and often grabbed the ball for quick breaks.

Began to Drive

But the playgrounders finally began to eke through and from there until the final game used their height to advantage. They grabbed P.C.V.S.' passes and checked closely, breaking away for closein shots.

Dan Griffin, Jack Corbett, and Boorman built up a 12-6 lead for P.C.V.S. in the first quarter and they continued to press until they were ahead 24-6. Toronto rallied for a 25-13 half-time score.

Thompson with long shots and a driving attack dropped in 10 points for Toronto in the third as Adam Beck quickly took the lead and stayed ahead 36-31 at three-quarter. Both teams played ragged basketball in the fourth quarter as Toronto managed to hold the slam game lead.

Dan Griffin totalled 18 points for P.C.V.S. on foul shots, lay-ups and short one-half shots from the key. Toronto's Thompson was their best with 14 points.

The foul shooting by both teams was poor, P.C.V.S. with a record of 12 good out of 29 and Toronto 9 for 23. Toronto on the field basket attempts had difficulty throughout the game with the new backboards and hoops; they could not judge the rebounds. Meanwhile P.C.V.S. were better than average on their shooting.

The ragged brand played by Adam Beck caused numerous personal fouls, 25 on Toronto and 20 on P.C.V.S. Adam Beck lost Dunn and Findlay late in the game with five fouls.

The lineups:

Toronto 43 — Breeden 2, Dunn 9, Findlay 3, Fumiss, Gates 1, Humphrey 6, G. Lewis, J. Lewis, Logan 8, McGregor, Thompson 14, Williams.

P.C.V.S. 40—Griffin 16, Carleton, Eastwood, Marshall 1, Foote, Burgess, Allan 2, Roberts 6, Boorman 7, Corbett 8, Fowler.

Captain Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins who scored a goal and picked up three assists as Boston defeated Chicago 4-0 Tuesday night.

Philadelphia Hoping Fowler Keeps Going

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 19 (AP) — Philadelphia Athletics are hoping that pitcher Dick Fowler keeps right on going the way he started.

The big, likeable Toronto born right hander—bothered with injuries for the last few seasons—has always figured to be a top notch pitcher, if he could shake the injury jinx.

Tuesday he was supreme for three innings. Although the A's lost the ball game, 3-1, to the Detroit Tigers, Fowler had the Tigers eating out of his hand. Only two men reached first and neither got any further.

Bruins Clinch Playoff Berth Down Chicago Hawks 4-0

By CRAIG SWAYZE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Tuesday night was the biggest hockey night in Boston in years. The Bruins not only downed Chicago Black Hawks 4-0 to clinch a berth in the 1952 Stanley Cup playoffs, but veteran team captain Milt Schmidt scored his 200th National Hockey League goal, while Bobby Bauer—back in uniform after five years of retirement for a Schmidt-Dumart-Bauer appreciation night—notched one of his own. The Boston victory hoisted the club safely into permanent possession of fourth place in the six-team league and scuttled any hope the fifth-place New York Rangers had of gaining a spot in the post-season eliminations.

The win increased Boston's margin over the New Yorkers to seven points and the Rangers have only three games to play.

A crowd of 12,658 fans—second largest in Boston this season—turned out to view the proceedings. They watched pre-game ceremonies when the famous trio who burned up the N.H.L. from 1936 to 1947 were presented with numerous gifts and then saw them share in all four of the Bruins' goals.

Schmidt banged in the game's second goal—his 200th in N.H.L. play—and assisted on all three of the others. Bauer notched the third marker and helped with Schmidt's while Dumart also gave Schmidt a helping hand on his tally.

Still Clicking

Ed Kryzanowski netted Boston's first goal and rookie Real Chevrefils clicked for the fourth Bruin marker. The shutout was Sugar Jim Henry's seventh of the season and the game, Boston's sixth straight without a loss.

In tallying his 200th goal on an eight-foot backhander that had goalie Harry Lumley fooled all the way, Schmidt became the fifth active N.H.L. player to reach the mark. The others are Dumart, Maurice Richard of Montreal, Max Bentley of Toronto and Bill Mosienko of Chicago.

He received a tremendous ovation from the crowd for scoring the goal which brought to 525 the total production of the Kraut line—as the famous trio was affectionately known to the sporting world. Dumart has 202 goals while Bauer's single last night boosted his record to 123.

Two games are scheduled in the N.H.L. tonight. Montreal Canadiens, a single point in front of the third-place Maple Leafs, move into Toronto for a game that could decide the runner-up spot, while the Bruins visit New York for a clash with the Rangers that means little to the league.

THE INTERNATIONAL CINEMA GUILD OF CANADA PRESENTS

Says Dairymen Antagonize Their Consumers

By HAROLD MORRISON.

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., March 19 (CP).—Canadian dairy producers who "snipe" at margarine and demand that it be banned are "antagonizing" urban consumers, Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., national president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, said today.

She told the National Dairy Council that consumers, particularly those who live in towns and cities, think it "unfair" that some economic groups should try to block sales of margarine simply because it competes with butter.

"Too many urban consumers see these tactics as a misuse of rural political pressure and reflecting a monopoly or cartel, particularly when they know that even before the ban on margarine was lifted, Canada had, for years, imported butter in order to meet the Canadian demand."

Urban consumers, she added, are "antagonized" when dairy-producer groups pass resolutions asking either that margarine be banned, or that it be restricted by high taxes or by controls of vegetable-oil imports.

Member of Panel

Mrs. Walton, Jr., representing an association that is supported by about 500,000 Canadian women through affiliated organizations, was a member of a four-person panel, dealing with the subject of dairy industry relations with the public.

Other members were: A. F. MacArthur, Toronto, international representative of the Brotherhood of Teamsters (A.F.L.-C.C.L.); G. H. Blackstock of Edmonton, chairman of the Alberta Public Utilities Commission; and Bryon Vaughan, vice-president of Public and Industrial Relations, Limited, Toronto.

Instead of opposing competing products, the dairy industry should devote its energies and interests to promote and publicize its own "wonderful product," Mrs. Walton said.

She said she realized that the industry was faced with climbing costs and with the need for "reasonably good profits" to attract back to the land the capital and young men required to keep the dairy industry going.

But consumers wondered why the industry was opposed to more economical handling of milk, to every-other-day deliveries to the home, to suggestions of a lower price for milk purchased at the store and establishment of a co-ordinated marketing system which would direct all milk to the proper market through the pooling of milk.

The dairy industry, she believed, had to do a better public relations job to inform the consumers of its problems and of the fact that the day of cheap farm labor is gone and that rising labor costs were forcing food prices up.

MOO-TIAL ADMIRATION SOCIETY—Lisette, the pride of La Chapelle D'Armentieres, France, is very proud of her three calves, and the calves think Lisette is something pretty special. It's only about once in 20,000 times that a bovine mother can help the cow-bird bring three little calves to pasture.

New Mining Land Policy Forecast In Legislature

TORONTO, March 19 (CP)—Bills affecting mining lands and tourist camps in northern Ontario, municipal control of salesmen and pedlars and municipal voting were forecast or introduced in the Ontario Legislature Tuesday.

Mines Minister Gemmell forecast a new policy for dormant mining lands in northern Ontario. The policy, to come before the next session is intended to permit development of "hundreds of thousands of acres" never explored for minerals.

It would also protect the private property rights of the individuals owning the land.

Travel Minister Cecile introduced a bill to place all control of Northern Ontario tourist camps, except for licensing, under the Travel Department. The Lands Department, which formerly regulated the camps, will continue to license them as they affect conservation of fish and wild life.

Give Councils Authority

Municipal Affairs minister Dunbar introduced a bill to permit municipal councils to license installers of television antennae and prohibit the selling of magazine subscriptions on the street.

The Bill would also allow municipalities to prohibit the use of trailers for human habitation for more than 60 days in any 10-month period and to build parking garages or buy parking lots.

An amendment to the Municipal Act is designed to extend advance-poll privileges in municipal elections to anyone who will be absent from the area on election day. At present, only railway employees, commercial travelers, bus drivers and members of the Armed Forces may vote in advance.

Mr. Gemmell reported that the government has carried on a six-month campaign to show the Federal government the province's need for a supply of natural gas from Western Canada. He said he hopes the Federal Transport Commission will approve an application for a natural gas pipeline to Quebec and Ontario as soon as Alberta permits export of its gas.

Timber Depleted

J. A. Pringle (PC—Addington) said that timber in the northern part of Addington and Frontenac counties is being depleted too fast and soon it will not be dense enough to harbor wild game.

He also urged the government to consider a 50-per-cent grant to small municipalities building community halls. He said that small communities find it difficult to raise enough money despite the present 25-per-cent grant from the province.

Labor Minister Daley reported on the Fair Employment Practices Act passed last year in replying to a question by T. D. Thomas (CCF—Ontario). He said that five complaints have been laid under the act and four were settled in discussion with a conciliation officer.

A query by G. T. Gordon (L—Brantford) brought forth the information from Planning Minister Griesinger that the Ontario Municipal Improvement Corporation has loaned $10,335,141 since its inception two years ago. The corporation buys the debentures of municipalities.

The Toronto-Barrie Highway has cost $13,687,469 or $296,908 a mile, W. J. Grummett (CCF—Cochrane South) was told. The cost per mile of the four-lane highway between Toronto and Oshawa was $387,390.

Boy Kidnapper 16 Sent To Institution

MONTREAL, March 19—(CP)—Judge Jacques St. Jacques of the Court of Social Welfare (juvenile court) said Tuesday that the 16-year-old boy involved in the disappearance last month of baby Barbara Nemeroff "will spend about two years in a school of correction."

Three-year-old Barbara was taken from her parents' home the night of Feb. 22 and found with a boy on a downtown street the next day. A ransom note, demanding $50,000, was left at the child's home. The child was not molested.

Judge St. Jacques would not say to what institution the boy was sent.

C. S. Browne, principal of P.C.V.S., said the scholastic attainment required by the released students was 65 per cent with no failures; and senior students, who have already taken time off in other years, are discouraged from repeating. The release of the students was approved by the Board with details left in the hands of Principal Browne.

Martin was struck by a car, allegedly driven by Elwood McIlmoyle, of 33 Armour Rd. on the night of Jan. 12. He died 12 days later in hospital after receiving a broken leg, concussion and facial cuts. Local Hunters Ask To Shoot Deer Sundays In Season

By NICK NICKELS

TORONTO, March 19.—Peterborough district was mentioned twice today in resolutions presented by President Ken Clarke of Kingston at the second day (game) session of the Fish and Game Committee of the legislature. Sunday shooting during the deer season was requested by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association. They felt that in seasons when early snow occurs, as in 1951, and when many hunters could not get their deer count, that the Sunday shooting would be an advantage. Members also felt that existing legislation is not being enforced at the present time due to the overburden of duties on the present small staff of game wardens. Their numbers should be increased.

It was also resolved that the Crown land which was allotted for the Cedar Lakes Memorial Park as a public park should be made into a game preserve.

As Breeding Stock

Among the 11 resolutions presented by Wallace McKee of Thor Lake (Sudbury) who represented the New Ontario Trappers Association, was a request that the department make some arrangement to have large muskrats, preferably those found in the Rice Lake section, be used as basis for breeding stock in Northern Ontario trapping areas where the animals are of relatively small size. Trappers in that are think highly of the Peterborough district type of rat.

All associations in Southern Ontario were in favor of throwing Sundays open to shooting as is enjoyed at the present time in northern sections. This point was vigorously debated against by the Rev. W. G. Berry, associate secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service. Mr. Berry, a United Church minister, spoke, he said, on behalf of all denominations.

The meeting ended one hour late today, its final session, due to an unprecedented number of resolutions that were presented. Resolutions will be dealt with and tabled in the house within the next few days, according to the Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests.

Man Found Dead In Apartment No Autopsy Held

Ernest Cook, 67 was found dead on a studio couch in his apartment at 52 McDonnel St., at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening.

He had apparently been dead for some time, as he was last seen, leaving the Oddfellows hall on George St., about 9,30 Monday night.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young said death was due to natural causes and there would be no autopsy or inquest.

Suspected Trouble

Suspecting that something was wrong, when he saw a loaf of bread and two newspapers outside Mr. Cook's door, Edward Tomsett, who occupies an apartment in the same building looked through the keyhole. He saw Mr. Cook lying stretched out on a couch.

Mr. Tomsett was showing some friends a vacant apartment at the time and after peering through the keyhole, he called another man, Albert Nelson who lives in the apartment next to Mr. Cook.

After Mr. Nelson had looked through the keyhole both men became convinced that Mr. Cook was lying in an unnatural position, and they called the police. Patrol sergeant Claire McGillen and constables Ed Niziol and Eldon McDonald arrived and after rapping on the door, and getting no answer, patrol sergeant McGillen used a metal bar which he obtained from Mr. Nelson, to force the night latch. Mr. Cook's bed had not been slept in, and he still had his rubbers on. His overcoat was lying across the end of the couch, as though he had just taken it off, after coming inside.

Dr. Herbert Young was called, and after examining the body, he said death was due to natural causes.

With Post Office

Mr. Cook was born in Andover England and he served with the Post Office here for several years, until his retirement two years ago.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Cook was a member of the United Church, and a member of Otonabee Lodge, IOOF.

He is survived by two brothers in England, and several cousins in the Peterborough area. One is Mrs. Ernest Sollitt, 185 Romaine St.

Funeral services will be held from the Kaye funeral home at 2 p.m. Thursday. The Rev. H. D. McCormack of St. James United Church will officiate. Interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Greenhouse Wiped Out By Blaze In 25 Minutes

Guy Berardi, 480 Parnell St., lost his hobby in 25 minutes early today when fire razed his small greenhouse on Parnell St. At 3 a.m. Park St. residents noticed flames leaping from the greenhouse which is located just south of the Civic Arena. They reported to the fire station that a house on Parnell St was on fire.

Two fire trucks answered the call within minutes but the fire had too good a start. The firemen confined the blaze to the greenhouse, dousing the fire nearest some wooden shacks and woodpiles.

In 15 minutes the greenhouse was beyond saving and in another 10 minutes was completely razed.

While the fire was blazing, the firemen were attempting to find the owner. But Mr. Berardi and his family were asleep in the house about 70 feet away and were unaware that the greenhouse was burning.

Not until someone living on Park St. called the Berardis did they know anything was amiss.

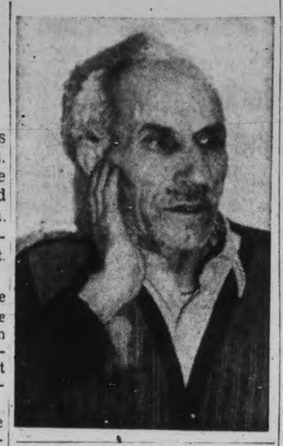
$1,000 Damage

Damage was estimated by Mr. Berardi today at close to $1,000. He said that he didn't think that he had any insurance on the building but was investigating, hopefully. Inside the building, Mr. Berardi said, were his seeds, tools, flower pots and plant boxes.

Mr. Berardi has been in ill health since 1935 and hasn't worked, relying upon the greenhouse work to keep him busy. His plants and vegetables have been his hobby since then.

The Berardi family has no idea how the fire started. There was no fire in the small stove, no electric wires, and no manure for fertilizer. Mr. Berardi never smokes in the green house.

A number of phone calls were made to the Examiner, asking what building was afire; some thought the arena was burning The glow in the sky could be seen from Water St. north.



Council Reviews City Budget Thursday Night

Peterborough's tax rate and its determining budget will be given another instalment of consideration and review by the finance committee Thursday night.

City Hall notices today posted an expected special meeting of the council itself Friday at 4 o'clock "to pass the rate".

Mayor Waddell informed the Examiner today that the ultimate action would probably have to be deferred until Monday night. Board of Governors of Civic Hospital are hoping that the Ontario government's budget may include a credit for them. The fiscal statement of the province may not be definitely known until Friday.

The requisition of the Separate School Board is also being delayed pending the possibility of a grant from the provincial treasury.

At the meeting last week of representatives of the spending bodies for whom the council raises and collects funds, M. J. Swanston, chairman of the Board of Governors, and W. B. Gordon, chairman of the Board of Education, said that if they received any financial help in the government's budget they might be in a position to make a final revision of their requirements for the year.

"If there is any likelihood of help from those sources toward effecting any reduction in the tax rate, I think the council should hold off their budget session until Monday night," Mayor Waddell said. "I think that is the attitude of the members."

The postponement over the week end would not entail time loss of more than a day, because the civic staff has Saturday mornings off.

City To Sell Southend Lots, Ask For Offers

Sale by tender of some city lots on Park St. south with the requirement that houses be erected on them this year was proposed at the council meeting Monday in a motion by Aldermen Miller and Black.

An amendment by Aldermen Dewart and Longhurst clipped off the construction condition because several churches were interested in the property.

Four or five houses, Ald. Miller said, would together contribute around $1,000 a year in taxes.

"I don't see any advantage to the citizens in selling the land for some one else to hold," he added.

Ald. Dewart said several churches were interested in that location at McKellar and Park Sts., and it might appear to be discriminatory if the council passed a motion forcing church construction this year.

Large Lot.

The area is about 243 feet by 175 feet. It was acquired by the city through Housing Enterprises when that company undertook wartime subdivision of houses. It was the old John Bell home years ago. He was the father of the late Josep, James and Virginia Bell. The house still stands at the back of the present lot. Mr. Bell was a market gardener and owner of considerable property in North Monaghan and the city.

Petition Abroad Asks Subsidize Bus Line

LINDSAY, March 19.—Petitions are circulating in Lindsay asking that the town subsidize the privately-owned bus line operating there.

The petitions are the result of a notice given recently to the Lindsay council that the bus company was planning to discontinue service on May 10.

When the question of the petitions was raised at a council meeting it was explained that before a subsidy could be authorized a plebiscite would have to be held.

Liquor Didn't Cause Crash, Youth Says, Charge Reduced

After pouring himself three-quarters of a glass of liquor, and filling the tumbler with coke, a 20-year-old Lakefield accountant quaffed the mixture Friday night, then hopped into his new car and drove two friends to Peterborough.

It was the first time Jack Lavery had ever touched liquor.

As he was making a left hand turn from Parkhill Rd., on to George St., his car went out of control, hit the curb, narrowly missed a stop sign and crashed into a tree.

Saturday morning, Lavery appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp, charged with driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

"It burned terrible but I didn't want to admit I was beat then," Lavery explained in police court today when he told Magistrate W. R. Philp how he had drunk three-quarters of a water glass full of "some kind of liquor" and coke to please two friends.

Lavery, who was defended by Robert Carley, insisted that the liquor had nothing to do with causing the accident. He said he is not familiar with the city and did not see the stop sign at Parkhill Rd., and George St.

Tried To Miss Bus

As he was making the turn, he said a bus was approaching and he was afraid there might be a collision and in attempting to miss it, his car first hit the curb, then skidded into the tree.

The basis of Lavery's defence was that his windshield was frosted up so that his vision was restricted with the result he could not see the stop sign.

It was hinted by Mr. Carley that Lavery who is an accountant with a Lakefield bank might lose his job as a result of having been arrested and charged in police court.

Both Mr. Carley and Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw agreed that Lavery was guilty of careless driving by not keeping his windshield free of frost.

"I am sure we all sympathize with this young man," said Mr. Bradshaw. "In the light of his explanation, I don't know whether your worship can give him the benefit of the doubt or not. On the other hand, three-quarters of a glass of liquor would floor a seasoned drinker."

Went To Pieces

Mr. Bradshaw pointed out that Lavery's explanation that he went to pieces after the accident might well account for Lavery being "unsteady on his feet" as described by Constable William A. Scott.

"If your worship will agree, I am willing to accept a plea of guilty on a charge of careless driving," said Mr. Bradshaw.

"It's never been done before," replied Magistrate Philp, "but possibly on this charge . . . I take it the negligence of careless driving is an element of impairment,' said the magistrate and fined Lavery $15 and $3.75 costs for careless driving.

County Council Shelves Bylaw To Restrict Cutting Of Trees In Area

Northern Townships Win Battle To Defeat Proposed Bylaw; "Too Soon" Warden Stewart Comments

The controversial bylaw to restrict and regulate the cutting of trees in Peterborough county has been shelved indefinitely. Today the reforestation committee of the county council debated the bylaw and recommended that it be laid over. The motion also stated that popular education on conservation methods should be continued. That was all the advocates of the bylaw were able to salvage. The alternative — supported by all the reeves of northern municipalities with the exception of Norris Whitney of Belmont-Methuen township—was an outright rejection of the legislation.

Opposition was solid from the northern townships of Chandos, Galway - Cavendish, Burleigh-Anstruther, and Dummer. Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald and Deputy-Reeve Robert McAdam of Smith township joined their northern colleagues in the motion to scrap the proposed bylaw outright.

Amendment Passed

Reeve Whitney joined the reeves representing the villages and the majority of the southern townships in voting for the amendment. The amendment carried.

There was no motion to accept the bylaw as it stood.

"I guess it was too soon for our ratepayers," said Warden Dick Stewart of Otonabee.

But the warden predicted that this bylaw, or one like it, would be passed within five years.

"We must leave something for our children and our children's children," said Warden Stewart. "There's not a member here that isn't sure in his own mind that this bylaw is necessary."

Deputy Reeve Dave McIntyre of Otonabee agreed.

"We must educate our ratepayers," he said. "They aren't ready for it yet. . . They're just not conservation conscious."

Reeve James Humphries of Asphodel was the only reeve to come out in whole-hearted support of the bylaw.

Prevents Butchery

Reeve Humphries, who is also chairman of the reforestation committee, said: "There's nothing in this bylaw that will hurt anybody but a 'timber butcher.'

It's whole purpose was to prevent some lumbermen from coming in and buying up a property with a good woodlot and cutting it all off," he said. "Then the lumbermen would abandon it. All over the county this has happened. There's thousands of acres in the northern townships where there is no covering at all."

"Some of you fellows, it seems to me, are looking at the vote angle," jibed Reeve Humphrey.

"You're looking after your ratepayers and so are we," Reeve Norman Wilson of Burleigh-Anstruther snapped back.

"I believe in some form of restriction," said Reeve Ernest Leeson of Havelock village, "but in some cases this one is too strict. I don't think you can tell people not to cut their own timber. I'm not in favor of the 10-year restriction or limiting two men to the cutting operations.

"Something should be done but this bylaw isn't the answer," said Reeve Leeson. "That's the way it appears to me and I'm not looking for votes either."

Reeve Wilson said that the project meant restricting a man from cutting on his own private property and he was opposed to that. Moreover the benefits of conserving the moisture supply extended to more than just the municipalities hardest hit by the bylaw.

Should Be Federal

He said such a project should be undertaken, if at all, by the provincial or dominion government.

"I can't do anything else but vote against this bylaw," said Reeve Wilson. "My ratepayers are against it and they have confidence in me as their representative . . . They have an investment in their timber and are dependent—at least in part—on sale of that timber."

Mr. Wilson said that, apart from that consideration, most of the timber cutting in the northern townships was done by lumbering companies. This year all of the cuttings of these commercial companies were on Crown Land over which the county bylaw had no control.

Fire Protection

He repeated a previous contention: That the forest fire protection given by rangers was better than any timber-cutting bylaw.

"Our ratepayers are definitely against it," said Reeve Stewart Clysdale of Dummer township. He said that a resolution to that effect had been passed by the Dummer council.

County Clerk J. A. Spurway also received resolutions of disapproval from the councils of Chandos, Havelock and Belmont-Methuen.

"I've been talking to the ratepayers of Smith township and have yet to find one in favor of it", said Reeve Fitzgerald. "Smith is opposed to it".

The bylaw restricts the size of certain trees to be cut; allows a man to cut at any time on his property for his own use; but he cannot sell indiscriminately off his property until after he owns it for 10 years. He may sell timber of approved size before that.

Academy Award Presented Thursday Night

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 19 (AP) —The movie industry, already knee-deep in awards, will present its final and biggest honors Thursday night at the Academy. So it's time to total up the returns on ths awards season.

This year's winners of the most awards were: Picture, "A Place in The Sun;" actress, Vivien Leigh, "A Streetcar Named Desire." Marlon Brando of the same film squeaked through with the most awards in the male division but it was an inconclusive race.

The "award awards" are based on the selections made by 24 different polls including those by magazines and critics' groups.

Miss Leigh won six awards for her performance as the faded Southern Belle. Those selecting her were the New York and San Francisco critics, Look Magazine, the General Federation of Women's Clubs and The Associated Press and film daily polls of film critics.

Most Popular Actress

June Allyson won second honors, but on the basis of popularity, not performance. She was selected the most popular actress by Modern Screen, Country Gentleman and box office magazines. An award apiece was given to Shelly Winters, Jan Sterling, Doris Day, Jane Wyman, Anne Baxter and Susan Hayward.

Esther Williams comes out even. The Hollywood Foreign Press Association gave her a plus as the world's most popular actress but The Women's Press Club slipped her a minus as the most uncooperative.

Marlon Brando is a winner among the actors. He was cited three times—by the San Francisco critics and The Associated Press and film daily polls.

Two-time winners are John Wayne, Bing Crosby and Fredric March. Those who got single awards were John Derek, William Holden, Kirk Douglas, Richard Basehart, Arthur Kennedy, Mario Lanza, Gregory Peck and Alan Ladd.

Frank Sinatra holds down the cellar position with a minus one. Those caustic gals of the Hollywood press again.

Five Citations

"A Place in The Sun" is a solid winner on the awards circuit. It was honored by five citations: The National Board of Review, Screen Directors Guild, Hollywood Foreign Correspondents Association, Cleveland Critics and Film Daily Poll.

"Streetcar" clanged in with three awards — from the New York and San Francisco critics and A.P. Poll. "David and Bathsheba" was named best by the Christian Herald and biggest money-maker of 1951 by Variety. Single winner: "An American in Paris," "The Well," "La Ronde," "Rashomon," and "Show Boat."

Apparently the only awards not yet given are the Oscars and the Patsy. The latter is presented to the animal star of the year. Look for Rhubarb to win by a scratch.

THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH (centre) sits in a new Comet jet airliner before a weekend demonstration flight. The plane will go into service with British Overseas Airways Corporation in May. The husband of Queen Elizabeth visited the de Haviland Aircraft Company's plant at Hatfield, England and flew in a Comet for more than an hour. On the left is John Cunningham, chief test pilot for de Haviland.

Bigger Navy Badly Needed

OTTAWA, March 19 — (CP).— The Atlantic Pact's new naval chief said Tuesday the pact powers haven't enough warships to face up to the "very serious" threats confronting them.

Completing a tour of 10 capitals Admiral Lynde D. McCormick told a press conference that Canada, in the event of war, will turn over part of her fleet to his command and keep part of it under direct Canadian command for home defence.

Admiral McCormick did not go into details about how big a fleet he thinks he should have, but he said he would like to see a larger navy in every country he has visited.

Says Sea Harvest Grows In Importance

HALIFAX (CP) — Economists shouldn't worry too much about incerasing world population and diminishing soil fertility.

Dr. S. A. Beatty, director of the dominion fisheries experimental station here, says the sea, which eventually claims much of the soil's fertility, can be harvested for minerals, plants and animals.

Salt is recovered from the sea, he said, and industrial operations are succeeding in extracting magnesium and potassium from sea water.

Irish moss and other aquatic plant life now is commonly used in food, cosmetic and plastic industries.

He said the last war helped promote inland fish markets which otherwise would have been costly to develop. Meat shortages increased the demand for fish and many developed a taste for sea foods.

New refrigeration methods, he said, were a boon to the fresh fish industry. A load of Atlantic fish left here recently for Galveston, Texas, in a refrigerator truck.

Has Dinner Party To Celebrate Escape

LONDON, March 19 (CP) — Saved by an appeal court from extradition to Italy to face a murder investigation, Edward Frenette celebrated Tuesday night at a dinner party and announced he intends to return to Canada.

The appeal court said Tuesday Italian efforts to link Fradette with a murder in Sicily were insufficient for an extradition order. Frenette claims Oakville, Ont., as his birthplace.

The Italian case contended that Frenette, under the name of Pietro Castiglione, left Britain in December, 1949, with a Maltese named Harry Antonio Arduino, later found murdered in Sicily.

The appeal court ruled that evidence of Frenette's alleged complicity in the murder had not been proved.

Selahedine Velaj, driver of the car which was en route from Ottawa to Montreal, suffered head injuries and facial cuts. Dr. Reena D'Amico, woman interne in an Ottawa hospital, was treated for head injuries and shock.

Ontario House Has Minister For Speaker

TORONTO —(CP)—The Speaker's chair in the Ontario Legislature has an ecclesiastical aura in the present session of the Assembly. Both the speaker and deputy speaker are clergymen.

Rev. M. C. Davies, speaker in the 23rd Legislature from 1948 to 1951, was reappointed at this first session of the new Legislature. Rev. Wallace Downer was named as his Deputy.

The similarity does not end there. Both are Anglican clergymen and both were Chaplains in the Second World War.

Mr. Davies' reappointment this year brought general approval from both sides of the House. Members of all parties have praised the fairness of the Welsh-born rector of St. George's Church in Windsor, whose chief duty is to preserve order in the Assembly's debates.

Mr. Downer's appointment as Deputy Speaker was also applauded. He is one of only eight members in the House who have been members since 1937. Two of these are in the Liberal ranks; the other five are Cabinet ministers, including Premier Frost.

Mr. Davies was first elected for Windsor - Walkerville constituency in 1945 after four years as Chaplain with the R.C.A.F. From 1942-44 he was Deputy Director of the R.C.A.F. Chaplain service.

Mr. Downer was in Italy during the 1943 provincial election in which he contested the Dufferin-Simcoe riding he won in 1937. It was two days before news of his re-election reached the 4th Anti-Tank Regiment where he was serving. He later returned to Canada and was sent in 1945 as senior Chaplain to Newfoundland.

Mr. Downer has been rector of the Church of the Redeemer at Duntroon, Ont., for 17 years.

In expectation of the writ coming through before the end of the month, the Waterloo North Liberal Association is holding its annual meting here Friday night. The meeting will be followed soon by a convention to name a candidate.

HYDROGEN BOMB PLANT — Slim metal tanks point skyward at the world's first hydrogen bomb plant, now under construction along the South Carolina shore of the Savannah River, near Augusta, Ga. This is the first picture of construction of the industrial plant to be approved for publication by the Atomic Energy Commission. It was snapped from the window of a train passing within a half mile of the scene. The project is classed as top secret and the public is kept outside the restricted area by barbed wire (foreground). The plant is being built at a cost reported to be over one billion dollars and is a 202,000-acre reservation.

Says Prices Kept High To Pay National Debt

OTTAWA, March 19 (CP) — Solon Low, Social Credit leader, suggested Tuesday night that Finance Minister Abbott is deliberately keeping consumer prices high so he can reap huge budgetary surpluses and pay off the National debt.

In the C.B.C. freetime political broadcast the Nation's business, he said Mr. Abbott is keeping prices high by retaining hidden taxes which are the "greatest single factor" in the present high cost of living.

U.N. Body Condemns La Prensa Seizure

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—The first United Nations condemnation of Argentina's seizure of the newspaper La Prensa was voted Tuesday by the sub-commission on Freedom of Information.

A move to condemn Communist countries for press restrictions lost on a tie vote of 4 to 4.

The 12-member sub-commission voted 10 to 1 in approval of the La Prensa measure. Only Russia's Vasily Zonov voted against it.

Zonov did not explain his vote, on the Argentine matter. But he was vehement in his protest against the sub-commission taking up a proposal to assail what was termed "mal-practice" in freedom of press and information in Russia, Communist China and all the Cominform countries.

Quebec Using Flying Wardens

QUEBEC (CP)—In the modern version of the old game of "cowboys and Indians" the "cowboys" ride airplanes.

Game-warden A. A. Lavoie of Roberval was "riding the trail" in his plane, 20 miles north of Ste. Jeanne d'Arc in this Lake St. John district, when he sighted tracks on the virgin snow.

His curiosity aroused, he followed the tracks from the air and was led to a camp where two Indian poachers were skinning elks.

He returned to base and picked wardens Roaul Landry of Chicoutimi and Francois Potvin of Roberval, and the three set out by dogsleds and skis for the Indians' camp.

It took them five days to reach the camp where they found 800 pounds of fresh meat. They arrested the poachers.

The Quebec fish and game department has three planes—and rents others—to watch two important districts, the moose country of Lake St. John and the deer grounds on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river.

Husband Gets $5,000 Damages

TORONTO, March 19 (CP) — A Supreme Court jury Tuesday night decided that William Rice, 63, was guilty of stealing the affections of Mrs. Lillian Corscadden, 50, and awarded damages of $5,000 to her estranged husband, George, 51.

Court costs, estimated at more than $1,000, were assessed against Rice, a widower and president of a Toronto dairy. The jury deliberated 7½ hours.

"I hope you're hapy with the money," Mrs. Corscadden said to her husband at the other side of the courtroom. Friends kept the two groups apart.

Corscadden had sought $35,000 from Rice whom, he said, enticed his wife to leave her home twice

Independent Opinion On Budget Fairly Unanimous In Britain

By ALAN HARVEY,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 19—(CP)—Independent opinion on Britain's new budget shows surprising unanimity —a feeling that the government is headed in the right direction, coupled with a nagging doubt whether it has gone far enough.

Partisan reactions apart, the Budget has been generally welcomed as a slick and rather daring departure from the economic theories of the last six years. In giving away with one hand as tax concessions what it took with the other in reduced food subsidies, the Conservative government has been credited with a piece of political legerdomain.

Before the budget was announced, most experts agreed the subsidies should be reduced or abolished but few thought it could be done without antagonizing organized labor. Even fewer thought that income tax could be clipped to help soften the blow.

This is where the first doubts can be detected. The British people, it is widely argued, where psychologically braced for shock treatment, were convinced that real hardships were on the way —and then emerged in many cases better off than they were before. Where was the crisis?

Not Tough Enough

Thus many neutral observers, and a number of Conservative publications as well, temper their largely good-humored comments on the budget with uneasy reservations about whether it is tough enough.

Some see the proposals outlined last week by treasury boss Richard Butler as a calculated risk, a gamble on the British character that will come off only if the people respond to Butler's "incentives" —principally the provision which enables a man to escape the old high rate of tax on overtime.

The nature of the gamble, as three critics see it, is exposed in the fact that after six months of gloomy warnings about what a terrible financial fix Britain was in, along comes Butler and says that the country's real consumption won't have to be changed

Since then, Butler has explained that he is counting on a lot of different factors to make reduced home consumption unnecessary and also that he fears an approaching deflationary situation which would just be made worse by cuts at home.

Industry May Suffer

Patches of unemployment already exist in the textile industry in Lancashire and Yorkshire. Other industries may suffer in the wave of Commonwealth import cuts, designed to put the Sterling area in surplus by the end of 1952. Almost for the first time since the war British exporters—denied soft markets in Australia—will soon have to turn to more competitive non-Sterling markets.

In going easy on home consumption and at the same time raising the bank rate from 2½ to four percent, Butler is seen to be relying almost exclusively on monetary policies to cure Britain's economic maladies. Whether this will work, or merely have the effect of concealing the real extent of the crisis, remains a matter of uneasy conjecture.

FISHIN'S FUN—Dale Koabel, left, of Port Colborne, and Philip Frankow of Wainfleet, take advantage of the few remaining days of Ontario's ice-fishing season. Hundreds of Canadians and United States visitors fish the province's many rivers and lakes for commercial reasons and for sport during the season which usually lasts about two months.

Eighty Fish An Average Day To Lake Erie's Ice-Anglers

By The Canadian Press

Ontario ice-fishing, partly commercial and partly for sport, will soon end for this year.

Various methods are used to catch the fish through holes in the ice on the province's many lakes and rivers. Catches during the season, which last from mid-January to late in February or later—depending on weather conditions—include whitefish, pike, perch and blue and yellow pickerel.

At North Bay, where commercial fishermen operate on Lake Nipissing, tiny shanties are used and the bait is smelts. Sportsmen on Lake Erie use minnows and seek protection behind windbreaks made of canvas or burlap bags.

Ice-fishing also is done on the Trent river near Trenton, Lake Simcoe, near Kingston on Lake Ontario, the St. Mary's river near Sault Ste. Marie, and on Hamilton Bay.

At North Bay, where a half-dozen fish are considered a fair catch for a six-hour day, food stores and restaurants pay from 15 to 18 cents a pound for pike while whitefish bring $1.50 each.

Stoves For Heat

Tiny stoves are used to heat the shacks and provisions are taken across the ice by sled. The huts, which once were left to be broken up by drift ice, now are towed off the ice before spring and saved for the next season.

On the Trent river the huts are left until after the ice break-up and then salvaged by boat. However, the law of the sea comes into play here and whoever rescues a hut can keep it.

The fishing "rod", a stick about two feet long, is attached to a cross-piece which prevents it from being pulled through the ice. A bright piece of bunting is attached to the other end and when elevated from the ice, signals a bite.

Largest catches are probably taken by Lake Erie sportsmen who consider 80 fish average for a day's fishing. Many United States residents fish along the 40-mile stretch of Canadian shore from the mouth of the Niagara river to the Grand river. Fishing here starts about a quarter-mile offshore and may extend for another four miles into the lake if ice conditions are favorable.

Foreign Aid Fund Said Trimmed To Safety Limit

WASHINGTON, March 19—(AP)—State Secretary Acheson told Congress Tuesday the administration's $7,900,000,000 foreign aid program has already been trimmed to the limit of safety.

He advised the lawmakers to look elsewhere for possible cuts in President Truman's overall budget for $85,000,000,000.

Testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Acheson predicted in a global survey of foreign affairs that the long-drawn Korean truce talks will be successful.

He cautioned, however, against either optimism or pessimism in the present phase of the ceasefire negotiations.

Searching Questions

Acheson underwent a searching cross-examination by the economy minded members of the Senate committee. Some legislators in both Houses of Congress have demanded slashes ranging as high as $4,000,000,000 in the huge foreign aid bill.

"I would look elsewhere," Acheson said. "It would seem to me what we should do is try to strengthen the troops in countries that are going to be in the front line and we must meet the shock of any attack first. I would not look first to that avenue to cut."

Acheson declared that because of uncertainty over Russia's intentions, there is no way of telling how many billions of dollars American taxpayers will have to provide to strengthen the western world against the threat of Soviet aggression.

Township Must Pay For Phone System

KINGSTON, March 19 (CP). — The Ontario Municipal Board on Tuesday ruled that the Township of Amherst Island must compensate Hugh Perry of nearby Napanee $1,500 for the portion of the Perry Telephone System located on the island. It was expropriated by the township some time ago.

Although Mr. Perry contended that the system was worth $9,000, the Municipal Board ruled it had no value except for salvage and set the $1,500 figure.

Nova Scotia Committee Gets Sweeping Powers In Inquiry

By The Canadian Press

Sweeping general powers to summon witnesses and call in documents were given the public accounts committee of the Nova Scotia legislature Tuesday to assist in an investigation of public spending.

The Saskatchewan house had a stormy debate on a C.C.F. motion urging quick action on the proposed South Saskatchewan river dam; electoral reform was urged in the Prince Edward Island legislature, and provincial treasurer Ron D. Turner tabled in the Alberta house estimated capital expenditures of $22,469,000 for the 1952-53 fiscal year.

The Alberta Liberal leader, J. Albert Prowse, said it is "perfectly clear" that the government plans that natural gas from the Pincher Creek field will be exported. J. A. Doucet, minister of industry and development, told the New Brunswick legislature that the province's industrial expansion has been "truly amazing."

The Nova Scotia committee was given the powers after the work of the committee came back into the house on a motion by W. H. Pipe (L-Kings). He asked the house for power to investigate "all such matters brought before the committee" and power to summon witnesses and call for documents. The motion was carried on a voice vote without a record of those for and against.

Explosive Session

Robert A. Walker (C.C.F.-Hanley) introduced the motion which caused the explosive session in the Saskatchewan house. He said there was no need for a Royal Commission to investigate the proposed South Saskatchewan river dam project. The federal government seemed to "oppose the South Saskatchewan river project and they are hoping for an adverse report so they can wash their hands of the whole project," he said.

Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan, former Conservative party leader, joined Premier J. Walter Jones in advocating electoral reform in Prince Edward Island. Speaking in the throne speech debate he said that he thought the city of Charlottetown, which he represents, should have three members in the 30-member legislature, rather than the two allowed under the existing Electoral Act. He also advocated a change in the property vote. It should be "one person, one vote," he said.

Mr. Prowse made his statement about the Pincher Creek field in the Alberta legislature before the house defeated by a vote of 41 to 6 a Liberal motion asking that the provincial petroleum and natural gas conservation board "study the question of permitting the production and consumption in Alberta" of Pincher Creek field natural gas.

Mines Minister N. E. Tanner described use of Pincher Creek field gas as "not economical" and "impractical."

Production Up

Mr. Doucet told the New Brunswick house during the budget debate that the gross value of manufactured production in the province has risen from $41,300,000 in 1933 to $231,000,000 in 1949. Additional power and a heavy capital expansion program had contributed to the increase.

The largest single estimate tabled by Provincial Treasurer Turner in the Manitoba legislature is $8,200,000 for extensions to the Manitoba telephone system. The Manitoba power commission will receive $7,500,000 to cover costs of new construction, extensions, additions and farm electrification. Another $3,500,000 is provided to clean up construction of the Pine Falls project and interest charges on the plant.

Mrs. Jackson was flushed from a basement apartment with her husband after a 15-minute gunfight with police. Jackson is recovering in hospital here from four wounds from police bullets. The auburn-haired former model said she did not know where she would go.

"After all," she said, "you lose all your friends after a thing like this."

She was wearing the same blue sweater and grey skirt she had on last Tuesday night when she was taken into custody. Over her shoulders she draped a brown fur coat. She wore no stockings, but had a pair of bright red, high-heeled shoes.

Counsel Drop Bertrand Case

HULL, Que., March 19 (CP) — Counsel for Rheal Leo Bertrand, Ottawa man charged with murdering his wife in a Gatineau hunting cabin 65 miles north of here last February, have dropped the case.

Bertrand appeared Tuesday before Mr. Justice Paul Ste.-Marie with his lawyer, Louis Farley. Mr. Farley said he and Jean Drapeau of Montreal, who previously represented Bertrand, will be unable to appear for him at his second trial, May 12, "for personal reasons."

A first trial was suddenly brought to a halt when the presiding judge, Mr. Justice Valmore Bienvenue, collapsed and died while giving his final address to the jury.

The judge Tuesday remanded Bertrand to April 2 to enable him to get another lawyer. It was indicated that if he could not obtain counsel by then, the court will appoint a lawyer to represent him.

Problem To Destroy Bombs

LONDON, March 19 (Reuters) —A British scientific journal poses a problem for international atomic disarmament organizers—how to get rid of existing A-bombs.

The Atomic Scientists' News claims that atomic bombs are not difficult to make but are difficult to destroy.

This might be done by exploding them in an uninhabited area or by casting the fissile material into the sea. But to explode the world stockpile of bombs might have serious consequences through radioactive contamination.

"Either procedure would be an appalling waste of potential energy resources," it says.
